MISS ANNE MORGAN SLIGHTLY BLASE.

Puffs Cigarettes and Declines to Give Her Views on Preparedness.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

ST. LOUIS, March 4.—Puffing a cigarette and wearing a pink negligee and a boudoir cap of the same tint, Miss Anne Morgan at her hotel here today told a woman reporter she didn't care to discuss the preparedness issue, as it called for sacrifice of personal viewpoints and strong silent, concerted and immediate action. She said the Middle Southwest on other occasions had failed to grasp her viewpoint. She read an address today on woman's share in preparedness at a luncheon given by the Town Club. Reporters asked her for a copy of her address and when she had concluded reading it she tore it into bits and threw it beneath the table.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

The House will not vote until Tuesday on the McLemore resolution. Whether or not the United States is to enter the war has become the theme of the Checkerboard of the War man. He doubts that we shall go to the extreme. The Verdun battle is still undecided. Infantry engagements there appear to have ceased, at least for the time being.

Washington is still officially in the dark as to the aims and purposes of Felix Dias. Villa is reported to be advancing on El Tigre.

ARMY BILL IN SENATE.

First Great Dash of Preparedness.

Most Comprehensive Piece of Legislation of the Kind Ever Offered.

Peace Strength of One Hundred and Eighty-seven Thousand Men.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The first of the national preparedness measures to reach either house of Congress for consideration was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Military Committee, which perfected it after weeks of hearings and conferences. It proposes an even more sweeping change in military policy than that outlined by President Wilson in his annual message, and was described by Mr. Chamberlain as the most comprehensive piece of military legislation ever offered in Congress.

All the elementary administration army plan prepared by former Secretary Garrison was retained, although in altered form, and additional proposals for organization of industrial reserves in peace times goes even further than the administration had suggested.

The House committee's bill will be introduced Monday. There is no vital difference between the two measures and members of both committees believe that when the final bill, which will be agreed upon in joint conference committee, has passed both houses, the President will be able to affix his signature to a measure that will do more than he has asked toward building up an adequate national defense.

STRIKING FEATURES.

Aside from its plan virtually to double the regular army and National Guard, the Senate bill has four striking features. They are:

Authorization of a purely Federal volunteer force in peace times, the object sought by Secretary Garrison in urging the continental army plan.

Authorization for a definitely enlisted reserve in peace times among men of every profession or calling whose training fits them for special duty either with troops, on lines of communication or supply, or in machine shops and munition plants.

Federalization of the National Guard under a pay provision designed to bring this force immediately into such relations with the Federal government that its training, equipment and personnel will be under supervision of the War Department.

Authorization for an officers' reserve and a reserve officers' training corps, which would take in graduates from military schools and colleges and provide for their further development to command.

THE REGULARS.

For the regular army the bill provides a peace strength within five years of 178,000 men of all arms, or approximately 165,000 fighting troops. The percentage of men in each company, battery or troop at peace strength would be increased in the interests of efficiency and the full war strength would be 225,000. The army would consist of sixty-five infantry, twenty-five cavalry and twenty-one field artillery regiments, in addition to the staff and other special corps and the coast artillery. The mobile army in continental United States would consist of four infantry divisions and two divisions of cavalry. Corresponding increases in the number of general officers would be made, and the rank and pay of lieutenant-general would be given to the Chief of Staff.

REORGANIZATION.

The bill provides for complete reorganization of the army legalizing the organization now in force and departmental regulation. The appointment of second lieutenants other than graduates of the Military Academy are made provisional for two years before a commission is issued.

Enlistment is fixed at seven years, four with the colors and three in reserve. At the end of one year of service efficient men may be discharged into the reserve on recommendation of their commanders, and at the end of two years at their own request if approved. Reservists would receive a minimum pay of $24 a year and the President would have authority to mobilize the reserve in time of actual or threatened hostilities.

As an additional inducement for recruits provision is made that men who have completed six years' service

HOW BRYAN SUPPRESSED FACTS OF NEAR WAR WITH GERMANY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—With the ratification of the treaty providing for the establishment of a fiscal protectorate by the United States over the republic of Haiti has come to light a situation which might have led to war between this country and Germany, had not the great European war occurred. That the gravity of the situation was not at once realized by the American people is due to the efforts of William J. Bryan to keep the public in the dark. The Germans sought to obtain control of the finances of the Haitian government. If they had succeeded they could have proceeded to develop for themselves the military advantages of the island. The most important is the harbor of Mole St. Nicholas, the commanding port for Caribbean traffic en route to Colon, the Atlantic terminus of the Panama canal. At the time the Germans made that effort to obtain control of Haiti, William J. Bryan was Secretary of State and the public was kept in ignorance of the gravity of the situation. The United States was set against the proposed German control over Haiti and violently protested, so Germany had to change her tactics. Then came the big European conflagration.

Unforgiving.

BRYAN IN WASHINGTON TO WAR ON WILSON.

Arrival of the Commoner at Once Stiffens Opposition in the House to the Move to Table a Resolution to Warn Americans off Armed Liners—Three Citizens Sail on the Canopic into the Danger Zone.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—The efforts of the administration leaders in the House of Representatives today to obtain an indorsement of President Wilson's policy in the submarine controversy with Germany failed. A factor in the fight of the opposition of the administration forces was the arrival of William J. Bryan in Washington this morning. Mr. Bryan opened headquarters at his Calumet-place residence and made it known that he intended to remain in the capital and aid in the opposition to President Wilson's demand for the rejection of the resolution to warn Americans off armed liners.

Mr. Bryan immediately established telephone communication with his followers in the House and soon there was a procession of Democratic Congressmen arriving at the Calumet-place house and another procession departing with their instructions.

STIFFENED BY BRYAN.

The encouragement given by Mr. Bryan immediately stiffened the Democratic opposition to the administration, and when the House met at 10 o'clock this morning the friends of the President realized that they faced a serious hitch in their carefully-laid plan to table the McLemore resolution of warning without a vote on the merits of the proposition.

The supporters of the President have good reason to fear that a straightaway vote on the merits of the resolution would result in the adoption of a resolution of warning by a large majority in the House.

Discussion of the issue broke again on the Senate floor today as the result of a statement read into the record by Senator Lodge denying that the British government ever issued a warning during the Japanese-Russian War to its citizens to keep off armed merchantmen.

Mr. Lodge was questioned by several Senators and at length Senator McCumber broke into a denunciation of the gag rule by which the administration had suppressed discussion in the Senate.

Particularly he complained of the recess taken last evening to prevent a discussion of the resolution, which he introduced yesterday.

GERMANS PREPARING FOR THE THIRD WINTER.

Chief of Staff of the Kaiser's Agricultural Army Makes Clear that the Central Powers will be Well Able to Carry on Hostilities for at Least Another Period of Twelve Months.

BY RAYMOND E. SWING.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, March 4.—Count P. Kiyserlingk, one of the leading mobilizers of Germany's fields, chief of staff of the Kaiser's Agricultural Army, gave me an interview today on the important work which he is directing. He is ministerial director in Department of Agriculture and President of the Prussian government's grain monopoly.

Indeed, Count Kiyserlingk has done for Germany's food supply what Dr. Rathenau, in the War Ministry, did for war supplies.

"On April 1," said Count Kiyserlingk, "we shall have finished our programme for the third winter of the war and by the end of the following month we shall know exactly how many acres of wheat, rye and potatoes are sown and practically how many head of cattle will be on hand next fall to feed Germany's people. I can tell you positively that the third winter will see us even better prepared to hold out than did the second. They still doubt in foreign countries that Germany's agriculture is strong enough to support the people and our enemies appear to believe that they will conquer us with starvation. Even now, after eighteen months of war they think this, though they might easily have learned better by studying the tread of economic events here.

"German sugar, which before the war went to foreign countries, is now mixed with straw, peat and other materials and goes into the stomachs of cattle and horses, to be converted into power, fat and meat.

"But that is not all. We saw very quickly how much we wasted in peace times. Chemical science taught us that straw and heather can make nourishing fodder if their hidden concomitants can be made accessible.

"Numerous factories are now busy making over these and certain other kinds of vegetation into substantial fodder. We are using the leaves of trees and the government has aided in establishing many drying plants where potatoes and other supplies are conserved for future use as fodder.

"We have a large number of men in the country districts who are capable of work and the army has shown consideration to our requests for retaining a sufficient number of men to guarantee full crops to German farmers. The women are well trained and in many cases can perform work of men. And then there is no lack of prisoners who can be used in the fields. Naturally, we have so organized planting throughout the empire that if one district is in special need of help we see to it that the necessary men get there."

UNIONIZED GOVERNMENT BOLD AIM OF GOMPERS.

Clerks of War Department and Adjutant-General's Office "Organized."

First General Strike in the United States may Rapidly Become a Revolution—Critical Situation in the Nation's Capital, Where Congressmen are Crawling on Their Knees Before the Moloch Sam.

BY HARRY CARR.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—A war with Germany is not the most acute or sinister danger that threatens the United States.

Far more critical and far reaching is the attempt of the American Federation of Labor to gain control of the government of the United States. Taking advantage of the excitement over our international relations, Sam Gompers has executed a swift and brilliant coup which will have almost revolutionary results.

Gompers is trying to enlist the minor officials of the United States government into a newly-formed union. More than 300 government clerks have taken the oath of allegiance to the American Federation of Labor, an oath which will override their oath of allegiance to the government.

A CONSPIRACY.

As I predicted in The Times a few days ago, the Borland amendment has resulted in what amounts to a conspiracy against the government.

Among the members of the new union are clerks of the War Department, the Adjutant-General's office, the Interior Department and other vital departments of the government. Gompers at last sees a chance to get a slip-noose over the army.

The plain effect of this is, of course, very clear. The first time a strike is called in a plumbers' union in Los Angeles or anywhere else it will be possible to bring the entire United States government to an absolute standstill.

If the plans of the Gompers outfit mature as unionites hope, the first general strike that sweeps over this country will be a revolution. It will be no use to appeal to the might and authority of the Federal government, because the Federal government will itself be locked out.

GOMPERS AS POTENTATE.

I have no disposition to exaggerate this in any way. But this fact is clear: Sam Gompers is about to become the most powerful potentate in this world. After these plans have been perfected, his actual power will be greater than that of the President of the United States.

Tracing this movement back a little way, it is to be seen that the unions have been edging in on the Federal government for some time. The most dangerous advance ever made in that direction was the establishment of the Department of Labor.

In this department is a department called the "Bureau of Conciliation." When a strike breaks out, this commission is sent to the scene. It calls upon the employers, examines the books and finds out, under color of official right, all the inside facts concerning that employer's business. One member at least, and often more than one member of the commission, is an official of the A.F.O.L. The other members are always men in sympathy with the American Federation.

WOLF IN WOOL.

Any one can see the plain effect of this wolf in sheep's clothing. When a labor war breaks out, the employer is obliged to receive into his secret councils a spy from the opposing army; hardly a spy; worse than that, It is as though there were an international law compelling the allies to permit one of the Kaiser's staff officers to examine all their battle plans.

The method by which this outrage is forced upon employers of labor is plain blackmail by the breezy confession of the Department of Labor.

In a recent circular, the Department of Labor described how the conciliation commission collects the facts and then, backed by the weight of their government commission, gives statements to the papers in cases where the employers are not "reasonable." The effort, the department stated with engaging candor, was to settle the thing in secret, if the employers were reasonable! The effect, of course, upon an employer who will not cave in is to receive an official denunciation from the United States government.

Having secured this strangle-hold on the throat of the government, the unions this session have been following it up with what might be called a general offensive.

A STRONG LOBBY.

No lobby ever seen at the Capitol approached the strength of the lobby maintained here by the unions. Its vigilance is as great as its strength.

The head of the lobby is a lawyer named Murry. One of the advisers is said to be Gifford Pinchot. The lobbyists are legion. Sam Gompers is commander-in-chief.

JAPANESE ARE EMBARKED ON DESPERATE VENTURE.

Scare Regarded as Vital in the West and Moonshine in the East.

Resources of Small Country are Insufficient to Support Big Programme of Navy and Government Knows it Must do Something Soon to Care for the People—China Main Hope of Financiers.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 26.—Western Congressmen believe that the Japanese scare is a vital and terrible thing.

Eastern Congressmen think it is all bunk and moonshine.

There are stories of secret Japanese naval programmes; of Japanese agents seeking to buy naval stations in Colombia. On the other hand, there are innocent assertions of friendship from the Japs.

The truth about the Japanese scare is probably somewhere betwixt and between. The situation is at least susceptible of analysis and examination.

No doubt every one will admit that nations do not go into wars because they feel tough. Not in these days of expensive wars. If Japan intends to attack us—not an improbable circumstance, by the way—she will do so for a good reason. What will the reason be?

Japan is a little nation embarked upon a desperate enterprise.

The resources of her small country are not sufficient to support her people. Industrially, the Japanese are in a severe plight. Taxed almost to their eyebrows to pay the expenses of wars long past, the Japanese face the certainty of being taxed still more unmercifully to pay the expenses of a ruinous naval programme.

To go on along this road much further means utter ruin for the Japanese empire. Having nothing to live on at home, the Japanese must find something to live on elsewhere or perish.

Relief has been found to some extent by the emigration of the Japanese to America and other lands. But this has not been satisfactory. The Japs have not been welcomed as have other immigrants, and such emigration has offered nothing to Japanese nationality. In fact, has hurt the strength of the Japanese government.

WANT FINANCIAL HELP.

The Japanese want financial help, but they are not content to get it as alms from America, as the Italian government has done to its own weakening. Japan wants to spread out financially under her own flag.

The Japanese war against China was Japan's first effort toward this relief. This resulted in nothing. The Japs won a short, sharp war that was a warning to the nations that a new world power had sprung up. But the Japanese were not allowed to achieve any benefits from that war.

The financially-starved Japanese tried again in the Russian war. Although she won a mighty slim victory, Japan did gain for herself the right to spill over into Manchuria.

According to all accounts that we hear, this advance into Manchuria has been a great disappointment to the Japs. The truth is they have found that they cannot compete with the Chinese, who can live on less and are better traders. Man for man, it is the universal experience that the average Chinaman is the mental superior of the average Jap. The Jap is a fighter, an hereditary soldier. The Chinaman is a trader.

Having sustained this unexpected industrial defeat, the Japanese with hungry dripping chops had again to look about for food.

The answer, of course, was one that always dangled temptingly before their eyes. If they could only exploit China! Not the bleak wilderness of Manchuria, but the populous, rich, crowded China with her ore, her mines, her electric power, her railroad concessions. Right at their fingers' ends lay this treasure, weakly guarded.

But between the Japanese and the treasure trove lay the interests of the combined powers of Europe and America. The Japs couldn't very well exploit China while France, England, Russia and Germany also longed to exploit China and were jealously watching every symptom of a movement in that direction.

But at the critical moment the whole thing "broke right" in an unexpected way for Japan.

EUROPEAN WAR A BOON.

The European war broke out. Although Japan had a treaty alliance with England, no one pretends that either country would have regarded it seriously had it not been convenient. It happened to be amazingly convenient for Japan.

Germany had a small fortress at Tsing Tau. With one hand tied behind her Japan could take this fortress. This she did, and she did it as though she had one hand tied behind her. With this one easy stroke she threw Germany out of China and silenced the Entente allies.

It is feared very faint cheers were heard in London, Paris and Petrograd when Tsing Tau was taken.

And that's where Japan is right now in the story. Tsing Tau is taken; for the moment all the powers have withdrawn from China. The great treasure lies bare to the sword of the Samurai.

But Japan knows she must hurry. After the war she will have to answer to England and Russia and, to a lesser degree, to France.

After the war Japan will be without a friend in the world. Unless she is able to strongly fortify herself in military as well as in other ways she will be driven out of China by the powers after the war.

By fortify it is meant that she must take advantage of the present extremity of the allies to fortify herself by new secret treaties, if possible. At least, when the war is over the world powers must find Japan snugly in China and supreme as the only power in the Orient.

Right here is where we come into the story.

We can have peace with Japan or we can have war, and a liberal dose of either.

MEANING TO JAPAN.

Japan is now in the midst of an enterprise that means life or death to her national existence. If anybody tries to snatch the half-gnawed bone away from her there will be a wild fight.

America has an island colony in the danger zone. We alone of all the powers now seriously dispute Japan's absolute sway in the Orient. We also have an open-door policy in China. Japan must have, to carry out her adventure, a shut door and only one key.

If she is to get away with this situation and maintain the policy of the "Orient for Japan," she cannot have her prestige dimmed anywhere.

It is by bluff and readiness with the sword that nations carry off such extraordinary situations. It would be as dangerous for Japan to suffer an indignity to her national pride in America as it would be to suffer actual physical interference in China.

We have always looked at this situation from the American standpoint; let us look at it as Japs.

As Japs we don't want war with America. We are ready and America is not. But America is a powerful country capable of making combinations and alliances. Yet to suffer America to run over Japanese citizens and allow the labor unions to humiliate them would be a dangerous proceeding. We can only rule in the Orient as long as we are terrible. And we are terrible as long as we are ready to fight and do fight when the occasion comes. The minute we hesitate we are lost. The powers will be all over us in an instant and we will be pitched out of China head over heels.

DIFFICULTY OF WAR.

Realizing the distinct possibility of being drawn into such a fight, it behooves us as Japs to make the necessary preparations. America is perhaps the most difficult country in the world to fight. We will have to send our Japanese troops so far from home. In making an invasion from a long distance, the element of time is against us. If a delay should occur, our invading troops would starve in their transports waiting to land. To avoid this difficulty, we must have naval stations on the American continent from which to act as a base.

Another element that will enter the war between us, as Japs, and the Americans is the element of speed. We are ready and America is not ready. But we are half a world away. to make our readiness of any avail, we must be closer at hand when the word comes to strike. Hence our Turtle Bay maneuver. We established Turtle Bay when we thought America intended to interfere in China. Had she interfered we would have been on her shores before she could have gotten the words out of her mouth.

So much for the Japanese standpoint.

In estimating the causes and the probabilities of trouble, we must always take into account this fact: that Japan is trying to work out her whole destiny with feverish haste in a year's time and is in a nervous, wrought up condition. Furthermore she knows that if she is ever to fight America the sooner the better—before we perfect our military defenses.

In the long run Japan is pretty sure to lose, anyhow. She will meet the fate of all other nations that have conquered China.

Every nation has licked China. It has been the favorite outdoor sport for ages. Nearly every nation which has invaded China has conquered the place with the help of the Chinese themselves. You can hire an army of Chinese to invade China any time and at reasonable rates. China has no national hymn and no national feeling according to our notions of national feeling. She has a strange and potent race feeling, however. And this race feeling has prevailed over every invader.

Nations have rushed into China with a drawn sword and slashed around for a while. Then settled down and presently old China looks just as before and goes on just as before. Somehow the successful invader has disappeared. He has been absorbed into her system.

SAME OLD CHINA.

Japan will conquer China and run over the place and, in days to come, travelers will find a placid old nation over there, talking the same old Chinese, with the same old customs. Somewhere in the veins of the old yellow monster will be a thin trickle of Japanese blood. That will be all.

Provided, of course, that Japan does not, in the meantime, engage in a war with some great foreign power. In which case, little Japan would be gently wafted home to her forefathers.

It is hard to see how Japan could outlast a war with any great European power or with America although for a year or so we would be a mighty sick country.

Japan probably realizes all this. She is taking a gambler's chance and trying to pull off a wonderfully daring raid. Upon the outcome, she has staked her life.

And anyone playing a game with his life depending upon the toss of a card is not a safe person to trifle with.

TRAINED SOLDIERS FROM UNIVERSITIES.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—Ten thousand trained soldiers, competent to hold commissions in a volunteer army, could be graduated annually from State universities if military training of a thorough character were made compulsory in the institutions. This estimate was made by officials of military academies attending the convention here today of the North Central Academic Association.

NIPPONESE CONSUL DENIES DESIGNS AGAINST THE ISLANDS.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

MANILA, March 4.—An official statement was issued today by the Japanese Consul at Manila, T. Sugimura, in which denial was made that the Japanese government had any connection with recent extensive investment in the Philippines by its nationals.

It is declared in the statement that the investments of Japanese capital in question were made upon the initiative of Japanese merchants who had been long resident here and that the government was in no way backing the deals and was not interfering with Philippine affairs. It further brands as baseless stories circulated here that Japan entertains designs against the islands, following the extensive investments of Japanese capital.

STRENGTHEN FORT IN HAWAII.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A $300,000 appropriation for five storehouses, five magazines, gun sheds, shop buildings, barracks, quarters and other ordnance buildings at Fort Shafter, Hawaii, "imperatively necessary for the efficient military service in the Hawaiian islands," was urged upon Congress today in an estimate submitted by Maj.-Gen. Scott, Secretary of War ad interim.

Half a million dollars for military and postroads, bridges and trails to complete the Valdez-Chitina-Fairbanks military road in Alaska also was asked.

Gen. Scott explained that the road, which it is proposed now to complete, is "of great military and postal value," has been under construction for several years, with constantly increasing traffic. Construction of the Ruby-Long Creek road, on which $43,000 already has been spent, also is to be carried on. This latter route and the Valdez-Fairbanks road traverse two of the three great trunk routes from the Gulf of Alaska to the interior.

BIG FISH EAT LITTLE FISH, MORAL OF THE GREAT WAR.

Brandes, the Distinguished Danish Critic, Analyzes the Pretensions to Righteousness of Each and All of the Belligerents—The Less They Say About It the Better, He Thinks. The Week's Most Brilliant War Feature.

BY GEORG BRANDES.

[Georg Brandes, the distinguished Danish critic, who has engaged in polemics about the war with the Frenchman, Clemenceau, and been accused in France of unfairness and partiality, discusses in the following article the solicitude of the larger nations for the smaller and indicates that he is neither pro-German nor pro-Ally, but anti-Russian. The article, of which a substantial part is republished, is translated from the Copenhagen newspaper, Tilskueren.]

EACH of the several belligerent nations is convinced that on its side is what it calls "right," and that it is battling against what it calls "wrong." And if a neutral writer in a discussion of the situation purposely avoids the use of these terms, holding them applicable rather to the realms of moral and jurisprudence, then it may happen that a politician from one of the warring nations with the avowed intention of unmasking the supineness and "overculture" of such a view, impatiently and arrogantly shouts: "But answer us, man, which side is right?"

Right! As if the very word could find a place in the immeasurable miser which has been brought upon us by the reckless struggle for national supremacy, the stupidity of amateurish politicians and the short-sighted servility of an inflammatory press!

Naturally, the French and the British justify their attitude of moral superiority in two outrageous acts: Austria-Hungary's deliberate and indefensible attack on Serbia, and Germany's violation of Belgian neutrality, made still more abhorrent by the consequent atrocities.

But when this double crime—which, by the way, is being treated as if it were entirely unmotivated, as if it had been preceded by long and painful developments—is made the basis for the doctrinal pronunciamentos that neither France nor England wanted war, that they are battling solely on behalf of the sanctity of treaties and the inviolable rights of the smaller nations, then anyone in the slightest degree familiar with Europe's later history can only smile unless, indeed, the war has deprived him of reason and memory alike!

Germany, too, forgetting her treatment of the Danish, Polish and French elements within her borders—now stoutly maintains that she wages war to uphold the right of the smaller nations to freedom and sovereignty. She is championing this principle against Russia, whose iron heel has ground the Finnish people in the dust, who has reduced the Poles and the Jews to a state of supine servitude. She is fighting the cause of international morality against England and Russia, whose allied conspiracy against Persia's independence significantly illustrates the attitude of the modern world powers toward their weak and defenseless brethren.

It may be stated, almost as an axiom, that whenever two world powers unite in hearty friendship, be the understanding called Alliance or Entente, then the object is always the same—the benevolent assimilation of a smaller nation. Germany's old friendship for Russia led to untold sufferings for Poland. Austria's and Germany's previous alliance cost Denmark dearly. Morocco paid with her independence for the cordial understanding previously arrived at between Germany and France.

Germany's loudly proclaimed solicitude for the welfare of the smaller nations, even were it seriously meant in the present circumstances, can only impress the impartial observer as a ghastly joke. Even so is Britain's championship of the weaker powers of a recent date. We need not go back to her 700-year-long treatment of the Irish people. But wasn't it England who, in the beginning of the nineteenth century, for purely political reasons that had nothing to do with right or wrong, without warning assailed the neutral and defenseless Denmark, bombarded Copenhagen while the Danish army was concentrated in Holstein for the purpose of defending the country's neutrality, purloined its fleet and gave Norway to Bernadotte as a reward for his treachery?

During the last twelve years five small nations have been deprived of their sovereignty. No voice of protest has been heard from any of the great powers—for good and sufficient reasons. The Transvaal and Orange Free States lost their independence when England annexed their territory—which, by the way, she has governed excellently ever since. Persia lost her independence as a result of what in England has been called the "Robber Treaty" between Russia and Great Britain. As a consideration for allowing England a free hand in Egypt, and for permitting her to break her promise to evacuate the country, France and Spain were permitted to split Morocco between them.

Korea's fate points with tragic prophecy to the fate which threatens Belgium. In a treaty signed by Russia, England, and France, Japan had guaranteed Korea's independence. Korea's Queen was murdered by the Japanese, as was Austria-Hungary's heir by Serbia. Shortly afterward the Japanese deluged Korea and forced the country to join them in their war against Russia. Both Russia and Korea protested and demanded that France and England intervene, but neither power then felt a moral urge to intervene. The pledged guarantee did not enter into consideration; and Korea's independence was left to die.

Now it is Europe which is sick, perhaps dying. At a deathbed one would rather be silent. At least, if one is forced to speak it should be with the same subdued feelings which are proper in the presence of death.

Under the pseudonym "Mr. George Danville," a prominent Frenchman has sent me the following letter from Senegal, French West Africa.

THE LETTER.

"Far from the battle scenes, in London, where the mobilization surprised me, I have read in the Mercure de France of your polemic with Clemenceau and of the conception of the northern people of France's position in the war. Will you permit me briefly to outline the true policy, intention and disposition of France before and now? The fact of the matter is:

"First—There exist between French and German culture fundamental discords, which probably spring from inherent differences in the life principles of the two races. Between them neither fusion nor coalescence is possible; an incapacity of mutual understanding must forever prevail. This in itself, however, would never have led to war.

"Second—Although the Germans had inundated France, as they have other countries, there was no impairment of the national prosperity. Attempts were made to organize economic resistance to the pressure, but it has never in France been urged that war should be waged in aid of the country's commercial interests.

"Furthermore, since 1871 there has never existed any real political rivalry between Germany and France. Appearances to the contrary notwithstanding, such rivalry existed neither in Morocco nor Turkey, nor the Mediterranean, nor the Far East—nowhere, in fact. This was fully realized by the Germans who accused us of acting as England's 'jumping jack and catspaw,' because of the attitude we adopted. They were right; but they did not realize that we cast ourselves voluntarily for the role, that we deliberately staged the delusion.

"Finally and supremely—The only question that cannot be arbitrated between France and Germany is Alsace-Lorraine—and that is hardly a political, but a vitally anatomic question.

"Before the revolution, political treaties were discarded as naturally and unceremoniously as outworn garments; border-posts were moved every ten or twenty years, and border populations changed rulers without complaint. The revolution brought to the fore the nationality principle, something deep and true, which took root and grew until it had become an irresistible power. Germany's own solidarity is a result, but during this very period, while Germany was accomplishing its national development, Bismarck seized us by the throat and wrested Alsace-Lorraine from us. This was not a mere moving of border posts; it was rather an amputation of a member, a mutilation of the body.

"One can, in the course of time, forgive an assailant who knocks out a couple of one's teeth; with the loss of a hand it is different. Suppose this amputated hand were to retain its life and constantly show its mute anguish—suppose the despoiler were cruel enough to twist its fingers or tear off its nails before the very eyes of the despoiled? And suppose that to all this he added the taunt: 'Come and try to take back what we have taken—I am seventy millions and you are only forty'!'

"There you have the true key to the attitude of France."

TAKES ISSUE WITH FRENCH.

The above exposition of the aims and feelings of France is of considerable interest, even if I feel bound to take issue with several of the intelligent young Frenchman's assertions.

To say that French and German culture are mutually unable to fructify each other has lately become a dogma in the younger France, but it rests on a misconception. The entire intellectual development of Alsace-Lorraine abundantly proves this. Alsatian autors in the French language have for a long time fused French and German characteristics with notable effect, and this applies equally to the scientists. One might, for instance, name the Bible-historian Reuss, who was professor of theology at the University of Strassburg. Previous to 1870 he wrote his books in German, afterward in French, but German learning and French artistic form reach a harmonious entity in all his works. The French-Swiss, Cherbuliez and Rod, were influenced by Germanic thought. One can point to the German descendants of the expatriated French Huguenots, whose unique rationalism shows undoubted French characteristics; many of these French families, as for instance, Fontane and Dubois-Reymond, have produced scientists and writers distinctly Prussian in their patriotism, but with easily discernible French elements.

Mr. Danville's second assertion, that no one in France entertained the thought of a war with Germany for commercial reasons, is undoubtedly true. It is long since Germany's commerce began to outdistance France's, and no war could alter this fact. Neither was it necessary, as the national wealth of France grew by thrift in proportion, as Germany's grew by enterprise.

Neither is there anything new in his contention that England, and not Germany, is the hereditary foe. This antipathy found a passionate expression during the Fashoda incident, it was much in evidence during the Boer war, when popular subscriptions were opened for the struggling Boer republics, when Kruger was enthusiastically cheered and Edward VII coarsely caricatured in French comic papers.

CONGRESSMEN IN FEAR OF THE FOREIGN VOTE.

Dilemma of Duty to the American People and the Dread of the Hyphen.

House Dodges a Vote on the McLemore Resolution, but Every Member will Have to go on Record Tuesday. Petty Politics Main Concern of Doughhead Statesmen Playing with International Fire.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4. Politics prevented the House of Representatives from tabling today the McLemore resolution warning Americans from traveling on armed merchantment.

Regarding themselves as between the upper and nether millstones, the former represented by the President and the American people as a whole and the latter by the German-American vote, members of Congress deliberately absented themselves from the city.

There remained not enough members willing to carry out the President's dictum and ready to adopt a rule requiring immediate action upon the McLemore resolution.

So, perforce, the matter was allowed to go over. The Rules Committee had a long session but Republican opposition to any kind of a gag rule, with some Democratic support, prevented action. The committee will hold another session on Tuesday, when a rule will be devised to escape the bludgeon of a point of order, which could be offered against it, because of the wording of the McLemore resolution. A paragraph of that resolution which required the President to co-operate with the House in the conduct of foreign negotiations is clearly unconstitutional and the point of order would lie against it.

Mnday is "unanimous consent day" and to overrule a point of order a two-thirds vote would be required. Tuesday will be regular legislative day and a point of order can be overruled by a majority. So the rule will be presented to the House on Tuesday.

IN SPITE OF CLARK.

This decision was reached in spite of Speaker Clark, who earnestly urged members to insist that the rule be reported and adopted and the McLemore resolution disposed of without delay. But members were thinking more of the German-American vote than anything else and they were desirous of putting off the evil day for action as long as possible. The Indiana primaries will be held on Tuesday and the Democrats from that State particularly favored delay until then in order that their votes in the House would not affect their chances at home. The Republicans as well as the Democrats were playing politics. Congressman Mann has not said definitely how his party will vote. Indeed, there have been conflicting rumors in circulation as to what he would do.

It is stated one moment that he will vote for a warning resolution and the next that he will vote against it. As a result his followers are going about in circles. They have made no decision as to what they themselves will do and they will wait until the word is given them. There is no doubt on this point, however, that the Republicans will embarrass the President and the Democrats as much as they possibly can. This is shown by the way in which the Republican members of the Rules Committee fought a "gag rule."

Representative Pou desired that debate should be limited to two hours, but the Republicans expressed horror at any such limitation and declared that it cut the membership of the House from having the free and full discussion which the President invited in his letter to the acting chairman of the Rules Committee.

PETTY POLITICS.

To the impartial observer it is a crime the way in which members of the Senate and House are playing petty politics with a question of such tremendous importance to the people of the country. Administration officials point out that the German government doubtless will permit the publication only of the Gore resolution and the vote by which it was tabled in order to give the impression to the Teutonic people that the Senate of the United States is opposed to war over the submarine question. It was highly desirable that the House should correct any such mistaken impression by rejecting the McLemore resolution today. With a strange indifference to its manifest duty and to the interests of the nation, however, the members of the House put their individual ambitions above the country's need and deliberately prevented action.

Congressman Flood, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said today that there was no question that the House would adopt the rule which the Rule Committee will table and will table the McLemore resolution. He has made a canvass of the House and is satisfied as to what the result will be. The President's supporters in Congress also have been active in obtaining support and they are expressing confidence in the outcome. Because of the narrow majority of the Democrats, admittedly the Republicans are in control of the situation. Mr. Mann is keeping absolutely secret what he proposes to do and how he proposes to swing the votes of his followers. However, it is a safe prediction that the majority of the Republicans will vote with the Democrats to table the McLemore resolution. Many of them may vote against the rule and thus prevent a vote on the resolution; but this would so evidently be a matter of politics that it is not believed the country would stand for a moment for such action.

WILSON'S STAND.

In the meantime, the President has been endeavoring to convince members of the correctness of his position that Americans should be protected in their right to travel on merchantmen armed for defensive purposes. By his direction, Secretary Lansing transmitted to the Foreign Affairs Committee today probably the ablest memorandum which has yet been submitted on this question. It reviews the history of the right and demonstrated effectively and forcefully that it is the duty of the government to uphold a rule which has been recognized for centuries. It is expected that this memorandum will be presen to the House. It may have little fluence on that body, because of politics being played, but that it settle the question in the mind the people is not doubted by who have read and studied it.

AFTERMATH.

There was an aftermath in Senate today of the debate yest in connection with the Gore lution. "From time to time it ma expected that there will be discu of the resolution. Every Senator want to make a speech in order his constituents may know the sons which inspired him to vote he did on the Gore amended tion. But it is generally admitted day that the Senate will not vote on the proposition during session and probably not during present Congress.

In short, so far as the Senate concerned, the matter is dead. likewise will be its condition when House has disposed of it on Tue

Just as soon as Congress has the President will communicate Germany his objections to the marine warfare it has reinaugura In the meantime the authorities hopeful that no armed merchant with Americans on board will sunk without warning. Should a disaster occur, it is reiterated President Wilson will first ascer the facts and then sever diplom relations with the offending power

Because of the effect it might upon foreign relations, Secretary multy, at the instance of the Pre dent, today denied that Mr. Wi had even remotely considered question of resigning the high he holds.

THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

Here is Mr. Tumulty's statement "An American newspaper would publish a story of that kin a situation like that which now fronts America, dishonors itself."

The necessity of issuing this ment in itself indicates the political feeling that prevails Washington. The President and advisers have become firmly convi that a conspiracy has existed to barrass the administration in its gotiations with the central Europ powers.

Besides the "cloakroom" co ences which it is held were re sible for the agitation of last there has been an unusually managed publicity campaign cond ed. The object of the various which have come to the attention the President was to discredit and because of the doubt which ists in many quarters as to the priety of Americans traveling armed merchantmen, this became point of concentration against The action of the Senate, disgu as some politicians are doing, a vote of approval of the Presi Senator Gore did not dare to his original resolution to go vote, knowing it would be snowed der. He prefered to make a mentary move which would give comfort to those who believe Germany's course is justifiable. Wilson believes the real spirit of Senate will be realised by the man government. If the House through by a direct rejection of McLemore resolution, as the dent believes it will, then his will be immeasurably strength and he will be left free to pursu course unembarrassed by the tion which men, denounced as mies of the nation, have created sought to continue. It is a of satisfaction to the President he has received hundreds of teleg and letters from all parts of country warmly approving his in demanding a "showdown" Congress and expressing confi that he will protect American

SLAVS' BITLIS VICTORY OPENS WAY TO BAGDAD.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, March 4 (via London.)—For the second time in a trifle over a fortnight the Russians have broken through the Turkish front. The importance of the taking of Bitlis, officially announced last night, is, in the opinion of Russian military authorities, twofold, inasmuch as it notably increases the security of the Russian left flank in the Caucasian operations and also further opens the way to Bagdad and a junction with the British forces.

The Turks were rushing reinforcements from Mesopotamia, not only for the defense of Bitlis, but to the aid of the Turkish troops retreating from Erzerum. These troops will now be forced to take a roundabout route to reach the defeated third army.

Bitlis also served the Turks as a point of communication between the troops operating in the Mush district and those about Lake Urumiah, over the border in Persia. With the command of the whole Lake Van territory in their hands, the Russians now effectually separate these forces.

Bitlis is not a fortress, but its location gives it a strong defense advantage.

Russian observers estimate the strength of the Turks opposing them in the Bitlis district as two divisions of infantry and artillery with a strong mixture of German troops.

GERMAN APPENDICES ABOARD ROTTERDAM.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Secretary Lansing announced today that the appendices to the German memorandum regarding armed merchant ships were on board the steamship Rotterdam, due tomorrow in New York.

Secretary Lansing's announcement was based on a cablegram from Ambassador Page at London. The appendices contain photographic copies of what the German government contends are confidential instructions to commanders of British merchant ships armed for defensive purposes to attack the submarines.

FIERCE FIGHT AT QUARRY; GERMANS DRIVEN BACK.

PARIS, March 4.—An episode of the battle of Verdun is told by a wounded man who has arrived here, who was posted in a quarry at Louvemont on the Meuse heights. He says the quarry ended at the rear in a deep cave running under the plateau of which the Germans would advance to the attack. "A detachment to which I belonged took refuge in the cave, while the heavy bombardment, lasting forty-eight hours, was going on, and after which the attack was delivered. Arriving at the top of the plateau the Germans dug an opening into the cave from above, but were prevented from entering, as they saw us with a machine gun ready to receive them.

"In the meantime they had got into the quarry, so that part of our detachment had to rush forward to defend the entrance to the cave. The Germans had no machine gun but they used long jets of liquid fire of red and green colors, and it was by the light thus given that the struggle went on.

"For some minutes the Germans held their ground by piling up their dead so as to form a barricade but at last our machine gun drove them back and they were then attacked and driven out by another of our detachments which arrived in the nick of time."

BRITISH IGNORE PROTEST OF AMERICAN CAPTAIN.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) March 4.—Details of the seizure of thirty-eight men on the American steamer China off the Japanese Coast February 18 were brought here today by passengers and crew of the vessel when she put into port on her way to San Francisco.

Such action by the British was not contemplated, it was said, after such a possibility was discussed by the German and American consuls at Shanghai.

The China was boarded by twelve armed men under a lieutenant. They refused to disarm as requested by the China's captain. They were thought to have come from the former White Star liner Laurentic but their hatbands bore the name "Cerberus," a vessel of the Australian navy.

Two of those seized were taken from their wives, who were left aboard the China. The nationality of those made prisoners was: Six Austrians, one Turk and thirty-one Germans. One German who was ill was left on the China. Several of those taken were said to be over military age. No search was made through the ship's papers or those of passengers.

Capt. F. E. Frazier, expressed surprise that action had not yet been taken in the case by the United States.

SIX ARE BURNED ABOARD PREBLE.

Explosion of Gasoline Due to Lighted Cigarette.

Ship Bound for Key West has Engine Trouble.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—Six seamen were badly burned, one probably fatally, in an explosion of gasoline on the torpedo boat destroyer Preble here this afternoon.

Arthur A. Grossert, coxswain of the Preble, was severely burned about the body and hands and at the hospital where he was taken after the accident it was said his chances of recovery are doubtful. The five other men were given treatment on the mother ship Iris.

Three of the injured men belong to the crew of the Preble and three to the Iris.

LIST OF INJURED.

The injured are:

Arthur A. Grossert, U.S.S. Preble, coxswain, badly burned about body and lower limbs; may die.

Charles B. Johnson, boatswain's mate, U.S.S. Preble.

All except Grossert, who was hurriedly removed to a hospital in this city, are receiving treatment for their injuries aboard the Iris.

The explosion occurred in the stern complement of the Preble where the men were engaged in repairing the mechanical apparatus of the rudder, which was broken during elementary practice Wednesday. Fumes from a pail of gasoline filled the small space in which the men were working, and, according to two of the victims, the gas was ignited when Charles B. Johnson, boatswain's mate of the torpedo boat, entered the compartment and lighted a cigarette. This version differs from that told by officers of the destroyer immediately after the accident, to the effect that a leaking gasoline torch was responsible.

SUBMARINE IN TROUBLE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The submarine K-6, en route south for winter maneuvers at Key West, has developed engine trouble off the East Florida coast and will be towed to her destination by the naval tug Peoria and the coast guard cutter Tampa, which put out from Key West late this afternoon. The destroyer McDonough is standing by the K-6, which is in no danger.

CHURCH TO GIVE AWAY BREAD AS AD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—One thousand loaves of bread will be given away at the services of the Immanuel Baptist Church here tomorrow as part of an advertising campaign to attract persons to the church, the Rev. Johnstone Myers, the pastor, announced today. Dr. Myers said he believes a church should advertise, just as a mercantile concern does.

BIG PRICE FOR STEAMER.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—The American steamer Mackinaw, bought eight months ago from the Robert Dollar Company for $100,000, was sold today, it was reported, by George and James Flood for $300,000 to a Japanese firm which purchased three large steamers. The Mackinaw now is at Vladivostok unloading. Her net tonnage is 2005 tons.

WOMEN AS SOLDIERS.

Sex is no Handicap, but Service is Likely to Cause a Disastrous Dearth of Motherhood and Growing Children.

[New York World:] Sex, according to Dr. Dudley A. Sargent of Harvard University, is no handicap to military training. Woman is as fit for soldiering as man. This is the conclusion of one who has spent more than fifty years with questions of physical culture. And apparently the doctor would not need to summon as a witness that King of Dahomey who armed the women of his palace and saw them defeat the foe that had beaten his regulars.

Indeed, Dr. Sargent does not refer at all to the Amazon hosts who figure so abundantly in ancient and modern history. Nor does he cite the shining examples of Boadicea, Joan of Arc and the dauntless Margaret of Anjou. His case rests with the normal, rightly developed woman, her strength and her power of endurance. His best evidence might have been drawn from the heroic mothers, sisters and daughters who braved and survived the periods of pioneering days in our own land, as well as from the millions of peasant women who have done men's work in Europe for centuries.

But when we have admitted woman's native strength, her endurance, her proficiency in many sports once held to be for men, and her capacity for bearing pain, we are still far from proving her availability for military service. This is an issue social and economic rather than physical. Even in Dahomey, when the fever for soldiering had so spread that most of the able-bodied women were under arms, there came a disastrous dearth of motherhood and of upgrowing children.

source in Constantinople said that an attempt has been made to assassinate Enver Pasha, the War Minister, who was wounded. The Duke of Mecklenburg "in view of the gravity of the situation," has telegraphed the German Emperor asking him to send reinforcements to Constantinople.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The United States is preparing to make formal demands upon Austria-Hungary as a result of the attack by an Austrian submarine upon the American tank steamer Petrolite. A note on the subject will be dispatched within the next few days.

It was authoritatively stated tonight that the United States would stand by its original contentions and ask an apology for the attack, punishment of the submarine commanders, and reparation for the damage done to the vessel and injuries inflicted on a member of the crew who was hit by a piece of shell.

In reply to the first American communication on the subject, Austria informed the State Department that its version of the affair was that the submarine commander thought the Petrolite an enemy ship disguised with the American flag; that he fired on the vessel because he believed it was about to ram his ship, and that the commander of the Petrolite voluntarily furnished provisions when asked to do so. The State Department since has secured information from the captain and crew of the Petrolite directly contradictory to the Austrian version. They have declared in affidavits that the Petrolite was stopped in the Mediterranean by an Austrian submarine which fired a number of shells at her; that the submarine asked for food which the commander of the Petrolite refused to give him and that the commander of the submarine then held one of the members of the tanker's crew as a hostage while his men went aboard the ship and took such stores as they desired.

LONDON REVIEW OF THE WAR.

LONDON, March 4.—The German armies at the gates of Verdun are hammering them hard with heavy artillery, but at latest accounts had suspended infantry attacks. In the last fighting reported the initiative was on the side of the French, who desperately drove back at the Germans in a counter-attack which gained them ground.

The German thrusts in the new phase of the titanic struggle are being delivered with heaviest force at present on the salient to the northeast of the fortress in which lies the Douaumont plain. Here the French last week were driven out of Fort Douaumont and just now from Douaumont village, to the west.

In and around the village the battle has been raging with violence and with heavy losses on both sides. Unofficial accounts assert that there has been nothing on the western front to equal the ferocity of the attacks delivered by the Germans, while the French infantry is declared to be disputing every inch of ground and in their latest effort to have forced the Germans to rest on the laurels so far won and leave the continuation of the battle to their artillery.

Paris advices show that no doubt remains in the minds of the French that there is nothing in the nature of a feint in the German effort, the belief existing that the Crown Prince has determined to capture Verdun, and if possible break through the French line and open up the way to Paris.

There has been some fighting further south on the line in the west the Germans reporting the repulse of a French attack in Lorraine, in which the French had some initial success, but were forced to relinquish the ground taken. Elsewhere there has been comparative quiet.

The Russian occupation of Bitlis in Turkish Armenia is regarded in Petrograd as a development of first rate importance, opening further the way to Bagdad for the Russian armies. That goal is a long distance away for the Russians, headed southward toward Mesopotamia, but the military observers already have mapped out the probably routes for Grand Duke Nicholas' armies over the 400 mile stretch to a junction with the British on the Tigris.

In addition, and of more immediate interest, is the bringing out of the point that the Turks now will be greatly hampered in bringing up reinforcements for their army that met defeat at Erzerum, and is retreating westward, while the southward thrust by the Russians has driven a wedge between the Turkish forces west of Lake Van in Armenia and those operating to the east in Persia.

On the naval side of the conflict the German Admiralty has reported the sinking of two French auxiliary cruisers and a British patrol boat, while from the Mediterranean comes the report of the sinking of the Italian steamer Giava, a 2600 ton boat, by an Austrian submarine. Unofficial denial of the German claim to the sinking of two French warships is made in Paris.

WATER FOR EVERY ILL.

Revival of Faith in the Curative Value of Nature's Fluid, with Possibly Slight Additions.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] "We are going back to the days when the water cure was recommended for every ill from a pain in the toe to one in the heart," today said a physician who had been listening to a man who had bragged about the number of baths he takes each day. "But he is not the only water fiend," continued the doctor. "I know of many others who are experimenting continually with their tubbing water by adding all sorts of substance to it. One time they are declaring that there is nothing like taking a bath in water to which two or three handfuls of sea salt has been added. Again they are holding forth on the virtues of borax, of ammonia, of lemon juice, and what not. There are those who pride themselves on taking three baths a day and who look down with a superior air on the person who takes only two, and the individual who confines himself to one bath a day they regard in somewhat the same way an established society dame looks down upon the social climber. Another species of water fiends are those who have read somewhere that most people do not drink enough water. Consequently they pride themselves on their ability to drink from three to five gallons of water a day, fondly believing that they are thus aiding nature to cleanse their systems of impurities."

NORTHWEST PRODUCTS BOUND FOR HAWAII.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, March 4.—The American-Hawaiian liner Mexican, now discharging cargo here from the Atlantic Coast, will load a great cargo of Northwest products for Hawaii. The Georgian of the same fleet will arrive here from New York April 7 and after discharging cargo will take freight for Hawaii. Still later the Floridan will arrive here and load for Hawaii. After that the American-Hawaiian line will abandon the route to the Matson line until the reopening of the Panama Canal.

NORTHLAND IS REFLOATED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SEATTLE, March 4.—The Border line steamer Northland, which went aground near Ladysmith, B. C., while en route from Seattle to Alaska, was floated off the rocks today without assistance. The damage is estimated at $1000.

A LONG LINEAGE FOR YUAN SHI KAI.

NEW CHINESE EMPEROR IS TRACED TO KING SHUN.

Genealogists Discover Ancestors of Present Ruler Date Back to Twenty-two Hundred Years Before Christ—Family Tree is Printed in the Peking Papers.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PEKING, Dec. 17.—Chinese genealogists have already traced the ancestry of Yuan Shi Kai back to the great King Shun who ruled in China 2200 years before Christ.

Several Chinese papers published in Peking have laid much stress on the distinguished ancestors of Yuan Shi Kai, and devisers of family trees are competing in a heated manner for the honor of giving the newly-selected Emperor the longest lineage. The Huang Chung Jih Pao, a Chinese daily published in Peking, which has been one of the most ardent supporters of Yuan Shi Kai, prints a genealogy of the coming Emperor today which assumes to trace him back to King Shun. The following is a translation of the statement showing exactly how Yuan Shi Kai is connected with the ancient ruler: "The family of Yuan once bore the surname of Wei, a descendant of King Shun. Later, King Wu, of the Chow dynasty, created a dukedom at Chen for Duke Hu, a descendant of the thirty-second generation of King Shun, and gave him for a wife, Ta Chi, his first daughter, so that he might offer sacrifice to the spirit of Shun. Duke Hu begat Duke Sheng and Duke Sheng begat Count Shing, whose grandson of the eighteenth generation, Count Chwang, was father of Chu, whose name was Po Yuan. Yuan Tao-tu, a high minister of the state of Ch'en, derived his surname from the name of his father, Po Yuan. The character representing the name is then changed into Yuan Yang."

A SON OF HEAVEN.

This line of reasoning clearly proved to the Yuang Chung Jih Pao that Yuan Shi Kai and his family are direct descendants from King Shun. The paper further explains that the general rule in tracing the genealogy of common people is that where there are kings among their ancestors, the names of kings must be omitted. This rule has been in force ever since the Sung dynasty, which was in power from 960 A.D. to 1127. Only the son of heaven can claim the ancestry of another son of heaven. King Huang Ti, who ascended the throne in 2697 B.C., is regarded as the ancestor of the yellow race to which all five families of the Chinese belong. He is regarded as the common ancestor of all Chinese, and the worship of this dignitary practised throughout China is looked upon as the worship of all rulers who have succeeded him. He and his successors are regarded as the sons of heaven.

The Huang Chung Jih Pao, in concluding its dissertation on genealogy says: "The great shrine at which the Chinese worship is the altar and temple of heaven. The Emperor derives his ordination from heaven, but as heaven has no voice, the choice is made through the people. Now as the people are all the descendants of Huang Ti when the lineage is traced to very ancient days, it may be concluded that none of the five families, whether be he Han, Manchu, Mongol, Tibetan or Mohammedan, would dare or care to betray the sovereign. Yea, all the descendants of Huang Ti, including the Siberians and Mexicans, who are now of the yellow race, will flock to the holy court of the Ta Huang Ti as if they feared to be too late.

"We pray that China will hereafter be one family for myriads of years."

HEAVIEST SNOW FALLS IN NORTH.

Street Car Service in Oregon is Badly Crippled.

Telephone Wires are Down; Rivers Overflowing.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 4.—In the worst storm which has been experienced in the Willamette Valley of Oregon and in parts of Washington, business was at a standstill today. In Portland this morning fully two inches of the heaviest kind of snow fell, but by 1 o'clock higher temperature was recorded and the snow turned to rain except on the higher altitudes. Eugene, Or., the seat of the Oregon State University, was hardest hit. Business today there was at a distinct standstill.

A fall of more than a foot remains upon the ground, which the Eugene weather observer states would measure 1.76 inches if reduced to rain. The snow was preceded by twelve hours of heavy rainfall. The Willamette River is at a stage of six feet and six inches above normal and continues to rise.

Early today Eugene was entirely cut off from wire communication with the outside world, and a majority of the telephones in the city are out of commission. Poles and trees have fallen in large numbers under the weight of the snow.

Telephone, telegraph and electric wires are prostrated and the municipal electric plant was out of commission owing to heavy snow breaking the wires in various parts of the city. The street-car service is crippled, but cars are running on all lines. Farmers say that live stock will suffer, as cattle and sheep are in poor condition on account of the long cold period during January.

TELEPHONES AFFECTED.

At Albany, Or., not far from Eugene, several inches of heavy, wet snow fell last night and today. Long-distance telephone service is somewhat affected and the telephone plant at Lebanon, fourteen miles from here, is reported badly damaged. Farmers' telephone lines in all directions are down.

Two feet of heavy snow is reported from Hood River, the home of the famous Oregon apple, and telephone lines between Hood River and Parkdale were put out of commission.

Reports from Eastern Oregon and Washington say that snow in the mountains is from three to five feet in depth, according to reports by Ranger F. V. Horton, who recently made a tour measuring government stakes. He found the deepest snow at the head of California Gulch, where it had drifted some. Snow has fallen at Meacham, Or., the last two days and slight flurries have been common at Pendleton, Or. Stockmen are anxious over the weather outlook, as more snow will work great havoc with sheep and cattle.

At Trout Lake, Wash., reports say that two feet of snow has fallen there since Thursday. This, added to what had already fallen since November, brings the snowfall up to about fifteen feet, the greatest snowfall in a single season since the coming of the white man to this vicinity.

In Polk county, Oregon, from ten to twelve inches of snow lies on the ground and still the snow is falling heavily. Farming and logging operations are again suspended.

SHUTS DOWN CAMP.

The Hill Logging Company at [illegible], Wash., was forced to shut down its camp this week on account of heavy snow.

At Junction City, Or., and at Corvallis, the seat of the Oregon Agricultural College, business halted for a time today. With difficulty traffic was continued throughout the storm, one of the worst ever known there. The Willamette River at Corvallis is rising rapidly. Farming, particularly early gardening has been halted and unless it warms up immediately, causing the snow to pass quickly, early vegetation will be nipped, if not killed altogether.

This part of the country is just recovering from a "silver thaw," the like of which never had been seen when Portland, Tacoma and Seattle all suffered heavy losses. The present storm, though not so severe, is coming with it as heavy a snowfall as the other one, but this time so far Portland, Tacoma and Seattle have escaped damage, though the higher altitudes are having more snow than is desired at this time of year. Wheat and other grain farmers are rejoicing

JAP TRUCK GARDENER STIRS STATE COMMISSION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—It remained for a Japanese truck gardener of Holt to put into actual operation today the machinery of the State market directors' office with a shipment of seven cases of celery to be disposed of in the open market.

Under the law recently enacted all producers of agricultural, dairy or farm products produced in California have the right to consign and deliver such products to the State Market Commission for sale.

The celery was sold at market prices to a local market house.

The check for the sale will be placed in tomorrow's mail for the Holt producer. Although flushed with the success of the first sale, the officials expressed the hope that no more producers would forward their products until the director secures adequate facilities for handling shipments.

GREAT STIR IN OATMAN OVER BIG GOLD STRIKE.

OATMAN (Ariz.) March 4.—This camp was given another great stir today when the United Western, on the west drift of the 500-foot level, encountered vein matter that panned upward to $20 per ton in gold.

Twenty inches of spar was opened and a heavy flow of water ensued. The vein matter was struck 250 feet in the drift. As yet no assay is obtainable. Experts who visited the scene of the latest development stated that the ore was of a character similar to that first encountered in the United Eastern and that indications are that the Western has a spur vein of the Eastern.

The Western has been at work for over seven months. When the 500-foot level was reached, crosscutting was started both east and west. About a month ago stringers of spar were encountered carrying small values. Today development places the United Western in line as a coming big mine.

When the news of the latest development in the field became known hundreds visited the scene of what is generally believed here will be the next big strike in the Oatman section.

Nicholls of Chicago—who sailed on the armed liner Canopic from New York today should come to their death as a result of a torpedo attack, they are victims of their own bravado, and the United States should not go to war over them, was the sentiment expressed on the floor by five Senators today.

ANOTHER VERSION OF BRYAN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—William Jennings Bryan came to town today to fulfill a lecture engagement. Administration leaders speculated widely over whether Mr. Bryan's coming had anything to do with the delay on voting on the armed ship issued in the House and the decision of the leaders there to postpone action until Tuesday, at least.

Mr. Bryan said his coming here at this time had nothing to do with the armed ship fight now in progress between Congress and the President. "I expect to leave tonight for New York. My lecture was arranged for weeks ago. I have no engagements to see any Congressmen and do not expect to see any."

News of Bryan's arrival caused a flurry on the House floor.

Representative Bailey, Democrat, his close friend, met him and Bailey said they discussed the warning resolution situation.

While Mr. Bailey insisted that Mr. Bryan would take no active part in the fight, administration leaders saw in his presence cause for concern. Their interest was further aroused when it was learned that Mr. Bryan expects to return here tomorrow and remain until Monday night, when he speaks in Wilmington, Del.

Majority Leader Kitchin and others who are generally classed as Bryan Democrats, insisted they had not heard from Mr. Bryan and had not known he was in town.

Administration leaders expressed confidence that no influence that Mr. Bryan might bring to bear would defeat the President's determination.

Mr. Bailey said he assured Mr. Bryan that at heart there was an overwhelming majority in Congress favorable to the warning resolution, but that he made no prediction as to what the vote would be.

HE'S INTERESTED.

"Mr. Bryan is interested just as is any other citizen in the McLemore resolution," he said, "but he certainly will not come to the Capitol and make a personal fight on it. His attitude toward the Senate action yesterday was one of amusement. He referred to it laughingly. He certainly did not consider it a victory for those who are opposing warning passengers against boarding armed ships."

FLOOD CONFIDENT.

Chairman Flood said:

"He can't beat the tabling of this resolution if he tries."

Mr. Bryan is to address the Economic Club of Washington tonight on "What definite steps can the United States take toward insuring a permanent peace." He is one of a number of speakers representing every viewpoint of nonpartisan discussion of current questions.

Mr. Bryan explained his conference with Representative Bailey by pointing out that Mr. Bailey is a member of the Economic Club and a member of the committee which met him at the station. He said he might see Representative Callaway of Texas because he expects to speak in Mr. Callaway's district soon. He said he also might see the Democratic Congressman from Nebraska, but was not sure about it, and had no appointment.

Mr. Bryan spent this afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, busy answering the telephone and receiving callers, who were so many that at one time the reception hall was crowded.

AMERICAN CONSUL AT ROME FOUND DEAD.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, March 4, (via Paris.)—William F. Kelley, the American Consul here, was found dead in a chair shortly before the breakfast hour today. Death probably was due to heart disease.

Mr. Kelley arose at the usual hour today. He complained that he did not feel well but told servants at the hotel where he lived that he thought he would feel better after drinking a cup of coffee.

He told the waiter not to return unless he rang. After waiting some time the attendant opened the door and found Consul Kelley dead. A physician who was called said that death had resulted from heart disease.

The body will be placed temporarily in a cemetery here and later will be sent to the United States.

MARSHALL FIGHTS BACK.

Accuses Congressional Committee of Acting in Bad Faith.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall made public here today a letter which he sent to the Congressional committee which has been here investigating his official conduct, accusing the committee of acting in bad faith and of attempting by slander and intimidation to prevent the prosecution of Congressman Frank Buchanan. The letter was addressed to Congressman Charles C. Carlin, chairman.

Mr. Marshall's letter was the sequel of the arrest yesterday of L. R. Holme, a reporter for the New York Times, for alleged contempt in refusing to tell the source of information on which an account of the committee's proceedings was based. He was later released after the United States Marshall had refused to take him in custody.

The account in question said it was the belief of the District Attorney's office that the investigation had been started to prevent the prosecution of pro-German offenders against American neutrality.

In his letter Mr. Marshall took full responsibility for the Times' article.

STOP CALOMEL! TAKE DODSON'S LIVER TONE

New Discovery! Takes Place of Dangerous Calomel—It Puts Your Liver To Work Without Making You Sick—Eat Anything—It Can Not Salivate—Don't Lose a Day's Work!

I discovered a vegetable compound that does the work of dangerous, sickening calomel and I want every reader of this paper to try a bottle and if it doesn't straighten you up better and quicker than salivating calomel just go back to the store and get your money.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your thirty feet of bowels of the sour bile and constipation poison which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable.

I guarantee that one spoonful of this harmless liquid liver medicine will relieve the headache, biliousness, coated tongue, ague, malaria, sour stomach or any other distress caused by a torpid liver as quickly as a dose of vile, nauseating calomel, besides it will not make you sick or keep you from a day's work. I want to see a bottle of this wonderful liver medicine in every home here.

Calomel is poison—it's mercury—it attacks the bones, often causing rheumatism. Calomel is dangerous. It sickens—while my Dodson's Liver Tone is safe, pleasant and harmless. Eat anything afterwards, because it can not salivate. Give it to the children because it doesn't upset the stomach or shock the liver. Take a spoonful tonight and wake up feeling fine and ready for a full day's work.

Get a bottle! Try it! If it doesn't do exactly what I say, tell your dealer to hand your money back. Every druggist and store keeper here knows me and knows of my wonderful discovery of a vegetable medicine that takes the place of dangerous calomel.

Own Wilshire District Property—50ft. lots in beautiful Marlborough Square

Nearly $25,000 worth of this choice property has been sold already—and only a few days on the market!

We believe there are more than 50,000 people in Los Angeles who would be eager to purchase Marlborough Square lots if they could be made to fully realize the character of the property, the surprisingly low prices, the absurdly easy terms, and the big speculative possibilities in obtaining property of this type for so little money.

When real estate becomes "active" again, residence property of this kind will command double what we are asking. Marlborough Square (adjoining one of the most fashionable residence subdivisions in Southern California) is actually being offered at unimproved acreage prices.

A well known real estate man said to us this week, "Your only trouble will be to convince the public in your advertising that you are actually offering Wilshire district property at such prices and terms. If you can get people to go out and see what you have, you will sell those lots on sight!"

$5 down and a week

Let us take you to the property. You'll be under no obligation to us whatever. Private automobile trips by appointment. Marlborough Square is reached via West 6th Street car line. Get off at Rosewood Avenue.

"IRISH RACE CONVENTION."

Would Destroy Influence of British in America.

Are not Loyal to the Empire, Says Justice Goff.

Denounces Move to Involve Us with the Germans.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—In opening the "Irish Race Convention" here today Justice John W. Goff of the New York Supreme Court said there was a propaganda in this country to involve the United States in war with Germany and denounced American citizens who "for pleasure or profit wantonly expose themselves" on ships in the war zone.

The convention says it is opposed to British influence in this country and seeks to destroy it. It also wishes "to preserve for Ireland the remnant of her manhood and to keep England from sending them to death or captivity on foreign soil."

Justice Goff said the Irish people were not loyal to Great Britain.

"The maintenance of a huge garrison is found necessary to overawe the people when the army is needed elsewhere," he said.

The organization will be governed by a national committee of sixty members with an executive committee of twelve. National conventions will be held twice a year or oftener, it was announced. Any person of Irish extraction who "sympathizes with the country in her aspirations for independence" is eligible to membership.

The object of the organization, as announced by Capt. John T. Ryan, chairman of the committee which worked out the details, will be "to encourage and assist any movement of the national freedom of Ireland and to aid in the industrial improvement of the country as well as in the revival of the language, literature, music and customs of the Gaels."

FARMERS ARE URGED TO PRODUCE MORE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, March 4.—"Farmers had to be shown that turnips were just as important as shells," said the Earl of Selborne, president of the Board of Agriculture, in addressing a meeting at Northampton today. He urged the farmers to strain every nerve to produce every possible ounce of food and fodder, and also to release every possible man for the army.

Unless they did this, he said, they were serving, not King George, but Emperor William. Farmers were doing well, he argued, and could afford to pay good wages to women. He appealed to the patriotism of the farm laborers' unions to put no hindrance in the way of replacement of men by women in agricultural work.

MAYORS DEMAND PREPAREDNESS.

Strong Stand is Taken by St. Louis Convention.

Lessons of the Civil War Cited by Speakers.

Arsenals for the Interior Urged on Congress.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) March 4.—The two-day conference of Mayors on national defense closed tonight with a banquet at which the principal speakers were George W. Wickersham, former Attorney-General of the United States; Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago, and Miss Anne Morgan of New York.

Mayor Thompson said:

"Apparently as a people, we have failed to profit by our own experience. The Revolutionary War was won by sheer audacity and a remarkable display of nerve against tremendous odds. The victory was no more due to our ability than to our opponents' asininity.

"Our Civil War took an awful toll from both sides, because neither was prepared for that irrepressible conflict. It is a reproach to us that we do not learn from our own history.

"There is not even a remote possibility that the people of this country will ever be called upon to wage a war of aggression on foreign soil, but we may be called upon to defend our own hearths and homes against invasion.

"We may indulge in smug complacency over our alleged neutrality, but we cannot hide the ugly fact that our people are contributing to the horrors of the conflict through the stream of death-dealing munitions going from our shores to European battlefields. Legally we are within our rights in taking this business, but it leaves us in a weak position to invoke the golden rule if we should be attacked.

"A complication in our situation is the powerful and crafty neighbor that has grown up in our west. Some day, not far distant, demands will be made upon us from that quarter which we must refuse. Shall we be able to defend our position? When that time comes, we shall have to fight unless our defense is made impregnable. We invite aggression by our helplessness."

HENRY WOOD'S VIEW.

The Monroe doctrine and the Asiatic exclusion policy were cited as reasons why the United States should have a strong navy by Henry A. Wise Wood, former members of the naval consulting board. If the country expects to maintain these policies, it must have a navy sufficiently powerful to enforce them, he said.

"Our Monroe doctrine is in conflict with the colonial policy of the German Empire," Mr. Wood said, "as may be easily verified by a perusal of the words of German economists. We find here a point of contact at which danger may arise.

"Our Asiatic exclusion policy, as practiced on the Pacific Coast, conflicts with the national policy of Japan."

Frederick W. Huidekoper of Washington, D. C., said that American histories were full of untruths, and that in fact this country had conducted its wars in a disgraceful manner.

A letter from Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was read protesting against the use of organized militia to break strikes.

GIST OF RESOLUTIONS.

The conference at its final business sessions adopted resolutions declaring for universal military training, for a navy that will make this country the first naval power of the world, for the locating of arsenals and munition plants, at places distant from either coast and from the Mexican or Canadian borders, for the mobilization of physical resources of the country, for the standardization of all materials used in war and for the organization of transportation service for use.

The resolutions urge that Congress pass laws making the principles set forth in the resolution effective.

Miss Anne Morgan, in an address before a woman's club here today, said the women of the country should begin a campaign of education looking toward universal military service in the United States.

ANNE MORGAN HEARD.

"In the present crisis the woman's part must be idealistic and creative," Miss Morgan said, "otherwise American women could not pass on to their children the right ideals of honor.

"It is up to the women to force upon the nation a realization that universal military service is the cornerstone of the nation's existence. Women demand equality—then they must share an equal part when demand upon them comes in a crisis.

"It is in our hands to arouse the entire country. Ours is the educational problem, in which the home is the first field. Immediate action is demanded of the women of America.

"Let us so arouse public opinion upon the needs of preparedness that nothing can stand against it. The women were called upon to give their all when it was too late. Let us see that we are not too late. We shall help to arouse the world to preparedness; not to meet war, but to preserve peace."

WILSON'S VICTORY PLEASES BRITAIN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, March 4.—Few things short of an actual military victory could have given the British press greater satisfaction than President Wilson's victory in the Senate. The Manchester Guardian remarks editorially that Germany, having failed to convince the United States, apparently will ignore sentiment in that country.

DENVER (Colo.) March 4.—The State convention to name delegates to the national Democratic convention at St. Louis will be held at Colorado Springs May 18. This was decided today by the State Central Committee.

THE SAME WORK FOR THE SAME PAY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, March 2. (Delayed.)—"The same work, the same pay," was the principle adopted yesterday by the Union of Trade Syndicates against the exploitation of women which is carrying on an agitation to obtain the same wages for women as for men in the jewelry, shirt making and similar trades.

Resolutions passed at the meeting declared this measure to be the only means of avoiding a dangerous lowering of present labor standards and called on the State to lead the way by paying female and male employees identical salaries.

CHECKERBOARD OF THE WAR.

BY HARRY CARR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—Until now the Checkerboard has been, for me at least, entirely impersonal. I didn't care who won the war. It was merely interesting to watch the military machinery moving. But every American has begun to watch the war with a new feeling of something like personal interest.

Visitors to the White House tell me that even the President is studying the tragedy of the war with greatest anxiety.

What we want to know now is whether Germany is going to wipe up all Europe and then take a whack at us. Also we feel some curiosity to know where our checkers will be on the board if this muss gets any worse.

FATE OF FRANCE.

As to the first proposition, the fate of France still hangs in the balance. The battle of Verdun has become a great infantry struggle between those two marvels of military perfection, the German and French foot soldiery. After a year of artillery fire it has come to a terrific contest between the queens of battle.

The pauses that come from time to time and which are announced as German defeats are without significance. These pauses are usually due to the exigencies of military transportation.

Nor are the "reports" from Switzerland and Holland to be relied upon in the slightest degree. I refer to the reports about disagreements among the Kaiser's staff officers as to what the German forces should do. When I was in Berlin it was impossible to even find out the location of "Grand Headquarters" which fights the battles. If Berlin doesn't know where they are you can imagine how much Holland knows about the disputes between officers of the General Staff. These wretched liars strut around The Hague bursting with importance and pretending to have all kinds of inside information. Instead of having inside information we find that they did not know the essentials of military movements that happened months before.

WHAT GERMANS HAVE DONE.

Disregarding these pipe dreams, we can strip our real information to this: that the Germans have taken about [illegible] miles on one side of Verdun and a mile or so on the other side; that heavy fighting is going on pretty well along the line from the Channel to Switzerland.

Except for the furious actions around Verdun the purpose of the fighting is apparently to discourage concentrations of too heavy reinforcements behind the French front. The French have, however, concentrated very heavy bodies of troops at that point. To accomplish this the British line has been materially lengthened and thinned out by the stretching process.

As the English front was extraordinarily (and in the opinion of French [illegible]) unnecessarily deep, it can stand considerable lengthening. Army officers in Washington estimate that the force used by the Kaiser amounted to at least ten men for every yard gained.

KAISER'S INTENTIONS.

There are all kinds of conjectures as to what the Kaiser intends doing in case Verdun falls. Some think he intends turning on the English; others that he will go crashing on to Paris. Let me suggest some of the essential facts; then you can guess yourself:

Whatever the Kaiser does must be in the nature of something very quick, as at the battle of the Marne; the element of time is operating very severely against the Germans.

This is the reason—in Armenia the Turkish Empire is being seriously threatened by the Russian advance. Although the Turkish losses at Erzerum were only about one-third as large as reported, the Russians seem to be chasing the Turks into a dangerous position where one of the Turkish armies is in danger of being cut off altogether. It seems to be a race to see whether the Czar can force Turkey to separate peace before Germany forces France to a separate peace.

If the Russian troops continue much farther on this advance the Bagdad railroad will fall into their hands and Turkey will be confronted by a condition which would render impossible the intended attack upon Egypt. It seems to be among the probabilities that English troops released from the necessity of guarding Egypt may be sent home to hold the line in France.

The making of a big commercial alliance between France, England and Russia shows that the allies have at last considered the eventuality of a German victory or a drawn war.

WAR OF STARVATION.

This new commercial treaty by which a new war of starvation against Germany is to begin after the guns have been laid down is perhaps the most serious feature of the controversy as far as the United States is concerned. There is a possibility uncomfortably strong that this country will be drawn into the war.

Assuming that we find ourselves in that condition, the military outlook is a curious one. How would we actually get into the war? We could send over a fleet, of course. What would it do after it got there? The British have a big fleet that has been hanging around for two years wishing it had a German fleet to fight. If the German fleet should come out of Kiel some day, make one smash at England and scatter over the seven seas, our ships might join in the ship hunt. On land our poor little army could contribute nothing. There might be a force of American volunteers added to one of the allied armies, but we could not cut much figure except to pay the bills.

The most important thing to be considered by America on the outbreak of war is the propriety of becoming regularly one of the allies.

Upon the declaration of war we will be asked to sign the agreement by which the allies pledge themselves not to make a separate peace — also the trade agreement, which amounts to a pledge, to boycott Germany after the war. Either one of these would be a bad bargain for us. In the first place, we would have no interest in continuing the war after Germany signified her willingness to behave with her submarines. We would be beautifully buncoed by any commercial treaty. War with Germany would be for us disastrous, principally in that we would lose our right to isolated action. No calamity could be worse than that we had been drawn into the intrigue of foreign politics.

WEIGHT OF A TREATY.

Germany has shown how much weight a treaty has with her and England has the black record of having double-crossed nearly every nation that ever did business with her Foreign Office. It's a fine mess to stay out of. Personally I can't feel that we are going into it. Looking at the outcome of the war from a purely selfish standpoint, it is to the interest of the United States that the war should end before midsummer and end inconclusively. We don't want the war to last long enough to exhaust Europe's power to buy our products.

If the end of the war comes with neither England nor Germany crushed we need not fear an attack from either quarter for some time to come.

If it results in a mad scramble to build new military machines — very well, we can stand it better than they can.

In the past both England and Germany have never neglected an opportunity to injure this country when they could. Ever since the United States was born we have always been on the edge of war with one country or the other. We have not tears available for either one and no treaties of alliance either.

IT'S BABY WEEK. HAVE YOU ONE?

Campaign to Show Parents How to Care for Children Begins.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—"Baby week" in the United States began today under the auspices of Public Health, Civics and Home Economics committees of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The purpose of the campaign is twofold—to give parents a chance to learn how to care for their children properly and to bring home to everyone in each community facts relating to the babies and the need of permanent work for their welfare.

Throughout the country there are to be child welfare exhibits and the systematic distribution of information about the lowering of the death rate among children and about the proper methods of feeding infants.

BANKERS COMBINE TO AID EXCHANGE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THE HAGUE, March 4, (via London.)—The combination of bankers and financial institutions known as the Association for Financial Affairs which was created at the beginning of the war to deal with the difficulties of foreign exchange transactions and to protect the interests of Dutch traders, has taken action in an effort to solve the problem of American exchange. Holders of credits on New York who are unable to realize or who can do so only at great loss because of the present low rate of dollar exchange are invited to state the amounts of their claims, upon doing which in co-operation with The Netherlands Bank, joint efforts will be made to limit the loss on exchange.

RUSSIANS FAIL TO CROSS IKWA RIVER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, March 4, (via Sayville.)—The following statement on military operations, issued at Vienna by Austrian army headquarters, has been received here:

"A Russian attempt to cross the Ikwa River in the Dubno district failed.

"The enemy press has repeatedly reported that the Russian offensive was progressing on the Dniester and near Czernowitz. This is an invention. The Austro-Hungarian front at these points has suffered no modification for the last year.

"The total number of Italian cannon taken in Durazzo has reached thirty-four, with 11,400 rifles."

MUNITIONS FIRM IS THREATENED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) March 4.—C. W. Caldwell, president of the Caldwell Manufacturing Company with general offices in Evansville, Ind., today presented to the authorities in Louisville a typewritten letter signed "Verein," threatening the destruction of the company's plant at an unnamed point in New Jersey and the death of its employees because the company is manufacturing picric acid for the allies.

Postmarks on the letter show it was mailed in New Albany, Ind., March 2.

FIRING EXCHANGED ON GALICIAN FRONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PETROGRAD, (via London, March 4.)—The following official statement was issued by the War Office today:

"Western (Russian) front: In the Dvina, between Dvinsk and Jacobstadt and near Illoukst our scouts have made successful observations. To the south and on the Galician front there has been the usual exchange of fire.

"Caucasus and Persian fronts: We occupied the town of Bijar, about fifty miles northwest of Hamadan, after an engagement."

EXPLAINS DISORDER OF VATICAN GUARD.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, March 3, 9:50 (via Paris, March 4.)—An incident among the Swiss guards at the Vatican, in which a guard, Joseph Manze, discharged his firearms, has been magnified by certain Italian newspapers into an international matter involving Italian, papal and Swiss jurisdiction. In reality, the guard, resisting arrest, for some offense, first barricaded himself in a room and later left the Vatican Palace. He was taken by the Italian police and conducted to the Swiss frontier under an order of expulsion.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

Moral of Great War.

rance of the French people regarding the true character of Russian government, whose leaders it is now a patriotic duty to glorify. He uses a very wild expression when he says that "only the Socialists occasionally violate this decent attitude." This attitude, now more than a score of years old, brought the keenest sorrow and distress to the Poles, who for more than a century had looked hopefully toward France as the nation that was to protect them no less against German than against Russian oppression. This attitude made it possible for Russian despotism firmly to intrench itself and to laugh at the futile struggles of a desperate and despairing people.

RUSSIA AND PRUSSIA.

Between Russian and Prussian autocracy the friendship has always been intimate; whenever Poles or Russians tried to shake off the yoke the governing classes were ready to join forces. But now French gold and French enthusiasm were added to the fateful powers, to strengthen Russian despotism and surround it with a halo of liberty. There was a bitter historic irony in the picture of Alexander III, rising and listening, bareheaded, to the "Marseillaise" played by a Russian military band. But far more bitter was the spectacle of French democracy as the main obstacle to the victory of a constitutional Russian government.

In this England shares responsibility with France. The understanding which England openly concluded with Russia, and which later, without the knowledge of Parliament, developed into a military alliance, has been an immense factor in the defeat of Russian liberty.

Russia has ever been dependent on the occidental money market. She needs money, credit. But before the western banks could be accommodating it was necessary to instill a spirit of friendliness and confidence in the small investor. As long as Russia appeared to the English capitalist as a hostile power or as an uncertain despotism constantly threatened by revolution it appealed in vain for English funds. But from the moment King Edward visited the Czar in Reval, and the Czar returned the visit in the Isle of Wight—from that moment it became the policy of the English press to represent Russia as a benevolent power steadily progressing toward constitutional liberty. Then the English investor pulled out his pocketbook. Exactly as in France, the press, the politicians and the upper classes entered into a silent conspiracy for the purpose of praising and glorifying the benevolent character of the Russian government.

RUSSIAN CONSTITUTION.

It will be remembered that a constitution had been wrested from the Czar in October, 1905. The election to the first Duma took place with the reactionary forces in full control of the provinces, under intense excitement. A great hope was germinating in the Russian people, and the elections returned an enormous majority of progressives to the Duma. They had to fight step by step a reactionary ministry and a court which bitterly regretted the privileges which terror had forced them to grant. The Duma could have defied the autocracy had it been able to say to a discredited and bankrupt government: "Your cash box is empty, your credit exhausted. Behind us stand Russia and Europe. Recognize our constitutional rights and we will vote taxes and authorize loans. Refuse and neither London nor Paris will advance you a penny!"

But the Duma could not speak in this strain, for already in March, 1906, the big loan had been negotiated, and when the Duma assembled in May the governmental offices were full. In vain had Russia's struggling patriots beseeched liberal Europe not by new loans to sign the death warrant of the new constitution! In less than three months the Duma was dissolved; Stolypin reigned without parliament; martial courts pronounced and executed death sentences all over the country. The second Duma assembled in 1907; it was even more radical than the first. Stolypin's counter-stroke was to accuse the Social Democrats, the most influential branch of the Duma, of treasonable conspiracy and to impeach them before a tribunal composed of members of all parties.

The commission reported its unanimous findings to the third Duma—the Socialists were found not guilty. Then the coup d'etat: Thirty-five members were arbitrarily examined before a special committee, seventeen were sentenced to prison for terms ranging from four to five years, and ten were sent to Siberia for life. Two died in prison, one became insane, one, the party orator, contracted consumption. All of them were treated like low criminals, were shackled, and occasionally knouted.

The dissolution of the second Duma marked the end of Russian liberty. In his pamphlet, "Russian Terrorism" (1909,) Kropatkin has shown that during the period of nominal liberty the number of prisoners rose from a daily average of 85,000 in 1905 to 181,000 in 1909. He has told of the ravaging diseases in the overcrowded prisons and of the extensive use of torture. During 1909 the military courts sentenced on an average of three prisoners a day to death. The number of political exiles to Siberia reached, according to official figures, a total of 74,000.

These terrifying results would have been impossible without the co-operation of France and England with the Russian government. The nonsensical assertion, seriously advanced, that the Anglo-French-Russian alliance will have a beneficial effect on Russia's internal affairs—that the war has enlisted Russia among the liberty-loving powers, is only a clumsy attempt to mislead the public. The famous revolutionary leader, ———, declared, at the outbreak of the war, this to be his belief, and in order to prove the sincerity of his conviction he returned to Russia, declaring his intention of putting himself at the disposition of his country. Upon reaching the border he was arrested and sentenced to life exile in Siberia.

FRANCE'S AIM.

Mr. Danville then makes the unqualified assertion that the war, as far as France is concerned, is waged solely for the recovery of Alsace-Lorraine. The pain and humiliation which France has suffered by reason of this loss, and still suffers at the sight of German oppression, is keen enough to make France willing to agree to any sacrifice, to the loss of colonies, to the breaking off of alliances, to monetary compensation. In order to make clear the poignancy of the loss he uses the ghastly illustration of the amputated hand, which, unfortunately, is neither apt nor correct, seeing an amputated hand cannot be made to grow on the parent body after a lapse of forty-five years, nor is it easy to imagine any one torturing an amputated hand.

This, however, is of small moment. What does matter, what is far more surprising, is that an intelligent Frenchman, especially one who from preference gives thought to political questions, proves himself so ignorant concerning Denmark's later history that he takes the greatest pains to explain to a Dane the anguished feelings with which a country must contemplate the loss of an integral part of its territory. He can never have heard of Denmark's wars on behalf of Schleswig or of our present relationship with that unhappy province. He apparently is ignorant of the fact that while Alsace-Lorraine became French under Louis XIV., Schleswig has always, in language and history, been Danish.

In a matter of less importance Mr. Danville is mistaken; viz. his statement that "Bismarck seized us by the throat." Bismarck was innocent of the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine as he was innocent of Denmark's loss of Schleswig. His now forgotten letter to Blixen-Tinecke proves his intention of settling the question of the Duchies without war and in such a manner that Denmark was not to lose any Danish-speaking province. Even at the London conference Denmark could have retained North Schleswig had she not refused the settlement in the hope of obtaining better terms.

As far as Alsace-Lorraine is concerned, there is ample evidence that Bismarck stubbornly opposed Moltke's and the militarists' lust of conquest, even as he did subsequent to Austria's defeat. He succeeded, at the peace of Prague, in carrying his point, and no part of Austria or Bavaria was ceded to Prussia. At the close of the Franco-Prussian war he eloquently maintained that the subjection of Alsace-Lorraine was bound to lead to another war later on, but here he failed to convince the Emperor, who, backed by Moltke and the victorious generals, refused to relinquish with the pen what had been won with the sword.

SILENCE IS GOLDEN.

Modern nations have much of which to be justly proud; they have little to criticise in each other. But each assumes itself to be beyond compare, and a God who knows his business cannot have a moment's uncertainty as to where to bestow the crown of victory. Seen through French glasses, the Almighty scorns and loathes German barbarity; seen through German, He is a fond Father, particularly delighted with German Kultur, a special Protector of the House of Hohenzollern. Both the French and German nations are according to each, His "chosen people," incarnations of His very Being. By failing to intervene on behalf of either He is bound to arouse doubts as to His omnipotence or even as to His existence. So the Almighty is at present passing through a very trying and difficult experience.

This being so, perhaps an ordinary mortal should not complain if his reputation for firmness and impartiality suffers in any of the rival camps. But he must be permitted to point out the utter baselessness of the attacks of his critics. My love for France is too deeply rooted to be affected by this present clamor; still it seems a trifle unjust that a lifelong championship of the great qualities of the French nation, founded upon a perhaps somewhat uncommon study and understanding of its historical and artistic life, should be so entirely forgotten, and that a candid expression of convictions must be distorted in order to rouse enmity against me in the popular mind.

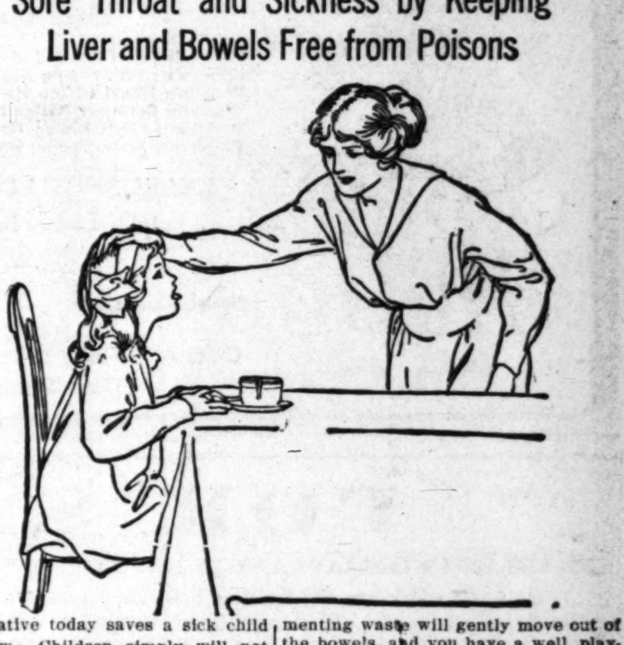
Give "California Syrup of Figs" If Cross, Feverish, Sick, Bilious, Constipated—They love it

Watch Children Now! Guard Against Colds, Grippe, Sore Throat and Sickness by Keeping Liver and Bowels Free from Poisons



A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has the grippe or a sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is ofttimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. See that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Don't merely ask for Syrup of Figs, but ask for "California Syrup of Figs." Remember, "California."

MERCHANT MARINE NEED URGED BY MINT DIRECTOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Need of an American merchant marine as a measure of preparedness in the event of war was emphasized by Robert W. Wooley, director of the United States mint, in an address at the National Democratic Club here today.

"We are paying higher freight rates than ever before," he said, "and British shippers are reaping undreamed-of fortunes because in time of peace we have failed to take steps for the restoration of the American flag to the merchant marine of the sea.

"We need a merchant marine because, if war comes, we will need ships manned by Americans and flying the American flag on which to carry our goods to foreign lands, and for colliers manned by our own people whom we can trust. This is a phase of preparedness."

Army Bill in Senate.

in the army may be examined by a board of officers to determine the civil occupations for which they are qualified and they would be eligible to appointment to civil service positions of that nature without a civil service examination. The President also would have power to appoint one man from each regiment to the Military Academy.

The reserve officers' training corps would have senior and junior grades established at civil educational institutions where military courses are provided with an army officer detailed as instructor. The senior grade units would be placed at colleges and universities and the junior grades at high schools. Five hours a week would be required in the senior and three in the junior, devoted to military training. Summer camps for field training of the cadets would be provided by the government.

The regulations under which graduates would be appointed to the reserve corps are left to the President. Such appointees must be at least 21 years old and must obligate themselves to serve for ten years.

Their maximum is fixed at 50,000.

VOLUNTEERS.

The Federal volunteer force is provided for in general language, leaving the whole question of enlistment, training, reserve and the like to the discretion of the President. The clause is an amendment of the volunteer act to permit organization of such a force in peace times as well as in war. The only restriction in numbers is that the force shall not exceed an average of 600 for each Congressional district, approximately 250,000 men in all. Regular army pay would be provided for both officers and men during periods of training.

The plan is the continental army proposal in effect, although the committee decided to leave to the President the widest possible latitude so that the requirements of the service could be fitted to the needs of each section of the country individually. It is believed by framers of the bill that this plan will offer the best means of testing the possibility of creating an adequate volunteer army in peace times, and the committee desired to enact no regulations which would hamper the experiments. The continental plan proposed by Secretary Garrison, committee members thought, was too definite in many respects.

For federalization of the National Guard the bill adopts with numerous modifications the plan proposed by the National Guard Association. The rate of pay for officers, however, was set at $500 a year for all of the rank of captain or above, $300 for first lieutenants, and certain specified staff officers, and $250 for second lieutenants. The association plan proposed higher pay for general officers.

THE PAY ROLL.

Enlisted men would receive pay on the basis of one-fourth of the regular army pay and would contract on enlistment to serve the United States in time of war. The enlistment period is fixed at six years, three with the colors and three in reserve, and organization of the regular army is prescribed. Provision is made for examination of all officers appointed by State authorities and for the inclusion of officers of the National Guard in the personnel of the militia division of the War Department.

The National Guard provisions of the bill probably will be substituted by the House provisions when the two bills reach conference. The Senate committee gave particular attention to the regular army features, while the House made the federalization project its main object. Since the same general outline is followed in both bills the agreement will not be delayed, it is thought.

BRANDIES'S PARTNER CROSS-EXAMINED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Louis D. Brandeis's law partner, E. F. McClennen, was cross-examined for three hours today before the Senate Subcommittee investigating Mr. Brandeis's fitness to be a Supreme Court justice. Counsel for those opposing confirmation asked particularly about the Lennox bankruptcy case and at the end of the cross-examination the subcommittee decided to summon James T. Lennox, the principal in that litigation, and requested McClennen to produce stenographic notebooks in which reports of conversations on the subject in the Brandeis law office were made.

Opponents to Mr. Brandeis's confirmation charge that he was guilty of unprofessional conduct in filing an involuntary bankruptcy petition against Lennox based partly on an assignment he is alleged to have previously advised Lennox to make.

Aim of Gompers.

Their working plan is never to neglect any chance, however small, to prod the members. One of the California members, for instance, recently introduced a bill to protect scenario writers for the movies.

His bill provided that scenarios might be copyrighted in typewritten instead of printed form. Early the next morning a delegation from the typographical union called upon him to demand an explanation. The bill was promptly withdrawn by the Congressman.

Something came up about the postal clerks and, in a jiffy, Mr. Flaharty of the Postoffice Workers' Union was on the necks of every Congressman who had anything remotely or inferentially to do with the bill.

A bill was put in requiring ferry boats to conform to the certain almost prohibitive requirements. The big New York ferry companies naturally objected. Instantly, Andrew Furuseth landed on all the members of the Congressional committee having the matter in charge. The objective of the unions is to show Congressmen that they can't slip over the smallest point that will not be seen and resented by the unions.

HANDLING THE CONGRESSMEN.

Any sign of insurrection on the part of any Congressman is dealt with effectively. If he shows any fight, he immediately receives a wire from one union after another in his home town. Protests and threats come pouring in upon him. Then he begins receiving press clippings from the union-ridden newspapers in his home town. If he doesn't behave, his fellow Congressmen come to him and implore him to behave for he is getting them into trouble, too.

The domination, as far as Congress is concerned, is almost complete. There are plenty of members who despise and detest the rule of the unions, but they dare not speak out in meeting about it.

Until this month, Gompers looked at the actual machinery of the government, particularly of the army and navy, with watering chops, but futile longing. He had gained control of Congress, but he couldn't see a chance to get a grip on the executive branch of the government. Then suddenly his chance came. Representative Borland introduced a rider to the legislative bill providing that government clerks should work eight hours instead of seven.

As everyone knows, Washington is flooded with clerks who are unnecessary to the conduct of departments. In every corridor of every building are old men half asleep, sitting at tables theoretically to give directions in case some one should come along asking for some office.

At every door in the Senate and House are two doorkeepers and inside each section of each gallery is another special policeman.

An army of clerks in every department stalls around in an effort to stretch out the work and make as many jobs as possible. Committees that only meet once a week each have a secretary and assistant secretary and messenger and no work.

FULL STEAM A CRIME.

It is stated that a tacit understanding exists whereby no clerk is expected to put on full steam. It is understood to be the ethics of every department clerk to go easy enough to keep the job alive.

The Borland amendment, of course, was received by these clerks with dismay. There is a limit even to the stretching that a government job can stand. With one more hour added to the day's work, there will be a prospect of the jobs shrinking in number. Hence the deluge.

While they were in this dismayed state of mind along came Sam Gompers with an offer of help. He told them to come on and he would see that nothing happened to them. Morally these clerks would have not consented to become members of a labor union. But Sam caught them while they were shivering with terror.

He gave them a few days exhibition of what he could do in the way of scaring Congressmen in their behalf. He gave a kingly order to his minions to kill the Borland amendment and then bade the Washington clerks watch the miserable squirming of the unhappy Congressmen.

The squirming was all that they could have asked. At the behest of Gompers, the members of the House proceeded to get down on their stomachs and crawl. Only one member had the courage to speak out a brave word. He didn't speak directly on the Borland amendment, but in discussing another subject he issued a solemn warning to the House that governments always have fallen when they went out of the control of the agricultural class and became "laborized." This member was Alfalfa Bill Murry of Oklahoma.

Having shown the clerks what he could do by cracking the whip, Gompers called a mass meeting and the first wedge was driven into the power of the United States government. The sinister character of the organization is shown by the positions held by the first officers of the new unions, two of them being located in strategic positions in offices from which the army is administered.

The officers are: President, H. M. McLaren, a clerk in the War Department; Secretary, J. H. Kesecker, Interior Department; Treasurer, Paul D. May, office of the Adjutant-General of the Army.

The mass meeting was attended by 1500 clerks. Over 300 joined the union. Gompers expects the movement to extend to over 1000 within a week.

Manwhile, Gompers is organizing the Washington street car men into a union and is about to call the car men out on strike. The usual demands for arbitration that precede strikes are in progress. This strike is particularly surprising inasmuch as the street car company here has had a policy out of which the profits are shared; pensions are paid, etc.

The direct relation between the street car strike and the attempt to unionize the government clerks is not quite clear. There is, of course, some direct relation.

AEROPLANE SCOUTS IN NAVY WAR GAME.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Naval war games in which the aeroplanes will do the scouting for the Atlantic battle fleet have been ordered on the southern drill grounds of Guantanamo.

The order marks the first step to work the aeronautical service co-ordinately with the battle fleet, as is being done by the European navies in the war.

BIG SUBMARINE IMPRACTICABL

Twenty Knots Surface Sp Difficult to Attain.

American Firms Have Decl to Build Vessels.

Steam-driven Type Said to Undesirable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) March American shipbuilders have decli to build the two fleet submari authorized by Congress last year b cause of a stipulation that the v shall have a surface speed of tw knots. Secretary Daniels wrote C man Padgett of the House Committee today, that he had unable to obtain satisfactory bid the only alternative would be to struct the submersibles in navy upon steam-driven designs.

"The department, however," letter says, "as at present advised not favor steam-driven submar and feels that it was not realize the time of the passage of the act the provisions for speed would sitate construction containing this desirable feature."

According to naval officers in the construction of subma the speed requirement of twenty is impossible to attain. The mum speed of such craft, with most modern engine equipment, say, is an an average of less twenty knots and that can not be tained long. Steam propulsion be required to give a sustained of twenty knots, and this is not lieved to be fit for submarine us

THE MOVIES OUTDONE.

Thrilling Fall of Workmen Three Hundred Feet in Air.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] Thr scenes, conceived in dare-devil istry of motion pictures, dramatically overshadowed in life in Cleveland when two me the midst of a death plunge fro wrecked scaffold on the side o Hollenden Hotel hung perilously tween earth and sky as a horr crowd looked on.

A rope snapped and the nar board scaffold it held dropped like trapdoor snatched from under the of the two workmen on it. There a scream, a shriek of terror, and body hurtled through the air tow the ground, more than 300 feet low.

Twenty feet through space, then arms of the human plummet, cla frantically, gripped a bracket that once held a fire escape. There J Premably, a laborer, employed demolishing the rear wing of the tel, hung between life and death hundreds watched breathlessly.

High above the head of the saved from death momentarily by bracket they saw Edward J. J his helper, clinging to the rope of wrecked scaffold that he had in a desperate clutch for life.

For a thrilling space of time two clinging flies held on desper The bracket broke and Premably again catapulted. He clutched and a second bracket save his Firemen arrived and took the hausted man to the street.

Jones's escape came just as the men arrived. Unnerved and strength gone, he slipped and down the rope, the friction bur his buckskin gloves to the palms. rope did not reach the ground, and fell twenty feet. He sustained a bruises.

MERCHANT MARINE NEED URGED BY MINT DIRECTOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Need of an American merchant marine as a measure of preparedness in the event of war was emphasized by Robert W. Wooley, director of the United States mint, in an address at the National Democratic Club here today.

"We are paying higher freight rates than ever before," he said, "and British shippers are reaping undreamed-of fortunes because in time of peace we have failed to take steps for the restoration of the American flag to the merchant marine of the sea.

"We need a merchant marine because, if war comes, we will need ships manned by Americans and flying the American flag on which to carry our goods to foreign lands, and for colliers manned by our own people whom we can trust. This is a phase of preparedness."

in the army may be examined by a board of officers to determine the civil occupations for which they are qualified and they would be eligible to appointment to civil service positions of that nature without a civil service examination. The President also would have power to appoint one man from each regiment to the Military Academy.

The reserve officers' training corps would have senior and junior grades established at civil educational institutions where military courses are provided with an army officer detailed as instructor. The senior grade units would be placed at colleges and universities and the junior grades at high schools. Five hours a week would be required in the senior and three in the junior, devoted to military training. Summer camps for field training of the cadets would be provided by the government.

The regulations under which graduates would be appointed to the reserve corps are left to the President. Such appointees must be at least 21 years old and must obligate themselves to serve for ten years.

Their maximum is fixed at 50,000.

VOLUNTEERS.

The Federal volunteer force is provided for in general language, leaving the whole question of enlistment, training, reserve and the like to the discretion of the President. The clause is an amendment of the volunteer act to permit organization of such a force in peace times as well as in war. The only restriction in numbers is that the force shall not exceed an average of 600 for each Congressional district, approximately 250,000 men in all. Regular army pay would be provided for both officers and men during periods of training.

The plan is the continental army proposal in effect, although the committee decided to leave to the President the widest possible latitude so that the requirements of the service could be fitted to the needs of each section of the country individually. It is believed by framers of the bill that this plan will offer the best means of testing the possibility of creating an adequate volunteer army in peace times, and the committee desired to enact no regulations which would hamper the experiments. The continental plan proposed by Secretary Garrison, committee members thought, was too definite in many respects.

For federalization of the National Guard the bill adopts with numerous modifications the plan proposed by the National Guard Association. The rate of pay for officers, however, was set at $500 a year for all of the rank of captain or above, $300 for first lieutenants, and certain specified staff officers, and $250 for second lieutenants. The association plan proposed higher pay for general officers.

THE PAY ROLL.

Enlisted men would receive pay on the basis of one-fourth of the regular army pay and would contract on enlistment to serve the United States in time of war. The enlistment period is fixed at six years, three with the colors and three in reserve, and organization of the regular army is prescribed. Provision is made for examination of all officers appointed by State authorities and for the inclusion of officers of the National Guard in the personnel of the militia division of the War Department.

The National Guard provisions of the bill probably will be substituted by the House provisions when the two bills reach conference. The Senate committee gave particular attention to the regular army features, while the House made the federalization project its main object. Since the same general outline is followed in both bills the agreement will not be delayed, it is thought.

HASTEN MOBILIZATION OF U. S. SECURITIES.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, March 4.—With the aim of accelerating mobilization of American securities, the treasury has given notice to British banks that they are requested to call in loans granted upon American railroad shares.

The expected announcement of the government's decision to borrow as well as buy American securities is still delayed.

BRANDIES'S PARTNER CROSS-EXAMINED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Louis D. Brandeis's law partner, E. F. McClennen, was cross-examined for three hours today before the Senate Sub-Committee investigating Mr. Brandeis's fitness to be a Supreme Court justice. Counsel for those opposing confirmation asked particularly about the Lennox bankruptcy case and at the end of the cross-examination the subcommittee decided to summon James T. Lennox, the principal in that litigation, and requested McClennen to produce stenographic notebooks in which reports of conversations on the subject in the Brandeis law office were made.

Opponents to Mr. Brandeis's confirmation charge that he was guilty of unprofessional conduct in filing an involuntary bankruptcy petition aganst Lennox based partly on an assignment he is alleged to have previously advised Lennox to make.

Word has been received from Petrograd that Mr. Francis will be acceptable to the Russian government. He will succeed George T. Marye, who resigned.

Aim of Gompers.

Their working plan is never to neglect any chance, however small, to prod the members. One of the California members, for instance, recently introduced a bill to protect scenario writers for the movies.

His bill provided that scenarios might be copyrighted in typewritten instead of printed form. Early the next morning a delegation from the typographical union called upon him to demand an explanation. The bill was promptly withdrawn by the Congressman.

Something came up about the postal clerks and, in a jiffy, Mr. Flaharty of the Postoffice Workers' Union was on the necks of every Congressman who had anything remotely or inferentially to do with the bill.

A bill was put in requiring ferry boats to conform to the certain almost prohibitive requirements. The big New York ferry companies naturally objected. Instantly, Andrew Furuseth landed on all the members of the Congressional committee having the matter in charge. The objective of the unions is to show Congressmen that they can't slip over the smallest point that will not be seen and resented by the unions.

HANDLING THE CONGRESSMEN.

Any sign of insurrection on the part of any Congressman is dealt with effectively. If he shows any fight, he immediately receives a wire from one union after another in his home town. Protests and threats come pouring in upon him. Then he begins receiving press clippings from the union-ridden newspapers in his home town. If he doesn't behave, his fellow Congressmen come to him and implore him to behave for he is getting them into trouble, too.

The domination, as far as Congress is concerned, is almost complete. There are plenty of members who despise and detest the rule of the unions, but they dare not speak out in meeting about it.

Until this month, Gompers looked at the actual machinery of the government, particularly of the army and navy, with watering chops, but futile longing. He had gained control of Congress, but he couldn't see a chance to get a grip on the executive branch of the government. Then suddenly his chance came. Representative Borland introduced a rider to the legislative bill providing that government clerks should work eight hours instead of seven.

As everyone knows, Washington is flooded with clerks who are unnecessary to the conduct of departments. In every corridor of every building are old men half asleep, sitting at tables theoretically to give directions in case some one should come along asking for some office.

At every door in the Senate and House are two doorkeepers and inside each section of each gallery is another special policeman.

An army of clerks in every department stalls around in an effort to stretch out the work and make as many jobs as possible. Committees that only meet once a week each have a secretary and assistant secretary and messenger and no work.

FULL STEAM A CRIME.

It is stated that a tacit understanding exists whereby no clerk is expected to put on full steam. It is understood to be the ethics of every department clerk to go easy enough to keep the job alive.

The Borland amendment, of course, was received by these clerks with dismay. There is a limit even to the stretching that a government job can stand. With one more hour added to the day's work, there will be a prospect of the jobs shrinking in number. Hence the deluge.

While they were in this dismayed state of mind along came Sam Gompers with an offer of help. He told them to come on and he would see that nothing happened to them. Morally these clerks would have not consented to become members of a labor union. But Sam caught them while they were shivering with terror.

He gave them a few days exhibition of what he could do in the way of scaring Congressmen in their behalf. He gave a kingly order to his minions to kill the Borland amendment and then bade the Washington clerks watch the miserable squirming of the unhappy Congressmen.

The squirming was all that they could have asked. At the behest of Gompers, the members of the House proceeded to get down on their stomachs and crawl. Only one member had the courage to speak out a brave word. He didn't speak directly on the Borland amendment, but in discussing another subject he issued a solemn warning to the House that governments always have fallen when they went out of the control of the agricultural class and became "laborized." This member was Alfalfa Bill Murry of Oklahoma.

Having shown the clerks what he could do by cracking the whip, Gompers called a mass meeting and the first wedge was driven into the power of the United States government. The sinister character of the organization is shown by the positions held by the first officers of the new unions, two of them being located in strategic positions in offices from which the army is administered.

The officers are: President, H. M. McLaren, a clerk in the War Department; Secretary, J. H. Kesecker, Interior Department; Treasurer, Paul D. May, office of the Adjutant-General of the Army.

The mass meeting was attended by 1500 clerks. Over 300 joined the union. Gompers expects the movement to extend to over 1000 within a week.

Manwhile, Gompers is organizing the Washington street car men into a union and is about to call the car men out on strike. The usual demands for arbitration that precede strikes are in progress. This strike is particularly surprising inasmuch as the street car company here has had a policy out of which the profits are shared; pensions are paid, etc.

The direct relation between the street car strike and the attempt to unionize the government clerks is not quite clear. There is, of course, some direct relation.

AEROPLANE SCOUTS IN NAVY WAR GAME.

BIG SUBMARINE IMPRACTICABL

Twenty Knots Surface Sp Difficult to Attain.

American Firms Have Decli to Build Vessels.

Steam-driven Type Said to b Undesirable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) March American shipbuilders have decli to build the two fleet submari authorized by Congress last year b cause of a stipulation that the vess shall have a surface speed of twen knots. Secretary Daniels wrote Cha man Padgett of the House N Committee today, that he had b unable to obtain satisfactory bids an the only alternative would be to co struct the submersibles in navy ya upon steam-driven designs.

"The department, however," t letter says, "as at present advised d not favor steam-driven submar and feels that it was not realiz the time of the passage of the act th the provisions for speed would ne sitate construction containing this u desirable feature."

According to naval officers in the construction of submar the speed requirement of twenty k is impossible to attain. The ma mum speed of such craft, with t most modern engine equipment, th say, is an an average of less th twenty knots and that can not be m tained long. Steam propulsion wo be required to give a sustained sp of twenty knots, and this is not b lieved to be fit for submarine use.

"POWDER-HOUSE JAG."

Smokeless Products Send Work Out Stupefied.

[American Magazine:] Alcohol i greatly feared by the powder peop and rightly so. But they can eliminate a strange malady that ap pears among their workmen in th powder mills. As subterranean la in compressed air produces "t bends," work in the powder m creates the "powder-house ja which is described as follows b Merle Crowell.

"A powder-house is no place f an unsteady hand or an unseeing e but the 'powder-house jag,' a b product of the plants themselves, something which no amount of di gence can forefend. Large quan of alcohol are used in the making smokeless powder, and the air i the shops frequently gets heavy wi fumes. Men have been known to l the plants reeling and stupefied, whi one serious accident recently wa caused because a fume-fuddled wor man threw on both the high pres and low pressure brakes at the sa time.

"A weird nervous disorder tha steals upon powder makers has be called 'powderitis.' Treading all d with rubber-soled shoes in a sh which a vagrant spark will cha into a crater, they get keyed u a nervous tension that never le down, with the result that even w off duty they nearly jump thro their collars at an unexpected fla of light. Although powder, unle is confined, does not explode at spark under normal conditions, powder shop may be changed into inferno of wildfire in a few se onds."

THE MOVIES OUTDONE.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] Thri scenes, conceived in dare-devil a istry of motion pictures, we dramatically overshadowed in r life in Cleveland when two men the midst of a death plunge from wrecked scaffold on the side of th Hollenden Hotel hung perilously b tween earth and sky as a horrif crowd looked on.

A rope snapped and the narro board scaffold it held dropped like trapdoor snatched from under the fe of the two workmen on it. There w a scream, a shriek of terror, and body hurtled through the air towa the ground, more than 300 feet b low.

Twenty feet through space, then th arms of the human plummet, clawi frantically, gripped a bracket that h once held a fire escape. There Jos Premably, a laborer, employed demolishing the rear wing of the h tel, hung between life and death hundreds watched breathlessly.

High above the head of the ma saved from death momentarily by th bracket they saw Edward J. J his helper, clinging to the rope of th wrecked scaffold that he had sei in a desperate clutch for life.

For a thrilling space of time th two clinging flies held on desperat The bracket broke and Premably w again catapulted. He clutched a and a second bracket save his li Firemen arrived and took the e hausted man to the street.

Jones's escape came just as the fi men arrived. Unnerved and strength gone, he slipped and s down the rope, the friction bu his buckskin gloves to the palms. T rope did not reach the ground, and fell twenty feet. He sustained a fe bruises.

SUNLIGHT AS GERMICIDE.

Sun's Rays Kill Disease Germs i Tuberculous Material.

[New York Sun:] The practice of exposing cooking, dairy and oth utensils used in connection with foo to direct sunlight is a practice qu common by farm housewives. Com paratively few, however, apprecia the value of the work done by th sun.

It has been proved that the stron direct rays of the sun kill disea germs exposed to it.

Recently tests were made wi tuberculous material from cows co taining uncountable numbers of vi ulent tubercle bacilli. Some w placed outdoors on a modera warm, clear day where the sun cou shine on them, and an equal nu ber were placed in a dark room. Aft fifteen minutes' exposure to the s large numbers of bacilli remain but after thirty minutes' exposur the sun no living tubercle bac could be found; every test that co be made proved that they were dead.

Similar tests made with bacilli fr a human being proved that they w alive after four hours and usual dead in less than eight hours, thou in another case sixteen hours' ex posure to the sun was required. T material in the dark room was alive after thirty days.

No Compromise and Harmony Keynote of Conference.

Trading Between the Lines is Strictly Tabooed.

Capt. John D. Fredericks is Elected Chairman.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—The Republican party came back to its own today with a burst of speed and enthusiasm which presages much for the future welfare of the State. From the fall of the gavel which marked the opening of the State-wide conference to the last cheer when a delegation of sturdy young Republicans of stalwart breed were named to represent the Republican party of California in the Chicago National Convention, not one discordant note was sounded. There was no compromise with principle, no trading between the lines with emissaries of the Johnson-Progressive administration. It was a Republican conference in which more than 800 delegates were represented in person or by proxy, and it will go down in political history as a conference of fighting men. The keynote was struck by John G. Mott, Republican orator of Los Angeles, in his address nominating Capt. John D. Fredericks of Los Angeles for chairman of the conference.

FROM MOTT'S REMARKS.

"We are an assemblage of Republicans," said Mr. Mott. "We believe in the enduring principles of the Republican party and we have kept faith. We are assembled to recommend to the electors of the State a delegation of stalwart Republicans to represent us in the Chicago convention, and in the furtherance of that purpose I now desire to place in nomination for permanent chairman that true-blue, self-denying, stalwart Republican Capt. John D. Fredericks."

Wild cheers greeted this declaration and Assemblymen Ryan and Godsill, two members of the Johnson pay roll friends, slipped out of the hall and hastened to the St. Francis Hotel where they reported to Gov. Johnson in person that, "Those fellows down at the Palace have been stampeded right from the start, there is no use of trying to do anything with them."

EARL ISSUES STATEMENT.

Earlier in the day Earl had issued a statement in which he disputed the legal authority of the Republican conference to select delegates to the national convention. He invaded the Palace with his satellites and tried to create a division among the Republican delegates assembled. By the time the conference had been in session five minutes Earl realized the futility of his efforts and slipped away. The so-called conference committee did not dignify the Earl-Johnson conference by reporting the result of its meetings with the representatives of the power companies; they were simply ignored.

In his opening address Chairman Francis V. Keesling made plain the position of the State Central Committee. "It is to be noted," said Mr. Keesling, "that we of the State Central Committee are charged with perversion of office. It is not true. In assembling here today we have merely used the names of those who constitute the Republican committee of the State as the only immediately available list. But even if it were true that we had assembled officially we would still be within our rights in the performance of the sacred duty of safeguarding the interests of the Republican party."

FREDERICKS STIRS 'EM UP.

Capt. Fredericks roused the enthusiasm of the delegates when he asserted that the Republicans are ready to welcome back the dissenters who left the Chicago convention. "They passed out through a door with welcome written above the portals," declared Capt. Fredericks, "that door is still open and the motto has not been removed. But if they attempt to break in and burglarize the house they will find that we are amply able to protect our domicile.

"Under present conditions the words of our first great leader in his Gettysburg address are peculiarly appropriate, it matters little what we say here, but what we do here will make history. We shall gain no advantage through abuse or vituperation; our answer to those who seek to break into the party will be the delegation which we select to represent us in Chicago."

All suggestions of "compromise" were discarded from the moment that the Los Angeles delegation invaded the Palace Hotel with their outspoken demand for a ticket on which only stalwart Republicans should be named. The words "no compromise" quickly became the watchword of the conference. They were repeated so often that the echo was never silent in the corridors of the big hotel during the whole of the morning and afternoon. Wherever the outspoken southerners passed they were followed and eagerly listened to. Leo Youngworth, W. M. Bowen, H. S. Mc[illegible], P. A. Stanton, H. E. Carter and F. C. Roberts soon became the centers of so many little circles of delegates. Capt. Fredericks spent most of the morning in conference with Keesling, Bacon and other of the northern leaders.

VETERANS PRESENT.

A typical feature of the opening session was the welcome extended to five members of "the Old Guard." These were five veteran Republican delegates who voted for Lincoln in 1860. They were escorted to the platform while the delegates rose and cheered and they received marked attention during the whole of the conference.

The five old Lincoln men were W. D. White, of Ukiah, W. H. Fredaugh of Berkeley, William Snow of Stockton, A. P. Van Duzer of San Francisco, and T. H. Wheeler of New York, a visitor. There were presented to the conference Albert Brown, who was a delegate from Santa Cruz in 1856 to the Republican convention which nominated John C. Fremont for President, and W. T. Taggart of Alameda, who voted for Millard Fillmore for Vice-President in 1852.

More than a hundred delegates were present from the mountain counties. They came to the conference in fighting armor as their indignation had been stirred to fever pitch by reading that the two big power companies whom the mountain settlers are almost constantly fighting in the courts had united to name a ticket of delegates to the Chicago convention, and that it sought to have them recognized as Republicans. These delegates declared that the Earl ticket will be beaten in the northern and central counties at least ten to one.

In his opening address, Chairman Keesling referred to the boast of the Earl-Johnson faction that they have unlimited capital and influence back of them and that regular Republicans would find it impossible to finance their campaign.

"They say they have a $100,000 campaign fund," called back a country delegate, "but we have nearly half a million Republicans. We are not afraid to match our men and women against their dollars."

THE OPEN HEARING.

For seven consecutive hours the Committee on Nominations sat in session considering proposals for delegates to the National Republican Convention. There was an open hearin for each of the eleven Congress districts and the qualifications of each candidate were fully and freely discussed.

Contrary to the expectations of the Earl committee, there was a lively contest in almost every district. These contests were all held in the most friendly spirit, however, and there were no appeals to the general conference. W. H. Crocker and Frank Keesling were contemplated originally as delegates-at-large; but both consented to accept nominations from districts in order that two women might be named in their places as delegates-at-large.

Chairman L. D. Carey of the Referendum Committee smiled grimly when the Resolutions Committee brought in its report. One of the strongest of the resolutions indorsed the initiative and referendum petitions now in circulation. The administration forces have tried vainly to stifle these two petitions, but they have failed signally. The Governor is especially concerned about the initiative which forbids appointing members of the Legislature to other salaried positions. This strikes directly at one of the crying abuses of "Progressive" government in California.

General satisfaction was expressed over the platform adopted. Its planks are all constructive and it carries the genuine ring of the old-time platforms which prepared the way for former Republican victories. Its planks were discussed in executive session.

There was a lively appreciation of the attitude taken by the leaders of the Los Angeles delegation in relation to the places on the ticket of delegates. Capt. Fredericks announced at the opening of the conference that he would not accept a place. National Committeemen Philip Stanton, Leo Youngworth and others among the southern representatives made similar declarations. This made it easy to dispose of contests in other districts.

BRITAIN GOES AHEAD AND CONSULTS NO ONE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—State Department officials made it clear today that they had not been consulted regarding the new bureau of information through which Great Britain undertakes to inform American exporters to Scandinavian countries of the liability of their goods to detention at the blockade lines. Until it is ascertained to what extent the new arrangement will affect American commerce with the neutral European countries the department withholds an opinion. Consul-General Skinner at London, to whom origin of the plan has been ascribed in press dispatches, was instructed by the department not to enter into any formal arrangement with the British authorities and it is assumed here that any suggestions he made were purely unofficial.

Officials pointed out that to have recognized the bureau officially might have been regarded as committing the United States government to a recognition of the legality of the orders in council, a course heretofore consistently avoided.

FRENCH STEAMER SAILS FOR BORDEAUX.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—The French line steamship Rochambeau sailed today from this port for Bordeaux with seventy-five cabin passengers, twenty-four of whom are Americans.

MOTORMEN STRIKE AT U. S. CAPITAL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Fifteen hundred motormen and conductors employed on the capital's two street railway lines voted to strike early today for higher wages and shorter hours. The strike was declared officially begun at 2:30 a.m.

The strikers are members of a union recently organized here and affiliated with the National Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees. Several days ago they presented to the companies demands for an increase to 30 cents an hour, with shorter hours, and yesterday gave the employers until tonight to begin negotiations for an agreement. At midnight the companies had not complied and the decision to strike followed immediately.

The maximum wage now paid is 25 cents an hour. The two companies involved are the Washington Railway and Electric Company and the Capital Traction Company, which, together, operate all the street cars in the citey.

Some cars still were running at 3 o'clock, completing their trips to the barns. It was claimed by union officials that when the runs then being made were completed enough men would have quit to insure a complete tie-up.

REPUBLICANS IN FAVOR OF DEFENSE PROGRAMME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—A platform of principles favoring adequate national defense, as opposed to militarism, and the restoration of the Republican policy of a tariff commission, and resolutions indorsing the Sutherland-Mondell amendment providing for woman suffrage, and support of the referendum against the nonpartisan bills passed at the special session of the Legislature, and the initiative measure prohibiting persons holding State offices to be members of the Legislature were prepared by the Resolutions Committee tonight for adoption by the Republican convention.

The Republicans were still in session at a late hour.

On the subject of preparedness the platform says:

"The fixed ideal of the American people has ever been and now is peace, good will and justice toward all nations, and we are desirous of continuing in friendship and harmony with the whole world. Any movement, therefore, designed to make difficult a resort to force in the settlement of international difference we approve.

"We advocate preparedness, not militarism, for militarism is entirely foreign to the ideals of true Americanism. We advocate complete preparedness for defense against attack from without—preparedness economic, industrial, financial, as well as military.

"We advocate the restoration of the Republican policy of a tariff commission with ample powers to inquire into cost, production and labor conditions in this and other countries so that the fullest and best information may be had for the formulation of a permanent tariff policy that shall adequately protect American labor, conserve and develop American industries and produce sufficient revenue to support our government."

FIGHTING REBELS SUE FOR PEACE.

REYES AND CONTRERAS STILD KEEP UP CAMPAIGN.

One Proposed to Carranza to Quit if He Were Made Governor of Durango and Given Million-acre Ranch Property on the Side—Currency at Low Ebb.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO (Tex.) March 4.—Canuto Reyes and Calixto Contreras, rebel leaders, have been carrying on active operations south of Torreon while suing for peace terms with the Carranza government, according to information received here tonight. Reyes, just before attacking Picardias, some time ago, entered Villesca and took as prisoners foreigners named Sturgeon and Roquet. He threatened to execute both of them as "gringoes" or Americans, it was said, but they were saved when German residents claimed them as fellow countrymen and paid a ransom of $500.

This exploit was carried out while a messenger from Reyes was on his way to Juarez to procure amnesty for the insurgent chief. This promise of amnesty was given yesterday.

Contreras, who also has been seeking amnesty, is said to have proposed to Carranza officials counter terms of peace. He will lay down his arms, according to the information brought here, only on condition that Carranza appoint him Governor of Durango and give him the million-acre ranch Santa Catalina. He also stipulated that the villages of his Cuencame Indian followers be restored, and that an immense tract known as the Negrete ranch be turned over to them.

Carranza currency was offered here today at 2 3-4 cents on the dollar, the lowest quotation so far.

Mexican and American health officials conferred here today with reference to plans for preventing spread of disease of Mexico. Carranza representatives agreed to co-operate in preventing Mexicans from infected districts from crossing the international boundary.

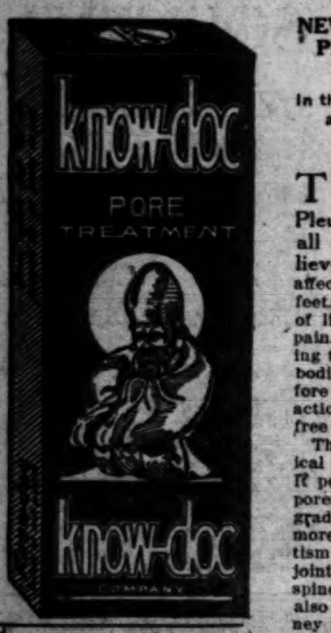
It Cures Through the Pores



NEW PORE TREATMENT TAKES PLACE OF PAIN TABLETS AND INTERNAL MEDICINES.

In the Relief of All Kinds of Aches and Pains and is a Most Wonderful Treatment for Pleurisy and Nasal Catarrh.

THE new treatment relieves aches and soreness wherever applied. Pleurisy, neuralgia and rheumatism are all simultaneously benefited and relieved by simply applying it over the affected parts and over the bottoms of the feet. Old fashioned porous plasters are of little value in the relief of deep seated pain. They seal the pores, directly opposing the result they seek to accomplish. The bodily poisons must be eliminated before a lasting cure is possible. Free pore action is just as essential to good health as free blood action.

The New Pore Treatment is simply magical in its effect upon the underlying tissues. It penetrates the inflamed parts, keeps the pores lubricated and active and the trouble gradually clears up and disappears. In the more chronic cases of neuralgia or rheumatism rub it plentifully around the aching joints and over the nerve centers along the spine and let absorb. These spine treatments also bring quick relief in all nerve and kidney troubles.

Don't fail to try the New Pore Treatment for the complexion. It takes every particle of foreign matter out of the skin and greatly improves its color and texture. Ask for Know-Doc Pore Treatment at any drug store. They now have it in both small and large sizes.

WHAT THEY SAY
"Had rheumatism in knees and shoulder. Your pore treatment stopped it in a few days. I think it is wonderful."

SHOOTS PRIEST AT CONFESSION.

Woman Slays Polish Pastor at St. Paul Church.

Had Once Sued Victim as the Father of Her Child.

Police Believe Slayer Must Have been Demented.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) March 4.—The Rev. Henry Jajeski, pastor of St. Casimir's Polish Catholic Church, was shot and instantly killed tonight by a woman said to be Amiela Dudek of Minneapolis.

Father Jajeski had emerged from a small confession room at the front of the church building and was seated on a chair at the right of the altar when the woman entered the building.

A boy who had been to confession passed her as she entered. A woman and a girl were the only other occupants of the building.

The woman approached the rail of the altar ten feet from Father Jajeski. She paused a moment in prayer, suddenly she drew a revolver from her muff and started shooting at Father Jajeski. One of the first shots penetrated Father Jajeski's head above the left eye. He never moved from his chair. Five shots were fired, one other taking effect.

Noise of the shots was heard outside and a passer-by rushed into the building. The woman sank to her knees before the altar where she remained until the police arrived.

"Yes, I shot him," she said as the police placed her under arrest on the charge of murder. She repeated it over and over.

As she was escorted to the patrol, threats of violence were made by an angry and rapidly increasing crowd. The police took her to the police station where she was said to have made a complete confession to county attorney O'Brien of the causes leading up to the shooting.

That the woman had charged Father Jajeski with being the father of her child was related after the shooting by John A. Jajeski, a nephew of the murdered man and auditor of the Mercantile State Bank of Minneapolis.

"Four years ago in Minneapolis the matter was threshed out in court," he said.

"The woman lost the case. Two years ago she threw pepper in his eyes. Since then she had repeatedly threatened to kill him.

"On one occasion she came to his residence with a baby in her arms. She was denied admission and police called. Before they arrived she had gone. What she planned to do then we do not know. My uncle believed she was demented."

Before Coroner Jones arrived at the church hundreds of members of the parish and residents of the neighborhood flocked into the building. Police kept them moving. When the Coroner arrived the doors were locked and men and women collected in groups on the street.

FATHER JAJESKI'S WORK.

Father Jajeski played an important part in the founding of St. Casimir's parish twenty-four years ago. After leaving the parish he served twenty years as pastor of the Church of the Holy Cross of Minneapolis.

Two years ago he was transferred back to St. Casimir's and has served here since. Weeping men and women testified to the high regard in which he was held by his St. Paul parishioners.

According to Minneapolis police Mrs. Amelia Dudek, whose husband is a laborer, left her home at No. 32 Twenty Second avenue Northeast, Minneapolis, with $4.50 in her possession. With this she purchased a .32 caliber revolver and a box of cartridges. This left her with only sufficient car fare to reach St. Paul. She took a 5 p.m. car for St. Paul. She reached the church nearly two hours later, evidently having waited some place for a favorable moment to approach the priest.

She is said to have ten children. Police Surgeon Dohm, after an investigation, said in his opinion she was insane.

REPUBLIC'S END CAUSE OF MIRTH.

CHINESE MONARCHISTS TREAT SUBJECT WITH HUHOROUS CHAF

Papers in Peking Announce "He" Died of a Bad Cold Despite Efforts of Europe's Famous Physicians, the Stamping of Feet and the Shouting of Complaints.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PEKING, Dec. 25.—Chinese monarchists are treating the passing of the republic as a subject for humorous chaff. Editorials, poems and songs discussing the republic lightly are now the order of the day.

The following article from the Shun Tien Shih Pao of Peking is typical of the attitude of the monarchists toward what they regard as the defunct republic: "We, the undutiful sons of Han, Man, Meng, Hui and Tsang, beg to announce to the public that instead of ourselves being destroyed and annihilated for our own sins and wickedness, our father, Mr. Kuang Ho, alias Min Kuo (republic,) has met with a tragic end. Our father was born on the first day of the first month of the Gregorian year 1912. He was known to be in excellent health, but unfortunately in the summer of this year he was suddenly attacked by a bad cold, which led to the fatal illness. Renowned Chinese doctors, as well as medical experts of Japan, Great Britain, Russia, France and Italy, were instantly consulted—American experts refusing to co-operate—but neither injections nor prescriptions of these doctors did him any good. His illness continued to develop, and on the eleventh day of the twelfth month he showed signs of dissolution and suddenly succumbed. He passed away at 10 p.m. on the twelfth day. He closed his earthly career and went to sleep at the mature age of 4.

"We, undutiful sons, who failed to give proper treatment to our deceased father, have drawn upon our family a great calamity, and we have stamped the ground with our feet and shouted our complaints to heaven in vain. Indeed, it is now impossible to bring back our father even though we are willing to sacrifice our lives a hundred fold for him. As soon as his death took place, we bound him up properly and deposited his remains in a coffin, and then wore badges of mourning. We hereby announce that on the 13th inst. the 'tablet' of our late father was placed in a shrine; on the 18th inst. a funeral service will be held, and on the 19th at 8 a.m. the final interment will take place.

"We, the undutiful sons, beg to say that we shall be grateful if the remains of our late father will be honored by the presence of officials, gentry, scholars, merchants and military men. We make the above announcement with deep sorrow.

"People of Han, Man, Meng, Hui and Tsang:

"Undutiful sons of Mr. Kung Ho, shed our tears of blood and knock our heads on the ground."

VERDICT IS READY IN CODE-BOOK CASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Verdict of the court-martial in the case of Ensign Robert D. Kirkpatrick, charged with Lieut. Herbert A. Jones with responsibility for the loss of the battle signal code book from the destroyer Hull at San Francisco, reached the Navy Department this morning. Until reviewed by Capt. McLean, Judge Advocate-General, and submitted with his recommendations to Secretary Daniels, it will be kept secret. Lieut. Jones has not been tried yet.

PREVALENCE OF SLANG.

If the People Make the Language and it is Therefore Good, its Modernizing is all Right.

[Perth (N. B.) News:] This is the season for the opening of schools and colleges, and for that reason a humble plea for the English language may not be out of place. We make it shrinkingly, and with deferential regard to the profounder teachings of Prof. Brander Matthews, the Yankee educationalist, who proclaims the grand principle that "everything goes." According to this distinguished authority, language is made of the people, by the people and for the people, and hence what the people say is good and should therefore be admitted to academic society.

At this time the people call a man a "guy," a woman a "skirt," and a dog a "mut." Other samples of the speech of the people are not essential. The truth is that few can say anything in the old-fashioned direct way. All have become so accustomed to the use of slang that the common speech is no longer common; it is become a curiosity, relegated to the obscure haunts of the "high brows" and treated with scorn by the workers of the world. While this undoubtedly gives much joy to Prof. Brander Matthews, it saddens some old fogies, who mourn the ways of speaking as they mourn the decadence of earlier and better manners. Perhaps the two were unrelated, but they were at least companions.

It is not probable that if the young ceased to call the elders "old guys" or "geezers," to refer to other people's mothers as "skirts" or "rags" and generally began to lift their terminology toward levels of a decorum less figurative, if more possible, they might also improve their manners? At any rate is there any overwhelming reason why the youth of this time should be almost wholly unacquainted with the plain English tongue and unable to say the simplest thing except in slang? It is a matter worthy of the consideration of those teachers and professors who may perhaps not agree with the Columbia sage that "everything goes."

Conspiracy.

BOPP AND ASSOCIATES ARE INDICTED AGAIN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—New indictments charging a conspiracy to conduct a military enterprise against the King of Great Britain, plotted in San Francisco, were returned today by the Federal grand jury against Franz Bopp, German Consul-General here, and six others as a substitute for a similar indictment rendered invalid last night, when Judge Maurice T. Dooling in the United States District Court sustained demurrers against it.

The indictment, it was said, covered the same ground as the one for which it was substituted, but was changed in its phrasing to conform to the defendant's objections that the charges were not specific. The former indictment charged a conspiracy to conduct a military expedition against Canada from within the United States.

The Federal grand jury was discharged immediately after returning the new indictment. It was to have been relieved yesterday, but was held to consider the new charges. If it had been necessary to seek the indictment before another grand jury it would have been necessary to recall all witnesses and review the entire case.

Along with Bopp were indicted Baron E. H. von Schack, Vice Consul-General; Baron George Wilhelm von Brincken, attache; Charles C. Crowley, a detective employed by the consulate, Mrs. Margaret W. Cornell, Crowley's assistant; Louis J. Smith, who aided the government in the case, and J. H. Van Koolbergen, said to be in a Canadian prison.

SEAMEN'S ACT APPLIES TO ALL FOREIGN VESSELS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The La Follette Seamen's Act, in so far as it applies to foreign vessels, went into operation today, one year after its passage. Provisions applying to American ships have been operative for four months.

Under the law foreign sea captains in American ports are prohibited from paying advance wages to seamen engaged and they must pay seamen half wages at every port if demanded, not oftener than five days. The law prescribes a language test for seamen of vessels of all nations and sets qualifications for rating men as able seamen.

Provisions of the act applying to life-saving equipment are inoperative so far as foreign vessels are concerned under a ruling of the Attorney-General, who held that it conflicts with a United States statute exempting from American inspection laws ships of foreign countries whose inspection laws approximate those of the United States. Inspection laws of most foreign countries, it is held, are little different from American laws.

Although the law sets a rating for able-bodied seamen aboard foreign vessels and prescribes the percentage of able-bodied seamen necessary to man a vessel, a ruling by the United States Bureau of Navigation declares able-bodied seamen aboard foreign ships will not be required to carry certificates as such. A collector of customs, however, on his own initiative, or on sworn information of a United States citizen, may have a foreign crew mustered for the able-bodied seamen test.

The language test, under a Bureau of Navigation ruling, does not require that any particular language be spoken, but that 75 per cent. of the crew of any vessel must be able to understand necessary orders given by officers to members of crews in each department of the vessel.

OAKLAND MAN, ARRESTED, FATALLY SHOOTS OFFICER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, March 4. — While walking along Twelfth street, under arerst here tonight, an unidentified man, believed to be a footpad, surreptitiously drew a revolver from his hip pocket and by reaching around behind him shot and fatally wounded his captor, Robert F. Gushe, a patrolman.

He then ran, turning to fire three or four times more at Gushe, who, before he fell, fired at the fugitive, and, after he fell, sent three other shots after him.

John Schwab, a butcher, dashed out of his shop near by and seized the fallen officer's revolver. He gave chase to the fleeing man and fired twice at him. Apparently unhit the fugitive made his escape, losing himself in the Saturday night crowds on the street.

Gushe died while being taken to a hospital.

When Gushe made the arrest he was heard to say, "You are wanted." The patrolman and his prisoner then started off together. They had gone only a few yards before the man pulled out his pistol and began firing.

AIMS OF RUMANIANS DEFINITELY STATED.

"We Would Fight Germany with Regret, Austria with Indifference and Hungary with the Keenest Satisfaction," Declares M. Filipesco, Leader of the Conservatives and Former Minister of War.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BUCHAREST (via Berlin) March 3 (via London, March 4, 9 p.m.)—"We would fight Germany with regret; Austria with indifference and Hungary with the keenest satisfaction," said M. Filipesco, leader of the Rumanian Conservatives and former Minister of War, to the corresponden of the Associated Press today.

He expressed the opinion that there is no ill feeling against Germany and that Austria is disliked solely because it is linked with the Hungarians, who are hated on account of the alleged ill treatment of the Rumanians living in Transylvania and Banat.

According to the Rumanian press there are several factors which make for the continued neutrality of the country. These are, first, that the Teutonic sympathizers are better organized than the followers of the Entente and, secondly, the long duration of the war has created public apathy. Another deterrent factor has been expense of mobilization and the later demobilization of nearly the entire army. The cost of living also has increased, some articles having risen in price more than they have in the central power countries.

The correspondent observed improvement in the morale and appearance of the Rumanian army. The gaudy uniforms of the officers have been replaced by uniforms of a field gray color. The privates also are well clothed and present a good appearance. Public opinion concerning the quality of the army is divergent. In some circles it is claimed the army contains excellent material which might develop into a fighting machine of substantial merits. The soldiers appear to be capable of great endurance. The officers, except those of the artillery who were trained under German influence, are friendly to the Entente allies.

The work of fortifying the frontier has been pushed vigorously for several months. No important point has been neglected. Much work has been done at Predeal and Palanka, where an invasion of Rumania might be attempted or the Rumanian army might try to invade Hungary.

FAILURE OF THE FRENCH TO RETAKE DOUAUMONT.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, March 4 (via London, 3:39 p.m.)—"The enemy was repulsed in an effort to retake Douaumont," the War Office announced today.

It was announced also that the booty taken by the Germans since February 22 had increased to 115 guns and 161 machine guns.

The text of the statement follows:

"Western theater: The fighting southeast of Ypres has for the time being come to a standstill. The position held by us prior to February 14 is firmly in our hands and the bastion is in the hands of the enemy.

"Lively artillery engagements in the Champagne continued throughout yesterday. In the Argonne an enemy attack failed.

"On both sides of the Meuse the French increased the activity of their artillery and after a great increase in the volume of their fire they attacked the village of Douaumont and our lines adjoining it. They were repulsed partly in close-range fighting and sustained heavy losses. We took more than 1000 unwounded prisoners.

"After the work of clearing the battlefield it has been ascertained that the booty taken since February 22 has been increased from 37 guns and 75 machine guns to 115 guns and 161 machine guns.

"Near Obersept, northwest of Pfirt, the enemy attempted in vain to recapture the position taken by us February 13. His first attack succeeded partly in reaching our trenches from which, however, he immediately was ejected by a counter-attack.

"Our curtain of fire prevented a repetition of the attack from developing except in some places.

"The enemy after suffering losses consisting of a great number of killed and eighty prisoners, was compelled to retreat to his former position.

"Eastern theater: In a small engagement near Aissewitschi, eight miles northeast of Baranovichi, the Russians were driven out of their positions."

PUT ON UNION PAYROLL FOR SHOOTING A GUARD.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—William Sherwood, arrested for the shooting of Bennie Weinstein, a guard employed by I. Kaplan & Sons, shirtwaist manufacturers, confessed today, according to the police, that he was employed to do the shooting by a shirtwaist makers' union, the members of which are now on strike.

Inspector Gray, head of the detective bureau, says that Sherwood stated that he was offered a "contract" by the union under which he was to receive $100 and to be put on the pay roll at $25 a week in return for his services in "shooting up" the Kaplan guard.

Weinstein and seven other guards were escorting 100 girls to the Kaplan factory yesterday when four men opened fire upon them. Weinstein was shot in the back and is in a serious condition.

Officials of the United Garment Workers later denied any part in the alleged hiring of Sherwood and others to "shoot up" or intimidate guards employed by the manufacturers.

Abraham I. Shiplacoff, Socialist member of the New York State Assembly, was arrested tonight on the charge of interfering with detectives on their way to a police station with four striking shirt makers charged with disorderly conduct.

Three thousand additional workers, it was announced by union officials, joined the strike of the custom tailors during the day. The total number now on strike is said to be more than 16,000.

Announcement also was made that the strike of the Misses' and Children's Dressmakers' Union, which began five weeks ago, had been settled, the manufacturers acceding to demands for better working conditions and higher wages.

Assemblyman Shiplacoff later was released by the magistrate before whom he was arraigned on the ground that there was reasonable doubt as to his guilt.

OUR ARMY IS AMERICAN.

The Flag, the Army of Reserves, all who Serve for Three Months, have no Use for Hyphens.

[Chicago Post:] There are no hyphens in the United States regular army. There will be no hyphens in the United States reserve army. Soldiers do not have to go to target practice to get the hyphens shot out of them. They drop them before they have been in the ranks a week. The flag is American, and so is the man who stands under it and salutes it.

An army of reserves will make for Americanism. A soldier quickly learns to love the colors. They become to him the sign of all things worthy. The spirit of the army is against everything that is not American. Patriotism is taught in the service as it is not taught elsewhere, and yet there is no preaching done.

No man, no matter where he comes from, can go on day after day with the Stars and Stripes as the center of all things without getting devotion into his being. Three months in the regular army and, we believe, three months in the reserve army that is to be, will make an abiding American out of anyone.

What does service for the flag do? A large percentage of the graduates of West Point of southern birth stayed loyal to the Union in the days of civil conflict. In the army, man does not serve man; he serves the flag. He learns to love it, and love and loyalty are one.

ORGANIZED LABOR AND WAR.

The Situation in England Should Not be Disregarded Here.

[American Industries:] The opposition of trade unions in England to conscription, and their unpatriotic attitude toward increasing production in shops manufacturing munitions, is reflected in the United States in the recent announcement of the American Federation of Labor, condemning the idea of a large standing army.

The labor federation says that it approves the Dick Military Act of 1905 which was largely devoted to strengthening the organized militia, and adds that its American concept is the maintenance of a large skeleton army to which men may be quickly added when there is danger to the country.

Notwithstanding this glittering array of words, organized labor in the United States has been bitterly opposed to the organized militia for years. It has conducted a campaign of vituperation against State troops which has greatly retarded the development of the militia, and fine words will not alter this fact.

What its atitude would be in time of war may be inferred from its attitude in time of peace. Union rules and regulations are given first consideration above the safety of the nation. The situation in England should not be regarded lightly in this country. Closed shop rules excluding nonunion labor from work in munitions factories operated to greatly reduce the production of ammunition in Great Britain. Appeals upon patriotic grounds to suspend such rules were met with sneers and laughter, and while British soldiers died in Flanders British trade unionism waxed fat in England. Unionists would not recede from their hard and fast doctrine that the highest wages must be paid, and that production must be at a minimum in order that more unionists might be employed.

Such a condition would, of course, have been impossible had it not been for the influence of the labor party, and the timidity of politicians who hesitated to antagonize the labor vote. Would such a condition be possible in the United States?

War alone can answer the question, but this is certain that the stronger the labor propaganda against the National Guard becomes, and the louder the voice of unionists in the nation's affairs, the weaker the country will be in time of war. Republics are proverbially unprepared to meet crises, and if to unpreparedness be added an element making quick preparation impossible, it is not difficult to foresee the result.

THE POTASH RELIEF.

Domestic Methods may Permanently Break the German Monopoly.

[New York Sun:] If Americans have devised methods to supply potash to this country from domestic sources, that fact is of greater moment than the relief afforded in the present situation indicates. The permanent effects of escape from the German monopoly are bound to be of far-reaching consequence after the war is over and normal trade is resumed.

Of all trusts, the German combination controlling potash has been one of a few conspicuously successful in controlling their product and imposing terms on their customers. How complete its mastery of the market was the outbreak of war in Europe and subsequent shutting off of exports from Germany revealed. All trades depending on potash were hampered, and the farming industry of the United States received a serious blow, despite the unquestioned resources of this country.

The potash industry, once established here, would not be allowed to die. War or peace, it would be continued as an assurance of our commercial independence of any foreign country.

WATCHMAN'S SHOT STRIKES A CHILD.

DOCTORS SAY SPECIAL DEPUTY CONSTABLE WAS DRUNK.

Rebounding Bullet Slightly Injures Daughter of Real Estate Man While Group Stands Before Home—Aimed at Fleeing Prowler, Defense for Deed.

Martha Marsh, the 11-year-old daughter of Robert Marsh of Robert Marsh & Co., was shot and slightly injured as she stood in front of her home at No. 1110 Third avenue early last night. The shot was fired by Thomas McDermott, a night watchman. He was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Haver and held at Central Police Station.

The bullet, according to Mr. Marsh, struck his daughter in the chest, just broke the skin and then fell to the sidewalk at her feet. Carrying the little girl into the house, Mr. Marsh called for the police. Officer Haver answered the call and found McDermott, who was armed and had a special deputy constable's star.

Taken to the Receiving Hospital, McDermott was declared intoxicated and locked in the City Jail after he had made a long statement to the police. He did not deny the shooting, but declared that he did not shoot at the girl. He will be taken into court today.

According to the prisoner, he is in the employ of the Parker Plumbing Company and was watching a vacant house across the street from Mr. Marsh's residence. He declared that a short time ago someone entered the vacant house and stole a large amount of lead. Last night, just before dark, he stated, he saw someone prowling about the place and called to the man to halt. Then he fired.

The shot, the police believe, hit a wall and then glanced across the street, striking the little girl.

Mr. Marsh in his statement to Officer Haver declared he was standing with his daughter talking to some friends in front of his home and that McDermott, who was standing across the street, fired in their direction.

BANKRUPTCY PETITION.

The Long Beach Fertilizer Company filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court, yesterday. The liabilities of the concern are given as $14,271.53, of which $13,836.53 are unsecured debts. The assets are scheduled as $15,392.80, of which $3200 is the alleged value of the real estate and $10,070.84 the value of the machinery, tools, etc. The largest individual creditor is the Exchange National Bank of Long Beach, with a credit of $6000.

THE TAX ON THRIFT.

Great Britain Only Overlooks Incomes of the Very Poor.

[Washington Post:] The total number of income taxpayers in Great Britain has been estimated as being slightly under 1,000,000, many working men escaping payment of the tax because of the difficulty of obtaining an accurate record of individual earnings.

In 1914 there were 709,356 assessments on individuals with incomes between $780 and $48,665 a year, together with 390 whose incomes exceeded the latter figure.

There were more than 250,000 assessments upon persons whose incomes ranged from $780 to $975. Thus Great Britain exempts merely those who might be described as "the poor."

In the United States, however, because of the obvious political motive, the great bulk of the population, comprising all those who earn under $3000 a year, have been exempted. Out of a population of 100,000,000 only 357,515 persons in the United States have been taxed to raise the $85,000,000 or $90,000,000 which the law is now bringing into the treasury. Even were the exemption lowered to include salaries of more than $2000 a year, the mass of the people still would be exempted.

The Constitution of the United States had to be amended to permit this form of taxation, but there still can be no doubt that it is in the nature of class legislation, putting a burden upon the thrifty for the benefit of those who are unsuccessful, some of them through no fault of their own, but many others through sheer shiftlessness.

All the people of the United States get the benefit of government. For their own sake, so that they may have a greater share and take a greater interest in government, each should pay some proportion of the government's expenditures except in such cases of poverty as are clearly entitled to exemption.

ORIENT AND OCCIDENT.

Big Ball at Santa Monica Brings Together Noted Persons as Guests.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, March 4.—Orient and Occident were commingled tonight at the oriental costumes ball given at the New Windermere Hotel to mark the beginning of a series of brilliant social affairs that are to be held here during the spring and summer.

Attired in costumes of the Orient, people of the Occident, from New York to San Diego, contributed to the gayety of the evening, adding the luster of a brilliantly-lighted and beautifully-decorated lobby, ballroom and grill to a profusion of oriental costumes, all of which fittingly revives the former gayety of the Santa Monica social set.

Those who were not attired in costumes of the Far East were resplendent in fashion's latest, typical of the Los Angeles fashion show.

Many of Pasadena's elite were invited to attend the ball, about 800 being present. Mrs. Rosamond Borde was the hostess of the evening. Miss Eliza Randolph, with her young pupils, gave an oriental dance and posings. After this they were pelted with confetti and the dancing began.

TWO FRENCH CRUISERS SUNK BY SUBMARINES

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

[The official announcement by the German Admiralty concerning the sinking of French cruisers as received from Berlin by way of Tuckerton differs somewhat from that received by way of Sayville in day report.—Ed.]

BERLIN, March 4. (via Tuckerton, N. J.)—The German Admiralty reports that on March 1 German submarines sank off Havre two French auxiliary cruisers, each armed with four cannon and one British patrol boat at the mouth of the Thames.

The French man of war sunk on February 8 off the Syrian coast was not the Suffren, the statement continues, but the armored cruiser Admiral Charner, as reported by the returned submarine.

The loss of the Admiral Charner confirmed on February 14 by informa- tion received by the French Minis of Marine. A sailor picked up off Coast of Syria reported that the ship had been torpedoed. Later was announced from Rome that report of the commander of the sub- marine would be awaited before definite statement was made whether the warship sunk was the Suffren the Admiral Charner.

WINNING WAYS WIN HUSBAND.

Charming Kentucky Society Girl Heroine of Romance.

Knights of Rose Tournament to Decide its Fate.

Noted New York Surgeon Weds Popular Girl.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, March 5. — News of the engagement of Mrs. Garnet Buckner Martin, sister of Mrs. J. N. Burns of Oak Knoll and Montecito and a society belle of Paducah, Ky., and Joseph McManus, Jr., of No. 745 East California street, who has been lionized by the fashionable Oak Knoll set because of his charm and his ability as a musical composer, will cause no end of a ripple in Pasadena society today.

The utmost secrecy was maintained throughout their courtship, so that relatives even were surprised when let into the secret a few days ago. The formal announcement was made at a charming tea, given by Mrs. Burns at her Montecito estate yesterday.

Back of the announcement is a pretty and unique little story of love at first sight. Mrs. Martin, who is a typical southern girl, was asked to sing at a Red Cross charity function and chose for her principal song "Why Winnie Went to War to be a Nurse"—words and music by Mr. Joseph McManus. She had no one to play her accompaniament, so Mrs. J. L. Krebs, a member of the Committee on Arrangements, suggested that she send for Mr. McManus to play.

Mr. McManus responded to her invitation, was introduced to the attractive little widow and fell in love on the spot and could hardly tear himself away after she sang his song. She was interested, and with music as the bond between them it was not long before she reciprocated and promised to become his bride.

Mrs. Martin has refused flattering offers to become a concert singer, saying that the only career she chooses is that of "wife" to "the man," whose songs have won her. At the Red Cross function she looked fetching in her Red Cross nurse's uniform while she sang:

"Winnie was demure and coy;
Oh, oh, no! not she;
But she'd deny she'd cast a glance
On Mas-cu-lin-ity?"

Mrs. Martin's father was the head of one of the largest tobacco houses in Kentucky. She is a member of the Buckner family, one of the most notable in the South and one which has played an important part in making history there.

No date for the wedding has been set, but Mr. McManus is already making plans to build a house in Montecito, which she loves so well, for Mrs. McManus-to-be. Since her arrival here, Mrs. Martin has taken Pasadena by storm, no end of social functions having been given for her.

LAST TOURNAMENT?

When Pasadenans braved the chill rain to witness the Tournament of Roses parade held at Tournament Park on New Year's Day, they saw perhaps the last Tournament of Roses fiesta which will ever be held here, unless more interest in shown in the organization than is in evidence. The Knights of the Rose Tournament faced a deficit of nearly $5000 as a result of the last tournament and to meet this deficiency a Spanish fiesta was held by the organization on February 22, which helped to cut the indebtedness down considerably.

A meeting will be held Monday evening at the Hotel Maryland where the future of the organization will be discussed. Frank G. Hogan, liege lord of the knights, has called the meeting and urges that every member be present. Preceding the business meeting a dinner will be held in the grill at 6:30 o'clock.

The meeting is for the purpose of determining whether or not the Knights of the Rose Tournament shall continue or be given up on account of lack of interest. The Knights have formed for many years the leading organization of the city and their annual festival was considered in the light of a yearly celebration by Southern California. Many people will hate to see it die, but a large number of them predicted that the affair on New Year's Day would mark the last.

PRETTY WEDDING.

Although the appointments were simple, the wedding of Miss Gladys Waterman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Waterman, of Mar Vista avenue, Altadena, and Dr. F. Macbeth Ende, a young surgeon of New York City, which was solemnized in All Saints' Episcopal Church at noon yesterday, was one of the prettiest and certainly one of the most interesting that have occurred in Pasadena this season.

The lovely young bride was attended by her sister, Miss Evelyn Waterman, and her brother, Crawford Waterman, was best man. Dr. Leslie E. Learned, rector of the church, officiated. The bride is one of the most popular girls in the Crown City and has been a notable figure in philanthropic work as well as in society. She was on the committee which planned the recent [illegible] Charity Ball.

The wedding yesterday was the culmination of a romance began a year ago when she was visiting in New York. She met Dr. Ende at a dinner party and sat next to him. She was his dinner partner but they became so interested in one another that before she left New York, two months later, they were engaged and she had promised to become his bride before another year rolled around. They will make their home in New York City.

CITY BRIEFS.

Hale Holden, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad arrived in Pasadena yesterday from Chicago and is stopping with Mr. and Mrs. John McWilliams at No. 625 [illegible] street. He is accompanied by Mrs. Holden and Mr. and Mrs. [illegible], who went to Hotel [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard arrived in Pasadena yesterday in their private car and with their party domiciled at the Hotel Huntington where they are keeping very quiet. Mr. Shepard, however, spent a good deal of the afternoon on the links, but Mrs. Shepard, who was formerly Miss Helen Gould, eldest daughter of Jay Gould, remained in her apartments except when she went for a short automobile ride.

Musical romance.

Mrs. Garnet Martin and Joseph McManus, Jr., whose love affair began in Pasadena and whose engagement was announced at Montecito yesterday.

It is a fact that no shop or jewelry store in the West carries as fine an assortment of mounted and unmounted semiprecious stones as Grace Nicholson's Treasure House of oriental and western art on Los Robles avenue, opposite Hotel Maryland. Frank Simpson, Jr., commander of the aeronautical section of the Naval Militia in Los Angeles, received notice yesterday of his appointment as the Southern California representative of the Aero Club of America, to succeed H. L. Twining, who has held the position several years. It will be Mr. Simpson's duty to observe flights of aviators who seek to establish records in this State.

Glenn Martin, the local aviator, announced yesterday that twenty-five members of the Naval Militia will have their first field work next Sunday morning at Griffith Park. Corp. Albert Smith of the United States Army Signal Corps, who is stationed at San Diego, obtained a three months' furlough yesterday to join Mr. Martin's school as an instructor. Mr. Smith will be one of the speakers next Thursday night at a meeting of the Naval Militia at the Armory.

FISH ARE NEAR SIGHTED.

When Swimming Their Eyes are Focused for Distant Vision.

[London Tit-Bits:] In the effort to discover why fishes are so near-sighted, scientists have been making some remarkable experimental studies of their eyes. One of the many interesting facts which these studies revealed was that fishes eyes, comparted with human eyes, and relatively large. The length of the eye of a fish is ordinarily about one-twentieth of its length, while the length of the eyeball of a man is from a sixtieth to a seventieth of his height.

The eyes of fishes are in constant use except when they are asleep. Most fishes have no eyelids, their eyes being protected from injury by a shiny material or by a thick, transparent skin. The puffer, or swellfish, which habitually burrows in sand at the bottom of the water, has eyelids which cover the eyeballs when closed, the lower eyelid being larger than the upper.

In the experimental work the eyes of normal fishes were first examined with the retinoscope, then by electrical stimulation the focus was changed from distant to near objects.

It was found that, contrary to statements sometimes made, the eyes of fishes when swimming were focused for distant vision. Fishes are able to focus their eyes on near objects—as close as four inches—by the action of the superior and inferior oblique muscles; they have no ciliary muscles. It was found possible by operation on the oblique muscles to make the fish near-sighted, far-sighted or astigmatic.

HOPE TO SAVE BIG PAY ROLLS.

Long Beach Plans to Release Bonds for Repairs.

Silt in Harbor to be Dredged Out by the City.

Campaign Started to Abolish School Folk Dances.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, March 4. — "Save the pay rolls of the hundreds of men and women employed in the industrial district" is the slogan that has been adopted by Long Beach boost bodies in their campaign to create sentiment in favor of authorizing the release of $50,000 in harbor bonds for the immediate dredging of the silt-clogged channel that is holding up the operation of many industries and keeping in the offing many ships with heavy lumber cargoes consigned to this port.

That the City Commissioners should immediately appropriate an emergency fund to clear the waterway was the unanimous opinion of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, called together today for the express purpose of considering the momentous question.

Every director of the civic organization was present at the meeting, with the exception of Frank C. Roberts. When a rising vote was called to determine the attitude of the directors in regard to releasing the bonds everyone stood up.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce also decided to take it upon themselves to see that the city would be well represented at the big mass meeting to be held in the municipal auditorium Monday, March 6, when the issue will be put squarely before the people.

The City Commissioners have the power to release the bonds or any part of them for harbor work at any time they choose to do so, but the solons desire to secure an expression from the citizens of the city generally before they take action.

OBJECT TO DANCING.

A campaign for the abolition of folk dancing in the public schools has been launched by the W.C.T.U. The members of the local purity organization look with disfavor upon the Terpsichorean steps practiced by the youths and maidens in the Long Beach public schools, it was learned today, when Mrs. C. C. McCullum, in charge of the committee appointed to investigate the school dancing, announced that tomorrow fifteen petitions would be distributed among the churches of the city for signatures.

The petitions will be presented to the Board of Education at its next regular meeting. It will be requested that the board cut from the school curriculum all dancing, including the folk dancing practiced by the school children at the May festivals of the past two years.

Although the backers of the movement to secure the lid put on the school dancing believe they can get from 1500 to 2000 persons to sign the petitions Sunday, the action of the committee in crusading to abolish the steps from the grammar school course did not meet with unanimous approval of the W.C.T.U., it developed this afternoon. A number of women, among them Mrs. I. S. Hatch, president of the local organization, declared themselves not in accord with the movement at this time.

DRAINAGE PLANS.

Active and immediate steps to drain the large area in the vicinity of Signal Hill that is declared to be a serious menace to health because of the stagnant pools that afford a breeding place for mosquitoes and other germ-bearing insects was urged today in a resolution drawn up and addressed to the residents of the Signal Hill district and Long Beach public in general by the Long Beach branch of the County Medical Society.

The board protested against the continued presence of the stagnant pools and suggested the pumping of the water into the harbor as a temporary relief from the health menace, until a permanent plan of drainage can be put into effect.

SOUTHERN CROP REPORTS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BANNING, March 4.—That the apricot growers of the State must organize and enter an advertising camjaign for the forming of more markets for the dried fruit and also increase the consumption of this article of food, is the belief of the growers of this section. All realize that something must be done to counteract the poor market caused by the European war. Robert E. Harrington, one of the prominent growers of the fruit, says that the war has seriously interfered with the apricot market.

"Europe formerly took about three-fourths of the dried apricots produced in California," said the expert. "Germany was the heaviest buyer. When the war ends it will be many years before Europe will take many dried apricots for they are costly to produce and necessarily sell for a higher price than other food products.

A large part of the dried apricots during the past season were sold for less than the cost of production. The condition is more serious because of the rapid increase in production and because no concerted effort has been made to increase the consumption."

STATE CITRUS CONTROL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, March 4.—Acting in conformity with the resolutions adopted at the State Fruit Growers' convention, held in conjunction with the National Orange Show in San Bernardino, Harris Weinstock, State Commission Market Director, has appointed a committee to confer with the State officials with regard to State control of the citrus output.

On this committee have been named: P. F. Cogswell of El Monte, A. Gregory of Redlands, C. C. Chapman of Santa Paula, E. M. Lyons of Redlands, P. J. Dreher of Pomona, and W. E. Sprott of this city.

The committee members are urged to arrange at the earliest possible date for a meeting, at which it is proposed to outline preliminary plans of work for submission to the orchard men of the State.

MELILOTUS CLOVER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YUCAIPA, March 4.—Experiments have been conducted here during the winter in growing melilotus clover as a cover crop without irrigation. It has been fairly successful and the valley believe that better results will be secured in the orchards when the conditions are better understood than they are now.

P. B. Hasbrouck, one of the well known orchardists here, has a good example of clover grown without irrigation near his residence. This lot was manured about a year ago and it is believed was well suited to the clover. In this lot the clover has attained a growth of three or four inches and is as thick as white clover in a lawn. This was sown late in October and has had no water except the rainfall of the valley.

TO PAY BEET BONUS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CHINO, March 4.—The beet growers of this district are $20,000 ahead because the wholesale price of sugar during the past seven months has not dropped below four cents. The fourth day of March the American Beet Sugar Company's office at this place is going to pay each grower a bonus of 50 cents per ton on last year's beets, because the price of sugar has been strong and steady.

It was agreed in the contracts that the company would pay the growers $4.50 per ton for all beets delivered and give them a bonus of 50 cents per ton July 1, in case sugar stayed above 4 cents. Because the recent storms damaged the ranches to some extent and caused the beet growers needless expense, the company will distribute the bonus four months earlier than was specified in the contracts.

BIG ALFALFA DEAL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HEMET, March 4. — One of the largest deals in alfalfa hay ever made in this section has just been completed. All of the enormous crop of hay from the Charnock ranch has been sold to Los Angeles parties at an attractive figure. The last sale, just completed, consisted of 1000 tons of alfalfa hay, which has been stored on the ranch for several months. It is believed to be the largest single transaction of the kind ever made in the county.

The ranch sold 600 tons of hay several months ago. C. H. Tyler, manager of the ranch, plans to ship about three cars of hay each week until the entire 1000 tons are moved. The purchase price ran well into five figures.

CANNERY OLIVES.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PORTERVILLE, March 4.—Porterville cannery olives, produced in the Tulare-county orchard belt, recently sold in Chicago in competition with three well-known and established brands at 50 cents a dozen higher than quoted by other contenders for the business.

On the basis of quality alone at the higher figure the Tulare County Growers' Association closed a contract with an eastern broker for the entire cannery output of the extra large fancy brand of fruit. Demand for high-grade ripe olives is increasing, according to Manager R. A. Powell, and prospects are for a fine business during the coming spring and summer.

San Bernardino and Nevada Officials Off on Trip Over All-the-year Highway Between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles Termini.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BARSTOW, March 4.—L. C. Lathrop, County Road Commissioner of San Bernardino county, left Barstow this morning with George A. Fayle, County Supervisor of Good Springs, Nev., in a machine to go over the old Mormon Trails route, the direct, "all-the-year" highway between Salt Lake City and Los Angeles.

Utah has built 400 miles and Nevada a like amount and Mr. Fayle says they will build to Silver Lake, in San Bernardino county, and this county to build from Silver Lake to Barstow, connecting with the National Old Trails highway.

Commissioner Lathrop is going over the line today with a view of submitting a report and recomendation to the County Supervisors.

This road will connect at Salt Lake with the Lincoln highway, and offers the best route to California, with low grades open all the year.

Branches will be built to the Grand Canyon and other points of interest, and will be of much benefit to Los Angeles and all Southern California.

BUSY MAN'S BUSY DAY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, March 4.—This has been a busy day for the busiest man in Alhambra—Charles E. Hewes, City Manager and City Engineer. The two offices were combined a week ago, but not until today was Mr. Hewes able to find an opportunity to assemble the physical equipment of the two departments in his new headquarters in the City Hall.

Mr. Hewes has supervision of all of the branches of the city government, including the street, building inspectors, plumbing and electrical inspector's and police departments and the City Treasurer's office. Also he is purchasing agent, and it is up to him to see that the ordinances are enforced.

After the commission form of government was adopted Mr. Hewes was placed at the head of the municipal machinery and requested by the city fathers to operate on an efficient and economical basis. Under the old plan each department was a law unto itself and purchased its own supplies.

"I find it a complicated task to coordinate the different departments," Mr. Hewes said today, "but I am making progress. It is apparent that the new arrangement will save money for the taxpayers and add to the efficiency of the machinery of government. It will be several weeks before the work of consolidating the departments is completed, but the results will be worth the effort. In the meantime I am very busy."

UNDER SEAMEN'S ACT.

First Foreign Vessel to be Affected is Japanese Steamer Which Entered Harbor Yesterday—Assignment of Wages Applies to Foreign Vessels.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, March 4.—The first foreign vessel to come under the provisions of the Seamen's Act at this port is the Japanese steamer Kuroshime Maru, which sailed tonight for San Francisco after discharging a partial cargo of hardwood loaded at Japanese ports for Mitsui & Co.

Beginning today assignment of wages will apply to foreign as well as American vesels. The act provides that wages must not be paid in advance and that seamen may allow wages to be paid to members of their families while they are on the high seas.

Section 13, which went into effect today, provides that during the first year 40 per cent. of the vessel's deck crew exclusive of licensed officers and apprentices shall be of a rating not less than able seamen. The second year 45 per cent. the third 50 per cent. the fourth 55 per cent. and thereafter 65 per cent. of the deck crew must be able seamen.

This section of the act does not require that able seamen on foreign vessels shall be furnished with certificates as in the case of American vessels, but it does provide that a collector of customs shall cause a muster of the crew to determine this fact upon sworn information from any reputable citizen of the United States that the law is not being complied with.

The Department of Commerce has ruled that certificates issued by competent authorities in foreign countries will be accepted as satisfactory compliance of the law.

ACCUSED OF MURDER.

Wife, Who Once Was Foster Mother of Her Husband, Notified to Look Out for Man Who Deserted Her as He is Wanted For Crime in North.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

COVINA, March 4.—A telegram from Sheriff W. A. Murphy of North Yakima, Wash., was received in Covina this morning by Mrs. Emma Maxfield, an orange grower, stating that David A. Maxfield shot and killed Mrs. Illie Simmons in North Yakima on the night of March 1. In the telegram the Sheriff charges Maxfield with murder, and asks that the man be watched for, as he has disappeared from Washington and is understood to be making his way to Southern California.

David Maxfield, the man accused of the crime, is the adopted son and also the husband of Mrs. Emma Maxfield of Covina. When he was 4 years old he was adopted by Mrs. Maxfield, and when he had arrived at the age of 22 years his foster mother married him. After one child had resulted from the union, Maxfield deserted his home here and until today had not been heard from by any of the local people with whom he grew up in the Covina Valley.

Before Maxfield was adopted by the woman who afterwards married him, his name was Simmons, and it is understood that the women he is alleged to have murdered in North Yakima is the wife of his brother.

The Covina police are on the watch for the possible appearance of Maxfield at his old home here. After receiving the telegram this morning, Mrs. Emma Maxfield left home and the police have not been able to find her today.

Mrs. Maxfield is the owner of twenty-five acres of fine orange orchard in Irwindale, two miles from Covina City. The family has resided in the valley for over a quarter of a century.

EAST BLACK RANGE MINING COMPANY

The organization of this company has just been completed. It owns six claims in one block east of and adjoining the famous Black Range property in the Oatman District of Arizona.

A report on this property by J. Elmer Chute, E. M., of Oatman, formerly of Goldfield, says:

"My examination of this property (referring to the group owned by the East Black Range Co.) was made especially for the purpose of determining if the same great vein system that traverses the Black Range, the Nellie, the Open Syndicate and the Murdock, extended into these claims.

"Being thoroughly familiar with the above mentioned properties, not only on the surface, but underground, I feel fully competent to say that this great vein system enters the west line of the Star No. 1 Claim and continues its course through the Star No. 1 and Star No. 2 claims.

"I am enabled to form this conclusion not only from an inspection of the surface of this vein system, but also from the fact that I have examined and personally know the development being made on the above mentioned well-known property."

The Star No. 1 and Star No. 2 claims are the southernmost claims of the East Black Range Company. This would give the company 3000 feet of the Great Black Range vein system.

A strike in the Black Range property which adjoins the East Black Range, is expected any day, as the cross-cut from the bottom of the 300-foot shaft is nearing the vein, and should it occur, will send all stock in this vicinity to much higher levels.

Application for listing the stock of the East Black Range Mining Company on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange will be made shortly.

Stock is now being sold prior to listing. The first 50,000 shares will be sold at 13½ cents per share, and it is the intention to advance the price materially on future offerings. Orders for stock will be filled in the order received.

GREAT STEEL MILLS TO BE BUILT AT TORRANCE.

Llewellyns Plan to Make Los Angeles Independent of Pittsburgh.

Pioneer Los Angeles Structural Iron Company Announces Immediate Construction of First Half-million-dollar Unit of Mighty Industrial City Plant to Manufacture Every Product of Crude "Pigs"—The Details.

A BIGGER, hidden story within a story that of itself was one of the significant industrial announcements of 1915 is disclosed in the plans of the Llewellyn Iron Works, made public yesterday for the first time for its new and greater plant at Torrance. Certain reasons associated with business negotiations that have only now been consummated made it inadvisable for the Llewellyn interests to make public the real character of the plant which they intended establishing in Torrance when the first news of the project was published in The Times in December. The embargo has just been removed. The dependence of Los Angeles upon Pittsburgh for the steel bars, plates and structural shapes used in modern buildings and for steel products generally has long hampered those engaged in promoting industrial progress hereabouts. Steel plants that should turn out these products at home and a steel industry that should eventually come to be of such proportions as to bring about the development of the known ore resources of Southern California have been their dream ever since Los Angeles emerged out of industrial obscurity a bare decade ago.

The inside story of what the Llewellyn Iron Works really intends doing at Torrance is the answer to the first part of that dream. The $500,000 which this old-time Los Angeles concern has just started out to expend at Torrance is going into a plant the principal feature of which will be a steel rolling mill as modern as any on the continent.

The Llewellyns will not install blast furnaces for converting iron ore into pig iron. The mining of Southern California's iron ores and the introduction of the blast furnace in this section will be another step in the development of the local steel industry. At the start the new Torrance steel plant will get its pig iron [illegible] and from China, drawing also for its raw materials upon the scrap iron from various industries of the Coast. Southern California pig iron is as yet a thing of the future.

EVERYTHING IN STEEL.

Practically everything that is done with pig iron, however, the Llewellyns will do in their Torrance establishment. The Llewellyn Iron Works will remain the Llewellyn Iron Works in name, and, in fact, but upon the completion of its new suburban plant late this summer it will become a steel works as well in every sense of that term. In Los Angeles it will maintain its structural and elevator departments as at present until the steel plant is thoroughly organized. Eventually it is the intention of the management to concentrate its entire activity at Torrance.

The Llewellyn Iron Works will have two gigantic forty-ton steel furnaces of the oil burning type in the first $500,000 unit of its Torrance plant. As the plan unfolds and the project expands others will be installed.

Three steel rolling mills will be installed in the first of its mill buildings. Another mill structure of equal capacity is contemplated for the future. A blooming mill for the shaping of steel "billets" is also in contemplation, the billet being what might be called the "rough lumber" of the steel industry.

The "grey" iron foundry of the present plant on North Main street will be removed to Torrance, where the foundry operations of the concern will hereafter be handled in their entirety. An entirely new steel casting foundry will be added. A pattern shop and a pattern storage building will be two of the important structures of the new group. Still another building will be erected soon for the manufacture of bolts, nuts and rivets. A huge warehouse for the storage of the 300 tons or more of finished products to be manufactured daily at the plant will complete the group.

HUGE MACHINERY.

The introduction of the steel industry on so large a scale will bring to Southern California mechanical appliances of a size never before seen here. A 100-ton scales, the largest ever brought to the Coast, is now being installed on the site. Monster traveling cranes, with bridges of enormous span, will convey the heavy materials used in the different processes. The molten steel will be carried to the ingot molds in ladles of forty tons capacity each. Alligator shears weighing fifty tons each will trim the raw materials into suitable shapes for the furnaces.

The company has a tract of twenty-five acres, all of which will eventually be occupied with buildings, traveling cranes and standard-gauge trackage. Over half of this will be covered by the first unit. The main buildings, furnaces and traveling cranes will be of steel. Two reinforced concrete stacks, each 150 feet in height, will take the smoke and fumes of the open hearth fusing into the upper atmosphere. Three steel chimneys of almost equal height will serve a like purpose for the reheating furnaces in the mill building proper.

All structures, including the cranes, together with one of the rolling mills and the furnaces, are being made in the company's present plant, representing of themselves quite the biggest undertaking of the kind ever attempted by a Southern California concern. The foundations for the various buildings are now being put in.

The process by which the pig iron will be converted at the Llewellyn plant into various steel products will be a most interesting one. Cars of the raw material will be switched onto the property from the east side, passing over the mammoth scales, on which everything will be weighed. Their destination will be the storage yard at the northern edge of the property.

In this yard will be the largest traveling crane in the West, having a span of 100 feet and running along on 400 feet of track thirty feet above the ground. Suspended from its bridge will be a ten-ton hoist traveling from side to side. The lifting power of this hoist will be supplied by a powerful magnet.

This Gargantuan electrical device will pick up the pig iron by the tons and convey it to the open hearth furnaces, the lifting within the building itself being accomplished by a hoist of like capacity running on a crane bridge of sixty-foot span.

The molten metal from the furnaces will be conveyed by a hoist of sixty tons capacity and deposited in ladles, from which it will be poured into ingot moulds. The steel ingots, each seventy-two inches long and ten

TOPHAM REBUKES PROPHET OF OPEN-CUT OPPONENTS.

City Club Greets with Prolonged Applause Statement of Head of Public Works Committee that He Declines to Turn Over Job to Mouthpiece of Bunker Hill Antis.

The strained state of feeling existing between members of the City Council and Marshall Stimson, secretary-attorney of the organization opposing the Bunker Hill open cut and frenzied personal propagandist against that vitally-important public improvement, came to a showdown yesterday at the regular weekly luncheon of the City Club in the Broadway Department Store cafe. Councilman Topham told the 200 men and women present that he had refused to turn over the chairmanship of the Public Works Committee to Mr. Stimson and that he would continue to so refuse until the latter had been duly elected to the office. Applause that continued for several minutes greeted the announcement.

Mr. Stimson, in presenting his side of what had been advertised as a debate between himself and Miles S. Gregory on the subject of the projected open cut, went out of his way

JOSHUA STONE FOUND HERE?

Scientists and Delvers in the Occult Interested in Reported Odd Discovery.

Scientists, students of biblical history and delvers in the occult are greatly interested in the reported discovery by a Mr. Nestor of Hollywood, of a curious stone, which, so the tale alleges, is the original of the Joshua stone referred to as follows in the Book of Zachariah iii, 9.

"For behold the stone I have laid before Joshua; upon one side shall be seven eyes; behold, I will engrave the graving thereof, said the Lord of Hosts and I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day."

Direct word of the supposed discovery has been received by Dr. Hector Alliot, curator of the Southwest Museum, from members of the Protestant British Israel League of London, and from interested persons in Vancouver, Munich and other places. So far, however, Mr. Nestor and the stone have not been located hereabouts.

Can't Stand It.

HALF OF JOB HARRIMAN'S UTOPIAN COLONISTS QUIT.

Ninety-five Paid Stockholders in Llano del Rio Company Pull Out and a Third of These Join in Statement Accusing Management of Deliberate Deception in Sale of Stock in the "Oligarchy of Misrule."

NINETY-FIVE of the paid colonist stockholders—nearly half of the total—in Job Harriman's misfit Utopian socialistic colony, Llano del Rio, Antelope Valley, have openly repudiated his autocratic leadership and have elected to withdraw from the scheme. Their statement is that they proposed to withdraw "as soon as they were afforded some degree of protection against the wrath of Harriman."

In a statement signed by thirty-two of these colonists, filed in the local office of the Commissioner of Corporations yesterday, the scathing findings of the commissioner, published some time ago, are indorsed and hot shot is poured into the Harriman regime and what the signers declare is a "one-man autocracy."

This statement was brought forth by a statement purporting to be from Harriman, published in several of the San Francisco papers, from which the inference has been drawn that it was proposed to further the interests of the Llano del Rio colony through sale of stock of a Nevada corporation, as the report of the commissioner had made it next to impossible to sell the original stock. In this the commissioner laid down rules as to the methods of selling the stock, among which is one to the effect that agents must show to each prospective purchaser the report itself.

The scheme evolved after this staggering setback was to sell the stock of a Nevada corporation and then loan this money to the Llano del Rio corporation. So far as is known, none of this Nevada stock has yet been sold. The Commissioner of Corporations is watching for developments on this line, and if such stock is offered for sale in California the Nevada corporation will have to adhere strictly to the requirements of this State.

"DELIBERATE MISSTATEMENTS."

The statement just issued by the thirty-two stockholders of the Llano del Rio colony declares that deliberate misstatements have been made concerning the report issued by the State Corporation Department, in an evident endeavor to excuse the mismanagement of colony affairs and to confuse the public mind as to the real situation.

The Commissioner of Corporations has acted with great leniency in this entire matter, as he realized that several hundred people have their entire

REVALUATION RAT HOLE YAWNS FOR MORE MONEY

"Officially-Concluded" Survey's End is Not Yet in Sight.

Complicated and Much-patched-up Methods for Getting New Appraisement of All City and County Property for Taxation Purposes Severely Criticised by Realty Experts. Say Work Done Needlessly in Triplicate.

THE work of the Joint Bureau of Appraisal, created last spring by action of the City Council and Board of Supervisors for the purpose of reappraising all property in Los Angeles city and county, was brought officially to a close during the past week. Actually, the end of the reappraisement, on the lines undertaken, is not yet in sight.

Nearly $70,000, or close to $10,000 in excess of the appropriation originally estimated to be sufficient for the project, has been expended in Los Angeles alone, this cost having been equally divided between city and county. In the county the appraisal has covered Santa Monica, Long Beach, Pomona and a few country districts. To finish the county work it is estimated that approximately $20,000 more will have to be appropriated.

Sharp differences of opinion have prevailed all along as to the need of the extra appraisal. These, as the cost has mounted, have been accentuated. The divergence of beliefs as to the value of the results obtained has been even more pronounced.

The disagreement has now spread to the offices of the city and county assessors, the former being skeptical as to the advantages realized through the bureau's efforts and the latter justifying the undertaking. The great majority of property owners outside of the business district are entirely in the dark as to both the purposes and accomplishments of the bureau.

SEVERE CRITICISM.

Charges of inability upon the part of the bureau heads to carry out the intended purpose of readjusting the assessed valuation of city and county property and to bring about uniformity in taxation methods have been heard from the beginning. These have been accompanied by an even more severe criticism of what have been termed the "theoretical and impractical ideas" of Supt. Stafford and his chief deputy, Alexander MacKeigan, for the conduct of the reappraisal work.

In the latter criticism both City Assessor Mallard and County Assessor Hopkins frankly concur, admitting their failure to grasp the Stafford scheme of "scientific appraisement." Both long ago suited their actions to their words in this connection by dropping the original plan of action as outlined by Mr. Stafford to various meetings of property owners.

The result has been that the staff of the bureau has been working almost from the beginning on strictly old-fashioned lines of procedure as respects the appraisement of real estate, seeking its authority from the assessors and making its reports to them through Supt. Stafford, whose duties have resolved themselves gradually into supervising the tabulation of the figures obtained. Three sets of appraisers, all following identical methods, have, therefore, been engaged in fixing values on Los Angeles realty. A chorus of property owners is asking, "Why?"

The belief is freely expressed in many quarters that the $70,000 thus far spent in the reappraisal has been only that much more money poured into the municipal and county rat holes that have yawned in the past for so many other appropriations for governmental fads and experiments.

The City Assessor, who does not deny his reputed adherance to this strong view, has protested that the bureau's work in real estate valuation is a duplication of that carried on by his own deputies. Mr. Mallard declares that it would have been possible in his opinion for the city and county departments to have arrived at some uniform basis without dragging in a third set of valuations which neither is in any wise compelled to adhere to.

Mr. Hopkins, on the other hand, declares that the real estate valuations secured by the bureau's staff under his direction have been of service in helping to check up the figures of his own deputies and expresses confidence that the values arrived at are nearer right than in the past. The existence of the bureau appropriation and the right conferred upon him of controlling the work of the new department made it possible, he declares, following the initial fizzle of Mr. Stafford's theoretical plans, to avail himself of the services of a large number of extra deputies.

The additional help, he says, has enabled the county to make the first accurate and satisfactory appraisal of buildings it has ever made in Los Angeles. Never before the 1915-1916 assessment, he avers, has it been pos-

Warning.

SECRET BALLOT IS ENDANGERED.

Voter Placed at the Mercy of Unscrupulous Clerk.

Support of Referendum will Correct the Evil.

The law passed by the special session of the Legislature, commonly known as the "nonpartisan" registration law, should be referred to the people for their decision in the matter, according to careful and unbiased political students. The only argument advanced by Gov. Johnson, Speaker Young and other proponents of the idea is that it gives the voter the right to declare his party affiliation at the primary and does not require him to so state his affiliation before, thus giving him the benefit of mature judgment in his decision upon candidates. Their contention is that there is no reason why a voter should declare in January that he is a Republican and be bound to vote for or against only candidates of his own party several months or a year or perhaps two years later.

But the advocates of this freak law have so far successfully concealed from public view a ballot of the kind they would bring into force with a nonpartisan registration primary law. This ballot gives all party candidates in various columns, but when a voter, under the law, enters the polling place, he either writes his own name or has a clerk write his own name and add to it the party with which he intends to affiliate. Then the clerk takes a blue pencil and strikes a line down through all of the party columns except the column containing names of candidates of the party with which the voter declares his affiliation.

The clerk mutilates the ballot. By clever wielding of the blue pencil he can positively mark the ballot, so that when the ballots are counted he can tell just how each voter voted.

A loop at the top of the line may be for John Smith and a loop at the bottom for Bill Jones, while on Tom Brown's ballot there is a waving line in the second column and on another ballot a zigzag line to distinguish it.

There can be no such thing as secrecy of the ballot. The mutilation of the ballot, authorized by this law, is asserted by qualified lawyers to be unconstitutional. It opens the way to more impurity in elections than any other feature of all the election laws.

"Why should an election clerk, selected because of his political service rendered a Supervisor who appointed him, have the power of marking a voter's ballot so that in his leisure moments he may look over and ascertain the candidates voted for?" ask the opponents of the freak, adding that any voter who protests the mutilation of his ballot by a clerk's blue pencil would in all probability be upheld by the courts and the proposed law declared unconstitutional.

BOYS IN TROUBLE.

Amateur Wireless Operators Without License are Summoned.

Five boys who have been operating amateur wireless stations in Los Angeles and vicinity, were summoned to the Federal Building yesterday, to appear before United States District Judge Trippet, on a charge of operating without a license, but on account of the fact that the court was otherwise engaged the matter went over for one week.

The lads were Harry Blodgett, George Vodran, George Hawley, Jack Hyams and Richard White. No arrests were made, but the boys were summoned to appear and be punished according to the judgment of the court. The Federal statutes impose both a fine and jail sentence for violation of the radio laws, but it is likely that the accused will be dismissed with a reprimand.

The action of the government is along the line of policy recently announced from Washington that it is desirable the licensees and location of the instruments of amateurs be known.

CASE NEARS END.

Jury in Clark-Smith Trial to be Charged Tuesday.

Judge Trippet, on Tuesday, will charge the jury in the case of M. M. Clark and Mrs. Annie J. Smith, general manager and secretary-treasurer, respectively of the Physicians' Protective Association, who it is alleged used the mails in a scheme to defraud. The argument will be taken up tomorrow afternoon.

The cross-examination of M. M. Clark was concluded at the adjournment of court yesterday. The grilling by Assistant United States District Attorney Gallaher was severe. Clark passed a very uncomfortable morning, and seemed to be troubled with a complete loss of memory on many points brought out by the exhibits in the case.

He admitted that he owed physicians who were his clients large sums, but declared that he intended paying every dollar due. He denied that he intended swindling any of his creditors when he embarked in the association, but admitted that he had been a bit derelict in carrying out some of his agreements. He said he hadn't enough money to make a trip back East to secure $4000 from friends in Washington to pay his creditors, and then declared he had asked for postponement of the present trial last November, for the reason that he was engaged in a big irrigation scheme that required a large amount of money on his part.

SCHOOL'S ANNIVERSARY.

Dinner Party is Given with Twenty-five Guests.

The third anniversary of the opening of the Wadsworth-street school was celebrated Friday evening with a dinner party given at the school by the principal, I. P. Thurston. There were twenty-five guests, including all the teachers of the school. The table decorations were in the school colors, orange and white.

Edwin Conly of Sierra Park was the toastmaster and there were songs and toasts and short addresses, and a birthday cake with candles. This is an annual affair and the school history is brought down to date at each event. The Wadsworth school is of the mission style of architecture—one of the prettiest in the city.

POLITICS

The American Game.

THE WATCHMAN.

TREND OF CURRENT POLITICAL THOUGHT AND ACTION.

By the Sentry on His Beat.

The political pendulum has swung back to its starting point and the frantic efforts of some of the renegades to get a strangle hold on it is one of the interesting diversions of the hour. Witness Frank Mouser, famous as the misrepresentative of the Seventy-fourth Assembly District, who is growing fat and independent with two jobs, drawing the regulation salary of $1000 for the position to which he was elected and an additional $2100 for some sort of a job in the State Motor Vehicle Department, shouting from the housetops that "I have registered as a Republican." His statement is true enough, but no one will give this avaricious tool of the selfish interests credit for political reformation. He merely saw what a blind man could see, that to line up with the Progressive office grabbers this year means defeat and with the hope that he might retain his $3100 worth of jobs he has flopped back. Mouser and his ilk will get no favors from the Republican party. Progressives who are sincere in their conversion, who penitently return to the protective fold of Republicanism will be received with a glad welcome, but the gang seeking reinstatement for personal aggrandizement will be forever ostracized.

About the best news going the rounds is that Chairman Pridham of the Board of Supervisors will not turn a deaf ear to the insistent public and will consent to remain at the head of the county's most important body for another term. Mr. Pridham has made a record so enviable that people from every district are clamoring for his re-election, and while he has not officially declared himself a candidate, there seems to be no question about it. Following rumors that he would retire to private life, several ambitious men—some of them good Republicans—expressed a desire to step into his shoes, but it is not believed any of them will make a serious effort to win if Mr. Pridham will accept the honor again. Stephen C. Packer, a prominent Elk of Glendale and a thorough Republican, has been frequently mentioned as a probable candidate, while W. C. Mushet, one-time candidate for Mayor and a strong party leader, has been talked of. Mr. Mushet has said that under no circumstances will he be a candidate if Mr. Pridham is in the field. Deputy County Counsel Charley Haas, who has many friends in the Fifth District, among them Republicans as well as Prohibitionists, is being groomed for the race, but will not enter against Mr. Pridham. Then there is Councilman Roberts, who thinks he can fool enough voters in the district to put him over. He is marked with the wrong kind of a stamp.

More than two-thirds of the voters in Los Angeles county have registered, according to the official report of Thomas McAleer, registrar of voters, issued at noon yesterday. This record not only surpasses that of any other county, but the total exceeds that of all other counties combined. What it means from the Republican point of view is to be seen in scanning the figures as follows: Republicans, 96,789; Progressives, 12,258; Democrats, 32,573; not stated, 76,547; Socialists, 7798; Prohibitionists, 9837; Independent, 739; miscellaneous, 118. Total, 236,809. Some of the Progressives declare that all of those in the "not stated" column are supporters of the Johnson-Lissner combination. Such is not the case, for many loyal Republicans have been made the victims of the damnable falsehoods published to the effect that it is not necessary to register party affiliations, but if all they contend is true, even then the Republicans are far in the lead. Combine the "not-stated" voters with the Progressives and the total is less by 8000 than the registration of Republicans. Is there any wonder that the Progressives see the handwriting on the wall and want to get back into the Republican family?

While the Prohibitionists are fighting themselves, apparently unable to agree upon anything other than that there is a chance to keep Congressman Randall in office, a movement was started during the past week to blast their single hope by putting up a Republican in the Ninth District, who should win. He will make his formal announcement in a short time and there is every reason to believe that Republicans and many of the Progressives will be with him. Talking about Prohibitionists, the State convention they held here last Thursday was about the biggest joke of the season. From platform and floor of Temperance Temple they spat fire at each other for hours and when the smoke had cleared Mr. Demon Rum was stalking among them as boldly as you please with no apparent reason for apprehension. All of them said their common enemy must be eradicated, but it was unanimously decided that the warring factions could not agree upon the method of annihilation and they left the battle to be waged by temperance folks rather than Prohibitionists. The second amendment is the one that most of the Prohibs are opposed to. It provides for the elimination of the saloon in 1918, but permits the breweries, wineries and druggists to dispense the stuff that cheers. That obviously would mean that prohibition in California would not prohibit and that is the stumbling block. The "wet" forces are more than delighted at the situation. They realize full well that amendment No. 2 not only is directed at the saloonist, but includes the cafe owner, the hotel, store and club and that the voters will not countenance a law so discriminatory in character.

The Nominating Committee of the Republican Club of Los Angeles County could not have made a wiser selection than Dr. A. J. Scott for the presidency of that strong organization. Dr. Scott has taken up the work with a determination that augurs well for the club and he will instill a spirit of activity among the other officers that undoubtedly will be productive of much good. The next meeting of the club will be held Friday evening in Blanchard Hall. It was scheduled for Wednesday evening, but arrangements could not be made for that night. Dr. Scott has prepared a list of well-known Republicans for election to the Executive Committee and this will be acted upon at the meeting. Women Republicans—members of the club or not—are urged to be present. It is said that Burl Armstrong, who was elected secretary of the club at the last meeting, will tender his resignation Friday night. He will be too busy with other work to devote the time required of a secretary.

The referendum and initiative campaign, waged throughout the State, is meeting with unlooked-for success. With only volunteer workers in the field with petitions it is reported that more than 10,000 signatures were received during the past week. This week paid solicitors will be scouring the State and Assemblyman Benton, who is in charge of the local end of the campaign, says the necessary 47,000 signatures will be in hand long before the time limit. It is not difficult to get a voter to sign his name to either petition. The referendum is designed to perpetuate the secred right of the elector to party affiliation while the initiative is directed at the unprincipled man who would hold two State jobs at the same time.

Word from Riverside is to the effect that J. Win Wilson, a Republican of Indio, has tossed his hat into the political ring and will endeavor to represent the Seventy-seventh Assembly District next term. He has a strong following. Assemblyman W. A. Avery is after a promotion, having announced his candidacy for State Senator in the Thirty-ninth District.

TALES OF PROGRESS FROM FROZEN NORTH.

CHURCH AND INDUSTRY MAKE RAPID GROWTH.

Once Savage Natives of Alaska Adopt Civilized Ways—Delegate to Layman's Missionary Convention Tells About Country's Changes During His Forty Years' Residence.

Bringing with him a breath of the frozen north and a hint of its progressive spirit, S. Hall Young, a delegate to the recent Layman's Missionary Convention, representing the vast stretches of Alaska, yesterday talked entertainingly and instructively about the Alaska he found when he first visited the country nearly forty years ago.

"In 1878, when I first went into Alaska, there were less than 200 white people in the entire territory, and more than 35,000 native Indians, mostly savages. Many of these Indians had never seen a white man and there were some that had not even heard of the white race. Industry other than hunting and fishing was unknown. There was not a gold, copper or coal mine—one small lumber camp, no canneries except one small struggling affair near the border.

"Until that time there was little or no attempt to civilize the natives. The only Christian missions were a few Russian-Greek-Catholic churches, and these were scattered along the coast of the Pacific Ocean and Bering Sea. Fort Wrangell was the scene of the first Protestant mission, started in the summer of 1877. I started the first Protestant church in 1879 at the same place, with a mixed membership of whites and natives.

"Then for ten years I worked as an explorer and founder of missions, working among the fourteen tribes of Thlingets and Hydas, the inhabitants of Southeast Alaska. I covered 15,000 miles by canoe and established churches and missions for the Presbyterian church in all of the principal villages of the tribes in the territory.

"The progress of all of the missions has been most encouraging and it is doubtful whether the same amount of time, labor and money expended has brought a larger return in Christian civilization in any other part of the world. Whereas twenty years ago the natives were all savages, today the young generation nearly all live after the manner of their white neighbors, read and write English, attend one or another of the various churches, vote and exercise all of their civil rights the same as the whites.

"Human greed, ignorance on the part of Congress, selfishness on the part of the big syndicates and other like causes have retarded progress in Alaska, but notwithstanding the territory has produced already $600,000,000, of which more than $260,000,000 is represented in gold. Canned salmon accounts for another $200,000,000, while copper is becoming a great asset to the territory. The largest and richest coal fields in the world lie in the interior of Alaska, and Congress has already appropriated $35,000,000 for building a railroad that will lead to these great fields, the copper mines and the rich agricultural valleys that await the coming of the master hand of the farmers. Alaska is just beginning to grow and it has a most brilliant future."

ON THE OUTSIDE.

In the development of the outside business in their territory Southern California motor car distributors are finding lies the future of their business. To develop these communities, the Chandler Motor Car Company of California has appointed Charles Paulin as its traveling sales representative. Mr. Paulin has been in the business in Los Angeles for several years and is well acquainted with the entire territory.

FOR REGIMENT OF RED HEADS.

Unique Defense Unit Planned by Los Angeles Men.

Four Brothers of Family of Fighters as Nucleus.

All Crimson-locked Warriors for Eight Generations.

Los Angeles may have the unique distinction of contributing a regiment of red-headed men—or a large part of one—to the general scheme of national defense if the plans and designs of a group of earnest local men of crimson locks and warlike tendencies are carried to fruition. It is estimated that there are in excess of able-bodied, single men between the ages of 20 and 30 in Los Angeles and vicinity and it is these that it is desired to interest in the plan.

The scheme for a red-headed regiment was originally launched by an Eastern publication, but it has been adopted by Los Angeles through the championship of four red-headed brothers of a remarkable fighting ancestry, every male member of which for eight generations back has had a flaming red head.

FAMILY OF FIGHTERS.

They are the four sons of the late George Bentley, a pioneer San Pedro newspaper man, and they have already volunteered for the red-headed regiment.

The elder Bentley was a fighter, and not only with his pen. When his pen assailed he often was compelled to back up what he wrote in self-defense. He died as the result of personal attack in 1897 during a fierce political campaign in the harbor section.

"I am proud to be a red head," said L. L. Bentley of San Pedro, the [illegible] of the four sons, yesterday. "All the male members of our family since 1679 have had red hair. This I feel is an honor and am proud of the family military record.

"In 1747 a regiment formed in [illegible] county, Ohio, during the French and English war had George Bentley as a lieutenant. Fred [illegible] Bentley was captain of the Sixth Regiment, Albany county, New York militia in 1775-1778. During the revolution Caleb Bentley was captain of the Fifth Regiment, Dutchess county, New York State Militia.

"Coming down to the present generation my brother, C. L. Bentley, served in the Coast Artillery of the Pacific Coast and is well acquainted with the duties of a corporal. C. D. P. Bentley, now living at Redondo Beach, is a former seaman with a general knowledge of automobile work and rules of the sea.

"Both R. B. Bentley of Long Beach and I have a knowledge of the mechanics needed in military life. I have had considerable experience in the construction and operation of [illegible]."

NATIONAL MOVEMENT.

[illegible] Bentley has just received a letter from Fred C. Adams of Chatham, N. Y., chairman of the temporary committee at the head of the red-headed regiment movement, giving details of the plans so far formed. When the actual military organization is undertaken it will be under the supervision of regular army officers or of the National Guard.

"The Red Heads" believe that their regiment will be one of the best fighting units that ever took the field. Aside from the military value of such an organization the fraternal spirit that has developed since the plan was proposed is remarkable. The red-headed men seem to want to know each other.

The majority of those who have sent in their names are either ex-army men or those whose terms of enlistment are now nearing an end, but many are able-bodied men, who have had no military training as yet.

OLDEST NEWSPAPER "PEKING GAZETTE."

CONTINUOUSLY PUBLISHED FOR TWO THOUSAND YEARS.

Until Thirty Years Ago "Court Journal" was Only Paper in China, Says Lecturer; Now There are Hundreds, Modeled After Those of England and America.

The oldest newspaper in the world is published, as one might suppose, in China. It has been published steadily for 2000 years, according to Rev. John Hedley, who lectured on "Chinese Journalism" yesterday at the University of Southern California. The Peking Gazette was a full-fledged paper when the ancestors of most Americans still wore wild animal skins and lived in caves. The Gazette is a court periodical, published daily, containing no general news.

Thirty years ago, Mr. Hedley stated, there was hardly another paper published in all China. Today there are hundreds, one city alone having seventy-seven dailies. Many of the papers are extremely radical in their criticism of Chinese government, and the editors would probably go at once to jail if they did not publish the papers and live themselves in the "extra-territorial" strips of land belonging to one or another of the European powers, and where the Chinese government has absolutely no jurisdiction.

"Today the native papers build themselves entirely on British and American models," said Mr. Hedley, "and you will find scareheads, cartoons, feature stories and all of the other enlivening elements of our own papers. In fact, many of the American features are syndicated, and editorials and cartoons which appear in our own papers appear as well in the official organs."

HONOR CONDUCTORS' WIVES.

Thirty guests attended a luncheon given in their honor Wednesday at the [illegible] Junction Club House by Mrs. [illegible] H. Kleinhans, president of the [illegible] Mountain Division No. 267 of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Order of Railway Conductors.

An Aid to Digestion.

When you feel dull and stupid after [illegible] meals, frequently have sour stomach and eructations, you should take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after dinner to aid digestion. Obtainable everywhere.—[Advertisement.]

This Is No Joke.

"Didn't you see that notice, 'Dead Slow?'" inquired the policeman.

"'Course I did," returned the Yankee, "but I thought it referred to your durned little town!"

SAYS WE BECOME CRANKS ON HOT WATER DRINKING

Hopes every man and woman adopts this splendid morning habit.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried; some days headachy, dull and unstrung; some days really incapacitated by illness.

If we all would practice inside-bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half-sick, anaemic-looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine-like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn at constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside-bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

A PROPER NAME.

A pay phone at Santa Monica has been robbed seven times. It is called a pay station because it pays the burglars.

ENTIRELY PROGRESSIVE.

An Atlanta girl is asking for her third divorce at 18 because she wants to marry again. Maybe the South is growing less conservative.

ON THE SAFE SIDE.

Honesty is the best policy because you never can tell when you will get caught. A good name is better than great riches if you are in jail with your riches.

WILL NOT BEAR INSPECTION.

The only way you can account for the kindness of some women to some men is that these women have a lifetime habit of looking for the good in everyone, and even in seeing it when it is not there.

UNDER SUSPICION.

It is well for the man whose purse was knocked from the pier at Santa Monica that he had witnesses. It is not good to return home with a big fish and no money and expect credit for catching the fish.

PROVIDED FOR.

We are pleased to see that Hetty Green has realized $1,000,000 cash out of a gold mine in Amador county, California. We wouldn't like to think of Hetty being short of money for household expenses in old age.

STANDING PROSPERITY.

Lots of people think that they never get any help in this world simply because they are not cursed with other people's money. There are not many personalities that could stand up under being endowed or subsidized.

STIMULATING PATRIOTISM.

San Bernardino has a military club. That might be a good way for some less patriotic communities to work up a military interest. A lot of men with no genius for the army or talent for war have the finest appreciation of clubs.

INSTRUCTING OUR ENEMIES.

We may not learn from our mistakes—a great many of us—but we certainly do teach our enemies a lot. Instead of knowing us by our fruits, many people know us by our errors. They are obliged to, in order to know where to jump on us next. A wise enemy always knows where he will jump next, and he is there before we are.

BANDITS ROUNDED UP.

The bandits have been having a merry time of it poking guns unexpectedly into the faces of belated citizens and scaring them half out of their wits, together with collecting such small change as chanced to be in their pockets. It's an unpleasant game, though the bandits seem to like it. But we are pleased to see that the police have been frowning on the sport, and that numbers of the nocturnal gentlemen with six-shooters as their only visible means of support have been rounded up. May the good work prosper.

FORCE EMPLOYED.

Here is a home lesson for California's ultra-pacificists. The Los Angeles County Counsel and the Rindge Ranch Company quarrel over the possession of a highway. So far no court has determined the legal rights in the dispute. But the County Counsel employs force to keep the road open, and the ranch company doesn't use force to keep it closed, and the road remains open. The belligerents use force to close the ocean highways and they remain closed. What is worse, in this case there is no court to appeal to.

MINES WITH PERISCOPES.

If it doesn't beat the Dutch, it certainly embarrasses the British, the way Germany devises startling countermoves to checkmate her enemies. King George's government offers a big pecuniary reward to any merchantman that will ram a hostile submarine. Wily Germany at once baits a trap. Tempting periscopes begin to dot the oceans, appealing to the cupidity of any peaceful skipper anxious to line his pockets with golden sovereigns. And these periscopes were attached to floating mines. The merchant ship that went after the British reward was destined to "be hoist with its own petard."

SEATTLE'S MISTAKE.

Far be it from us to discourage the enterprises of any city. At the same time we would caution Seattle against crying for the moon. Her Councilmen might well study the famous speech of Wolsey's that starts, "Cromwell, I charge thee, put away ambition." For these Councilmen are actually planning a concerted move to get away from Los Angeles her tourist business.

The northern city has many good points. She possesses a fine harbor, a very dry law and a very wet climate. Los Angeles also has a fine harbor, but no parching ordinance or dripping weather. Between Los Angeles and Seattle the tourists who pay their money will take their choice—and where that choice will fall is not a matter of a few dollars more or less for railroad fare; it depends on climate, scenery, good roads, a wealth of holiday resorts and a hundred other features that add to the pleasure of vacation times.

AMERICA'S FAIR CHANCE.

Through no fault of its own the United States is in the position of the little boy who said that nobody loved him. But this country need not, like the boy, think of going out in the back yard and eating a worm. It can provide itself with much better provender than that, and is doing so. It can live on the fat of many lands, while the European countries are gorging themselves, unpleasantly and unprofitably, on blood.

Certainly the European countries do not like America. By keeping out of the war we have not only declined to join in their mad feast but we have found new ways of pleasuring our commercial appetite. In other words, America has gone on peacefully trading while its commercial rivals are exhausting themselves fighting, and thus we of the United States are in a fair way to become the financial and commercial center of the world. That's the real reason for Europe's dislike.

Naturally, some of the commercial fields which we are now peacefully winning will remain ours after the war. Germany, Great Britain and France have been obliged to yield them to America, and this country will be able to strengthen and maintain its position in them while those nations are recuperating. They have lost their hold, and at the same time are losing millions in men and money that never can be replaced. We are gaining all the time by peaceful methods. Under such circumstances one ceases to wonder that Europe fails to love us because we know that commerce is the foundation of greatness in this age. Moreover, Europe is so boiling with hate that no nation has any love to spare outside its own borders, and no tears to shed except over its own graves.

Nevertheless, it is laughable—if there is anything to laugh at in connection with this war—to find European nations criticising our commercial spirit while they are spending their life's blood. What is the real cause of this sad expenditure? What are they fighting over? Why are they feeding hundreds of thousands of men as fodder to the guns? The allies would have us believe that they are animated only by the most lofty sentiments of humanity. Germany continually cries to high heaven that she is only fighting to preserve her identity threatened by rapacious foes. As a matter of fact, trade rivalry was the main cause of the war. The fighters were not slow to impress upon the world that they "wanted their place in the sun," to use an overworked phrase. No country can have such a place without commerce. No country can rise to any heights unless it is in the main what Napoleon called the English, a nation of shopkeepers. The nations of Europe fell to fighting over trade, and now they are getting the shadow while Uncle Sam is annexing the bone. They were obliged to drop that bone while they fought, and the United States would be bereft of its senses if it failed to pick it up. By doing so it is obtaining without force of arms that which the others sacrificed in order that they might taste of each other's blood.

Commerce cannot be captured, of course, without ships. Like the jingo, we must have the ships and the men and the money, too. We have them all. More ships fly the American flag on the trade routes today than since the great clipper days when the Star Spangled Banner was seen in nearly every port in the world. As for the men, America never has been short of the adventurous and the hardy and the brave. Wherever there is a man's work to be done there an American is to be found pushing his way to the front and making his force felt. Regarding money, the country is simply loaded down with it. While the European nations are economizing almost to the point of despair America has gold to spare to employ wherever it is profitable. It has its pick of the world and that is why it is leading the world in peaceful trade.

This war is proving America's great opportunity. We cannot be blamed for that or for taking proper advantage of the fact. American capitalists, being men of spirit, power and far sight, have not neglected the chances to further enhance their own fortunes and to establish more firmly the greatness of the country of which they are so proud. What fools the rest of the world would think Americans if we were too proud to pick up the trade plums and were idiotic enough to stand idly by leaving them to be regathered by the fighters after they should cry, "Hold; enough!" What nincompoops we would be were we to remain commercially inactive and say, "No, we will not take advantage of your foolishness."

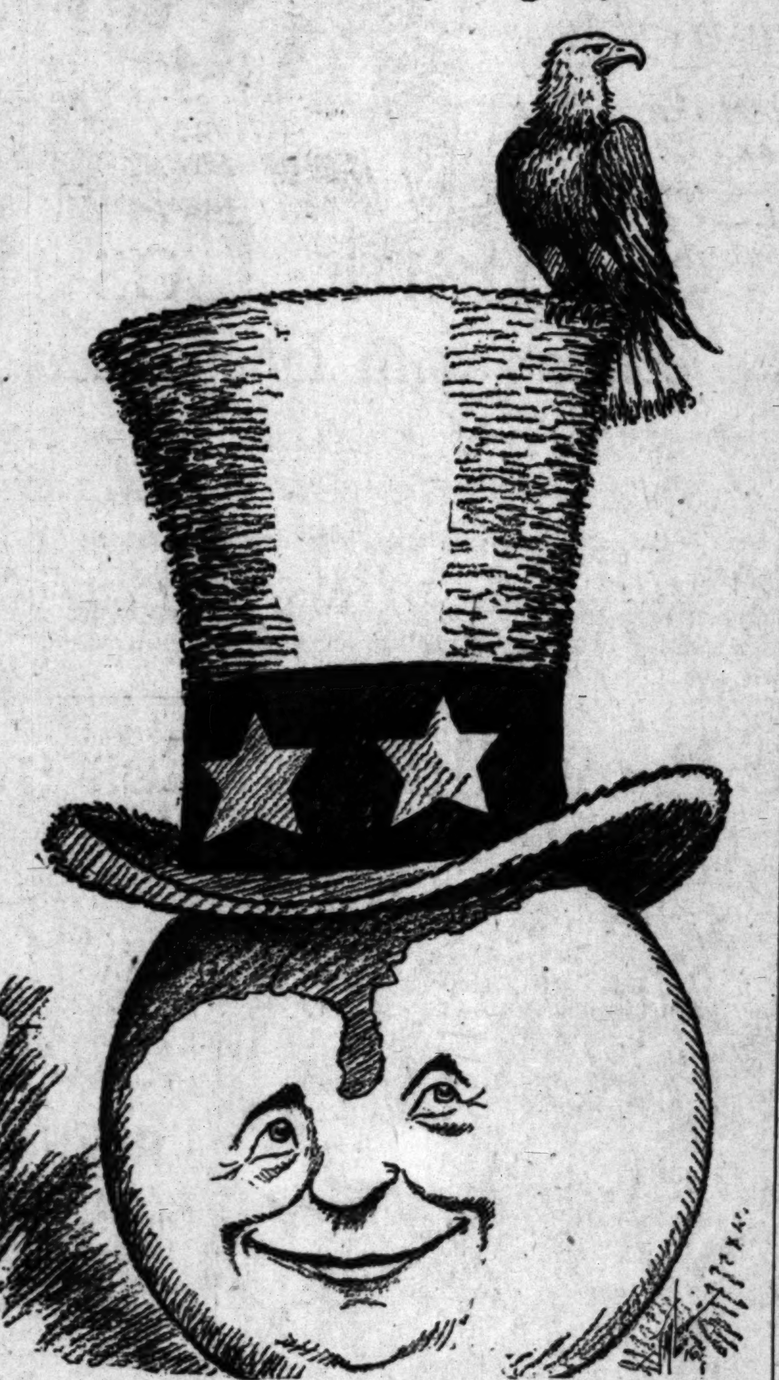
After all, is there anything finer in the world than a fair contest for trade leadership? And such leadership means world command. Art we would not live without; nor literature; but neither could flourish exceedingly in this or any other country without trade, without the shopkeepers. Trade is the body of a nation which art and literature help to beautify.

Therefore, when the Germans or the British deride us as seekers of the almighty dollar, we know that they are expressing their true sentiments, for we have seen them in times of peace chasing just as nimbly after their pounds and their marks, which today are somewhat depreciated. Their growls are caused by knowledge of the fact that we are obtaining that trade which they wilfully put aside. The race for trade is a noble one. The dollars gained in it are clean and bright, except those received in exchange for arms and ammunition furnished to belligerents, and there should be an international law preventing that traffic, a law as binding upon Germany as upon America. In the main, however, the trade conflict, particularly as America wages it, is one of high enterprise, of courage and adventure. It carries the flag into the uttermost parts of the earth, and it redounds to the glory of any nation which persistently and fairly strives to win.

BY GEORG BRANDES.

An impressive and not-to-be-missed feature of today's Times is the review of the European horror by Georg Brandes, the great Danish scholar, who holds a first place in the ranks of the world's literary men and critics. The way in which the impartial Brandes punctures the unholy hypocrisies of all the combatants is refreshing. This notable criticism will be found in Part I of this issue and will attract wide and absorbing attention.

An Approved Spring Style.



LET THE BURIED REST.

Those who recall the campaigns of 1912 and 1908 and 1904 will remember how the orators of the Democratic party, of whom it has been truthfully said that "it never learns anything and never forgets anything," gave voice to fierce invectives against the Republican policy of a protective tariff. They declared that the men who established industries were crooks and criminals. They declared that when they obtained power they would dethrone the tariff trusts that they asserted controlled the government. An appeal for economy welled up from their hearts and the air was vocal with their promises to afford the people relief from the burdens of taxation "placed upon them by the Republican party." When the Democracy came into power everything would be lovely, and the honk of the high-flying goose would be heard—as Bryan said in a $500 speech—"from the glittering peaks of ice-bound Labrador to the warm and wooing waters of the Caribbean Sea."

Well, Progressive folly rent the Republican party in twain and the architects of ruin obtained power. With the Underwood tariff for a spade, they dug a wide, deep hole, and with uncommendable persistence and industry they dug it so deep that they are at the bottom of it, unable to climb out. And now they propose that the Republicans shall erect a non-partisan tariff commission derrick and help them to get out of the hole.

One of the most industrious of the diggers of the hole was President Wilson. Will it be forgotten that he told us that the industries of the United States ought to be overthrown if there was anything in them in the nature of artificial protection? How he told the manufacturers who employed labor in the United States that they must "match their wits against the wits of the world" and that by successful wit-matching they could pay $3 a day for labor in the United States and compete with European countries paying $1 per day?

In six months following that pronunciamento from "the throne" the importations increased, the revenues decreased, the mills in the United States stopped running, and our purchasing power went over to the foreigner.

As a net result of Democratic rule, the foreigner got our business and the American workmen and manufacturers got—left.

Congressman J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania hurls the following statistics at the Democrats:

"From January 1, 1914, to the end of July, 1914, the loss of revenue under the Underwood law, as compared with the Republican Payne law, was upward of $23,000,000. In the same seven months the damage done to the country by the same Democratic law was pointedly shown in relation to articles manufactured for consumption, and crude materials entering into their manufacture. Nothing could better illustrate the effect of a low tariff upon American labor, perhaps, than these particular statistics. Of manufactured articles made by foreign labor and sent over to the United States ready for consumption, there was a gain in imports under the Democratic law of more than $39,000,000. In imports of materials for further use in manufacturing, such as workmen might have made in the United States, there was a decrease of approximately $27,000,000. In other words, the low tariff in these respects gave the work to the foreigner and took it away from the workmen in the United States. Carrying the illustration further, it developed that the balance of export trade in our favor under the Payne law in 1913 was $308,000,000, while under the Democratic law in 1914 it was $60,000,000, or a falling off of more than $248,000,000. While we were buying from the foreigner and giving him additional work to do for us we were selling him less of our goods and depriving ourselves of work that American workmen would have enjoyed, and all this in the very few months the Democratic law was on trial. Figures like these do not sustain the Democratic contention that the war in Europe is the basis of the disarrangement of our government finances. Nor do they entertain this view who have experienced the disturbance of business and the loss of labor from month to month as the Democratic tariff proceeded along its deadly course."

The Democrats have dug their own graves. It will be wise and economical to let the cadavers lie there and not help them to "revisit the glimpses of the moon and make night hideous."

VOICING THE UNEXPRESSED.

Cultured people sometimes see too much of one another and not enough of the people who have had less opportunities than themselves. You have been over the same paths of history, religious postulate, civilization and literature as the other cultured persons of your acquaintance. They have little to give you, or you them. They do not require you to express their lives. They have their own expression for what they feel and think, just as you have yours. On the other side of life you will find a great dumb army who live in the silence—men and women who may feel as strongly as yourself, but who have no voice with which to cry out to the world. Their strength is pent up like a stream that is dammed; they are dynamic but awkward; vital but repressed. You may not know it, yet when you are with them you absorb a vast urge. They will not be aware of any communication, but they give you freely of their hidden force that through you they may be expressed. There ought to be the greatest love and understanding in our association with those whose place in the world seems utterly different from our own. It is one man's blessing that he follow the plow and another's that he shall sit in the council chambers of a nation, but each gives the light of the same precious substance of life. We all are interpreters of the one Life.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

A DEADLY WINTER.

It has been a deadly season, which can't be denied; and there was no rhyme or reason in the way men died. I would hear a comrade coughing: "See the doc," I'd say, and he'd leave me, mildly scoffing, to cash in next day. I would say to someone sneezing, "Dope, ere it gets worse!" He would laugh, and then go breezing graveward in the hearse. Nobly did the men of science exercise their skill, using up-to-date appliance, potion, drug and pill; daily, nightly were they waging war against the foe, but the demon Grip went raging, laying people low. All in vain their dark-brown bitters, all in vain their pills; sneezing to the last, poor critters climbed the sunset hills. Epidemics are as senseless as is Europe's war; foolish, cruel and defenseless, say, what are they for? What's the use of people dying, croaking in platoons, while the doctors, nobly trying, cannot cure for prunes.

The Great War acts on many minds about as a Pittsburgh snowstorm deals with clean linen—and for the identical reason.

All snow starts from heaven as white as Truth. Of what sort and color it reaches us, personally, depends alone upon the medium through which we receive it. In the Andes or the Sierra Nevada or the White Mountains a bridal veil would come through a week of it as unsullied as Honor. In Pittsburgh, while I walked four blocks in a heavy snow, my shirt changed to a Dishrag Drab, my new fawn Stetson to the complexion of an uncurried mule, and my face and hands were mulatto.

That snow started from its home clouds as white-winged as the flakes of Shasta. But it was turned to a Big Black Lie by the Prejudices of the Pittsburgh Atmosphere—which for commercial reasons of its own averts the sun and smuts the chastity of the very snow. No Truth can shine through it unalloyed.

For three hundred years we have been getting our young minds Pittsburghed with History "Made in England."

England has made a great deal of history in this, her world, and generally made it well—for England. She has also written practically all the history thereof that we in America read and are colored withal. Her historians have been as conscientious as other historians—though none so scientific and conclusive as many in Germany and three in this United States. England is, in fact, the original and still chief habitat of the Closet Historian, the Hearsay Witness, the Special Pleader.

When the country to be historified was of no political concern to England, but merely an academic theme, the history was rather equitable, though always insular. Hume and Motley and Gibbon and Carlyle did Classics—considering that their texts were lands they didn't KNOW. It is a fine tribute to the really inherent English tradition of Fair Play that such books as "The French Revolution," "The Rise of the Dutch Republic," "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" could be written by Strangers. Like some others of us, England likes to give Fair Play—IF it Costs Nothing. The world's scholarship owes to England most of its regard for Babylon and Nineveh and ancient Greece, and other lands that do not Dispute the Seas nor Interfere with Commerce (English.)

But when it comes to writing the history of a country as to which England has Prejudices—that is another matter. Did you ever have the excruciating joy of reading an English school history of America—including the Discovery, the Revolutionary War and so on? It's worth while. You realize, then, that we "have to go away from home to hear the news." Our own school histories are of course ex parte, as is inevitable—but they are a good deal nearer to center—of Bunker Hill and Yorktown.

It is not a trifling thing to adjudge Humanity even in our own mind—to assume that all Frenchmen subsist chiefly on frogs; that all Russians have whispering whiskers; that all Dagos are jugglers of Spaghetti; that the Turk is Unspeakable, the Spaniard a treacherous and cruel Oppressor, the Yankee a swallower of his table knife and a wallower in the trough of the Dollar.

It's a poor job for the mind to shelter such notions. It's a much worse job to spread them. And every such provincial race-hatred or race-contempt derives (so far as we of the United States are concerned) from a single source. We take it from the English estimate—as we take many much better things. We do reject the Dickens and Mrs. Trollope caricatures of ourselves, because we personally Know Better. But the average dictum of England as to the rest of the world we pretty much swallow whole. And it is bad for our international digestion.

Our own country has suffered more than any other at the hands of the English historian. Spain discovered, explored, colonized and civilized the New World. Spain was the political and religious foe of England—especially after Henry VIII made himself the Pope of England, and Spain stood pat with the original Pope of Rome. Perhaps no Mother Goose in history is quite so funny as the concept we have generally acquired (via England) of Spain, the Inquisition, the Pioneering of the New World, the Kur-r-r-uelty of the Spanish conquerors, and their Extermination of the Natives. And we still believe it—unless we have paid some attention to what the scientific historical research of the last thirty years has proved beyond a quibble. The only parts of the Western Hemisphere in which the Indian has been Exterminated are the parts England took. In the far greater area of Spanish America the aborigine is as numerous today as he was in the year 1500—and much better off.

Even as we have for centuries been deludhered to see the early story of America through the London Fog, we are now made cross-eyed with English Spectacles in our trying to see the vast, inevitable, inexorable and wholly hopeful war which is now not disemboweling but purging Europe. The same England whose greatest text-book (and it's the greatest in the world) never admits that the world was circumnavigated until an Englishman did so—some seventy years after a Spaniard had led the way!—this same wonderful elderly country (for it's not old) has the same reasons to censor the war news this 'Umble Nation may read. But we are used to Taking the rubber Nipple as put to our mouths.

But Why is the War?—almost any fool ought to be able to answer that. And I'm "almost any." So—Next Time.

Need American Color.

[Baltimore American:] According to the dye men the colors on our new flags are likely to fade. But under Wilson can it be said that the flag is as gloriously bright as it used to be? Are not the white stripes predominating over the red?

You will recall that Noah was prepared.

Why doesn't somebody invent a grape fruit that will not spatter?

Almost time for Pindell of Peoria to be mentioned again for something.

The Republican House leader is standing up like a Mann for the President.

Kind words not only butter, but also buy parsnips. Did you ever try them?

Just as we imagined. There were a lot of folks doing the driving at Verdun.

Surely the Bull Moosers can come back—they are coming back—to the G. O. P.

It is becoming more apparent every day that Mr. Kitchin is not the head cook in the House.

The war prophets, like the up-to-date department stores, have something to please all tastes.

Even the pacifists are not so dead set against war that they are opposed to marriage licenses.

The enthusiasm for the larger income tax comes from the South, where but little of it is to be paid.

Her love, of course, was like the deep blue sea, but it had to be taken with a corresponding amount of salt.

Did anybody outside of the movies ever see a man kiss a woman's hand? Not in this part of the country. There is no such thing.

The hardest thing in the world to get rid of is a personal grievance. There does not seem to be any demand for grievances at any price.

Frank Gotch, the wrestler, who is now "in our midst," is looking for a match. We nominate Enrico Caruso. Yes, he of money-making fame.

Reparation will be exacted for the loss of life by German submarines, but who will pay for the loss of American life in Mexico? Or is that different?

Republicans in the Senate saved the day for President Wilson. It is a way they have when a crisis impends involving the good name of the country.

It is suggested that a girl desiring to become a cook ought to start with a couple just married, where she need not know much about the game.

Senator Tillman says that Secretary Daniels will be appreciated when he is retired. The country would be pleased to begin with that appreciation now.

It is denied that President Wilson will resign on account of the situation in Washington. If shipwreck is inevitable he might grab the one-term plank.

What is the matter with the Indiana Democratic Senators? John Worth Kern voted against the President, and Benjamin Franklin Shively dodged.

And we have it from trustworthy authority that Col. E. M. House is leaving Europe pretty much as he found it. The earth over there is still in its place.

The value of explosives exported from this country in January reached the figure of $46,100,000. It is evident somebody is losing money in the powder business.

The House has defeated the resolution to reduce the mileage of the members from 20 to 5 cents. It is the annual performance. And of such is the kingdom of "pork."

If Massachusetts wants to furnish the Presidential candidate why doesn't she trot out Senator Henry Cabot Lodge? Weeks and McCall are unknown on the Coast.

As the Presidential campaign progresses some of the candidates will learn for the first time how tarnation mean they are. Some no doubt will be charged with having "shook" their mother.

John D. Rockefeller has gone to Jekyl Island, Fla., for the balance of the winter. The imprecations of those who are compelled to use his high-priced gasoline were not sufficient to make it warm enough for him.

The talk about removing the national capital to Milwaukee recalls the Reavis idea of years ago to change it to St. Louis. Then it was a question of geographical center of the country. A wonderful campaign was inaugurated, but it did not win.

Who can tell what the political harvest will be following the international saturnalia at Washington? The whole face of politics may be changed by what is going to happen. And as to just what that is one man's view is just as good as another's.

If President Wilson had had to depend on the Democrats in the Senate for the passage of the resolution indicating his foreign policy he would have depended on a broken reed. He was saved by Republican votes. The same old story of Democrats getting cold feet when asked to stand up for anything—except the offices.

YOU.

If you no more should love me?—you?
It takes my breath, a thought so strange,
As that aught earthly could your spirit, true,
To change!

Remote from doubt, I dwell secure
In faith all minor faiths above,
So do I trust, so live, in your
Incomparable love!

I laugh for joy to think how much
A question would your nature wrong,
Whom heaven created, with a noble touch,
So strong!

Nay; doubt, for me, new born were over,
You will remain unchanged and true—
Not, not that I am I, my lover,
But just that you are you!

TAKE SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS; SAYS DRUGS EXCITE THE KIDNEYS.

Salts harmless to flush Kidneys and neutralize uric acid, thus ending Bladder trouble.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

CITY AND NATION UNITE FOR THE BABY'S SAKE.

Week Devoted to Child Welfare Opens with Mothers' Conference and Comprehensive Exhibit Here—Experts to Give of Their Wisdom at Many Meetings—Host of Public Organizations Co-operating.

BABY is supreme today. Yesterday Los Angeles swung into line with communities throughout the nation, in celebration of a week devoted to infant welfare. A great educational conference for mothers drew interested crowds to No. 239 South Broadway, and until next Saturday night an elaborate exhibit will be maintained there, free to the public from 9 o'clock a.m. to 10 p.m., and there will be daily conferences. The slogan is, "Save the Babies! Save the Nation!"

When the doors opened on the exhibit yesterday, sharp realization of the powerful forces already under way for race betterment was brought home to the many visitors. As the week advances experts in every phase of the vital problem will strikingly present the poignant facts that surround their work.

Nation-Wide Baby Week is the response of the United States to the question of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, "What can we do to better the condition of the baby?" The celebration has the co-operation of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor at Washington. In this city activities of the week were launched by the Public Health Department of the Los Angeles District of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Dr. Maude Wilde is chairman.

FIRST SESSION.

At yesterday's opening conference members of the district board of the club federation were hostesses. Mrs. H. A. Cable, the president of the board, presided. The programme included: demonstration in the kindergarten and day nurseries, Parent-Teacher Association; "The Infant Death Rate and what the Department of Health is Doing for its Reduction," Dr. L. M. Powers; music by the Custer Intermediate School Orchestra; "Responsibility of Parents," Dr. W. V. C. Francis; first-aid drill, Boy Scouts.

In the evening the hostesses were members of the Nation-wide Baby Week Committee, with Dr. Maude Wilde presiding. Mrs. Cable gave an address of welcome, the Mayor spoke a few words in greeting, there was music by the High School Band and Supervisor Pridham spoke. A community sing was conducted by Mrs. Carrie Stone Freeman.

Pre-eminent among the things brought out at these opening sessions is the importance of the work for which Baby Week stands. The celebration has the financial backing of the Board of Supervisors and the City Council and the co-operation of the Mayor, Board of Health, Board of Education, Public Library, officials of the municipal departments of the women's clubs, children's homes and hospitals, day nurseries, physicians and nurses and public and private institutions devoted to child welfare. It has, moreover, the cordial support of the Church Federation of Los Angeles.

COMPREHENSIVE EXHIBIT.

Of scope comparable with the breadth of its subject is the exhibit at Baby Week headquarters. There are floor demonstrations, wall panels, photographs and illustrated lectures. It is all designed to show the great menaces to baby's life, poverty, ignorance, unsanitary housing, pernicious drugs and improper food and that a huge percentage of infant deaths is preventable. It is meant to show mothers they have the same right to consult the Health Department that they have to send their children to school. Among the special features are exhibits of country life, playgrounds, birth registrations, rural nurses, municipal farms, rural schools and household engineering.

The juvenile department of the Los Angeles public library is distributing 2000 "better baby" book marks and 5000 bibliographies for children's reading, and has an exhibition of a model juvenile department and also of books and papers. The technical department is giving out bibliographies on the care of the child and on eugenics and heredity.

A fascinating exhibit is the demonstration of the kindergartens and day nurseries by the Parent-Teacher Association. It includes many activities managed under the leadership of the president, Mrs. J. D. Taylor, who has had the co-operation of 116 organizations and 6500 members in the Los Angeles federation.

An exhibit of unusual interest shows the splendid purpose of the Florence Crittenton Home, under the direction of Mrs. Frank Stoddard.

Dr. Lillian Ray is giving an exhibit of gymnasium work for girls in the High School.

Dr. Everett Beach of the school playground is exhibiting charts showing the development of the child through recreation, and has installed a model playground.

FOR THE DEAF.

Miss Mary Bennett of the Sixteenth-street school has charted and illustrated what is being done for the deaf child, and will give class demonstrations.

Dr. Albert Moore shows by charts the response of the child when his physical welfare has been cared for. He is also demonstrating the exact manner in which the child is examined by the health department.

Prof. Lickely of the special schools is presenting a scenario in photographic form, showing the cause of truancy and following the child through his temptations and deviations from the regular school life—all the forces which make him in the end an incorrigible.

Miss Elizabeth Witman of the Twenty-third avenue school is showing what is being done for the mentally deficient child. She has photographs of the class at work, a display of the work accomplished and the progress made by the individual child.

Dr. Laura Bennett shows how the child is tested mentally and by charts and photographs of the normal, abnormal and subnormal child, illustrates the causes that divert him from best conditions.

Dr. Edwards, head of the nature department, presents demonstrations of gardening and nature study.

St. Elizabeth Day Nursery has an exceptionally attractive exhibit of the wonderful work accomplished in caring for a host of little children whose mothers are at work during the day.

Among the other exhibitors are the settlements, the Coleman House, Jewish Orphan Home, Ida Strauss Day Nursery, Children's Home, playgrounds, Maternity Cottage, Kings Daughters, Anti-Tuberculosis Association and America First League. There is a section devoted to habit-forming drugs, and an elaborate library exhibit, and a display by the Anna Craven Johnson housing apartments.

The City Board of Health has an exhibit of vital importance. Another is under the direction of Miss Josephine L. Breed, the supervising nurse of infant welfare, who demonstrates the city's actual work in reducing infant mortality, so there is an amazing record of only 7 per cent. of deaths among babies in Los Angeles under a year old.

HAIR TURNING GRAY OR FALLING? JUST MIX SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR.

It's Grandmother's Recipe for Dandruff and Restoring Color to Hair.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also cures dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowdays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own but it's usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can positively tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known down-town druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This requires but a few moments, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy than ever.

Mrs. Hobart J. Whitley entertained at 5 o'clock tea at the Alexandria Hotel, yesterday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. Owen Francis Smith, who has recently returned from Spokane, and a few other Washington ladies. Davenport, Mrs. Blanch Davenport, Miss Geraldine Grady, Mrs. Charles Sharpsten, Mrs. W. H. Sibbald, Mrs. Arthur G. Newton, Mrs. Harry Schoenborn.

HEALTH OF PUPILS.

Ask Appointment of Deputy to Look After County School.

In order that the health of children in the county schools shall be properly taken care of application for the appointment of a deputy county health officer has been filed with the Board of Supervisors. This official would have in charge all physical examinations in the county schools, suggest corrective methods of treatment for minor ailments to the children and their parents, and have general supervision of health arising in this department. Mark Keppel, County School Superintendent, and the County Health Officer have recommended the appointment of Dr. A. W. Moore to the position. Action will be taken on Wednesday.

ALLEGED COUNTERFEITER.

George W. Hazen, special agent of the United States Treasury Department, received a telegram yesterday from J. M. West, Marshal at Needles, stating that he has arrested John D. Nesbitt, who was found with counterfeit silver coins in his possession, and also a complete outfit of molds, dies, etc. Mr. Hazen swore out a warrant for the alleged counterfeiter, and Deputy United States Marshal Bassett will leave this evening for Needles, to bring Nesbitt to this city. The local officer has no record of a man by that name in the counterfeiting game, but he may be working under an alias.

to get in a dig at the city officials, his own rather tangled remarks revealing the hangover peeve to which he had been clinging ever since a former unfortunate encounter with the Public Works Committee of the Council. He made the assertion that a "certain member of the Council" had been personally working overtime for a project "which the pee-pul didn't want." In a voice vibrating with emotion, Mr. Stimson flayed the viciousness of this alleged unholy and vicious act.

Mr. Topham listened until the self-anointed prophet of the antis had presented his array of near-facts and not-quite-so-near figures and then arose to reply. He told those present that it was the height of his ambition to get the open-cut proposition settled definitely once and for all one way or the other. He declared that it had been brought before him in his official capacity as chairman of the Public Works Committee and in the regular way provided by law. It had been a question of considering the legally-prepared petitions of the host of property owners wanting the cut or of ignoring them and taking orders from Mr. Stimson. He had taken the former course, he said for many reasons, not the least of which was that it was in the line of his duty.

Mr. Gregory presented the open-cut side of the question in a masterly style, presenting an array of crisp facts and figures that left no possible room for argument. His opponent studiously avoided anything like a real clash of fact against fact or figure against figure, dwelling on the essentials in terms of glittering generality. Confessing that he was not an engineer, he proceeded to controvert the best engineering opinions available with bald estimates, based on nothing at all, as to the probable time it would take to complete the cut, the amount of dirt that would have to be removed and the cost of excavation and other engineering work. Mr. Stimson was sure that tunnels at First and Second streets would do just as well as the open cut; in fact, he had always been a strong supporter of tunnels. He was sure the broad-minded men opposing the cut would work to a man for the tunnels. He knew he would personally. He wanted to assure everyone present that he would.

At this point there occurred the briefest interruption, the first of a series of embarrassing comments from non-debaters which left Mr. Stimson at the close of the meeting in a condition of subdued silence strangely contrasting with the fervor he had shown at the beginning. It was J. W. Snodgrass who spoke and he wanted to remind Mr. Stimson that he had addressed more than one remark against the tunnels at the time of the tunnel agitation two years ago. The speaker could not deny the allegation and went on with a visibly diminished confidence.

Lawrence Holmes and N. C. Ne[illegible] both formerly of Seattle and both of whom personally profited from the advance of realty values in that city following the gigantic Seattle regrading projects, were, unfortunately for Mr. Stimson, on hand to discuss some of the impressions the latter was trying to drive home about the northern city's hill cutting experiences. Some of the poor property owners whose pitiable fate Mr. Stimson was bewailing arose to remark that they believed they could stagger along under their assessments with twenty-[illegible] years in which to pay.

TALKED-ABOUT MEN OF SAN FRANCISCO TALK.

Art, Politics and Religion in Their Newest Aspects—An Archbishop and a Judge of the Supreme Court Discuss Live Issues with a "Times" Girl.

BY JEANNE REDMAN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—The most spectacular thing about the San Francisco man is the diversity of his interests. It is not an unusual thing to see prominent attorneys, physicians and other pompous personages at a cafe in the evening, dancing with as much vim and abandon as is common among the young bank clerks in most cities. And if you happen to have had much experience in other cities of the United States, and therefore bring the conversation to shop as soon as possible, you will soon find out that your professional man would rather hear you discuss the cmparative merits of the new fox-trot.

Business in San Francisco is one of those necessities which we attend to, but which we do not discuss. The distinct charm comes at noon when the men hurry to the Palace Hotel, the popular lunching place of the elite. There is a round table at the Palace—not in the men's grill, mind you; the men's grill is only the overflow which cannot get into the women's grill. At this round table gather the shining lights of San Francisco—to talk about the war and the high cost of living, and mostly, I understand, to express the hope that Wilson will not be re-elected. There follow, also, intense arguments about the things which the exposition brought vitally to their notice, for the influence of the exposition is still very strongly felt. The new art is a popular topic among the men of this city. There is partisanship for and against the new art; and so seriously is it taken and talked about, that one is unwise to express an opinion on the subject unless he is prepared to defend his position.

John E. D. Trask Commissioner of Fine Arts

General Bell, the silent soldier

San Franciscans

In whom San Francisco is much interested today.

THE NEW ART.

Among the men qualified to speak upon the burning subject of the new art is the Commissioner of Fine Arts at the exposition, Mr. John E. D. Trask. Mr. Trask is a man of great prominence in San Francisco, though he is not a permanent resident. He was the director of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the oldest art institution in America, before taking up his residence here during the term of the exposition, and he tells me that he pays nonresident club dues in four cities. He is quite the theme in studios and salons.

Mr. Trask is a scholarly man, with the good taste to conceal the fact as much as is possible. He runs away from his scholarship if you set it on his trail. He takes a serious view of art and of his position in connection with art in San Francisco, but he refuses to take himself seriously and refuses to talk seriously about his share in the art life of this city. When I lost patience with him and his nonchalance I said:

"Mr. Trask, aren't you afraid of me? Aren't you afraid of the combination of a woman and a pen?"

Mr. Trask was for a time the yachting editor of the New York Press, and he takes a skeptical view of newspaper correspondents.

But to get to the Moderns. There are so many new schools of painting that they have to be lumped together as Moderns. Mr. Trask points out that each of them in trying to get away from conventions makes others which in turn must become eliminated. But on the whole he attributes the Italian Uglicists to a spirit of revolution which has swept Italy, opposing the eternal cult of the beautiful. They are tired of the vaunted beauties of Italy, and are seeking freedom even from that. It is a conscious thing, not a spontaneous reaction. How far Mr. Trask has gone from the tyranny of the beautiful may be gauged by his remark to me that he would rather have one of Rossetti's [illegible] than all of his paintings. "They look like magazine covers," he says of the long-necked, full-lipped creatures. And as for the fact that the Moderns paint things which are not the statements of the life that surrounds us: "Why should they? Why not paint things in the land of imagination? That's a very pleasant land to live in."

[illegible], isn't it?

Mr. Trask is convinced that the next great creative movement in American art will emanate from the Pacific Coast.

"I don't mean to say that the East is a dead soil," he said, "but there is the great influence of the climate here, and then the westerners are an emotional and a sensitive people. It is astonishing how they have felt the finer things of the exposition. The Zone was a failure—" "And," I finished, "the Fine Arts was the greatest drawing card of the entire exposition." And it was. Of the great number of pictures sold at the exposition, the majority were by American painters, and Mr. Trask says that a fine sense of appreciation was evidenced in their choice.

The Archbishop.

The man who wields the widest influence in San Francisco is Archbishop Hanna. The politicians, the grafters and the men who make the city, alike, feel the moral weight of the archbishop. He is to be respected and revered as the spiritual father of this big city, but, above all, he is to be dealt with. His name is most frequently on San Francisco lips. His voice is likely to be the decisive one in the selection of a new bishop for the vacant see of Los Angeles.

I talked with His Grace this morning and found him concerned, as the church invariably is, with eternity rather than with time. I discussed the problems of today with him, and found that he was absorbed in the future. His great problem here is with education. He is not worrying about the demoralization of the cafe life, for the disintegration incurred by the apartment-house; he is disturbed by the fact that San Francisco has a vast foreign population and that the mothers do not speak the same language as the children.

"There are 80,000 Italians in this city," the archbishop said, "and the children receive no religious instruction because they attend English-speaking non-sectarian schools. Your mother taught you your prayers—" the archbishop knows the value of the personal element in driving an argument—"well, these poor children don't speak the same language as their parents." That is a problem, and a big one.

When I asked the archbishop about the story of empty churches in San Francisco he answered that in the cathedral alone they hold six services every Sunday morning and that the church can with difficulty seat the people. And when I spoke of Saturday night in the city and the wild abandon which lasts well into Sunday morning, the archbishop offset my remarks by telling me that the church averages 150,000 communions every Sunday. If one wishes to be encouraged about the future and, indeed, the present, Archbishop Hanna is the one to go to.

And, while the papers and some of the preachers of the city are bemoaning the fashions in women's dress and discussing whether or not women have equal rights with men, the archbishop visualizes them as crowding the churches and the orphanages and caring for the sick and the poor of San Francisco. Further, the church has lived through so many upheavals about women and other things that when a new phase of human progress strikes the consciousness of men and shocks them more or less, the church pursues the even tenor of her way, trying to make something tangible of the spiritual life, and bringing up the young in the way they should go.

No, the archbishop of San Francisco cannot become wrought up about the methods used by the people in this overstimulating climate to relieve themselves of their superfluous energy. He regards their antics in much the same spirit of sympathy as the Newfoundland dog when he watches a kitten disporting itself in the sun. Not that he is not aware of them, nor ignores them, but he puts them in their proper proportion, and he regards San Francisco not as a lost city, but as a great field for work. The archbishop is not an old man, and he is an intense worker. He comes from Rochester, and he daily offers thanks that this is a climate wherein he can work all the year round without regard to the elements.

His waiting-room is a story in itself, filled as it is with all sorts and descriptions of people. There are priests of every nationality, who must come to the archbishop when they arrive in the city for permission to perform their spiritual duties. And there are nuns, young and lovely, or old and tired. And, most pathetic, there are always hordes of people looking for employment and for assistance of some sort. You wait longer in the archbishop's house than you do in the waiting-room of a great nerve specialist. And you find much more tonic when you see him, for his grace puts life and vigor into his listeners and makes them feel somehow happier and finer than before, and infinitely grateful. When he finds that one does not come for assistance in seeking congenial employment his relief is so obvious as to be contagious. I asked him if it was not a fine thing to be archbishop of San Francisco.

"When the title first came to me," he said, "I could think of nothing but the things I should try to do, and then the fascination of the honor. It was not long before I came to realize that I was a slave. Now, I think I feel the fascination of the honor not at all, and the sense of my servitude very strongly."

The General.

The month of December brought to Fort Mason Maj.-Gen. James Franklin Bell, commanding the Western Department, U.S.A. When I was told to visit the most-talked-of men in San Francisco I naturally thought of him. The papers are full of him and he is the most conspicuous figure of the army life of the West. I appealed first to the general's aide and was promptly refused. The general loathes newspaper notoriety. Having been denied a personal communication through the aide, I, as I thought, quite naturally went to the general himself. I found him surprised that his aide had made so little impression.

"You have a good bit of nerve," he said; "I have refused to see you."

"I know," I answered, "but I could not stop until I had gone to the highest authority."

"Very well, I'll talk to you, but only with the understanding that I conduct the interview." Gen. Bell comes from Kentucky. "Very well then, Gen. Bell, but I write the story."

Gen. Bell has always had an aversion to publicity and when he was only 42 years old he was made general and put in command in Manila. At that time the Filipinos were butchering whole families, dozens and dozens of them, and had to be executed when they were caught. This was an exciting time for the Manila newspapers and, as Gen. Bell was in command, they worried him to death. Finally, when the reporters had about given up, a girl turned up and requested an interview, and was refused, "as you were," the general reminded me. One day Gen. Bell came out of his office and found the girl in tears. As I said before, he comes from Kentucky, and he asked her in, but he was sure that she was using a woman's weapon as a subterfuge. "I knew then that I was lost, and I capitulated." The general expressed regret at having hurt the girl's feelings, and gave a concise statement of the situation, "which," he eyed me meaningly, "she reported with absolute accuracy."

The next day the girl, who had been in such need of money that she actually did not know where her room rent was to come from, rushed into the office, "and," the general said, "I was repaid, for she waved in her hand a check for $75, which the paper had given her in——" "but, my dear Gen. Bell," I interrupted mightily, "you have told me that you know The Times well, and that you are a personal friend of our chief——" "Oh, I did not say that your story resembled hers in every single particular." Since that time Gen. Bell dislikes to refuse a woman, but I feel now, and am appalled when I think of it, what a horrible thing it would be to be a man!

Gen. Bell says that every general in the United States would fail, because of the nation's unpreparedness if war were to come upon us now, and he insists that President Washington would not have expected us to follow his advice with regard to foreign entanglement, could he have foreseen present conditions.

Do We Brag?

Mr. Porter Garnett is the man who wrote the inscriptions for the exposition. That is, of course, only one of the notable things he has done in California, and elsewhere, as a man of letters. Mr. Garnett resides in Berkeley, but is associated with San Francisco as are all the literary persons of note who live near the city, but rarely in it. George Sterling is another writer who belongs to San Francisco although he resides in Carmel and is the big man of the colony there. Most of the literary men of San Francisco manage to live out of town. There is Jack London who lives in Sonoma on his ranch, but who really belongs to the city.

Mr. Garnett is exceedingly refreshing in his attitude about California. He thinks that our tendency to boast about ourselves has actually stultified our activities. He thinks we would be far better off if we gave more attention to our shortcomings, and less to our flamboyant bragging. That is admirably true; we brag horribly. And Mr. Garnett points out what cultivation we have here is only a little flowering in a great morass. We may have a great future, but so far as an art center is concerned he thinks we decidedly have not a very great present. Confession is good for the soul, and I, like every Californian, need a check rein on my enthusiasm. Let us add candor to the rest of our fine attributes and see things in their true light and then there will be real hope for us!

The Supreme Court.

One of the most distinguished public figures of San Francisco is Judge Henry A. Melvin, associate justice of the Supreme Court. Judge Melvin was appointed by Gov. Gillett in 1908, upon the death of Justice MacFarland, and he has made a steadily-growing impression upon San Francisco, readily fulfilling the brilliant promise of his days at the University of California. After graduation at the Hastings Law College in the city, Judge Melvin went in quick succession from justice of the peace of Alameda county to assistant District Attorney of that county, then Prosecuting Attorney, chief deputy District Attorney, and in 1900 deputy Attorney-General of the State of California. At the general election, November, 1902, Judge Melvin was elected to succeed himself with the largest vote ever given a candidate for Superior judge of Alameda county.

I spent an hour with Judge Melvin this morning and he talked with such enthusiasm about his duties as justice of the Supreme Court, and with such pride and faith in the efficiency of the San Francisco bar, and, by the way, of the Republican party, that his great success is easily accounted for.

"The Progressives nearly got me three years ago," Judge Melvin said, "but I am a stand-patter and it was then that The Times backed me and pulled me out of a tight place."

The Supreme Court of San Francisco is one of the busiest courts in the United States, but there are very few dissensions. Only about 5 per cent. of the appeals which come to this court are argued. They are read, and the authorities cited are read, after which the justice writes an opinion, which is then read by the associate justices, four of whom must sign it before it becomes the opinion of the court.

With all this reading and writing to do, Judge Melvin still finds time for the Saturday Evening Post, which he assures me he never misses, and for the demands made upon him by the Bohemian Club, of which he is one of the most popular members. The Bohemian Club of San Francisco! No article concerning the prominent men of this city is complete without a word for the organization which affords such recreation and relaxation to these men of whom I write. They all love it and none of them is quite comme il faut unless he is a good Bohemian.

National "Baby Week"

—In the interest of Better Babies, and the Broadway is co-operating with the women of Los Angeles, in presenting here—

News of Baby Things

—We've thought of everything, it seems, to make Baby comfortable and keep him happy. We've got the things he needs to wear, the coverings for his downy crib and all the little bits of things to use in his appareling.

—And then, there are things for tiny tots—the toddlers and those that walk more certainly. And the newest things are different in ways you are sure to like.

—The bolero is a new style touch seen both on coats and dresses. A coat of rosy pink crepella has collar and tiny bolero of pink moire edged with embroidery. A filmy frock has the bolero hand embroidered in novel arrowhead design.

—Long dresses of sheer batiste are exquisitely embroidered and trimmed with Valenciennes insertion. Simpler ones are smocked and lace edged.

—This little bonnet, a cute Dutch style, has its embroidered shield cut differently; that one is bordered with a lace that is new.

—Kimonos, white and pink and blue; short kimonos and long ones, of crepella, silk and cashmere. A long one of white crepella has scalloped edges of pink silk embroidery and wee embroidered bouquets in pink and blue.

—A short kimono of pink crepe de chine is scalloped, daintily hand embroidered and has narrow pink ribbon fastenings.

—"Aren't they dear!" one woman said it to the other as they fingered the dainty things, and she did not mean the prices for they are very moderate.

—And for Baby's outings there's Lloyd's "Princess" Sleeper, the wicker carriage that is truly luxurious. With reversible body they are priced $22.50 to $50.00 and the non-reversible, $16.75.
—Full length cushions of rep or corduroy, foot well and inter-changeable artillery wheels are comforts found in Lloyd's "Princess." The natural wicker also brown, gray and old ivory.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY DOROTHY B. JOHNSTON.

OF PARAMOUNT interest, always in an annual convention, is the election. This is true of t coming fifteenth annual convention of the Los Angeles district, California Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be entertained by the Hollywood Woman's Club March 21, 22, 23, 24, inclusive.

Mrs. Lloyd W. Harmon, the popular recording secretary, will have no opposition for the one-year term as president. Nor will there be opposition for the office of recording secretary, Mrs. R. C. Shipman (now corresponding secretary) being the only nominee as a result of the preferential ballot. Mrs. W. E. Goodyear, the treasurer, who is from Ventura county, will succeed herself. Mrs. Harry J. Slater of Santa Monica is the sole nominee for member of the State Nominating Committee, and Mrs. Charles G. Wiley of Long Beach for member of the State Credentials Committee.

The contest will come for the office of vice-president, for which Mrs. Emma L. Reed, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones of Glendale, and Mrs. W. A. Galentine are making an active campaign; for corresponding secretary, with Mrs. A. B. Brewer and Mrs. C. S. Bateman candidates, and for auditor, Mrs. C. G. Robinson of Covina being a candidate to succeed herself and Mrs. E. P. Foster of Ventura, who stands a good chance of election, having the support of Mrs. L. B. Hogue, vice-president-at-large for the State, and a likeable and efficient club woman.

Mrs. Elisabeth Mumford of South Pasadena, judge of the election board, has just issued the sample ballot, and from now on there is to be keen rivalry for the three offices.

The hardest fight will come over the election of a vice-president that everyone agrees upon. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. Jones especially are strong with particular advocates, and the 'line-up" is well defined. Mrs. J. E. Brown had a fine following, but her decision to drop out of the race has changed the complexion of the chances for the other two ladies mentioned considerably.

Considerable strength will be thrown to Mrs. Galentine.

All session are to be held at the handsome Hollywood Woman's Club House, No. 7078 Hollywood boulevard. Fine Literary Hour.

An offering to lovers of the music-dramas was the illuminating interpretative reading of "Das Rheingold" (Wagner,) whicn, under the charm and understanding of Miss Ida M. Leonard's art, captivated a large audience Friday afternoon at her studio in the Y.W.C.A. Building. Miss Leonard received the inspiration for the series of "The Nibelungen Ring" readings during a visit to Bayreuth and Munich, and has devoted much study to the operas and their dramatic possibilities. Her intellecutual grasp of the subject, her own emotional response to its appeal, coupled with a rich voice changing with shade of thought and feeling, make her a powerful instrument for interpreting the great Wagner's masterpieces.

At the hour of 4 o'clock on Friday afternoons of March Miss Leonard will continue the series, giving for March 10, "Die Walkure;" the 17th, "Siegfried;" the 24th, "Die Gotterdammerung."

Permanent Relief for Chronic Constipation

Knowledge and Practice of Correct Daily Habit the Great Essential.

Constipation is a condition affecting all classes of all people and can be permanently relieved only by acquiring habits of regularity.

The most natural time for the eliminative process is in the morning when both the muscular and nervous systems are relaxed by sleep and rest. When relief does not come readily, it is an excellent plan to take a mild laxative at bedtime. Cathartics and purgatives, that by the violence of their quick action shock and disturb the system, should not be employed.

An effective laxative remedy that is very dependable, and which does not gripe or otherwise disturb the organs involved, is found in a combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that can be bought at the drug store for fifty cents a bottle.

Mrs. C. C. Allen, 215 Foam St., New Monterey, Cal., wrote to Dr. Caldwell that she "found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin just what was needed for constipation and distress of the stomach after eating. It should be in every household."

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and keep it in the house to use when occasion arises. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

MALIBU ROAD GRANT IN COUNTY'S NAME.

DEDICATION FOR HIGHWAY BY FORMER OWNER.

Rindge Estate Answers in Court with Technical Attack on Legality of Deed—Settlers in Neighborhood of Ranch Testify to Hardships Resulting from Fences.

The fight of the county to open the Malibu road as a public highway from La Chusa Canyon to the Ventura county line, for the relief of the settlers, and the opposition of the Rindge estate on the ground that it is private property, will come squarely before the court on Tuesday, to which date the hearing was continued, at the request of counsel for the Rindges.

Yesterday before Judge Parker the county offered many affidavits from settlers, complaining they have no way of sending their children to school or obtaining provisions, by reason of the road being locked against them. The portion of the disputed road is about three miles from the Ventura county road, and although the locks on the gates were broken and fences cut down by the county road foreman, under orders from the Supervisors, throwing open the road to the public, the Rindges immediately replaced the fences and put on new locks.

On Tuesday the Rindges will offer counter-affidavits. They will show that the settlers have a means of getting in and out without trespassing on the alleged private property of the estate.

The settlers claim that the school will be closed unless the road is declared opened and kept open. They also fear the government will not be able to establish a postoffice, which has been ordered. One rancher said he could not market his eggs, which means a loss to him, as he cannot get them to town. Another averred he could not attend a cousin's funeral at Santa Monica, as, the road being closed, he had to wait for low tide before he could use the beach road.

The county defined its position yesterday. It set up that in 1875 the land was owned by one Keller, who dedicated a road to the county, on condition that it spend $300 on road improvement. The county spent $600, and the road was regularly used until [illegible], when the late Frederick Rindge bought the Malibu ranch and put up gates. The gates were subsequently torn down on the order of the Supervisors and the road was used until [illegible], when Mrs. May K. Rindge took up the fight to keep the road closed.

The Rindges will assert that Keller could not legally dedicate the road to the county, because one of his children was not of age and there could be no dedication without the consent of all the heirs. They claim it is private property and always has been; that the road was never used by the public except by occasional campers and as a horse trail. It was used by the public after the Rindges had been defeated in a court action several years ago, and then a new trial was granted as to the Ventura end, in [illegible], but this new trial has not taken place.

MANY OBJECT.
PROPERTY DAMAGED.

More than 500 property owners, who claim that the awards made by the referees in the condemnation proceedings for the widening of Hoover street from Vernon avenue to Fifty-second street, are too large, intervened in the form of exceptions to the report, and yesterday the matter came before Judge Shenk for a hearing.

The condemnation suit was directed against Mrs. Marie Armond and others. Hoover street was widened from forty to eighty feet. The total damages awarded by the referees was $[illegible],000. The property owners representing the intervenors went before the City Council and the latter instructed the City Attorney to try the case on its merits in court.

The intervenors claim politics was played in the form the assessment took, and that because of this property owners will have to pay more than they originally expected. The referees were Marshall Stimson, Alexander Culver and Paul Crippen.

"LOVE NEST."
NOW THE PENALTY.

Elmer Baumgardner and M. A. Johnston, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Adeline Heaney and Margaret Black, were given preliminary examinations before Judge [illegible] of the Juvenile Court yesterday. Their bail was fixed at $500, pending trial in the Superior Court. Mr. Johnston gave bail, but in default Mr. Baumgardner was taken to jail.

The young men were arrested when a so-called "love nest" was raided in Pasadena. The bungalow was occupied by the son of the owners, who was in the East. He pleaded guilty, was fined $50 and left the city. The Pasadena officers will arrest him if he returns.

ESTATE SCATTERED.
SEEKS ADMINISTRATION.

Mary McDonald Fraser, a sister, filed a petition yesterday for letters of administration on the estate of Alexander McDonald, who died February 25, last, in San Francisco. The value of the estate is put down as in excess of $10,000. It is stated in the petition that Mr. McDonald's will is in the possession of M. Vilas Hubbard of Pasadena. It was executed April 26, 1908.

The appointment of administrator at this time is stated to be for the reason that the estate is scattered and it is essential that someone take charge. Mrs. Fraser states she is the only heir in California. A brother, Walter McDonald, resides in Boston. Margaret McDonald, named executrix in the will, died November 20, [illegible].

IN AND OUT ABOUT THE COURTS.

HIS BIRTHDAY. Capt. Thomas [illegible], clerk of Judge Shenk's court, passed his seventieth milestone yesterday. He paused in his work for a moment to squint down the long years, and while he was in reminiscent mood a big bouquet came bobbing into the room. Back of the flowers were attaches of Judge Reeve's court. With the bouquet was a card reading: "It's a long way to Tipperary, Cap, but you are only half way there."

THAT HOUND DOG. Pending the trial of Miss Marjorie D. Cole's suit to recover a Russian wolf hound valued at $500, Judge Works yesterday ordered the animal turned over to the court, after it was admitted by one of the defendants, Smith, that she knew where the dog was. Miss Cole says that Alfred Smith gave her the hound after a dog he had sold her died. Mr. Smith contends that the hound is his, and the object of the action is to determine the ownership.

DENIES NEW TRIAL. Judge Dewhirst of San Bernardino, sitting in the local courts, denied a motion for a new trial yesterday in the suit involving rents of the Oakwood Hotel, Arcadia, in the racing days there. This paves the way for an appeal from the judgment, which was against the Maier Brewing Company and W. H. Clune, as sureties for Jack Doyle, lessee. The judgment was in favor of Clara Baldwin Stocker for $24,282. The rent was claimed January 1, 1909, to March 1, 1912. Judge Dewhirst tried the suit last January.

RELIEF WORK. Judge Wilbur conferred with Judge L. T. Price of Alpine county yesterday with reference to the latter taking over Department Fifteen this week. Judge Wilbur will sit in the criminal court, relieving Judge Willis, who is in need of a rest before the Caplan trial, which has been continued to April 3, at which he will preside. The Caplan trial will be held in the courtroom of Department One, which has been equipped with a gate to hold back the crowding of spectators. This gate will allow one at a time to pass into the courtroom.

ON THE INCREASE. Litigation in the Superior courts is growing. According to the record of Secretary Noel, the increase over a year ago is 11 per cent. The eighteen regular departments handled during the year 19,531 actions. There were 3032 criminal cases, 16,499 civil actions and 2287 divorce suits. Juvenile cases numbered 1224; jury trials, 750; mortgage foreclosures, 1303; new probate matters, 3000.

MUST SERVE. Fred Acker, a Civil War veteran, will have to serve his ninety-day sentence in the County Jail for disturbance of the peace, according to the edict of Judge Craig yesterday morning. Mr. Acker applied for release upon a writ of habeas corpus. After hearing the petition Judge Craig decided that the grounds for punishment were sufficient to warrant his staying in jail for the prescribed time.

COMFORT PROVIDED FOR CITY GOLFERS.

COUNCIL APPROPRIATES SMALL SUM TO START WORK.

Lockers, Dressing-rooms, Lunch Stand and Shower Baths to be Provided and Real Clubhouse may be Arranged for in the Next Annual Budget.

Provision for beginning work on a locker room, rest room and shower bath for the Griffith Park golf course was made by the City Council when an appropriation of $4500 was voted to the park department for the purpose. The question was considered seriously by the last Budget Committee and the plan originally proposed asked for about $12,000 for a real clubhouse. Lack of funds made necessary an extensive cut in the park department requests and, until the present time, the Finance Committee has not been willing to recommend any appropriation for the purpose. Councilman Wheeler, chairman of the Finance Committee, said yesterday that he hopes the committee will be able to find another appropriation to complete the work on the golf links, but, in any event, the appropriation made yesterday will relieve the actual necessity for lockers and rest room and provide a shower bath for players. Through a system of nominal fees or rental for the lockers, the rest room may be made self supporting and the city will be at no expense for attendants, maintenance or upkeep. In urging the appropriation yesterday, Councilman Conwell said that in view of the large expenditures for parks and playgrounds for children exclusively, the parents are entitled to this consideration.

FOR INSPECTORS.
PREMIUM ON HONESTY.

Los Angeles street inspectors hereafter will be able to do their duty by the city without fining themselves a day's wages every time they make a careless or avaricious contractor live up to the terms of his contract. The change will be brought about by an ordinance passed by the City Council yesterday which places twenty-five regular inspectors on a straight salary basis at $125 a month and thirty emergency inspectors will receive the same salary while working.

Under the old system of inspection for street improvement work under contract, whenever an inspector found something wrong, he must stop the work immediately and when the work stopped the inspector's salary stopped at the same time. Consequently, the inspectors were under constant temptation to be more than lenient in their decisions. The Efficiency Commission pursued an exhaustive investigation and the ordinance passed yesterday is in line with the commission's conclusions.

UNIFORMITY.
CITY JOBS CLASSIFIED.

The suggested classification of personnel for the city government, prepared by the Efficiency Commission, in which all city positions are classified according to the service rendered, was presented to the Council yesterday by Councilman Conwell, president of the Efficiency Commission. Mr. Conwell said that the report represents many months' work and investigation and that as presented, it has been approved by practically all of the heads of departments. Within the next few days, Mr. Conwell said, an ordinance will be presented for the adoption of all of the classifications. This, he said, will be the first step towards the adoption of a system of uniform salaries for like service in all city departments, as contemplated by the Budget Committee in its next report.

DIFFERENCES.
COUNCIL VS. SUPERVISORS.

Differences of opinion between the City Council and the County Supervisors over the proper width of streets in plats adjoining the city limits developed yesterday when Chairman Topham of the Public Works Committee reported that the County Supervisors have approved a plat just south of the city after approval was refused by the city because the streets are only forty feet wide instead of sixty feet. The State law gives the city the right to pass on adjacent subdivisions within three miles from the city limits. The matter will be taken up with the Supervisors on the assumption that their action was an oversight but, if necessary, the city will see that the county's approval of the plat is nullified until it meets with the approval of the Council.

Temple-street Problem.

The City Attorney was instructed by the Council yesterday to tackle the problem of compelling the Los Angeles Railway Corporation to pave between the tracks of the Temple-street line. Inasmuch as the railway company is operating the line by sufferance and without a franchise, it is not probable that the city has authority to force the company to improve the street and the company has refused to spend any money until it has a franchise. In the meantime, Chairman Topham of the Public Works Committee says the city is liable for damages and in some places the street is almost impassable.

Municipalograms.

The Public Works Committee reported to the Council yesterday favoring a special district bond issue for San Pedro to provide $100,000 for the outfall sewer that will serve that district. The question will be left to the voters of San Pedro and property owners have assured the Council that they will begin circulating a petition for the bond election immediately.

Private streets and alleys of Los Angeles will be assessed this year in exact proportion to the value of abutting property. This was the order of the City Council by formal resolution, directed to the City Assessor.

The recent resolution of the Public Service Commission asking the State Railroad Commission to fix rates for electric light and power within the city limits was indorsed yesterday by the Council and the City Attorney will be instructed to present formally the city's request for a hearing before the commission.

The Chase Walnut Tree

Through this tree and its posterity will come a revolution of the walnut industry. The greatest enemy of the walnut grower is the blight. Just from my personal observation I would judge that at least twenty per cent. of the walnut crop is lost each year through this devastating disease. Its cure has been sought for for years without anything being accomplished and at last all have come to the conclusion that if this disease is to be stamped out it must come through planting immune varieties, this from trees showing the most resistance to this disease.

When I discovered the Chase tree the question of blight had not agitated the growers very much. I was not at that time looking for immune varieties, only for trees that bore the largest quantity of nuts. I was perfectly satisfied as regard the bearing qualities, but was doubly grateful when I realized that this tree was also resistant, so much so that it lost no more than two or three per cent. of the nuts and even in the worst seasons it would never lose more than four or five per cent., while trees in the same orchard and in close proximity to this tree would lose 50 to 75 per cent. of their nuts.

I think a wise providence placed this marvelous tree in that blighted district so that its value could be appreciated. I contracted for the scions and nuts from this tree for a term of years, furnishing a bond for five hundred dollars in case I injured or killed the tree by cutting scions therefrom. The picture showing the nuts is of a grafted Chase tree five years old. Several trees in this orchard broke down with the weight of nuts before the owner realized the need of propping. When I first saw the original tree I was struck with admiration. There before me stood the finest walnut I had ever seen, so large, so stately, so dignified, so majestic, that I could scarcely take my eyes from it and even at that time I could see the possibility of the tree and was convinced that through this tree many thousand dollars would be saved to the growers each year.

I named this tree the Chase, after Jacob Chase, the man who owned it when I discovered it.

I think that this picture was taken when it was twenty-four years old. The previous year the tree bore 325 pounds of nuts. As far as I can judge, there are none of the standard varieties of walnuts that can approach the Chase. The standard Northern nuts are the Franquette and Mayette, a decided success in the Northern part of the State and as decided a failure in the Southern part.

The most prominent standard local varieties are Prolific, Eureka, Placentia and Chase. The Prolific is well named, for it is a heavy bearer but only when the trees are young, however. The old tree has been going back for several years, bearing very few nuts. The nuts of this variety have a very dark meat and subject to perforation. The Eureka, the parent tree, very ordinary. This variety was introduced as immune but has not proven to be so. The Eureka blooms very late and has off years in bearing. The young trees of this variety are slow in beginning to bear. The Placentia Perfection—the nuts of this variety are of good quality and bring a good price but the trees are so subject to blight that many times a large percentage of the crop is lost and often the whole tree is affected. No one will deny that the Placentia is very subject to the disease. I will explain why they seem to be so popular and so many of these trees are sold. Scions from the Prolific, Eureka and Chase are very scarce while the Placentia can be obtained in large quantity at a very low price, consequently nearly all nurserymen graft the Placentia and quite naturally have to boost for that variety to sell their stock.

Here are the strong points of the Chase: The tree is of enormous size, a giant in the walnut world. It is a very heavy bearer. It is a persistent bearer. It is precocious as the accompanying picture will show. It is never affected with perforation. It is almost entirely free from blight. The nuts are large, well filled, weigh heavy, light color and crack readily, bearing the kernel perfect.

Scarcely any culls or seconds from Chase orchards.

Note the accompanying letters from men who have had experience with the Chase.

The Original Chase Walnut Tree

The Five-Year-Old Grafted Chase Walnut Tree

The Magnolia Nursery, 600 West Hadley street, Whittier, has a limited number of these trees to offer for planting this year and will be glad to show them as well as the original tree and the young orchard to any one contemplating planting. The best time to see these trees to appreciate their value is in July, August and September when the fruit is on the trees.

COVINA (Cal.) March 1, 1916.
Magnolia Nursery Co.,
Whittier, Cal.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your inquiry as to my Chase nuts, will say that I am satisfied with them. I harvested more nuts from twenty acres of "four-year-old" Chase trees than I did from thirty acres of Placentia Perfections that were five years old.

I shipped them as "Budded" from the Puente house, and they were received without any question.

I consider them worthy of investigation by any one that is planting a walnut orchard.

Respectfully yours,
E. G. HOTCHKISS.

LA HABRA (Cal.) March 2, 1916.

Whittier, Cal.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your inquiry as to my experience with the Chase walnut trees, will say, I have had charge of the McPherson ranch in La Habra Valley for six years and can truthfully say that since the trees were four years old there has been a heavy crop on the trees every year and a very small percentage of bad nuts.

There is always a ready sale for these nuts at the highest market price, the same as that received for Placentias and other budded nuts.

Yours respectfully,
E. R. WOOLSEY.

Great Steel Mills.

by twelve inches in size, will go to the reheating furnaces, thence being taken to the rolling mills, where they will be reduced to bars and structural shapes of various kinds. The processes by which the rolled steel is converted into the various finished products come next. Then everything goes to the warehouse, into which run tracks from the railway spurs and in which will be provided the most modern facilities for loading.

MAMMOTH FURNACES.

The furnace building proper will be 110 feet in width by 200 feet in length. The foundry building, of like dimensions, will be practically an extension of it, both structures being under a continuous roof line. The pattern buildings will each be 60x150 feet in size. The warehouse will be 100x400 feet. The rolling mill building will consist of four subdivisions under one roof and will have extreme dimensions of 300x400 feet.

The elevated trackage of the various traveling cranes will run into the thousands of feet. The mill building will contain two cranes of sixty-two-foot span and two of ninety-one-foot span, all four having a uniform track length of 400 feet. The furnace building will contain in addition to its crane of sixty-foot span another of forty-five-foot span. Each will be 200 feet long.

The whole plant will be operated with power from the Southern California Edison Company. The rolling mills will be driven by alternating current motors of 2200 volts, their horsepower ranging from 600 to 1250.

The beginning of the Llewellyn business dates back to 1886, when Llewellyn J., Reese and William Llewellyn, operating as a partnership, started a small foundry with $2000 capital. The company was incorporated as the Llewellyn Iron Works in 1894, with a capital stock of $100,000. Its present capitalization is $1,500,000. The present officers are Reese Llewellyn, president; William Llewellyn, vice-president; Waller Taylor, vice-president; D. E. Llewellyn, secretary, and John Llewellyn, assistant secretary.

Mr. Taylor stated yesterday that Reese Llewellyn has just shipped from the east the two larger of the rolling mills for the new plant. Mr. Llewellyn has been for several weeks in Pittsburgh and other steel centers making a study of various large plants. He will return to Los Angeles in about ten days.

NEW ORDINANCE READY.

The revised ordinance governing establishment of children's homes will come up for a hearing tomorrow morning before the Board of Supervisors. The original ordinance was framed at the behest of a number of residents of Eagle Rock, who objected to the presence of the Strickland Home for Boys in their neighborhood. The ordinance was so drastic it would injure other children's homes in the county, and the board asked for a revision along more moderate lines.

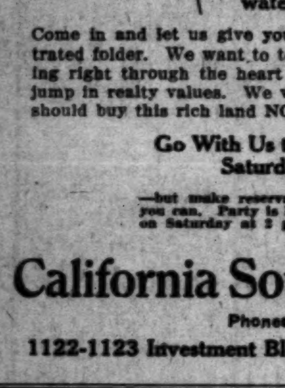
"Anyone Can Now Remove Wrinkles"



By Valeska Suratt.

Every Woman Should Use These Wonderful Formulas Given by the American Theatrical Star, Valeska Suratt, Celebrated for Her Self-Made Beauty.

MOST women have heretofore found the removal of wrinkles to be a huge task and a strain on patience. But the task has now been revolutionized, as any one will prove who will use for a short time my wrinkle remover which I give below. Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of eptol in half a pint of hot water. This will form an exquisite cream. Applied regularly and liberally, it will produce startling results in a short time, and deep lines, wrinkles and crow's feet will disappear, leaving the skin youthful and vigorous. There is not a particle of question as to the result if you will only use it faithfully. It makes the skin plump and smooth. This is, besides, much more economical than the creams you buy in the stores in ready-to-use form, and which do not produce the results.

SPARSE—Dandruff and falling hair can be positively and quickly stopped and the hair forced to grow most luxuriantly by applying every day liberal quantities of my formula—an economical mixture of one ounce of beta-quinol, half a pint of alcohol and half a pint of water (or with a full pint of bay rum, if preferred.) This makes a hair and scalp remedy of extraordinary power. It is a dandruff remover and hair grower in one, and will do more good to your hair and scalp than anything you have ever used. Every drug store can supply you with the beta-quinol. You will not fail with this formula.

LAMENTING—You can surely acquire a beautiful complexion in a short time, by using my own special formula made by mixing two tablespoonfuls of glycerine in a half-pint of hot water and adding one ounce of zintone. This makes every spot, freckle and blemish vanish in a short time, giving the skin a purity and a tint that is astonishing. There is no other cream known that has ever produced such results. Get the zintone at any drug store.

JULIET D.—It will be very easy to get rid of your blackheads in a few moments by rubbing them with a hot, wet sponge, upon which has been sprinkled some neroxin. This can be secured at any drug store. It should be used over the entire face, and then washed off. Every blackhead will disappear.

MISS EUNICE—I always use a face powder made up according to my own formula. This is free from the extreme chalkiness found in nearly all face powders, is exquisitely smooth and delicately scented. To my mind it surpasses any face powder sold today, even the most expensive ones. It is now obtainable at drug stores, and is called "Valeska Suratt Face Powder."

MRS. F. G. A.—It is regrettable that you were not able to get from your druggist the eptol for making my wrinkle formula, but if you will write to my secretary enclosing the price, which is fifty cents, addressing "Secretary to Valeska Suratt, Thompson Bldg., Chicago," it will be sent to you at once.

WAITING—This cleans the hair and scalp more quickly and effectively than any soap or other shampoo known. Dissolve a teaspoonful of eggol in a half a cup of hot water, and shampoo in the ordinary way. It leaves the scalp cleaner and fresher than anything else you can use. It acts quickly, reduces labor, and makes the hair easy to do up. It is a real luxury. It is ver yeconomical. You can get enough eggol at a moderate cost for twelve or more shampoos.

MISS INQUIRY—No one can give you an assurance that the bust can be developed. In many cases the results of the following formula have been very successful. This is perfectly safe. Mix two ounces of ruetone, and half a cup of sugar, in a pint of cold water. Dissolve thoroughly, and of this take two teaspoonfuls after each meal and before retiring. It is certainly worth a trial.

ANNOYED—To remove those superfluous hairs from the lip and the fuzz from the face, moisten them with sulfo solution, which you can obtain at any drug store. This completely dissolves the hair, harmlessly and surely, instead of burning it off, as other hair removers do. It leaves no mark whatever and does not redden or irritate the skin.

Yawns for Money.

sible to put enough men in the field to really measure up buildings and compute deterioration and other factors. Conceding that the reappraisal plan may have been ineffectual at the start, he says his office, at least, has made the best of a bad job, causing the bureau organization to justify the outlay of funds made for it.

ORIGIN OF SCHEME.

However justifiable or unjustifiable the caustic comments that have been made and are being made concerning the re-appraisal plan, there is no difficulty in placing the responsibility for the bureau's existence. County and city officials were unanimous early last year in advocating a plan whereby there could be brought about a uniformity in the values placed by the two assessing departments upon the properties appraised by both. The organization that has been so much criticised was the outgrowth of that demand for more systematic methods.

To the end of bringing about the desired uniformity it was finally agreed that an exceptionally careful and accurate job should be made of the 1915-1916 assessment, so that the city and county figures, when they did agree, should be as nearly correct as possible. This led to the conception of the idea of a reappraisement of all real estate and buildings by a special department or commission acting under the two assessors, the latter to have the final decision as to the values to be placed on the assessment rolls. Supervisors and Council applauded.

The civil service method of finding a superintendent and other heads for the direction of this important work was resorted to. Just how any conceivable civil service test including a limited list of questions could determine an applicant's qualifications for acting in an advisory capacity to a City Assessor in office for twenty-three years and a County Assessor in the harness for the better part of a decade has never been revealed. That is what sticks in the craw of the prominent downtown property owners and others who have investigated the plan.

Leading members of the Los Angeles Realty Board declare that had greater publicity been given to the civil service plan of selecting the bureau officials, the board would have made it a point to see that men recognized as experts on real estate and building values took the examinations. They condemn the whole idea, holding that known authorities on values should have been appointed in the first place, giving real efficiency to the work.

ASTROLOGER AT HEAD.

James G. Stafford, the selection for superintendent under the civil service, owed his principal local fame prior to his elevation to public office to the fact that he had been editor of the National Astrological Journal and a leader in Los Angeles circles given over to inquiring into the mysterious and occult. Just prior to taking the examination he had been for a time in the employ of a company engaged in appraising real estate in Cleveland. As secretary of the State Realty Federation a few years ago, he acquired a large acquaintance among realty men in California, but his secretarial duties, say even his best friends among the local realty fraternity, did not qualify him to act as an expert on assessments.

Upon taking office, Mr. Stafford called downtown property owners together on three or four occasions and outlined an elaborately scientific scheme by which he proposed to fix values on business frontage. One theory of the plan was that the city should be divided into districts, in each of which was to be found an inside front foot of property to be used as a basis of comparison for all others. Every other front foot was to be labeled with a percentage indicating its relative value to the "100 per cent. unit," as the diligently-searched-for front foot of highest worth was to be called.

The bewildered listeners were asked to divest themselves of every idea about a property's value, but that associated with its percentage relation to the unit. The rest was to be the purely mechanical appliance of a sliding scale of computations.

As a theoretical way of permitting the property owners to help name their own assessable valuations, the plan would not work. The whole scheme was too complicated for owners who had become accustomed to thinking of their properties in terms of dollars and cents. The plan had to be abandoned. Guesses on individual feet of frontage ran all the way from 30 to 90 per cent., with no compromise in sight.

Next a picked list of big downtown property owners and experts on business real estate was assembled by Mr. Stafford and put through the same process. These seemed to grasp the idea better. With full instructions to work on, twenty men met from time to time during a period of several weeks and wrestled with percentages. Finally they had the thing completed for the entire district bounded by First, Ninth, Main and Grand.

The elusive unit of value cornered, they set a fixed actual value upon it and, lo, the value of every other foot was revealed by merely looking up its percentage. Some of the committeemen slyly confessed that they had violated the rules by thinking of the actual value first, but the thing was finally done. Mr. Stafford then proceeded to go ahead and set his own figures. It was about this time that the two assessors decided that the old style appraisal methods would have to do for awhile yet.

PLAN DISINTERRED.

Two weeks ago the committee of property owners who thought they were helping in the reappraisal work met with Mr. Stafford at the Chamber of Commerce. They were amazed at two things—at the havoc that had been wrought with their figures and at again hearing an exposition of the percentage proposition, which the two assessors had been assuring everybody was permanently buried.

Meanwhile the great question the average owner of property would like to have answered—the actual amount of taxes he will have to pay—must continue to baffle everyone for some time to come. Maps bearing values in red, blue and black, indicating appraisements uniform and otherwise by the assessors and the extra assessment agency of the bureau, have been on display from time to time in various places, but the figures are generally designated as tentative. The thing about these tentative figures that has impressed investigators most is their largeness.

Some time must elapse before the appraisements and the reappraisements and all the rest of it are down in black and white. Months more will pass before the rates which alone tell the story will be fixed.

Never before have assessment figures been awaited with so much interest as in this year of grace, 1916. Never before have so many hands checked every item. Never before has an appraisement cost so much money.

NEW ORDER FOR MASONS.

National Officers of Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm will Give Degrees to Members of Grotto to be Formed in this City.

Jinnistan Grotto, Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm — interpreted, a newly-organized social body within the Masons—will entertain distinguished guests, receive the degrees to charter members and install officers next Saturday evening at a banquet to be held in the Broadway Department Store cafe. Two national officers of the order, George E. Hatch and Charles E. Lansing, Past Grand Monarchs, will be the guests of honor, and Mr. Hatch will be installing officer for the local Grotto. Mr. Lansing is the brother of Secretary of State Lansing. It is expected nearly 500 will attend the ceremony.

Jinnistan Grotto was formed through the efforts of W. W. Howard, Deputy Grand Monarch, by appointment from the guard officers, and he in turn has appointed the following officers, who will be installed at the ceremony next Saturday: Henry W. Reynolds, Monarch; John W. Kemp, Chief Justice; Harry Andrews, Master of Ceremonies; Byron P. Glenn, Treasurer; Lon W. Claybaugh, Secretary, and John H. Sheridan, Registrar of Petitions.

The Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm was established at a meeting of Master Masons at Hamilton, N. Y., twenty-eight years ago, and has spread to most of the larger cities of the country, notably in the East. Master Masons are eligible to membership and there are included among the members Masons of the highest degree. One of the features is a widows' benefit fund, open to members, but optional, from which upon the death of the member the widow or heir receives $500 benefit.

Among the objects stated are to draw Master Masons of the different blue lodges into closer and more friendly relationship; to teach that a Mason is not merely a member of one blue lodge, but belongs to the fraternity at large; to make practical the teaching that it is the internal and not the external qualification that recommends a man to Masons.

The charter list of Jinnistan Grotto will be limited to the first 200 applicants.

Colonists Quit.

properties tied up in the colony scheme and are in no position to move away. He declared that with an expert efficiency man and manager of experience it might be possible for the colony to eventually retrieve itself financially, and it was for this purpose that a permit to sell stock, under conditions that would safeguard the stockholders who wished to sell out, was granted. Job Harriman has stated that the action of the State Corporation Department has made it impossible for the concern to sell its stock.

THE STATEMENT.

The statement of the stockholders mentioned above says, in part:

Within the past seven weeks, more than ninety-five stockholders in the Llano enterprise have notified Mr. Harriman's board of directors of their desire to withdraw. Practically all of these still are, or up to a very recent time were, actual resident members of the colony. They constituted almost a half of the stockholders residing at the colony who had paid cash or a property equivalent for their stock.

That fact alone is sufficient to indicate to the unbiased mind that something has been wrong at Llano and that the commissioner's report correctly portrays the situation.

PERQUISITES OF CZAR.

The Harriman autocracy has been maintained through its power to deprive any colonist who comes into disfavor of his labor contract or right to work at the colony, and of his right to draw from the common store, even though he has accumulated credits clearly entitling him to food and clothing. As stock in the corporation is practically unsalable without the labor contract attached, the colonist who has put his all into the enterprise may suddenly find himself exiled and driven forth utterly destitute and helpless until the ruling powers choose to relieve him of his stock on terms and conditions dictated by them.

In issuing a permit the commissioner required the company to dispose of the stock held by a colonist electing to withdraw in accordance with its own promises, but at certain definite intervals, and so as to repay not less than 90 per cent. of the amount of the investment. And the permit further denied the company the authority to take from the colonist his natural rights under his contract until his shares were sold.

Not even Mr. Harriman has had the temerity to openly attack the fairness and justice of the commissioner's requirement in light of the company's own promises. But in a recent address at the colony Harriman stated in substance that he had evolved a plan to defeat the expectations of the withdrawing colonists.

Both Mr. Eggleston [who financed the colony and sold practically all of the stock disposed of to date] and Secretary G. P. McCorkle, who have been with the project since its inception, and who are certainly familiar with its affairs, have generally commended the commissioner's action and indicated their belief that the report contains a substantially correct statement of facts.

"OLIGARCHY OF MISRULE."

The action of ninety-five colonist stockholders in electing to withdraw from the enterprise as soon as they were afforded some degree of protection against the wrath of Harriman is positive proof that the criticism was justified. The step taken by these colonists, many of them being among the first residents of Llano, follows their actual personal experience with the inefficiency and domineering tactics of the little group of Harriman satellites who have established an oligarchy of misrule on the structure of a co-operative enterprise.

Mr. Harriman's determination to be absolute dictator of the affairs of the colony, the methods adopted by him to insure obedience to his will under penalty of excommunication and resultant destitution has, to all intents and purposes, converted a so-called co-operative colony into a one-man autocracy.

MAY PURCHASE CHURCH.

Proposal to Convert Building into a County Auditorium.

The matter of purchasing the old Independent Church of Christ building, at the corner of Figueroa and Eighteenth streets, to turn it into a county hall for use of the G.A.R. organizations, conventions and county assemblies, will again be brought before the Board of Supervisors this week. It will be shown that the hall could be rented for church purposes on Sundays, thereby bringing sufficient income for maintenance and helping to pay the purchase price.

The reason for taking over the church is the need by county officers of the space in the Hall of Records now occupied rent free by the Grand Army of the Republic organizations. Numerous protests have been registered against the plan of furnishing these halls, or a new auditorium, for the organizations, some of these from veterans of the Civil War.

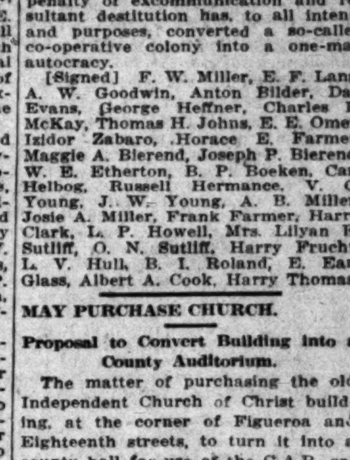
Doctors Advised an Operation but Simple Remedy Made It Unnecessary.



Mr. U.S.G. Hemry

For over eight years Mr. U. S. G. Hemry, 806 East 6th St., Oklahoma City, had suffered with stomach and liver trouble until finally he could no longer stand the pain. He says: "The doctors told me nothing but an operation would give me relief. I decided to first try Fruitola and Traxo, which relieved me of a quantity of gall stones and I have no fruther pain or trouble from my old complaint. I would not take $500.00 for what your remedies have done for me."

Fruitola, as the name implies, is a pure fruit oil, combined with certain harmless salts, and acts as a lubricant on the intestinal parts, softening the congested masses, disintegrating the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expelling the accumulation to the patients great relief. Traxo acts on the liver and kidneys, stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion and removes bile from the general circulation. It is a splendid tonic and serves to build up and restore the weakened run-down system.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Pinus laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Los Angeles they can be obtained at the Owl Drug Co.'s stores.

SEES SUGAR ON LONG TOBOGGAN

Utah Authority Predicts Big Drop After the War.

Hot Fight for International Trade to be Cause.

This Country may Produce All its Own Seed Presently.

That there will be a mighty struggle for commercial supremacy between the sugar industries of Europe and the United States following the close of the war, and that sugar will then drop to bedrock figures, is the prediction made by T. R. Cutler, vice-president of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, who has been attending the recent convention of sugar manufacturers in this city.

"Sugar is one of the world's principal commodities and a large bulk of it is manufactured in Germany, Austria, Russia and Belgium," he said. "No matter how the present struggle is settled, the commercial war will follow and inasmuch as many thousands abroad make their living by beet culture and many millions are invested in sugar refineries there, this phase of the economic struggle will early be injected into the situation."

According to the Utah manufacturer, whose company operates eleven factories in Utah and Idaho and which has four more in course of construction, everything at this time points to a great excess in production of beet and cane sugars in the immediate future. Although the per capita demand in the United States at this time is short of the production in the same area, the over supply has been taken by the allies. Russia, whose supply last year was about 1,500,000 long tons, is exporting none; Belgium with an average yearly yield of about 500,000 long tons, has practically been eliminated from the market by the war, while Germany and Austria, with a total of 2,750,000 long tons, are beyond the pale by reason of the blockade. Cuba has increased its production from 2,600,000 long tons to 3,200,000 long tons and this increase is being shipped to the allies. It is estimated that Cuba's yield in two years will have reached a total of 4,000,000 long tons.

THE OUTCOME.

"Boiled down, the situation in the sugar industry, two years after the war has ceased, I estimate, will be this," said Mr. Cutler. "The entire sugar production of the world for last year, or for what is known as the 1915-16 season, was about 14,500,000 long tons. It is entirely within the bounds of reason to assume that this will have been raised by about 20 per cent. at the close of the next two or three years. Cuba alone will probably be able to care for this increase. The acreage in the United States will take a big jump. Fully 5000 more acres of sugar beets will be handled by my company within the next year. Hawaii, has a normal output of about 500,000, but plans there will arrange for a considerable increase, I am told, within two or three years. Wherever in this country, beets are profitably raised, the acreage will grow year by year.

"Assuming that after hostilities are over, the crops in Europe once more assume their normal state, we must bear in mind that the people of those afflicted countries will be in such a financial condition that sugar will be a luxury instead of a necessity. Labor will be cheap, sugar will be manufactured at a remarkably low figure and, aside from the feature of overproductiveness, it will be offered on the world's markets at a price that will strain the industry in this country to compete with. When that time comes sugar will go to very low figures."

The unprecedented jump in water freight rates, which has resulted from the war, has had more than anything else to do with the high cost of cane sugars. These rates have been increased in some instances by more than 500 per cent. There is at the same time a shortage in bottoms which has had its effect upon the Cuban trade to a marked extent.

GERMANY HARD PRESSED.

That Germany is becoming hard pressed for foodstuffs, as a result of the blockade instituted by the allies, is evidenced by her refusal to part with only a limited amount of beet sugar seed unless she secures such commodities in part payment for the seed. Manufacturers in the United States have been able to buy only about 11 per cent. of the seed needed by them, for this reason. The manufacturers were more than willing to make payment in foodstuffs but this has been refused by the allies. The shortage in German seed, has been in the main made up with imports from Russia. The Utah-Idaho company has a consignment valued at $60,000, that is now on the water en route to this country from Vladivostok. A certain amount of German seed has already been landed here, having been shipped from a neutral port. A small seed shortage is reported in Michigan and in Southern California. To free this country from dependence upon Europe in this instance a company in which Los Angeles capital is interested has been formed. Based upon experiments that are successfully under way, it is predicted that the time is not far distant when the United States will raise its own beet sugar seed.

China as Peace-maker!

All the warring nations are represented in that conclave and China is the peace-maker! None of the war solvers ever thought of this possibility, did they? And yet the trick has been turned, quietly, cleverly, over night. A new map is spread for our inspection. Here is France, brilliant, colorful, beautiful France, basking in the glimmer of artificial lights; there is dignified, resourceful, stately England; solid, practical, self centered Germany is there, and America—our own America—which modesty forbids me to adjective. And China is acting as peace-maker, leaving the map quite undisturbed. You had not seen the big headlines, announcing this event? That is because you failed to look in the right place for them. Pshaw! You are thinking of one thing, and I am talking of another. The thing happened when that big Broadway store removed its house-furnishing department from the basement to the big, light, open fifth floor and builded for each kind of china a separate kingdom. Each is housed as beautifully as the other—French china in a great, square room, mahoganized and bemirrored, German china is likewise well placed in another square and beautiful compartment; English ware has a space by itself and American china products head them all, in position at least. Thus segregated and satisfied, each may reflect (in surrounding mirrors,) upon its own perfection and the visitor may reflect upon them all. After looking her fill, and filling her list, she may pass on to where there are still other worlds to conquer; for there are equally elegant quarters where the cut glass is housed, removed from the commoner glasses, and there is a bathroom corner—oh, dear me! Not for bathing by customers! Not right there! But right there are all the accessories of the bath, so placed that the prospective bather may see and choose. There is a wooden warey, and a tinnery and a section devoted to each phase of housekeeping and its scientific simplification. Well, if you are a housekeeper, or a son of a housekeeper, or ever expect to be one or either—better pay a visit to this expansive householdery and decide what you would select if you were one, or both, or either.

Big Offer Nears Startling Finish

Only Three More Days Remain of Largest Offer of 90,000 Extra Votes on Five-Year Clubs—Who Will Win the $75.00 in Gold?

Today is the lull before the storm.

Monday — Tuesday — Wednesday — and when the hour of nine strikes on the evening of the last day, the most exciting and the most remunerative special offer of The Times automobile campaign shall have closed.

The manner in which the remaining days are being taken advantage of is unprecedented. One candidate in Imperial Valley telegraphed late yesterday to "expect a big surprise Wednesday. Working like a beaver."

From one of the beach towns came another message: "There will be great doings Wednesday. I'm going to carry off that $75 in gold." As though in defiance, an Arizona candidate advises that "the $75 in gold is already won. Wait and see."

But is it? There are too many other claimants for the gold to make any candidate sure, and one has as good a chance as another.

From the various districts in the city have come numerous reports that the next three days will be filled with surprises, and five-year clubs are expected to descend upon the campaign office with a rush.

Rumor has it that several "dark horses" in the campaign will emerge from the battle closing Wednesday night and cause the present leaders to take a tumble in the vote column.

The critical period is at hand; excitement is tense on every hand; new subscriptions are pointing the way to ultimate victory. The advantage of building five-year clubs out of new subscriptions from one month to two years, which gain an extra 90,000 votes, will be brought to light during the next three days. All these new subscriptions also apply on the $75 gold offer, which will be given to the candidate turning in the largest sum of new payments.

Again, candidates who are availing themselves of the present special offer, are seeking the strategic advantage an effective drive will now give; they are maneuvering for advantageous positions in the vote column that will send them along the home stretch to victory at once rapidly and effectively.

Basing our predictions on the statements of candidates themselves, the closing hours of the spetial offer will cause a surprising readjustment of the relative vote standing of contestants. This has produced the effect of causing every candidate to work industriously to avoid being set back by some other woman's superior aggressiveness.

OUT - OF - TOWN CANDIDATES WILL REMEMBER THAT THEY CAN WORK AS LONG ON THIS OFFER AS CITY CANDIDATES. ALL NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS THAT ARE IN THE MAILS NOT LATER THAN 9 P.M. MARCH 8, WILL COUNT FOR THE EXTRA VOTES AND $75 IN GOLD.

The standings of contestants today, tabulated on the Burroughs adding machine, includes all votes received up to 10 a.m. Saturday.

Second Payment Scale

Every candidate should clip this scale and paste it in her receipt book for future reference as it will be the means of securing thousands of votes. Hundreds of new subscriptions for short terms have been secured by the candidates since this campaign started. Get these short term new subscribers to extend their subscriptions to any length of time up to and including two years and you will be given credit for the full amount of votes.

All second payments "new" will be credited on the offers now in effect for the amount of subscription payment made during the offer. When sending in second payments be sure to mark the stub "New second payment."

How to Determine "Old" and "New" Subscribers

AN OLD SUBSCRIBER is any person to whom The Times was being regularly delivered either by The Times or one of its route men or agents, or by mail, on the opening day of this campaign (January 12, 1916.) It makes no difference whether payment for the paper was being made by the month or for a longer period; whether at the beginning or the end of any given period of time; whether to The Times office direct, to one of its agents, collectors or route men, or by mail.

Even though the subscriber may have stopped The Times since the opening of this camapign, and later renewed it, he is still an old subscriber.

A NEW SUBSCRIBER is any person who began to regularly receive The Times SINCE January 12, but was NOT regularly receiving it on and just preceding that day. Any person who has subscribed to The Times in the past, but stopped the paper BEFORE January 12, and renews SINCE that day, will be considered a new subscriber, just as would any person who has never taken The Times before.

ALL NEW subscribers, having ordered the paper during this contest for a short period, who desire to lengthen their subscription by making a second payment, will still be classified as new subscribers. Once new, always new, as far as the purposes of this campaign are concerned. On the other hand, an "old" subscription likewise will always continue to be old.

Persons buying The Times at newstands or on the streets are not considered regular subscribers.

Subscribers to the Sunday Times only, who change to The Daily, or Daily and Sunday Times, thus become new subscribrs, regardless of when they began taking the Sunday only paper.

Candidates must make a thorough investigation of every subscription they secure, before marking it either "old" or "new." Out-of-town candidates can verify subscriptions by consulting The Times agent in their territory. When you mark a subscription, BE SURE IT IS RIGHT.

Under no circumstances will the practice of "switching" subscriptions be tolerated, and attempts to thus gain extra votes will prove utterly useless in the end. Some candidates are under the misapprehension that, if The Times is going to a certain address and is merely changed to another member of the family or household or any other person at the same address, such procedure will make a new subscriber out of an old one. It is utter fallacy.

The object of adding New subscribers is to increase the number of names to which the paper is sent. But, if you have three apples, and eat one, replacing it with a fresh apple, you still have three apples, haven't you?

'Squire Hay's Busy Day.

By Eugene Brown.

"How is the glass of fashion and the mould of form?" inquired I of the eminent Chesterton Hay, as we casually met in the lobby.

"Meaning whom?" returned the visitor, glancing carelessly at his wrist watch to see whether it was time to change to his noon regalia.

"None but yourself," continued I. "Aren't you the Brummel who showed 'em how to wear pajamas with a Byron collar and an ecru tie? Aren't you the arbiter of sartorial excellence and the pink of resplendent perfection? Aren't you the connoisseur we got up our fashion show for?

"I hope not," retorted Squire Hay "I may wear a corset waist but I don't need twelve yards of stuff to cover me from the waist to the knee. This fashion show is a ladies' game. I am interested, of course, but Mrs. Hay more than I. Besides, I have been too busy with my callers, don't you know, to pay much attention to anything else."

"Oh! they've found you out, have they?" exclaimed I.

"Unfortunately, no. Most of them found me in, but I guess I am out now."

"Is that a jest or a tragedy?" continued I. "I supposed that most of them called to pay their respects to a celebrity."

"Pay nothing," retorted the celebrity. "They wanted me to do the paying. Pretty near everyone of them wanted me to subscribe to some blooming fund or other or nurse somebody. If I'm not buying shares or joining some club, I'm engaged in rescue work. I ought to be a hero after while—if my checkbook holds out. Do you happen to know Lord Willing?"

"This is Buckminster Willing, Baron of Rezun. I have his card here. He's a charming chap, by Jove! He came up to take breakfast with me the morning I arrived. He was sent over here by the English government to organize a company for the manufacture of cast iron soldiers. They are mounted on wheels and their movements can be regulated by wireless. They are charged with electricity and also loaded with dynamite. You can steer a regiment of them against the enemy and control their operation from a distance. Nothing can stop them. Whatever they touch they kill and anything that tries to check them is blown up. They are made up to look like regular troops in order that their deadly persistence may strike terror in the enemy. Lord Willing showed me the blueprints of the invention and in strict confidence exhibited orders from Lloyd George for $30,000,000 worth of the metal soldiers. As a special favor he said I might have a thousand shares of stock in the company at the ground floor price of $25 a share. He said it would be at par the minute the plant started, but they wanted to enlist my name and sympathy in the project. He gave me the names of a lot of bankers here who were crazy to get some of the stock and were following him around all the time. But he wouldn't have anything to do with them. I told him I didn't have more than $10,000 I could put in just now. He said he was sorry, but it was better than nothing, so long as he was sure of my co-operation."

"So you traded 10,000 good iron men for a bunch of bum ones, eh?" interrupted I. "Where are they going to manufacture these bloodthirsty tin soldiers?"

"That, I understand is a secret," replied the visitor. If anybody knew the Germans would find out and blow up the plant."

"Why don't you start out your steel-shod warriors first and then there wouldn't be any Germans?"

"I don't know; he didn't explain that," responded Mr. Hay. "By the way, do you happen to know Mme. Angostura Spiegel?"

"I don't believe so. What is she—face bleach or clairvoyance?"

"Both, I guess, but she is a delightful person, you know. Devilish persistent, though. She sent up her card just as the Baron left. She is one of the lamp ladies of the Yogi. The Theosophists have a large following here and I am very much interested in them. Mme. Spiegel must have heard about it—at least she told me so. She said they were about to build a white marble statue of Buddha to be 300 feet high and placed on a great rock overlooking the Pacific with its eyes looking toward the setting sun. It will cost $300,000 or $1000 a foot. A select list of 3000 friends had been prepared, and each of these would be permitted to contribute $1000 to pay for one foot of the statue. She showed me the roster of names, but I don't think I knew any of them, although most of them were marked paid. She said I could make the check payable to her order and I would get a richly embossed receipt for the money. I finally compromised with Mme. Spiegel by chipping in $250 for three inches of the statue. That ought to put the toe-nails on Buddha, at any rate. Before she left I asked the Madame who Buddha was and she said he was the man who wrote Confucius. Odd, wasn't it?"

"Very, but it will be odder still if they ever put up the statue. You don't suppose they ever will, do you?"

"I have a lady's word for it," replied the celebrity. "By the way, do you know Rev. Erastus Jackson?"

"No, but I've heard of Gen. Jackson."

"This is a colored friend and brother and he is the president of the African Emigration League. They have bought 10,000,000 acres of land in Liberia and the idea is to move the entire colored population of this country back to Africa and settle them on little farms. It will take fifty ships a year to make the transfer and the work will begin as soon as the war is over. The negroes will all take up farming. It takes a lot of money to carry out the project and Dr. Jackson said the executive board had decided to let me contribute $1000 with which to buy the watermelon seed for the colony. He figured that with a thousand dollars' worth of watermelon seed the black republic would be self supporting. I gave him $500 and told him to let the other half starve. What do you think about it?"

"It reminds me of the time I coughed up fifteen plunks to send the Irish back to Galway."

"How did it come out?" queried the great Chesterton.

"Well, we loaded a ship with 400 of them for a starter, but doggoned if 600 of them didn't come back on the next boat."

"By the way," resumed the Squire. "Do you know Prof. Shadrack Dusenbury?"

"Not yet," said I.

"He's the Immaculate Host of the Omnipotent Order of the Olive Branch, and is in favor of peace at any price. He and his wife came to see me and outlined their plans. The Order of the Olive Branch is to be made up of 100,000 men prominent in finance, art, letters, law or statesmanship, who contribute $1000 each to the general fund. They are gathered from all parts of the world. All soldiers, however, may become members without paying any initiation fee or dues. They take the obligation, however, never to fight except at the will of the head of the order. With $100,000,000 from the honorary members, the propaganda will be spread in every way, even to the hiring of soldiers. When there are 100,000 members each in the German, French and English armies, the order will be given to get out of the trenches on Decoration Day. With 300,000 soldiers suddenly breaking their rifles and fraternizing, it is believed that the effect would be an instant peace. What do you think of it?"

"I think Henry Ford has now struck the proper way of procuring peace," said I, evasively.

"How is that?"

"He's advertising for it."

"Well, the Order of the Olive Branch can do that."

"Sure they can," responded I. "Did you ante your thousand bucks?"

"Being a man of peace I just had to," replied the famous visitor. "By the way," he added, 'Do you happen to know Evangeline Spinks?"

"That sounds familiar," said I, reflectively.

"She's a lovely girl," continued the Squire. "Bright, pretty and playful. She's a regular kitten."

"Oh, yes, I remember now," interrupted I. "Her mother was an old cat."

"I don't know anything about that," continued our guest, "but she's a charming girl. She's taking orders for an edition de luxe of "Who's Who in Society," with full page, hand-decorated steel plates. For all America there will be just 1000 names, and 1000 books will be printed, bound in limp levant morocco. The subscribers will be asked to contribute $100 each. Evangeline said that my name headed her list, and so of course I had to subscribe."

"It ought to make a lovely book with your picture in it," murmured I, admiringly.

"Not bad, by Jove," ejaculated the visitor. "By the way, do you know Rainbow Jack?"

"I've heard of him," answered I, drily.

"He's a wonderful man," said Chesterton, with enthusiasm.

"He is that. What game is he working now?"

"I don't know what you mean but I think he would be a good man at what you call poker. But he has some wonderful projects which he is willing to share with me. He is now buying the right of way for an airship line to the Klondike. He tells me he has discovered a wonderful mine in Arizona from which the finest kind of plug tobacco is taken. It can be taken out for fifty cents a ton and sold for fifty cents a pound. Looks like easy money; what? He is also organizing a company to make mattresses out of eucalyptus leaves. They can be made for a dollar apaice and sold for ten. They're good medicine, you know. They make people sleep. He let me have 10,000 shares at forty cents a share. Next week they will go to a dollar, so I have practically made $6000 already."

"Sure," said I. "It beats working in a brewery."

"It does that," continued our Chesterton. "By the way," he added, "do you know Dr. O. Howe Wise?"

"There isn't any such animal."

"Yes, there is. He's a tall man with whiskers and a great thought. He has another peace plan. He wants me to join him in sending 100,000 singing missionaries to the front. Instead of 'Onward Christian Soldier,' they would keep 'Blest Be the Tie That Binds,' going all the time. The missionaries would be willing to go for their expenses, so that the whole cost would not exceed $100 a man. That would only be $10,000,000 to end the war. That's what I call a mighty cheap investment in a great cause."

"It is that. How much are you in on it?"

"Oh, just one missionary," said our visitor.

"Be sure you don't pick a Dutchman," said I, with a grin.

"But I don't do the picking, don't you know. The doctor will do that. By the way, do you know Louise Josephus?"

"The girl with the wiggly eyes?"

"Maybe so; I didn't notice."

"Then it wasn't her."

"What do you mean?"

"If it was you'd have noticed."

"Well, anyhow she said that was her name, and she is a charming woman."

"Sure she is, and what did the fair Louise want?"

"She has quite an original idea. She wants all the white slaves freed or else painted red. People are being so harried over white slaves that they are becoming what she calls nutty. Nobody worries over a red slave. Now for nine cents apiece, white slaves can be painted a brilliant red and the problem is settled. No white slave plays and no white slave stories to harrow up your soul. Quite an idea, what?"

Picture of Mr. Hay's favorite knife.

"Well I should shake a skirt. How much of your bundle did the witching Louise touch you for?"

"What's that?"

"How much of the masuma did you push across the board?"

"I don't follow you."

"How many simoleons, bucks, beans or cases did the millinery carry off?"

"Well, really I can't quite understand, don't you know."

"What I mean," said I grimly, "is what did your lesson in white slavery cost you?"

"Oh! I paid for painting eleven hundred of them," answered the Chesterfieldian Chesterton.

"Believe me, Xantippe; that would make a fine suffrage parade," said I in comment.

"Speaking of suffragettes," continued the eminent guest, "do you know Evanescent Plumbo?"

"What is it, a corn salve or a breakfast food?"

"She's a lady, a wonderful woman."

"Oh, I see, Plumbo is a peach?"

"Not exactly that. She's a rather serious person, although they call her 'Little Eva.' She is the leading spirit of the League of Women Warriors. She's another one who wants to free her sex, but she would use the sword. She considers man a terribly inferior animal and she wants to blow him up with dynamite. She's worse than this Mrs. Spankhurst or whatever her name is. She would take a man's money, though."

The Poets' Corner.

That little idea of a poetical acrostic on the word "Love" has stirred up a bunch of the rhyme-smiths of the community. Here is one of the best examples, furnished by Evangeline Skaggs Herkimer, the blind singer of Cucamonga.

Lord of all time, of soul, of thought;
Only with kisses to be bought.
Vague as a dream from heaven above
Easy the answer—perfect love.

SOME OF THE BUNCH.

There was a young man from Long Beach,
With a Capacity that was a peach,
But he couldn't get full;
So this is a bull;
For you can't get a drink in Long Beach.

An unmated maid in Calexico,
Tried fifteen years to annex a beau,
"Now it's Leap Year," she cried,
"I shall soon be a bride,
If I have to conscript him from Mexico."

A dainty young damsel named Della,
Who lived in the town of Coachella,
Was heard to declare,
"In this climate so rare,
All I need is my fan and umbrella."

In a town that is called Pasadena,
A fat man once lived that was meaner
Than dirt, but they say
He just wasted away,
And kept getting leaner and leaner.

WORK IS NEW HERE.

"LOVE OF THREE KINGS" IS TO OPEN OPERA SEASON.

Coincident with the opening of the brilliant season of the Boston Opera Company and the Pavlowa Imperial Ballet Russe, tomorrow night at the Mason will be given the first presentation of "L'Amore dei tre Re," the music by Italo Montemezzi, the libretto by Sem Benelli the noted Italian dramatist. The work, despite its somber quality, has been a remarkable success throughout the Boston Opera Company's tour. It has been performed with marked frequency since its premiere in this country some two years ago.

"L'Amore dei tre Re" will be the only operatic novelty presented during the engagement of the opera company, with the possible exception of the Elysian Fields scene in mimo-choreographic form from Gluck's "Orpheus." Madame Butterfly," "La Boheme," "I Pagliacci," with excerpts from several other works will make up the remainder of the offerings. The ballet features are practically all new.

The story of "L'Amore dei tre Re" bears a resemblance in its style to the work of d'Annunzio and Maeterlinck. While the end is a trifle gloomy even for grand opera, the dramatic thread is so strongly sustained, and the music so compellingly beautiful, that the whole effect is said to be one of unusual magnificance and fascination.

The three kings in question in the opera are Archibaldo, a rude old mediaeval baron, leader of the barbarian invaders, who, during his forty-year rule over a remote principality of Italy to which the librettist gives the fanciful name of Altura (The Highlands,) has lost his sense of sight; Manfredo, his brave and generous-hearted warrior son and heir, and Avito, a young Alturain prince, bereft by the invaders of his patrimony and his finances.

The object of their love, and the one for whom each has a different passion is the young and beautiful Princess Firora, like Avito a native of the soil, and who, though she had pledged herself in childhood to her compatriot, had been taken as wife by Manfredo. The young warrior's absence on military adventures furnish frequent opportunities for the clandestine meetings of Firora and Avito.

OPENING SCENE.

The opening scene shows Archibaldo, who is suspicious of Firora, questioning the castle guard Flamino, and accomplice of the two lovers. Flamino seeks to allay the suspicions of Archibaldo. The two then depart and the signal that all is safe for the lovers' meeting is heard.

The passionate scene between Avito and Firora which follows is interrupted by the entrance of the old blind baron. The two make their escape, but not quietly enough to escape his keen hearing. Firora is forced to explain her presence but without certain effect.

Trumpets without announce the arrival of Manfredo. Firora tries to seem glad, while Manfredo gives full expression to his joy at rejoining her.

BRILLIANT DANCES.

PAVLOWA BALLET HAS A SUPERB REPERTOIRE THIS SEASON.

Anna Pavlowa, dreamer of dreams that come true, and famous for having put on the stage the most brilliant and artistic ballets which have been seen in this country, brings to the Mason this week, in connection with the Boston Grand Opera Company, a dance entertainment said to be the most spectacular and beautiful she has ever produced. Many new terpsichorean artists of note have been added to the organization and among the favorites of last year are M. Volinine and Stephanie Plaskovietska.

Among the brilliant features to be given as the "Elysian Fields" from Gluck's "Orpheus and Eurydice" in mimo-chorographic form. This spectacle, owing to the technical and scenic difficulty of its production, is seldom shown. Pavlowa, however, looked upon it as an opportunity for the exercise of her talents, and she worked on it for months, with the result that, with its beautiful scenery, exquisite movement and unusually fascinating music, it is considered one of the most wonderful numbers.

"Snowflakes," from Tschaikowsky's "Nut Cracker" suite, is a Christmas fantasy, in which 'Nut Cracker,' the doll, a Christmas gift, ultimately proves to be an enchanted prince and is released from his enchantment by his little mistress. It is given by Anna Pavlowa and M. Volinine, assisted by some forty artists.

The Spanish dances are a unique feature, since real Spanish dances are rarely seen in this country. Much research by Mme. Pavlowa and M. Clustine was necessary to their proper staging. They are done to the music of Massenet, Glazounow and Moskowski. Several are adaptations of folk dances, performed only in certain sections of Spain. They include aragonnaise and panderos ,danced by Mlle. Pavlowa and M. Volinine, and the sevigliana, tango, bolero, malaguena and seguidilla, performed by the entire company.

"Coppelia" is a ballet in two acts, with special scenery by Joseph Urban. It is based on the famous "Tales of Hoffmann." The designation "occular opera" is peculiarly appropriate because it is nothing more or less than one of the most popular of grand operas ocularized and subjected to ballet adaptation. In this number appear as principals Pavlowa, Volinine and Jan Zalewski.

The most beautiful and popular of all last season's offerings, "Walpurgis Night," from Gounod's opera of "Faust," has been retained. It is sumptuously staged. The principals are Anna Pavlowa as Helena, M. Veseloff as Mephistopheles, M. Domoslavski as Faust, Mlle. Brunova as Cleopatra, Mlle. Crombova as Aspasia, Mlle. Plaskovietska as Trina, Mlle. Butsova as Laya, and Alexandre Volinine as Cleopatra's slave.

Many of the divertissements are new, though the famous "Dragon Fly" dance is retained. Among the new divertissements is "Les Undines," one of the daintiest and most graceful of all the Pavlowa creations.

VICTOR HERBERT REVUE.

Victor Herbert is to "uplift" vaudeville. He is launching into variety this week an act known as "Victor Herbert's Successes." Four women singers and four men ditto take part. They present several Victor Herbert songs, arranged to run together in operetta form.

BRILLIANT ARRAY.

BIG WEEK IS INDICATED AT THE "LEGIT" THEATERS.

There is an unusually brilliant array of attractions programmed this week along the Rialto. Needless to say, the Boston Opera Company, with the Pavlowa Imperial Ballet Russe, treated of at length in the music columns, promises far to outshine all other features; and, indeed, every aggregation of this kind presented here in a number of seasons.

"Believe Me, Xantippe," the clever comedy, is to be held over for another week. Among the principal vaudeville people will be Bessie Clayton, one of the foremost American dancers, while the remainder of the attractions include everything from grand opera to trick bicyclists.

Orpheum.

Bessie Clayton, one of the most noted of American dancers, who is internationally famous, being, it is said, the only American ever secured for Paris as a dancing attraction under governmental contract, will headline the new Orpheum bill opening tomorrow. She brings with her Lester Sheehan, her dancing partner, and her famous sextette, and the organization will offer a resume of Terpsichorean art called "The Dances of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow."

Others on the bill will be Billy McDermott, who says he is the sole

Fingering Finery.

AMONG THE STORES AND ADMIDST THE SHOPS.

Along Our Dazzling Streets, where Dame Fashion's Shopping is Done.

BY OLIVE GRAY.

Now is the time to buy:

New potatoes, which are quite plentiful in the market. Did you ever try stewing them with green peas? Both are excellent thus cooked.

Olive oil has gone higher—especially the imported kinds, owing to the embargo on Italian exports. The careful housewife will find many places where she can successfully substitute one of the good cooking oils for olive oil, even in the making of mayonnaise.

Apples are still of good quality and moderate price. A sauce made from a commingling of pie-plant and apples is both palatable and wholesome as a spring appetizer.

Practical Suggestion.

Get your friends to plant a flower bed in your garden, thus participating in the latest fad—the Friendship Garden. One may contribute the violets, another the jonquils, a third the carnations, and so on. This is far more interesting than the one-time fad of "friendship squares" for quilts. Such a pretty idea, too, that when the violets bloom you will be reminded of Elizabeth, the jonquils will mean Blanche to you, the carnations stand for Lillian and so on.

Looking Forward.

Everything there sings of spring! Everything tells of the inauguration of the new season and the new year, as store birthdays go. Myriads of birds in gilded cages warble about the vernal season, thousands of roseate blossoms blow forth from their petals the word "Spring:" le Printemps" is writ upon the borders of fabrics and in the fashionable folds of the newest garments. "Spring" and the full tide of that birthright which knows no denial in its forward march, is said and sung upon every side in that great friend winning store which declares itself more fond of looking forward than of glancing back.

Odd!

"Odd! Are they not?" "Why no! I think them pretty," replied my companion as we looked over the curtains which were to go into that big sale. "Yes, but are they not one-of-a-kind?" Then she caught on; for they are sample curtains, just half a pair, each, but available for many purposes, such as to cover the bathroom window, to place in a hall or any place, in fact, where but a short curtain is required. The prices are such as to make them inviting for the spring refurbishing.

Low Down.

In a basement sale, where the prices are as sub as the location, the girl of slender purse can find a sports coat to her liking for so much less as to make her wonder. It really looks as though such a coat were an absolute necessity for the coming season, if one would be in the mode.

Those Heads Head List.

Those dainty Ramona heads are beginning to peep forth from many places. Just the thing for souvenirs of the distinctively California play are these pretty bisque heads of the heroine of book and play. There are many ways of using them, other than as mere bric-a-brac.

A New Fabric.

Satin Georgette is a new material used in the latest coats and suits. It is heavier than satin and has a shimmering surface quite satiny in effect. The colors are charming, such as the new red called "damask," "cinnabar," "blush." The popular rose tints which are as though one beheld the flower through mist, are lovely in this new material which is woven, it is said, from a silk-like fiber.

He will Potter.

An attraction, during the week, in that big store on lower Broadway, will be the potter at work making his wares. Instructive as well as interesting will this exhibition prove; and then, how fine to purchase the article which has been made while you looked!

A New Color.

Not new in nature, but newly popular in fashion's calendar, is the color called "cyclamen." Like the flower of spring whose name it bears, this new shade is delightful to look upon.

For Easter.

One of the girls who always makes a point to celebrate with gifts to her friends, the Eastertide, is making the most clever baskets to contain her gifts. I mean, rather, that she is transforming the baskets. During the year she has picked up, from time to time, all sorts of odd little baskets—many of them she found in the little Japanese basketry—and some she has made from the fine straws of discarded hats, and she is using hat dyes to carry out her color plans.

A New Quenchery.

If not absolutely new, newly arranged and in new quarters is that downstairs drinkery—oh, perfectly proper, just ladylike quenches there—which is now in a corner of that big Broadway store where you may quickly run down the outside stairway for one of those frizzling glassfuls.

Pedigreed Pups for Luck.

Pups large, pups small, pups of medium size—all regal in harnesses with blazonry of gold. This new importation of oriental lucky dogs should bring to their purchasers such good fortune as could be imagined only by the fabricator of Aladdin's wonderful lamp. These pedigreed pups are housed in lovely ornamental boxes, as pretty as those in which spring hats are sent. If you feel that it might be well to jog the attention of your own particular goddess of good fortune just tether one of those funny, lovable dogs somewhere about your room, and surely fortune will be obliged to smile Well, I didn't say you were superstitious, but can't you just have a little fun?

Are You Living Up?

"I have been wondering of late," said my philosophical friend, "if I am living up to the best that is in me. I sometimes feel as though I were not. I think that, perhaps, my life is rather like some fields and gardens that we see, where only the middle spaces are cultivated, and the corners and wide margins are allowed to grow up to weeds and useless vegetation. I mean to reorganize myself and my life. Take account of stock and begin anew. I believe everyone needs to do this, now and then." I have been thinking, ever since, about what my friend expressed. We are, most of us, prone to think ourselves too busy to live up to our best, when, as a matter of fact, there are as many vacant corners and margins of time in our daily twenty-four hours as in the gardens and fields of which she spoke.

In the Eyes of Fashion.

Sleeves are short above the elbow.

New blouses are made of plaid chiffon.

Evening gowns are still without sleeves.

A kind of cape wrap is promised for spring.

Draped polonaises are seen to some extent.

Kid trimming will be used on the spring suits.

Paris women are wearing cockades on their hats.

Your frock may be ruffles from girdle to foot.

Chuddah cloth is used for separate skirts.

Bright-colored voile waists are distinctly liked.

Some silk suits have flaring, bolero and half-fitted jackets.

Pretty new taffeta frocks are embroidered by hand.

A few afternoon dresses have ruffles around the neck.

Picot-edged faille ribbons are in great demand.

ROUND THE SHOPS.

In a prettily appointed pink and white shop may be met a modiste as charming as the shop is dainty. She certainly makes the prettiest frocks and her gowns are exquisite creations. She makes a specialty of embroidered applique that adds such an artistic touch. Ethel Fisher welcomes ladies who wish to be correctly and artistically gowned to see her work at 426 Consolidated Realty Building.

The Scientific Hair Parlor, 515 Fay Bldg. 3rd and Hill Sts. Specializes in hair dyeing. They restore the natural color.

On the second floor at 311 So. Hill St., you will find a little shop called the Beautyden. Here they do away with wrinkles and blemishes by a wonderful method—and their results are guaranteed. This shop also offers a permanent hair wave, not affected by shampooing.

Such splendid, sensible purses—and such remarkable values. One, in particular was an affair in panther leather, something entirely new—others in genuine pin and crepe seal, and walrus. They are all the envelope style, beautifully lined and fitted. They have just come in and are selling for only $5.00 at Weaver and Jacksons, 429 So. Broadway.

Blouses are such an important accompaniment of Spring suits, that special attention should be given to their selection. It makes it easy for the busiest shopper to find her blouse ideal at the Tiny Waist Shop, 504 W. 7th St. They have priced for one week only, several of their most exclusive $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00 models at $3.00.

It really takes an experienced artist to make over old gowns into the new spring styles. Madame Holly surely possesses the faculty of doing so. Exclusiveness and smartness are features in her new gowns, and you can be assured that her work is satisfactory and reasonable in price. Her shop is at 532 Metropolitan Bldg.

Lillian Harman at 1506 W. 7th St. corner of Valencia, has a splendid offering of new Spring models.

The "California" Makes the Important Decision to Close Out Immediately Its Arts and Crafts Furniture at Cost
This is the second publicly announced price reduction in the history of the California Furniture Company. The "California" neither believes in nor countenances so-called "special sales." The closing out of the Fumed Oak arts and crafts living-room furniture at cost is done to make room for more important lines.
Those who have rooms furnished in arts and crafts or mission style will recognize in this event an unusual opportunity to add additional pieces at important and genuine savings.
The closing-out prices will be actual cost. This furniture comes from the foremost shops of America and includes arm chairs, arm rockers and settees, in fine Spanish leather upholstering; also tables, desks, bookcases, magazine stands, and other essential pieces for the proper furnishing of the living room.
The fact that this furniture comes from the "California" is sufficient assurance of its worth as to quality and design.

on the castle terrace, ere he sets out for the field of battle. She promises to wave from the terrace walls the white scarf he gives her until he and his troupe have disappeared.

A great pity for him seems to seize her, but it is soon swept aside, for Manfredo has hardly gone when Avito, in the garb of a castle guard, appears. Then follows a struggle within Fiora's breast between her duty and her desire. She begs Avito to go; she must not love him; must never see him again; she has been conquered, she says, by Manfredo's compassion, by his kindness. She keeps her promise to wave the scarf, but it is with a heavier and heavier hand until at last she drops it and yielding to Avito's pleadings, falls into his arms. Their love trance is broken by Archibaldo's entry. Avito rushes forward with drawn dagger, but Flamino interposes and he departs.

This time Archibaldo knows the truth. He seizes Fiora and tries to force from her the name of her lover. She refuses to tell, saying that she will speak only to Manfredo (who is returning, having seen her scarf drop and fearing something has befallen her;) to him alone she will confess because "he is so kind."

KILLS FIORA.

The stern, relentless, perhaps jealous old baron, who fears his son's generosity, enraged, takes her by the throat and, finding it impossible to make her give up her secret, throttles her. A moment later Manfredo enters, breathless. The old father acknowledges the crime and seeks to justify himself. He had caught her "betraying thee in thine own house."

To entrap the lover Archibaldo has been placed in a crypt with poison on her lips. Avito finds her, pours out his soul in agony and, at last, weeping, presses his lips to hers. Manfredo has entered and recognized him, but the poison works quickly and Avito falls dead. Manfredo seeks a like fate, while Archibaldo, groping his way and touching his son's body, exclaims: "Now I have caught thee, thief. Let me feel thy heart in death." "My father," gasps the dying Manfredo. "Ah, Manfredo," exclaims the baron, "thou also then art with me, helpless in the shadows." The curtain falls on the tragedy, leaving as sole survivor the one who had least to live for.

"L'AMORE" CAST.

The cast of characters tomorrow night will include Giovanni Zenatello as Avito, Maggie Teyte as Fiora, Thomas Chalmers as Manfredo and Jose Mardones as Archibaldo. The conductor will be Roberto Moranzoni. Following the opera the Pavlowa Imperial Ballet Russe will give the "Nut Cracker" suite with "Snowflakes," as arranged by Ivan Clustine, Adolf Schmid conducting.

The name of Zenatello is a wide-known one from his superb operatic work. This will be his first appearance in Los Angeles. He is reckoned among the world's very great artists. Maggie Teyte is a favorite a few seasons ago with the Chicago Opera Company, and who was one fthe Philharmonic course artists last season. She studies with Jean de Reszke and scored her first success as Melisande at the Paris Opera Comique. Thomas Chalmers is another unusually distinguished singer. Mardones has achievements of a [illegible] to his credit. Moranzoni promises to prove one of the most [illegible]-celebrated conductors who has ever appeared here with operatic organizations.

Among the women of the company perhaps none will attract more attention than the tiny Japanese soprano, Mme. Tamaki Miura, whose interpretation of Cio Cio San in "Butterfly" is said to add a realism to the role that doubles its beauty and pathos. Mme. Miura is tiny and her voice is described as one of lyric timbre, produced like Italian voices, and very effective in the upper register. Riccardo Martin, the well-known tenor, will have the role of Pinkerton, in "Butterfly," which is to be the second opera presented. Graham Marr will be heard as Sharpless. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

Following "Madame Butterfly" the Spanish ballet will be given by the Pavlowa troupe.

One of the most popular and interesting singers of the opera company is Felice Lyne, well-known American girl, who has established herself in a position of much prominence in the operatic world. She will be heard in the production of "I Pagliacci" Wednesday afternoon as Nedda. Zenatello will sing Canio and Thomas Chadmers, Tonio. The ballet "Coppelia" by Delises will then be interpreted by the Pavlowa troupe.

Wednesday night "La Boheme," with Maggie Teyte, Riccardo Martin, Jose Mardones, Olivette Marcel, Graham Marr, Paolo Ananian and Giorgi Puliti, will be given, followed by the ballet of the "Walpurgis Night" from "Faust," with the singers also taking part. Thursday night "Madame Butterfly" will be repeated, with divertissements; Friday evening "L'Amore dei tre Re, with the "Nut Cracker," and Saturday afternoon "La Boheme," with the Spanish ballet. Saturday night will come the all star performance in which Maria Gay, the noted contralto of the company, will be the feature. She is to appear in the second act of "Carmen," which will be given with ballet, and in the Elysian fields scene from "Orpheus," to be presented in mimo-choreographic form. The other number on the bill will be the first act from "Pagliacci," with Zenatello, Lyne and Chalmers.

Woman's Lyric Club.

Unusually elaborate preparations are being made by the Woman's Lyric Club for the second concert of the season, which will be given at Trinity Auditorium Friday evening. The choral numbers on the programme are all taken from the works of women composers and they comprise some of the most pleasing and interesting numbers ever presented by the organization.

The closing number, "Undine," by Harriet Ware, with soprano and tenor solos and a duet, is one of the most beautiful as well as one of the most ambitious compositions the club has ever offered.

The "Eastern Song," by Mabel Daniels, with violin and violoncello obbligatos and two exquisitely dainty numbers by Mrs. H. H. A. Beach will be of special interest because of the appearance of these distinguished artists during the musical festival held in this city last summer.

The club will be assisted by Mrs. David Beall, one of its own members, who, with Henri LaBonte, tenor, will sing the difficult passages of "Undine," and the Misses Bessie and Lucy Fuhrer, violiniste and violoncellist. Mr. La Bonte will be heard in solo numbers.

Mason will be the local composer represented on the programme; his overture in C will have its first hearing.

To introduce two musicians, neither of whom has previously appeared in this country, a special programme has been arranged by Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley for this afternoon at Trinity Auditorium. Miss Amy Ahrens, one of the musical artists, has just come from Berlin, where she has been connected with the famous Hochschule, Europe's great violin conservatory. She is said to be a remarkable violiniste, playing with exquisite poetry.

Among the numbers she has lately been giving are "The Land of the Sky Blue Water" by Cadman, "The Hindu Slumber Song," by Harriet Ware, and "A Perfect Day" by Carrie Jacobs-Bond.

The setting for the song feature indicates charming taste.

Twentieth Programme.

The twentieth of the series of historical recitals by Alfred Appling Butler will occur tomorrow evening at his residence, No. 1130 West Twenty-seventh street, the programme being devoted to Rheinberger. Among those who will assist are Miss Grace Elsie Moore, Miss Helen Raab and Mrs. Shank, Mrs. Stone, Mr. Ball and Mr. Hopkins.

Wagner Interpretations.

Wagner and his great "Ring" operas are the subject of a course of interpretative lectures being given by Miss Ida M. Leonard at her own studio in the Y.W.C.A. Building, this month. The first of the series was "Das Rheingold." The 10th inst. her subject will be, "Die Walkuerie," the 17th, "Siegfried," and the 24th, "Die Goetterdaemmerung." Miss Leonard's presentations of her own lectures and readings on these operas have already won her praise.

She brings atmosphere into the studio hours with Wagnerian music on the Victrola, prior to the lectures.

Pomona Recital.

A recital given last Monday evening in the Bridges Memorial Hall of Music at Pomona College by Miss Winifred Wallace Lamb, marked a feature in the artists' course of this winter, not merely because it was the only strictly piano concert included in the course, but because Miss Lamb is an American girl who has won big success in the musical world and is an interesting example of the purely American artist. Her interpretations Monday night included numbers selected from the greatest composers, and the audience received the programme with marked enthusiasm.

The first organ recital of a series to continue each Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock through Lent occurred last week and drew a large audience composed not only of students but of citizens from Pomona, Claremont and from Los Angeles as well.

A musical event that is looked forward to with the keenest interest in May is the organ recital of Edwin H. Lemare, whose series of 100 recitals at the San Francisco exposition attracted so much attention.

Easy Proposition.

[Harper's Weekly:]. "I see," said Bilkins, "that a French scientist has discovered a method for staving off old age."

"Well, what of it?" demanded Wilkins. "There's nothing new in that. A man can stave off old age by jumping off the Eiffel Tower, or dropping a lighted match in a powder barrel while sitting on it, or by rocking the boat when he's out on the water, or by riding over Niagara Falls sitting astride of a log. Those French scientists make me tired with their hullabaloo over nothing."

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Herbert Ward, the English sculptor, who arrived here last week to deliver a series of lectures in behalf of the American-French war relief fund on his experiences at the front in France as ambulance officer of the Chasseurs, Alpine Corps, is the only survivor of the Sir Henry Stanley expedition across Central Africa, for the relief of Emin Pasha. Herbert Ward has had a most extraordinary career, full of adventure. Educated at Mill Hill College, where lads in the former days used to be trained for the English civil service, he left at 15 for New Zealand, and at 17 was in the service of the North Borneo Company. He had been three times around the world before he was 21, and at the time when he joined Stanley's expedition in Africa had been several years in the service of the Congo Free State, and was thoroughly acquainted, not only with the country, but also with the various languages and dialects.

Col. Charles M. Truitt, who has commanded the Twenty-second Infantry since July, 1914, has just been placed on the retired list of the army on his own application. Col. Truitt's retirement advances Lieut.-Col. Frederick Perkins, Twentieth Infantry; Maj. Richard C. Croxton, Fifth Infantry; Capt. L. F. Kilbourne, Twenty-sixth Infantry; First Lieutenant R. C. Kirtland, Twenty-second Infantry, and Second Lieutenant R. M. Wainer, Twenty-eighth Infantry.

The Spingarn medal, which is annually given the American citizen of African descent for the highest achievement in any human endeavor during the preceding year, has been awarded to Maj. Charles Young, U.S.A. former military attache to Liberia. The award was made at a meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. In presenting the medal Gov. McCall referred to Maj. Young's work in the African republic, where he trained a constabulary force and built roads to the interior. He has just returned to this country to command the second squadron of the Tenth Cavalry, stationed in Arizona.

Mayor Smith of Philadelphia has put the more than 10,000 employees of the city of Philadelphia on the "water wagon," at least during working hours. The Mayor's statement follows: "Today I have given instructions to every director and bureau chief to issue a general order against drinking among employees during working hours. An employee who must use liquor while on duty, or who takes liquor with him when detailed for work, cannot remain in the city's employ."

George Bronson Rea, who was once a Brooklyn newsboy, has been awarded the grand prize offered by the Chinese government for the best programme for a national system of railways in that country.

The last Friday in October has been designated by the Governor of Georgia as "Stanton Day" in honor of Frank L. Stanton, the noted poet of Atlanta. With the inauguration of Frank L. Prof. M. E. Bishop William A. Quayle (red-headed) recently spoke before the Hamline University Club of Red Heads at St. Paul on "In Defense of the Red Heads." "The world of men is divided into two parts," declared the bishop, "red heads and bald heads. All angels are red-headed—at least pictures ever painted of angels give them sorrel tops. Beginning with red locks, and continuing with red blood, red hearts and everything else red, except hands, the red heads 'blaze the way' that leads high."

After a service of forty-seven years as a member of the Dartmouth College faculty, Dr. John King Lord, professor of Latin and literature, will retire June 30. His resignation, which was offered on account of the health of his wife, has been accepted by the trustees. He was vice-president of Dartmouth from 1893 to 1909, and acting president 1892-1893 and 1894-1895.

Rev. Napoleon Burnett, aged 65 years, of Huntington, W. Va., recently walked fifteen miles to preach a funeral sermon. He refused to ride on a train to attend the funeral of James H. Clutts at Greenbottom on Sunday because of religious scruples. He said he was opposed to men working on Sunday, even on railroad trains, and he would not encourage desecration of the Sabbath by riding on a train on the Lord's day. He made the long hike with a Bible tucked under his arm. James H. Clutts, at whose funeral he presided, was a boyhood friend.

Dr. Edward S. Kirk, dean of the Evans Dental Institute, University of Pennsylvania, says, "Recent research has shown that many cases of epilepsy in children, St. Vitus's dance, general nervous breakdown and retarded mental and physical development have been proved positively to have been caused by impacted or abnormally developed third molars, commonly called wisdom teeth." Dr. Kirk even went so far as to say that imbecility in children was attributed to abnormally-developed third molars, and illustrated by stereopticon slides that cases of imbecility had been relieved by proper treatment of the teeth.

ART AND ARTISTS:

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

On Fame.

Fame, like a wayward girl, will still be coy
To those who woo her with too slavish knees,
But makes surrender to some thoughtless boy,
And dotes the more upon a heart at ease.
She is a gipsy—will not speak to those
Who have not learned to be content without her;
A jilt, whose ear was never whispered close,
Who thinks they scandal her who talk about her;
A very gipsy is she, Nilus-born,
Sister-in-law to jealous Potiphar.
Ye lovesick bards, repay her scorn for scorn;
Ye artists lovelorn, madmen that ye are,
Make your best bow to her and bid adieu,
Then, if she likes it, she will follow you.

Juries and Other Fetiches.

A fetich, according to all the dictionaries, is "an object of exclusive and inordinate devotion."

The fetich, in the course of time, is apt to become inert and monstrous, a stumbling block to those who would make progress—in short, a general nuisance to everybody, even the purblind worshiper.

Civilization has erected the jury as the greatest of its fetiches. The idea of the jury is all right, but we must not rush to the conclusion that twelve fools are better than one wise man. Our faith in the jury rests on the hope that the one wise man may be among the twelve.

Not long ago I had a little talk with a well-known painter of Los Angeles in which he expressed the belief that paintings intended for general exhibitions should not be put on trial before a jury of painters, but should be passed on by laymen who understood and loved art. "The laymen would be more unprejudiced than the artists," he maintained, "having no great concern with particular methods of laying on paint. Few painters can see beyond their own palettes, but the intelligent art lover makes it his business to survey the whole field of art."

I thought this painter was right, but when I broached the subject to another painter, equally well known, but younger, he disagreed with me entirely, his main argument against the innovation being that "it had never been done." So there I was—in violent contact with the huge fetich of convention. The very fact that it has never been done declares that it should be done, at least once. Let's try it out in Los Angeles, regardless of what they have been doing for the 100 years in Paris and London and New York. Let's not be dominated by a dead fetich.

"Trial by a jury of one's peers" is a perfectly meaningless phrase, anyhow. If a murderer's peers must gather to try his case they must perforce be murderers, and he certainly would not be hung—and, by the same token, when a painter's peers meet to decide on the merits of his work very often he isn't hung, either, though he, like the murderer, may feel that he richly deserves to be.

General discontent follows in the wake of all art juries and therefore many artists hold that the jury system should be abolished. Painters and sculptors, they say, should send their works by invitation only, and all works submitted must be accepted. This is all very well for the invited, but how about the men left out in the cold, who may feel that they are as talented as anybody, if not more so? Apparently, difficulties loom whichever way we turn.

Just now there is hot feud and insurrection in the camps of art because the exhibition of contemporary American paintings which opened at Exposition Park on Friday is largely made up of pictures which were sent from the East by invitation and therefore escaped the jury, while the rest, contributed by Los Angeles painters, had to undergo vigorous inspection. Our painters contend that inasmuch as they and we had to pay by taxation for the transportation of the pictures of the New York men, their own pictures should have been granted a like immunity from the charges of the drayman and the objections of the jury. They feel that an invidious distinction has been made, that their position and importance in the world of art has been made smaller and less important than it really is. They, too, they say, should have been invited, not merely permitted, to send in pictures to the exhibition.

Here we come up against the appallingly big fetich of the superiority of the New York men, a fetich which is three parts illusion, and which will bust if you kick it hard. Why, when it comes to a showdown, should the men of the East paint better than the men of the West? We have the same intelligence in art, the same training—and surely no one dare say that nature is less wonderful, less beautiful in California than in New York! Are our ideals small? No one who has watched the growth of art in Southern California can say that they are. We have progressed because we have been happily oblivious, for the most part, of the existence of the New York fetich.

Complaints are abroad that the jury who met last week turned down pictures by Los Angeles painters that are at least as good as some by the eastern men. The accusation of unfairness may not hold, but we have the right to question the jury's judgment. I have seen two of these pictures, and one I consider to be among the best works of its painter, who is an artist of fine ability. This painter has won prizes in other exhibitions. The second picture, by another man, is much better than many now on the walls in Exposition Park. Which seems to show that it all comes back to the question of the fetich, the artist's preoccupation with his own manner of painting, to the exclusion of some other methods.

Before I leave this (to me) interesting topic on juries and other fetiches I want to mention a bit of news quite germane to the subject. I was informed the other day that a woman painter of Los Angeles has sent to our public library a letter of protest against the admission of Willard Huntington Wright's book, "Modern Painting," her reason being that Mr. Wright is not an authority on art, and that therefore his book would lead the general reader astray. Here we unearth another fetich very dear to artists—the fetich that denies comprehension of painting to any one but a painter. You might as well say that the man who isn't a poet can not possibly understand poetry, or that only the novelist is fit to pass judgment on novels. Mr. Wright, as it happens, is a man of remarkable intelligence, and presumably he has made a close study of art matters through the past few years.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

THE POTTER,
SANTA BARBARA, March 3.

Laurie darling: Why aren't up here sharing this giddy time me? The pater is wallowing in golf tournament at the country and everyone is so sorry for his ected little daughter that they laid themselves out to give her time of her life. There is a whole of our Los Angeles and Pasadena people at the Potter, where life serene fairy tale with the ogres out. Of course, you know I have a vow not to flirt all through so it behooves me to make the of the few days left.

And if you'll promise not to tell a, I'll confess my wavering heart is between two perfectly sumptuous bachelors. One is W. H. War- of New York, who would make beautiful wicked villain in a melo- if only he could be persuaded grow a ferocious mustache. He on horses and rides with melancholy magnificence up the mountain and pauses to strike a poetic attitude on the skyline, where the girls all over town can gaze up in rous adoration. And he dances and, conscious of his duty, misses a Saturday night dance, which the social excitement of week is wont to concentrate up All the town nabobs come in them—the fascinating Tweedie who ride and golf their young away; Mrs. Gardner Hammond her troop of heiress daughters you know, is the arch-celebrity here, for she owns a palace, a pri- golf course, a fleet of automobiles, pays hubby a handsome alimony keep away;) Seymour and Albert two darling boys, one of whom fancy swimming and shines tically, and the other a serious, angel who ought to be a if only he were poor.

other bachelor is Tony Hupfel, of New York (papa, who is with is a brewery illionaire, 74 old, as straight as a lath, and drinks his own beer, it is the argument against prohibition he offer.) Tony is the handsome breezy type of young man, is capable of making any girl enough to take advantage year. And if he gets included jolly leap year party the Keeney is giving on Monday evening— in the Moorish room, and a dance in the palm room after—his fate is sealed.

ta Barbara is simply chock full millionaires, the real article—and is so used to them that they cut any special ice at all. When body is somebody—you know. William Miller Graham is here —their lofty castle on the hill a landmark hereabouts, is rented Fred K. Vanderbilts this season. The Willys of Overland car, the Edward Swifts who forth around the country in private car the Federal, and little old couple, the Walter, to say nothing of Mr. Cobb bert Baker, both of who vie each other in building costly Mr. Cobb told me a terrific he made me promise not to anyone, so you won't pass it on to will you, darling? We were about the wonderful growth Los Angeles and he whispered that father built the very first frame in Chicago in 1833 and lived in it with a population of two I don't quite know why I tell it, but it is evidently a private confidence.

George C. Boldt of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, is here and they do Peacock Alley misses him horribly. He has just gone up to Paso for a day or two to wallow in luxury of mud baths—there is no for taste.

The Vincent Whitneys came for the tournament and Mrs. Whitney more charming than ever in her little golf togs, a green silk with white fox fur de luxe round it, and a most becoming hat. She is one of the few women looks really nice smoking— the act into a grace. Most the women smoke up here, especially at the country club, which is awfully jolly place. It manages be really cosy, but luxurious, too. perched up high on a hill with velvet lawns mown smooth down to the sea, with flowers trees galore and that gorgeous background.

All the girls are wearing imperial stripes and checks for sport this —little Miss Roges had a mauve with mauve striped stocks (she adorable on horseback,) and Tweedie, who looked awfully, was wearing a very wide suede belt and a big green hat. are not quite so sporty—rather garden variety, big and elegantly, you know the sort of thing. Scotch pdaid skirts, very short, to be quite de rigueur—and boots, cherie. White boots to be relegated to the pretty-dresses now. Mrs. Dietrick of looked very fetching in a and white sweater with very stripes and stockings to match. played round with her handsome and made the hypocritical bachelors sigh wistfully.

They have caught the classical itch here, too, and we listen to the strain of opera every in the lobby, every member orchestra a lord-high-symphony of the La Scala opera company. I naughtily long for ragtime or old-fashioned love song I look at Hamlin, who is here with, and observe how very be- it is to properly appreciate a orchestra.

Jones had a jolly party for the set on the balcony yesterday, that younger set is not very is a haven for the middle- and elderly, the feminine section former all scrupulously wear- pink, which is the color par when one has played the with one's complexion.

and Mrs. Clyde Graves of the came up for the golf and Graves had a dazzling round he beat Conde Jones. But he not keep it up, although one nicest girls I know was pulling him hard, and he got licked in round by a serious, taciturn Tuckerman, who is one of their players up here. He doesn't the whole way round, won't smile at his opponent's best

They have some brave men up here, D. de Windt, for instance, who, months in hospital, managed to defeat Vincent Whitney; and Harlow Frink, who is going to play with Ruth Peabody in the mixed foursomes on Sunday. Fancy a masculine tournament ending up with mixed foursomes—aren't they nice and gallant in Santa Barbara? Fancy any of our clubs down there doing anythings as graciously gentlemanly as that.

Don't tell the mater, will you? The pater has picked an artistic grass widow for the foursomes on Sunday and talks of sending me home with some friends. But I shall do my daughterly duty and stay. As I have always felt when papas go astray, "What are the daughters thinking of?"

You knew that Mrs. Gilleson was formally engaged to Harry Davis, didn't you? Everybody says the Gillesons were such a nice couple, they can't think what the trouble was. But I think Harry Davis is a pretty obvious trouble, don't you? He isn't here this year, which grieves me. I used to just love to sit and look at him. He may not be half as beautiful to talk to as he is to look at, but then a lot of beautiful people are like that.

Oh, dear, I remember I made a New Year resolution not to gossip any more. Aren't resolutions difficile? Anyway, I am sure it is time I stopped, so au revoir, darling.

Lots of love from
BETTY.

SOCIETY.

GRANTED that Lent is close—for Ash Wednesday dawns but three days distant, and her penitential shadows creep ever nearer with each waking sun—there are to be wonderful memories to last until bright-arrayed eastern comes with the joy of living.

For society is to be left fairly gasping over the regal splendor, the magnificence, of the bachelors' ball.

A genuine California mocker caroled out to the enchanted world last night that kings are to be there, with their royal consorts, protected by army and navy men from every quarter of this big old world. At least a dashing major of a crack Serbian regiment, much epauletted in silver (and every society matron and debutante in the City of the Angels adores him) is but waiting the moon's shimmering beams to flood through a bit of flowery canopy, studded with tiny, twinkling incandescent stars, onto a scene of bewitching beauty—all lattices and flowers and gauze-winged butterflies—ere he steps into tomorrow night's scene

The azure cloud-tipped fairies with their wands of gold and sparkling dew are to hold court, and ladies from the harems will vie in their beauty with orientals from the celestial kingdom.

In past eleven years the gallant bachelors have carried off the palm for princely entertainments. And this party gives promise of eclipsing amazingly any former efforts. So no wonder all are on the qui vive!

It has been hardly possible to coax Milady out for even an informal hand of bridge, the past week, so intent has she been on that new costume. They are to be some clever take-offs, but there—no more must be said.

The committee must have had some task choosing from the invincible list of society peeresses so select a personnel of patronesses, but it did well. And all the society queens are in person to grace the brilliant scene. Here they are:

Mrs. Allan C. Balch, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Ernest A. Bryant, Mrs. Michael J. Connell, Mrs. James C. Drake, Mrs. William M. Garland, Mrs. Hugh L. Macneil, Mrs. Granville MacGowan, Mrs. Henry W. O'Melveny, Mrs. Randolph H. Miner, Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori and Mrs. I. N. Van Nuys.

Then, when the patronesses were decided upon, the tremendous task of issuing invitations loomed appallingly. But in that the bachelors again proved their superiority, and when the eleventh ball opens in the great ballroom of the Alexandria tomorrow evening at 9:30 o'clock, the cream of the Almanac de Gotha of the City of the Angels will be there in guises beautiful and original and diversified.

Notable in Eastern Society.

Mrs. Oscar L. Richards, a prominent society woman of New York City, arrived in Los Angeles Thursday and is the guest of Mrs. W. W. Belknap at the Beverly Hills Hotel. Mrs. Richards came West in the private car of Mrs. Richard Laundsbury, daughter of the late J. B. Haggin. While Mrs. Laundsbury went direct to San Francisco, Mrs. Richards stopped here to spend some days with Mrs. Belknap and to see Southern California.

Friday night Mrs. Belknap entertained at dinner in honor of her guest, those invited to meet her being Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lawrence Doheny, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven and Mr. Walters.

Mrs. Richards is the wife of a leading banker in New York City and the family is one of the most prominent in Gotham's exclusive circles. Walter Richards, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Richards, is to be married in New York, April 29, to Miss Oroville Wooster, niece of Mrs. Spreckels and cousin of Mrs. Spencer Eddy. Mrs. Richards will shorten her visit in California in order to return in time for the wedding.

Mrs. Belknap, who is entertaining Mrs. Richards, is comparatvely speaking a newcomer in Los Angeles, having arrived here only last spring to visit her daughter, Mrs. J. J. A. Van Kaathoven, but liking the climate and deciding to stay, Mrs. Belknap has since made her home at the Beverly Hills Hotel. She is a distinguished figure in both New York and Washington society, as well as abroad, where she lived many years. As the bride of Gen. Belknap, Secretary of War under President Grant, Mrs. Belknap was considered the most beautiful woman in Washington, and when, after the death of her husband, she moved to New York and later to Paris, her reputation for beauty and social charm followed her. Returning to Washington for the coming-out of her daughter, Mrs. Belknap was again a leader in society at the capital until, after the marriage of Miss Belknap to Dr. Van Kaathoven, Mrs. Belknap again took up her residence in New York. The decision of this charming matron to make Los Angeles her permanent home has been received with pleasure by all who have had the privilege of meeting her.

Musical Reception.

Castle Sans Souci, the beautiful new home of Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Schloesser in Hollywood, was the scene of a brilliant musical, Wednesday evening, when 200 guests assembled to be entertained by a number of the foremost musicians of Los Angeles.

The grounds, aglow with many lights, were a veritable fairyland, and to the very tip of the high tower, the castle was ablaze. The spacious Gothic music-room was draped with flags and banked with masses of exquisite roses. Madame Chatneys in palest pink were used in the Louis Quinze drawing-room; and in the dining-room, a gem of Tudor-Gothic architecture, crimson ramblers adorned the tables, where punch was served throughout the evening.

Carl Bronson, the musician and poet, was master of ceremonies, and with a few clever remarks introduced the artists in turn.

Miss Lillian Ammalee Smith, a magnificent pianiste, who studied with Leschetizky of Vienna for five years, delighted her audience with her brilliant interpretations of the masters.

Mrs. Alex Schloesser, well-known dramatic reader, gave two clever character sketches, and Mrs. Goodfellow sang beautifully.

Miss Mildred Raus, a talented pupil of Miss Lillian Ammalee Smith, gave two pleasing numbers.

Fred MacPherson, the popular baritone, sang delightfully, as did Miss Marshall of the Metropolitan Operahouse of New York. Miss Marshall possesses an unusual contralto voice of wonderful power and sweetness.

Mrs. Emma Potter Makinson, the eminent interpreter of Cadman's Indian music, was in splendid voice and sang well a number of beautiful songs. Mrs. Makinson formerly sang with the Apollo Club and with the Thomas Orchestra of Chicago.

In dispensing the delightful hospitality for which they are noted, Dr. and Mrs. Schloesser were assisted by their charming young daughter-in-law and son, the Alexander Schloessers.

Like affairs are to be given at intervals, which will enliven society.

Equestriennes Lunch.

Miss Oril Wing, principal of Angeles Vista School, entertained the Riding Club of the school at luncheon Saturday at the Beverly Hills Hotel. The party of fourteen left at 10 o'clock for the ride, and spent a pleasant hour at billiards and bowling before repairing to one of the private dining-rooms, gayly decorated for the occasion. Place cards designed by Miss Josephine Chambes of the Angeles Vista Art Club depicted riding men and girls in hunting costume. Those enjoying the annual affair were the Misses Esther Rhoades, Margaret Harris, Gabrielle Presper, Evelyn Loop, Elsie Bennet, Mary Louise Mayers, Virginia Pyle, Marion Coy, Enid Jones, Maxine Kells, Katherine Phillips, Jane Murrieta, Miss Wing and J. Vogt.

From the East.

Los Angeles is entertaining two society girls from the East just now, both of whom are finding in the Alexandria a comfy temporary home while "doing" the enchanted Southland by motor. They are Miss Vandever of Philadelphia and Miss Ruth Faught of St. Louis.

Miss Hillman of San Francisco, a society girl of the north who has been in the city a few days in company with her father, a prominent financier of the Bay City, was fortunate in finding here a number of former Dana Hall girls, and the delightful coterie "tea-d" in the palmroom nearly every afternoon while renewing their intimacy of schoolgirl days. Miss Marian Sproul, who with her stunning mother was down from Chicago en route for a season in Coronado, where they went Friday morning, entertained several of the girls informally Tuesday afternoon. All are just at the interesting debutante age.

For Mrs. Cawston.

Many are the social courtesies being heaped upon Mrs. Edwin Cawston of London, Eng., who is at present the treasured house guest of her mother, Mrs. Mary P. Doran. During the length of her stay the former Angelenan will furnish the inspiration for any number of teas and luncheons, all of an informal nature.

Off for Hayti.

Their many friends will be interested in learning that Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Molony of San Francisco, whose marriage was an important happening in Los Angeles not many months ago (Mrs. Molony was formerly Miss Edith Holder of this city,) are starting soon for New York, where they will enjoy a cruise down the Atlantic shore to Hayti and Cuba.

For the Coming Week.

Pleasurably anticipated is the at home which Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Morgan and their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Rhoads, are extending to a large number of friends Tuesday evening in the reception hall of the Jamieson, No. 915 South Carondelet street, at 8 o'clock. Cards will furnish a happy diversion, and bidden are mostly former Marshalltown (Iowa) friends, who now either live or are visiting in Southern California.

List Complete.

Ever so many prominent society matrons are to entertain with luncheons following the next musical morning at the Alexandria, scheduled for the 14th. Among the patronesses are numbered Mrs. Howard E. Huntington, Mrs. Albert Sherman Hoyt, Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Erasmus Wilson, Mrs. William A. Brackenridge, Mrs. Rufus Spalding, Mrs. Ella Brooks Solano, Mrs. Frederick Stevens, Mrs. John Percival Jones, Mrs. Lucien Napoleon Brunswig, Mrs. Chappell Q. Stanton, Mrs. Samuel Storrow, Mrs. George J. Denis, Mrs. H. W. R. Strong, Mrs. Charles Sumner Kent, Mrs. Michael Francis Regan, Mrs. Kate Slauson Vosburg, Mrs. Rea Smith, Mrs. James Henry Ballagh, Mrs. Frederick W. Braun, Mrs. Robert A. Rowan, Mrs. John S. Cravens, Mrs. Harry Gray, Mrs. William Howe Kennedy, Mrs. Edward Rankin Brainerd, Mrs. Jotham Bixby, Jr., Mrs. William Wiley Johnston, Miss Victoria Witmer, Mrs. J. Ross Clark, Mrs. Charles Modini Wood, Mrs. Albert Carlos Jones and Mrs. Earle C. Anthony.

For Bride of the Week.

A charming prenuptial courtesy was extended during the week to Miss Ethel Stimson, who yesterday at high noon in St. Agnes Church, West Adams street and Vermont avenue, became the bride of Harold Moehle, by Miss Grace Helen Pease, who entertained with a miscellaneous shower, auction bridge and high tea. A profusion of orange blossoms and feathery ferns was used exclusively in decorating for the affair, and the center of the long table at which tea was served held a bed of the fragrant blossoms nestling in the ferns. Nut dishes were in the form of orange blossoms, and favors were hand-painted sachets, with the addition of golden boots to the honoree. The table glimmering under the soft shade of green lights was charmingly effective. Miss Irene Teetzell was high-score winner of the afternoon.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Richard Mullineaux, No. 871 St. Andrews place, entertained with an auction bridge evening, completely surprising the then Miss Stimson and Mr. Moehle, in whose honor it was given. They were invited to spend the evening at the Mullineaux home, and when they arrived found thirty guests assembled there to greet them. The house was spring-like with its decorations of jonquils, perky bows of yellow tulle and lights shaded in yellow. At the conclusion of the games of auction, Miss Stimson was presented with a huge hat box tied with quantities of yellow tulle, and upon opening it she found it filled with a miscellaneous shower. A delicious supper was served, all appointments carried out in the yellow motif.

A particularly smartly-appointed affair for this interesting young couple was the dinner given Monday evening by Mrs. George Woodward at her home on Orange street, the table gleaming in every variety of spring blossoms, set in a bed of moss and ferns, while softly-shaded lights glowed over the handsome lace cloth.

Philippine Society.

The Los Angeles chapter of the Philippine Society entertained with a dinner dance last Friday evening at the Sierra Madre Club, complimenting the veterans of the American occupation of the Philippines and their friends. During the dinner hour Miss Hazel Jones, soloist, accompanied by Miss Myrtle Jones, gave a number of selections. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Gale, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Oliphant, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Stroud, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Gentry, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hemming, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Lawshe, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Walsh, Dr. and Mrs. Malaby, Mr. and Mrs. Swindell, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dietrich, Dr. Hammack, Miss Jones, Mrs. Ashe, Miss Dalton, Miss Nell Morris, Mrs. Malcolm, Miss McCreary, Miss Margaret Feehan, Miss Lawshe, Miss Constant Jensen, and Messrs. F. W. Stein, Burt Edwards, H. H. Culver, J. C. Knudson, D. L. Cobb, Dr. Bartlett, J. M. Sheridan, Frank Dominguez, A. G. Zinn, Council, Capt. C. H. Barnard, H. J. McCoy, Dr. E. B. Merchant and Capt. Wheat.

Luncheon and Cards.

Honoring Miss Hazel Odele Bucklus, whose wedding to Lawrence Rogers will occur in the early summer, Mrs. Ernest A. Sherwood, No. 1957 Lovelace avenue, entertained with a daintily-appointed luncheon at the Sierra Madre Club Friday afternoon, to which members of the bridal party were included. A quaint centerpiece of jonquils, white and purple hyacinths, delicately interspersed with the faint emerald of maidenhair ferns and ribbons of gauze, was the feature of the table decorations. Places were marked with cards, hand-limned, and adorned with dancing girls. Games of whist employed the afternoon, following luncheon.

Fifth Anniversary Banquet.

The Ross chapter of Phi Alpha Delta will entertain with its fifth anniversary banquet at Cafe Hoffman, No. 215 South Spring street, the evening of March 11, at 6:30 p.m. Invitations have just been issued.

Officers' Wives Complimented.

Mrs. E. B. Moseley, No. 6615 Franklin avenue, entertained with an enjoyable bridge luncheon at the Sierra Madre Club, honoring the wives of army officers. All the appointments were carried out in the national colors, and covers were laid for the hostess, her house guest, Mrs. H. S. Youtsey of Fort Collins, Colo.; Mrs. John I. Rogers, Mrs. William Purviance, Mrs. Robert Read, Mrs. Roger Miller, Mrs. Sarber of Beverly Hills, a newcomer to Southern California, and Miss Davis. Games of auction followed the delectable luncheon, prizes falling to Mmes. Purviance and Sarber.

In Cupid's Realm.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto LeFevre formally announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura, to William H. Schroeder of this city. While the wedding is to be in the near future the exact date is not determined.

Interesting Society.

The last of four interpretations of opera which have been given during the winter season at the homes of leading society women of Pasadena by Sydney Francis Hoben and for which innumerable Angelenos have motored to the Crown City was the attraction Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. DeWitt LeFevre's beautiful place on Orange Grove avenue. The setting was ideal, for the large audience was clustered around the patio, in the center of which is a Roman pool with fish darting about its rocks depths. From the patio many arches open, leading about other nooks of the luxurious residence, and a gallery runs along the upper stories.

The house was a mass of yellow and pink flowers, great branches of peach blossoms contained in unique Persian pottery being placed amid the palms in the patio, while the dining-room was especially pleasing to the eye, with its spring blooms. The dainty refreshments, sweets, ices, etc., were in the dominating pink color scheme.

The opera given by the New Zealand pianist was Richard Strauss's "Der Rosencavalier," the plot of which is highly amusing while much of the score is pure Viennese waltz. Mr. Hoben told the story with a keen Bridge Tea.

Assisted by her mother, Mrs. F. H. Hemus, Mrs. Edward Butterworth gave, during the week, the fourth of a series of interesting bridge teas with which she is entertaining her friends. Great baskets of enchantress carnations and gypsophila glowed decoratively throughout the room on Orange street, and the high tea following the games of auction, also accentuated the artistic color motif. Prizes were awarded to Mmes. Hinckley and Kohl, and those extended invitations included Mrs. P. H. Fox, Mrs. Charles Easton, Mrs. C. E. Longfellow, Mrs. Oscar Kohl, Mrs. I. Benjamin, Mrs. A. F. Landrety, No. 25 Ford place. The Senator and his charming wife are very well known socially, both in Colorado and California.

Dance at the Pepper.

The ladies of the Hotel Pepper, with Mrs. George E. Marshall, Mrs. L. S. Friend, Miss Alice Barker and Miss Bessie Barker hostesses, gave a delightful ball February 26 in honor of George W. Henderson. About 500 invitations were issued.

Mrs. R. W. Shaw, who is to return to her home in Houlton, Me., the last of the month, following a very happy visit with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Heffner of No. 2401 Romeo street, was honoree at a bridge tea Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Heffner hostess. A wealth of choice pink roses was employed decoratively throughout the rooms, where were scattered the tables for some twenty players. Elaborate tea was served.

Ante-nuptial Affairs.

March 1, at the pretty home of Mrs. J. T. Berry of No. 1534 Sierra Bonita avenue, Hollywood, Miss Hazel Adele Buckius, one of the prospective brides, was special guest of honor at a luncheon in which Mrs. Berry and Mrs. E. G. Witt were joint hostesses, the game of five hundred being played during the afternoon. Those bidden were seated at a table resplendent in violets and pink roses, tulle and corsages, the honoree's place being designated with a kewpie bride. The affair was limited to eight intimate friends.

University Club.

The dinner-dance at the University Club Saturday evening was the last of an interesting series of entertainments given by the club during the season. The rooms were decorated with acacia blossoms, daffodils and bay trees. Among the members who entertained guests were Capt. and Mrs. R. A. Ford, Dr. and Mrs. Ford A. Carpenter and Mr. and Mrs. Mosier, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Lyon, Dr. J. A. Colliver, Dr. E. V. Rice, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Crenshaw, B. W. Marks, J. W. Combs, and Mrs. E. T. Wall, whose guests included Mrs. A. N. Pichdnor of Philadelphia and P. E. Beabody.

Preparing for 17th.

The largest single entertainment at the Los Angeles Athletic Club in March will be the St. Patrick's dance the 17th. It will be particularly elaborate both as to decorations and the special entertainment which will add to the gaiety of the occasion while the dinner service is on. This dance, as was the formal affair in February, will be under the auspices of the Mayor of Rowansburg and his cabinet, whose members hope to materially increase their social popularity by their hospitality on this occasion.

Carrying out the St. Patrick's Day motif, the color scheme for the table decorations and in the gymnasium, where the dance will be held, will be in various shades of green. Shamrock from the Emerald Isle will figure in the table decorations. Plans are being laid to entertain a record number of club men and their guests.

The Athletic Club furnished the setting for several large dinners and numerous elaborate luncheons during the past week. Mrs. A. B. Cooke entertained at luncheon for twelve friends in the English Room Friday. The table decorations were jonquils tastefully arranged with yellow ribbons. The guests included Mrs. Neely, Mrs. Woolwine, Mrs. Long, Mrs. Landes, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Wallis, Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Stanton, Mrs. Lindley, Mrs. Chichester, Mrs. Robertson, Mrs. Hawkins and Mrs. Plummer.

Two large dinners were given Saturday—one in the main dining-room, at which L. C. Burton entertained thirty-five guests, and another in the Blue Room with M. A. Newmark as host to forty-five. Dr. C. G. Shipman entertained that afternoon at luncheon in the Ladies' Annex for six friends. E. G. Dezell invited twelve to luncheon in the Sheriton Room Tuesday, and on Thursday Mrs. A. L. Miss Sears in South.

Miss Eleanor Sears, society leader, ardent sportswoman and "ultraist," and a genuine favorite in California, arrived Friday at Coronado, where she will be for an indefinite stay.

Miss Sears is to take part in the sport ball which William Ramsey Heberhart is arranging along stupendous lines for Saturday night in the great domed ballroom of the Hotel del Coronado, which has brought fame to the peninsula. Stunning society girls from the Pacific to the Atlantic and from the Canadian border to the Gulf are to typify, in a huge gilded frame, living pictures in outdoor attire.

Another celebrated figure now at the southern beach resort is Mrs. Finley Shepherd, formerly Helen Gould, and the Harriman family is expected shortly.

Miss Louise Burke is yet down there and many society folks of this city and Pasadena will join the pleasure seekers for the week-end.

Here En Route East.

Mrs. Harold Van Matre and son, Jack, are in the city as house guests of Mrs. Frank Edgar Williams of No. 677 Carondelet street, an aunt. They are en route from Vancouver, their former home, to join Mr. Van Matre in Cincinnati.

Enjoy Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilmot of Cleveland, O., are spending several weeks at the Van Nuys, after enjoying the Potter at Santa Barbara and Hotel del Coronado. Mrs. Wilmot is a popular society leader of Cleveland, who has become a great favorite with her Los Angeles friends.

For Twenty-four.

Complimenting her niece, Mrs. Harold Van Matre of Cincinnati, O., Mrs. Frank Edgar Williams of No. 677 Carondelet street entertained with a smart luncheon and bridge at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday. Covers were laid for twenty-four in a setting typical of California's floral beauty, poppies and violets arranged in the old-fashioned garden style. The yellow baskets were tied with daisies and place cards matched. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. William Denton of Cleveland, O., Mrs. Emil Kehrlein of San Francisco, Mrs. Charles Staple of Fresno and Mrs. William Wharton of Fresno. The last three ladies are sisters.

Fancy Dress Ball.

One of the events of the coming week which is attracting much interest among the smart set is the fancy dress ball to be given at the Beverly Hills Hotel Friday night. The greatest secrecy is being maintained as to what costumes are to be worn, and not even among the guests of the hotel, who see each other so frequently, is it possible to start a discussion which will lead one fair maid to confide to another what her attire is to be. Rumor whispers the conventional thing, oriental garb, yama yama costume, quaint colonial dress or perhaps even the comfortable and becoming things one wears to a children's party, such as the long-waisted, short-skirted little frocks which demand bobbed hair and half-socks. But at all such suggestions milady only smiles and says there will be some surprises, some costumes unusual; and there the matter rests. Exhibition dances are to be a feature of the evening, and an additional surprise, the names of the dancers or their numbers not yet being announced. Many Los Angeles and Hollywood people of social prominence are planning to attend the dance in costume, and with the large number of guests now at the hotel the occasion promises, if anything, to surpass the cotillion on the 22nd, which was said by many to be the most attractive dancing party ever given at the hotel.

Set up Lares and Penates.

Mrs. Frederick Kimball Stearns, accompanied by her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Stearns of Detroit, joined Mr. Stearns in Beverly Hills Friday. The Stearns family is one of the most prominent in Detroit, where Mr. Stearns has been a manufacturing pharmacist many years, and in leisure hours a patron of the arts. After his retirement from active business a few years ago Mr. Stearns spent some time in travel and then decided upon beautiful Beverly Hills as the place where he would establish a permanent home. During the past few months, while Mrs. Stearns has been in New York with their daughter, Miss Marjorie, Mr. Stearns, with the assistance of his cousin, Eugene Dike, and a retinue of servants, has set up the Lares and Penates of the Stearns family quite satisfactorily and attractively, at No. 722 Crescent drive. Mrs. Stearns will remain here through the summer, though she will probably again winter with her daughter, who has forsaken society to study dancing under Alberta Rasch in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Stearns will be here a month.

Luncheon for Forty.

Mrs. W. P. Barrett of Pasadena is to given a luncheon for forty of her friends at the Beverly Hills Hotel Tuesday. Tables for bridge will be laid in the tea room to delightfully consume the afternoon hours.

Nuptial Celebration.

French marigolds in quaint Navajo baskets and crystal candlesticks shaded with green gave beauty to the decorations for the dinner which Dr. and Mrs. Edward Hewitt Garrett gave Thursday night at their home, No. 2251 West Twentieth street, in observance of their twelfth wedding anniversary. Attached to the place cards were orange blossom boutonnieres for the gentlemen and corsages for the fairer sex, covers being marked for Dr. and Mrs. David Barber, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Mann, Mrs. F. E. Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lloyd Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Banning Garrett, Mrs. Jessie B. Small, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Pockels, Miss Elizabeth Garrett and the hosts.

Leap-year Party.

A merry leap-year party was held at the home of Rev. George Steed, No. 433 West Fiftieth street, last Tuesday evening. The Kappa-Kappa girls of the South Main-street Methodist Church were the cause of the disturbance and showed genuine ingenuity in the planning of the games and the decorations. Pink and white crepe creations and streamers crowded the rooms everywhere with color and the gay dresses of the nineteen young ladies present made it look as though spring had really burst forth in all her glory.

Nineteen young men absorbed the leap-year attentions of the girls and everyone enjoyed the games and refreshments, which consisted of brick ice cream and small cakes—heart-shaped, of course.

Surprise Birthday Party.

A number of Will Neal's friends, headed by the well-known Scotch pipers, Messrs. A. Black and Douglas Lang, met at the Neal home the evening of February 29 to give him a genuine surprise upon the advent of his birthday. Music, dancing and supper were all special avenues of enjoyment.

Here Briefly.

At their Oriental bungalow, No. 843 West Sixty-sixth street, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Haschke recently entertained for their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Lovell Powers of Chicago, who toured the Coast before their return East. Mr. Powers is general paymaster of the Chicago railway system and an old friend of Mr. Haschke.

Bishop to Receive.

Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Johnson is to hold a reception at St. Paul's parish house tomorrow afternoon, between 3 and 6 o'clock, when, assisted by Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. William MacCormack, the divine desires to meet his friends of the city. Among those who will be in line are Mrs. J. D. H. Brown, Mrs. A. W. N. Porter and the board of directors of the Diocesan Home for the Aged, numbering Miss Cora Foy, Mrs. J. C. Holt, Mrs. Robert Lindsey, Mrs. C. G. Clacius, Mrs. Z. M. Miller, Deaconess Miller, the Rev. J. D. H. Brown and the Rev. A. W. Noel Porter.

Over the teacups will be discussed plans for the establishment of a home for old people, which the Episcopalean organization hopes to soon bring to fruition.

For Pavlowa.

Numerous box parties will bring together coteries of friends for the engagement of Pavlowa and the ballet Russe this week. Among those who have already arranged this manner of entertainment are Dr. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Mrs. D. H. Girouard of Altadena, Mrs. A. G. Hubbard of Redlands, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Martin, Dr. F. M. Pottenger, R. W. Poindexter, Mrs. Bertnard Smith, Mrs. E. Everett and Mrs. G. Barlow of Hotel Maryland, Mrs. Wesley Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Phillips, Dr. and Mrs. Francis Kellogg, Myron Hunt, George M. Black and Mrs. John Fleming.

Mrs. Hubbard has a debutante daughter who is just now much enjoying her first season, and who will no doubt accompany her mother over from Redlands. The Hubbards are quite the leaders in the near-by city and have entertained many Los Angeles girls under their hospitable roof.

Incidental to the opera Miss Felice Lyne, who as the house guest of Mrs. Thomas J. Fleming last year made a tremendous social hit, is to be given many luncheons and teas—just all that her engagements will give her time for. The beautiful young prima donna is also a friend of the Kelloggs at Altadena, where she met many interesting people on her last visit in the City of the Angels.

Army Claims Her.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Bender of No. 1037 Grand View street announce the marriage of Mrs. Bender's sister, Adelaide Varian, to Lieut. J. B. Corbly, U.S.A. The wedding occurred in Honolulu. The announcement comes as a surprise to the bride's legion of friends here. Miss Varian for the past year has been visiting in the Orient. On her return home in December she accepted invitations from friends to visit Honolulu, where she is a great favorite. Lieut. Corbly of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, U.S.A., laid clever siege to the heart of this charming girl and won the big victory of his life.

Lieut. and Mrs. Corbly will be at home after the 15th inst. at Scofield Barracks, Honolulu.

Of Double Import.

Mrs. H. F. Brainard and daughter, Miss Viva, formerly of No. 961 Arapahoe street, gave at their lovely new home, No. 247 East White Oak boulevard, Monrovia, Thursday afternoon a reception and musicale, which later developed into an exciting announcement party. The secret was not intimated until the guests were bidden into the dining-room, beautifully decorated in Enchantress carnations and innumerable pink hearts, and the table, centered with a cake elaborately designed in confections and holding burning tapers, heralding the fact that it was the twenty-first birthday of the fair young hostess. In each piece of cake served was found a tiny pink heart bearing the inscription, "Louis Adsit and Miss Viva Brainard—June 1916." Thus was told the approaching wedding of the popular young couple. The groom-elect, now a promising young merchant of Cherokee, Iowa, will come to claim his bride, taking her back to her new home.

Pavlowa Supper Dance.

A smart affair of the week will be the first of a series of supper-dances on Wednesday evening with Anna Pavlowa as the special guest of the evening. The patronesses for this event are: Mrs. Edwin T. Earl, Mrs. Walter Perry, Mrs. William May Garland, Mrs. Guy Cochran, Mrs. Albert Crutcher, Mrs. Rea Smith, Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, Jr., Mrs. Secondo Guasti, Mrs. L. J. Brunswig, Mrs. William G. Kerckhoff, Mrs. Guy Barham, Mrs. Henry O'Melvery, Mrs. Harold Cook and Mrs. Samuel Storrow.

Society is looking forward to the event with keen interest, also to the afternoon dancing affairs on Wednesdays and Saturdays, beginning Saturday from 3:30 until 6 o'clock, under the direction of the Misses Faulkner, who will introduce the Russian teas to Los Angeles with fascinating programmes of dance and music.

Oriental Ball at Beach.

One of the most widely-attended and elaborate functions held during the winter season at the local beaches was the oriental ball given last night at Santa Monica by Mrs. Rosamond Borde at the Hotel Windemere. More than 300 couples danced to the lilting music of the southern seas furnished by a Hawaiian string sextette, and basked in the atmosphere of ultra-orientalism that pervaded the whole affair. Rich trappings of the Far East hung on the walls of the big ballroom and lobby, where the dancing took place, and the sweet-smelling incense of Burma added to the effect. In the palm court Japanese lanterns were strewn about in profusion, and cherry blossoms aided in making it resemble the royal court of the imperial palace in spring festival time. The verandas were turned into scores of ornate Chinese cosy corners, with rich silks and satins woven together to make attractive lounging places for a respite from the dancing.

Costumes of unusual richness were much in evidence; the geisha girl of old Japan flirted coyly with the bearded Turk, the Zulu one-stepped recklessly with the China maid in pantaloons, the turbaned Arab waltzed with the East Indian snake charmer, and there were scores of other highlights.

Motor parties from Los Angeles and Pasadena mingled with the society folk of Venice, Santa Monica and Ocean Park, who had turned out en masse. Oriental maidens served punch, stately Bedouins told you where to check your wraps, and royal-robed mandarins were floor managers. This is the first big oriental ball the beaches had seen, and was made possible by the assistance of the Entertainment Committee of the Sierra Madre Club, that gave the hostess, Mrs. Borde, the benefit of its experience in two similar affairs this season and one last year.

To Meet Miss Fell.

At the residence of Mrs. Lucien N. Brunswig, No. 3528 West Adams street, Tuesday afternoon, a body of interested women will respond to cards to meet and listen to Miss Fell, a philanthropist of London, Eng., who will graphically present scenes in France at this time. She has but recently returned from the battlefields.

The cards for the reception at the Brunswig residence are issued by Mrs. Percival Jones, Mrs. I. N. Brunswig, Mrs. W. A. Edwards, Mrs. William A. Clark, Jr., Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Mary W. Longstreet and Miss Caroline Van Dyke.

Things charitable are ever on the tapis in Los Angeles—a tapis woven of the threads of many social interests, controlled by the swift-moving shuttle of brotherly love, a composite picture of society, assembled more often than not, these days of war, on behalf of philanthropy.

Miss Fell, who is making it her life work to come to the rescue of the French war orphans, is sent here by the Four Hundred and those who have indorsed the work and furthered her efforts are the following New York women: Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Harriman, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mrs. Vincent Astor, Mrs. William Baynard Cutting, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and Miss Ruth V. Twombly.

In San Francisco, where she has but lately established her work, the following ladies have become interested in Miss Fell's efforts, as well as many others: Mrs. William H. Crocker, Mrs. Monteagle, Mrs. J. A. Folger, Mrs. W. B. Bourn and Mrs. Eugene Gallois.

Miss Fell's first introduction in Pasadena was at the residence of Mrs. Fowler, No. 363 Grove street, under the auspices of Miss Kate Fowler, where her talk created intense emotion and interest. She was a luncheon guest of the Friday Morning Club, where she made a astirring address, and she is to speak again in Pasadena today. She will speak at a luncheon at the City Club Monday at 1 o'clock.

"Popping Envelopes."

Mrs. Caroline Blair Downing entertained a single table of thirty-two people at the leap year dinner-dance which preceded the leap year ball at the Hotel Virginia. Mrs. Downing's guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hutchinson, Lieut. G. R. White, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lowe, Mrs. K. P. Martin, Mrs. C. W. Kemmler, Miss Penita Drake, Mrs. Fitch, Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Miss Burpee, Mrs. L. J. Hill, Miss Mary Adams, Miss Jouett Fall, Miss McGraw, Mrs. E. E. Abbott, Mrs. Gregory, Mrs. T. Dyment, Miss Mrs. F. S. Mougin; Messrs. J. R. Walsh, Charles Kendall, William P. Nestle, Frederick J. Jackson, Hammond, Frank Foley, Victor Anderson, Mr. Stone and R. Bot

Among the features of the evening was an innovation from England known as "popping envelopes." An envelope was given to each young lady, and in it she inclosed a message to some gentleman at the ball. These messages were dropped into a box and delivered later. The favors were black silhouettes, which were cut out and given to the guests by two experts.

Mrs. Downing also entertained on Saturday evening in honor of Henry A. Wilson, Chilean consul at San Francisco. He was at the Virginia for the week-end to pay a visit to his beautiful young wife, who with her mother is residing there. Mrs. Wilson will be remembered as the popular Miss Madeline Mougin of Seattle. Mrs. Downing's guests at the beautifully decorated and violet-strewn table included: Mrs. Henry A. Wilson, Mrs. S. F. Mougin, Miss Mary Adams, Miss Jouett Fall, Mrs. A. Everhart, Mrs. Howard, Mrs. P. Martin, Henry A. Wilson, Lieut. R. White, Jr., J. R. Walsh, Frank Foley, Frederick J. Jackson and Schromeyer.

Mother Goose Bewitching.

Merriment reigned in the E. A. home, No. 102 North place, yesterday afternoon when their daughter Virginia had about sixty little friends to a wonderful Mother Goose party. There was a real Puss in the Well, and a mound of hay for little Boy Blue; then at one end of the living-room a glistening spiderweb was spun from tinsel and baby ribbons, attracting no end of admiration. Lemonade was served from out the depths of a well, and cakes surmounted with figures of the different characters from Mother Goose proved delectable eating. A little chef—it was a pieman, maybe—sold his wares and Jack Horner indulged in sitting in a corner. Altogether it was one of the most rollicking, happy juvenile affairs of the season, with decorations particularly appropriate. There were many clothespins dressed as little dolls, and a mysterious hat box, all pink and bowed, sat in the center of a prettily adorned table. Later, when the lid of the box flew off, there was revealed a sure-'nuff Kewpie in the person of 4-year-old Jane Holland. Cherry and peach blossoms and roses—for nothing else would do with so sweet a garden of children but the daintiest of buds—formed a fit background for them in their play.

SOCIETY.

An elaborate eight-course dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock by negro maids whose pure white costumes reflected prettily the colored lights of the room. During each course dancing in the open space was a feature. Dancing also followed dinner.

During the serving of the first course little Arthur Forbes, Jr., and diminutive Miss Harriet Sutton, attired as Japanese flower children, passed among the tables, presenting to each lady a beautiful bouquet of seasonable posies.

Occupy New Home.

After three years spent as tourists in the State Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Barlow have recently purchased an attractive new home at No. 343 South Virgil avenue, occupying a knoll which commands a view overlooking most of the city, and are now at home to their friends. The past year they have been with their daughter, Mrs. James Jerome Canavan. Mrs. Barlow plans to soon open her home with a social afternoon.

For Miss Banning.

Fifty of the younger set were last night entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Russell McDonald Taylor at the Midwick Country Club dinner dance—a pretty social courtesy extended the popular debutante of the season, Miss Eleanor Banning.

Many other dinners, though none so large by half, added merriment, Lloyd R. Macy having fifteen guests and C. M. Clement sixteen. T. D. Hammond presided at one table of friends and E. D. Adams dispensed hospitality to twelve.

Please Note Milady—That None of the Flowers or Plants Are Wearing Last Year's Apparel

—They are all "dressed up" in new Spring attire, just as they should be—and just as the women who are buying new clothes at the Style Shop are "dressed up."

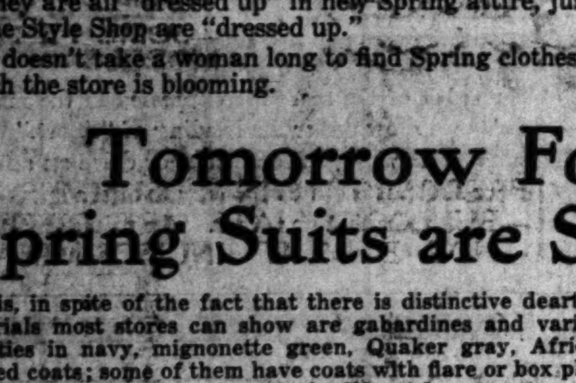
—It doesn't take a woman long to find Spring clothes that suit her among the fine and good collection of pretty styles with which the store is blooming.

Tomorrow Four Hundred Smart Spring Suits are Specially Priced, $25.00

—This, in spite of the fact that there is distinctive dearth of Spring fabrics on account of the war, and that practically the only materials most stores can show are gabardines and various silks. In the Style Shop's $25 showing are plenty of serges, velours and novelties in navy, mignonette green, Quaker gray, African brown as well as plenty of checks. A great many of them have full pleated coats; some of them have coats with flare or box pleats or straight-line jackets or pleated boleros. All are interesting and speak of much more than the price asked. We wish every woman who wants to spend $25 for a new Spring suit could see them.

Silk Suits at $35.00

—A goodly variety and most of them were made just for us. So thatyou will find here models not to be seen elsewhere in Los Angeles. Often there are just one or two of a kind, and one may have a distinctive suit as if she were having it made to her own order. Striped tussahs in distinctive colorings are among the most notable.



The Millinery Section Is in Full Bloom

The Fashions for Spring—for Summer—for Now, are Ready

—Spring after spring, as surely as the leaves put forth and flowers bloom, old friends and new friends look forward to the display of fine millinery at the Style Shop—for the fashions for the coming season.

—This year we meet them with more confidence and authority than ever before. We have kept in touch with authentic sources of inspirations, and the last whim reaches us almost as soon as Paris herself.

—Individual Hats for daytime and evening—the cream of the Fashion Show showing tomorrow—$7.50 to $15.00.

Delightful Spring Dresses at $19.50, $25, $29.50

—Just as pretty, but about half the price of their Paris originals.

—You will find among them dresses of taffeta with full skirts and sheer sleeves, taffeta coat dresses, light taffetas with demure cape collars, tucked crepes de chine and charmeuses in surplice style and colored taffeta with tiny peplums below belt and a few styles along the clinging lines for matronly women.

The East Calls Them Skating Coats We Say, "Sports Coats"

—This new little lot of coats which came in this week are mostly of knee length, fitted upper parts, and flaring skirts. Others are in a straight line from throat to hem.

—Fabrics are wool jersey or wool velour and angora cloth, velvet trimmed. Prices are $13.75 and $19.50.

A New Waist That Has Fichu Collar and Cuffs Bound With Silk is $6.50

—Besides this, it is scalloped, so that while a plain, serviceable style, it is dainty enough for any suit or separate skirt. Ready in white, coral, flesh and apricot.

Wash Net Waists, $3.95

—Trimmed with Val. lace and embroidery across the front. The collar can be worn high or low and the cuffs are beautifully trimmed with lace. A dainty camisole is inside each waist.

—Net waists like these may be put in the tub and given as much laundering as they need.

—to bring all her new silks, and cottons, and laces, and trimmings, and suits, and hats, and shoes, and gloves, and everything that has to do with style—

—Just supposing she made up her mind to bring them all to Bullock's—wouldn't that be wonderful—and bewildering—

—Then supposing—she made up her mind, and picked out her very most favorite silks and cottons and laces, trimmings, suits, hats, shoes, gloves, etc.—and brought her favorites to Bullock's—so that every one could see them easily—all together in one store—almost at one time—wouldn't that be splendid? and convenient? and "service"—?

—and isn't that just what Fashion seems to have done for this Inauguration month?— Indeed it is—

—You will say so too—on Monday.

—The Basket
—The Wheels
—The Flowers
—all Significant
—of the Business
—of the Service
—of the Merchandise

—The new month enters the new year, conscious of the activities of "the 9 years," cognizant of Duty, and Confident in the experience and knowledge that has been gained—and in the Desires that are within the Heart of the Business itself—Desires born from within the Heart of the man—whose Personality has permeated the Business until it has become the Personality of the Business itself—

—And the Duty of

Inauguration Month

—is to interpret this personality not merely in words, but in Deeds—of Merchandise—of Values—and of Service—

—This First Month of this New Year of Bullock's is not "a sale month"—in any sense of the word as "Sale Months" are generally understood—and yet no sale month is known to Bullock's that assumes more positive importance than Inauguration Month.

—Inauguration Month is the Month of Inspiration and Opportunity—profiting by the months and years, and works that have gone before—Inauguration Month dedicates itself to the development of the Idea which is the Real Foundation of the business itself—to the Elevation of Standards—to the Improvement of Methods—in short, to Intensive cultivation and enthusiastic exploitation of "Service"—as it has come to be understood by Bullock's—"Service" that has as its Aim "the Satisfaction of Every Customer"— —"Service" that is considered as that branch of Bullock's which is the whole business itself—which has to do with every detail—and for which everyone is responsible—

—"Service" which includes in its definition everything that the business includes—Merchandise—Values—Systems and all—

—"Service"—The Idea—that is Dominant—as it has been given seriously and sincerely by the Man—and taken as seriously and sincerely by the Business—

—and "Service" is the Reason why Inauguration Month should be of Value and Importance to you—because of the preparations that have been made—their character—their variety—and their magnitude—

—It is well within bounds to say that never in the history of Bullock's have such splendid big collections of spring merchandise of quality been assembled and ready—

—It is well within bounds to suggest that every one who has shopping to do will do well to consider Bullock's and Inauguration Month on Monday—

cently with a miscellaneous shower for Miss Grittie Young, who became the wife of Roy Knight a few days ago. Almost half a hundred guests shared the hospitality of Mrs. Preble and Mrs. Gavin Baxter, who was jointly hostess with Mrs. Preble. Red hearts were festooned across the living-room and feathery ferns were prettily displayed on the woodwork of the rooms, cupids peeked from the greenery and two large hearts, pierced by an arrow, were suspended from the electrolier. A fortune-telling device was arranged on the dining-room table, cupids drawing fortunes for married and single from a cunning fish pond, edged with miniature palms and shrubs. A special parcel post messenger, impersonated by James Preble, entered the room early in the evening, costumed as Uncle Sam. He drew a small wagon, draped in national colors, which covered numerous gifts for the young couple to use in their future home.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES BORCHARD entertained a number of friends and relatives at an al fresco dinner under the spreading oaks of their country home east of here. About seventy members of the Presbyterian Church and their friends attended a party Thursday evening at the Manse in honor of the birthday anniversary of the Rev. Robert L. Webb. A delightful evening was devoted, in part, to a musical programme, which comprised a piano duet by Miss Helen Williams and Mrs. J. L. Forster, a piano solo by Mrs. W. D. Bannister, vocal solo by Mr. W. E. Jones, reading by Mrs. F. P. Nicholas, duet by Mrs. Margaret Duncan and Mr. J. L. Forster, violin solo by Miss Blanche Eastwood and a male quartette. Redlands.

THE most brilliant and bizarre affair of the whole social season will be the Red Cross Charity Ball, which will be given tomorrow evening at the Casa Loma Hotel. The boxes have been engaged by the leaders in society here for weeks in advance and it is expected that everyone at all interested in society will be present. Effective costumes have been planned and the scene wil be one of rare beauty. The committee has announced that any sort of costume will be acceptable, whether the simplest domino or that of the most elaborate design, and Miss Amy Morrison, chairman of the committee, has the assurance that fancy dress will prevail. The Mardi Gras spirit will prevail and all of the society folk are anticipating an enjoyable evening. The ball will open with a grand march for all those in costume.

Brig.-Gen. R. H. Pratt, accompanied by Mrs. Pratt, have been here during the week as the guests of Mrs. E. C. Sterling. They were entertained, with Mrs. Sterling and Mrs. John W. Davis, with a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smiley at their home in Canyon Crest Park. Gen. Pratt is now making a visit to the various Indian reservations and Mr. Smiley was asked to accompany him on the visit to those in Southern California, but will be unable to do this. While here Gen. Pratt spoke on "The Present Conditions of the Indian."

The most brilliant social event for the high school students was the leap year costume party, given by the Forum and Lyceum for the Ecclesia and the Athenaeum societies. They are the four literary societies of the school. There were about 175 present and all were dressed in fancy costume. The rooms were decorated with flowers of various kinds and the programme was given by the Elks' Quartette, Rollo Holcomb, Bob Bonnell, Frank Cook and J. Hopkins Flynn, Karl and Elder Morgan, and Miss Helen Wellman.

Mrs. John W. Davis, of "The Alders" on Brookside avenue, entertained with a dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hubbard, who were just recently married. Covers were laid for thirty and the toast proposed by Mrs. Davis was "Here's to the Health, Honor and Happiness of the Hubbards." B. Power, Volney Kincaid, Will Harris of San Bernardino, Mrs. Davis and Miss Dorothy Davis.

The ladies of the Congregational Church entertained with a reception in honor of the members of the choir. Among those appearing in costume were Miss Charlotte Billings, Miss May Moore, N. B. Hinckley, Miss Cornwall, Mrs. P. D. Stanley, Mrs. Dunning of Prescott, Ariz.; Miss Grace Childs, Mildred Wheat, Dorothy Suess, Dorothy Hall, Bessie Brock, Katherine Ott, Lucy Levering, Margaret and Dorothy Waterman, Frances Hinckley, Master Stewart and Norman Hinckley.

Miss Esther Wolf, daughter of Mrs. J. Wolf, of Herald street, and Hamilton Burns, were quietly married at San Bernardino. The young people will make their home in this city on their return from a honeymoon trip.

Edgar McFayden, the District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, was the guest of honor at a dinner given at the Casa Loma Hotel. Tropico.

IT was truly a most happy day, all nature seemed to be as happy as the many friends who assembled in G.A.R. Hall Friday to celebrate the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Pratt. The hall for the occasion was most beautifully decorated with golden-fringed and ropes of smilax, which accentuated the same color scheme in the large banquet-room. To the strains of "Lohengrin," played by Mrs. Winona Crawford, at high noon, the bride and groom of fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, marched into the hall with their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Chandler, who, New Year's Day, celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary; Mr. and Mrs. Jess land, the latter a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pratt. As this bridal party ascended the prettily-decorated platform, amidst the applause and cheers from 150 guests and friends, they were met by Rev. J. H. Henry, who, in beautiful and appropriate words, read the lines that cemented again the vows of love and protection which this beloved couple had pronounced fifty years ago and which, through all the half-century they have so lovingly and faithfully kept. During the ceremony Mrs. Winona Henry Crawford sang very sweetly, "O Promise Me," with Mrs. Gertrude Weller Griffin as accompanist.

After hearty congratulations were extended the bride and groom, in which their attendants, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler, who had already added to their crown of glory an extra ten years, equally shared, all marched into the banquet-room and partook of a delicious repast prepared and served by the ladies of N. P. Banks Woman's Relief Corps, of which Mrs. Pratt is past president. Mr. Pratt is past post commander of N. P. Banks Post and the comrades were as eager to assist in the happy celebration as were the corps' ladies. Following an hour of social converse a programme of pleasing features was presented by the committee, Mrs. Gertrude Griffin and Mrs. Winona Crawford. "Silver Threads Among the Gold" variations by Mrs. Crawford, which was followed by a piano duet by Mrs. Griffin and Miss Emma Lee Weller. Miss Armstrong, a talented violinist, rendered several numbers, her violin speaking the sweet strains that her appreciative listeners delight to hear. Miss Armstrong was accompanied by her equally-talented sister, Miss Phoebe Armstrong, whose piano selections lend such a charm to a musical programme. From a distance came the various bugle calls, reveille, boots and saddles, water, stables, given by J. J. Burke, a noted cornetist, and which took the happy groom of fifty years ago and all of the comrade guests back to the sixties, when those calls were of daily occurrence, finding them always ready and prepared to obey, and which one could see in the sparkle of the eye and tenseness of body that, even now, a similar call would find them ready. In a short and happy address Mrs. Myra Shuey presented Mr. and Mrs. Pratt in the name of post and corps a beautiful silver, gold-lined fruit dish, also a unique gold clock from Mr. and Mrs. Chandler, which elicited pleasing remarks from both bride and groom. Miss Elsie Anderson's sweet soprano voice, "If I Were a Red Rose," added to the many pleasing features of the afternoon. Miss Emma Lee Weller gave several readings in her own inimitable and charming manner. Miss Dorothy Hobbs sang very sweetly several Hawaiian songs, with ukulele accompaniment, which also added to the enjoyment of the guests. Rev. Henry sang in clear sweet tones "The Old Man's Dreams," and in response to an encore gave "When the Roll is Called up Yonder." Rev. C. H. Norton addressed the newly weds in behalf of the post, who had authorized him to place Comrade Pratt under bonds to show as good a record for faithfulness, loyalty and love toward wife and home at the close of the next fifty years as which were promptly accepted by Comrade Pratt. Mrs. Lillian added to the programme by singing very sweetly, "Because," with Mrs. Crawford at the piano. As a happy finale to a most delightful day all joined in singing "America." The committee, through whose efforts the day will long be remembered, consisted of Mrs. Louise Purnell, Elizabeth Freidgen, Mrs. Lillie wig, Mrs. Ella Watson, Mrs. Pollock, Mrs. Julia Saunders and Margaret Hibbert.

MANY matters of moment came up at its last meeting before the Mound Wednesday Club, which held its meeting at the residence of Mrs. J. C. Thompson on the boulevard. Election of officers was held, and all the old officers were again put in office, excepting Barlow, who did not feel equal to conducting the work of vice-president. Mrs. Edmund Gerry, the president, and Mrs. Charles Barnes were elected delegates to the Hollywood meeting o the federated clubs to be held March 21 to 26. The alternates are Mrs. Charles Ready and Mrs. C. Burtnett. Mrs. George Cook was delegated to attend the baby to be held in Los Angeles, on the Reception Committee there. The club voted to purchase a number of souvenir spoons to be given club brides, the list including daughters of members recently wedded.

Miss Eugenia Cunnane of this city, attending a school of elocution in Los Angeles, was cast for an important part in a play given by the school the past week.

The Shakespeare Club of this city yesterday held a pleasant session at the residence of Mrs. Thomas Sr. "Children of the Earth" was the topic, with Mrs. M. J. Rogers and Mrs. Burson in charge of the programme.

SOCIETY.

George Stedinger, Archie Stuck, Earl Merrill and Lawrence Davis.

A farewell party was given on Wednesday evening at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Bradley, who are expecting to soon remove to Glendora. Forty of their friends and fellow church members of the Baptist Church of Garden Grove went in a body with motors, carriages and hay wagons to the Bradley home and voiced their regret over the near-by departure of these sterling people. An evening of pleasant diversion and conversation was closed with the serving of delectable refreshments. The Bradleys will be much missed when they leave Garden Grove.

Mrs. Vienna Donelson was hostess at a George Washington party on [illegible] evening at her home on [illegible] avenue. Miss Stokes from the East, who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Donelson, for the winter, was the honoree of the evening. Red, white and blue bunting and flags were used in festoons about the rooms, and the ladies were gowned in Colonial costumes with powdered hair and beauty patches. During the hour when the guests were arriving, music on violin, 'cello and piano was rendered by the Misses Elizabeth and Gladys Hidden and Mr. Herbert Hidden. The evening passed all too quickly in the playing of lively games and the exchange of repartee, and at a late hour the guests were invited to partake of an attractive feast laid in the dining-room, where patriotic colors were used in adorning the attractively-appointed tables. Place cards were small hatchets, on which were inscribed fitting toasts to the Father of His Country. The supper was followed by the dancing of the minuet and the singing of patriotic songs.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club was entertained this week by Mrs. Walter [illegible]. Refreshments of delectable sort were served after an interesting programme. The programme numbers included the singing of "America," a reading by Mrs. Newcomber and Mrs. Bosey, with quotations from the "Sayings of Washington," by Mrs. J. A. Knapp. Mrs. Mills invited the club to meet with her on the second Tuesday in March.

George Oertly was most happily surprised at his home on a recent [illegible] evening, the occasion being the celebration of his twenty-first birthday. Merry games, charming music and some heroic attempts at poetry whiled the hours away. The party was divided into groups of four, each member of the company being given a paper on which the line "When a Boy Becomes a Man" was inscribed. This line was to be the first of an original poem. Following all the jollity, delicious refreshments were served, and a birthday cake on which glowed twenty-one candles was cut by Mr. Oertly. The good-nights mingled with many good wishes for the young man, who is just entering into serious manhood.

MR. AND MRS. K. E. WATSON honored the members of the fire department, with their wives and a few intimate friends, on [illegible] evening, the affair being in the nature of a 7 o'clock dinner. Ferns and flowers in the patriotic colors carried out a red, white and blue color scheme, and the table was centered with roses, violets and daisies with festoons draped from the ceiling. The after-dinner mints were also in red and white and blue. Amusing games followed the dinner, prizes in a bean contest going to Mrs. A. L. Tomblin, Mrs. W. E. Clement and George Sunberry. Besides these there were present Messrs. and Mmes. A. E. Todhunter, J. S. Law, Harry [illegible], William Vickers, G. W. [illegible], W. G. Hagan; Miss [illegible], Miss D. A. McMullen; Messrs. W. E. Clement, Alfred Priem, [illegible] Richards, Frank Oehlke.

Miss Lillian Otte of Olive became the bride of Edward W. Lehmberg of the famous Newes ranch near El Modena at a church wedding on Thursday afternoon. The marriage lines were read by Rev. George Mieger at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, a large number of relatives and friends being present. The vows were taken at the altar, which, with the auditorium, was handsomely adorned for the brilliant nuptial event. A reception given later at the home of the bride's parents was largely attended and a wedding dinner was served by the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Claus Otte. The groom is particularly well known in Orange and surrounding localities, having been for a long time connected with the Newes ranch. The young couple will reside at El Modena.

A romantic wedding was that of Miss Opal McDaniel and Saul Shields, both of this city, who succeeded on a recent Wednesday morning in evading their friends long enough to motor over to Santa Ana, where they were quietly married at 8 o'clock. The happy couple, who have numerous friends in both Santa Ana and Orange, are already in peaceful possession of their new home at No. 219 West Palmyra avenue, and their numerous friends are hastening to offer congratulations on the romantic and happy marriage. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie McDaniel, and the groom is the son of Mr. G. W. Shields.

Orange people who attended the recent annual picnic of the Southern California Iowa State Society, held in Eastlake Park, Los Angeles, were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Granger, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Craddick, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Bear, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Roberts and daughter, G. M. Donnelly and family, A. Ditmer and family, A. A. Smith and daughter, Helen, Mrs. E. W. Cramer, Miss Marie Trost, Miss Intors, Miss Fonda, Luis Intors, L. D. Gunther. They reported a most enjoyable time and the meeting of many friends from the old home State.

Expecting to have a most lively and successful day of sport, on a recent Wednesday Messrs. G. W. Whitsell, Leon O. Whitsell, J. R. McCaig, H. R. Perkins and Byron Perkins motored to Laguna Beach on a fishing trip. They had a delightful expedition, but on account of the violence of the breakers failed to bring home a very large number of the finny tribe.

Miss Inez Todd, one of the March bride-elects, and whose troth is plighted to John Brisco of Maricopa, was complimented on a recent Saturday evening with a china shower. Those offering her this courtesy were the young people of the Baptist Church. The South Glassell home of the Todds was trimmed with acacia blooms and smilax. Games and music were followed by a peek into the hope chest of the bride-to-be. The shower added to the wealth of treasures already bestowed on Miss Todd, and the evening's gift comprised a complete set of china.

The Misses Kathrine Spear and Marguerite Wood complimented Miss Mildred Anderson on Friday evening at the Palmyra-street home of Miss Spear in honor of the birthday of Miss Anderson. Flags were used in adorning the room, and after a merry evening of diversions and music delicious refreshments were served on an artistically decorated table.

AT the country club on Friday evening a merry company gathered for one of the delightful card parties given at this most attractive clubhouse so pleasingly located on the heights above Newport Bay. Handsome prizes were awarded after the card games, the ladies winning scores being Mrs. C. S. Kendall and Mrs. J. N. Bartholomew. The men taking awards were C. S. Kendall and B. E. Turner, while consolation prizes went to Mr. and Mrs. Will McFadden. A dainty supper was served at a late hour, the small tables used for cards being pressed into service for the serving of the refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davis charmingly celebrated their thirteenth wedding anniversary on Thursday evening with a dinner party, covers being laid for Messrs. and Mmes. W. A. Huff, C. S. Kendall, H. D. Connell, H. T. Rutherford, A. W. Rutherford, J. I. Clarke, W. E. Winslow. Sweet peas centered the table. Auction bridge was played later, best trophies going to Mrs. Kendall and H. D. Connell, Mrs. Connell and W. E. Winslow winning consolation prizes.

Mrs. Claude A. Nelson recently was hostess at a jolly birthday surprise event for her husband and little son, Henry. The color scheme of green and yellow was developed with wild flowers from Red Hill. Merry games included a conundrum contest in which Miss Lora Robinson won first prize, with Preston Kerr winning the consolation. The birthday collation was featured by birthday cakes, a special cake lighted with tiny yellow candles being prepared for Master Henry. The invited guests were Messrs. and Mmes. S. M. Nelson, Bruce Nelson; Mrs. Robinson, Misses Florence Nelson, Audrey and Bernice Pond, Gladys Shallenberger, Lora and Lola Robinson, Jennie Nelson; Messrs. Henry and Lyman Nelson, Wayne, Robert and Fred Bates, Preston Kerr.

Mrs. F. P. Nickey gave a delightful pink luncheon on Saturday for old-time friends from Northfield, Minn., including Mmes. Joseph Massey, A. B. Kelley, I. D. Wilson; Miss Martha Watts and Miss Lura Baker, all spending the winter in Santa Ana; Mrs. E. M. Trenkley of Minneapolis, Mrs. D. S. Ferguson, Mrs. M. E. Walthall, Mrs. R. W. Axton of Los Angeles; Mrs. Edgar George and Mrs. Myron Haig of Whittier. Mrs. Nickey was assisted by Mrs. E. B. Trago, and a color motif of pink was carried out in house and table decorations. Favors were kodak pictures of Orange county beauty spots.

A brilliant church wedding, where Miss Gertrude Snow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Snow, became the wife of Charles A. Robinson of Santa Barbara, took place Sunday morning in the First Methodist Church after the morning service. Rev. E. J. Inwood presided at the ring ceremony and Mrs. Theodore Tooney at the pipe organ played the wedding march from "Lohengrin." The bride was escorted by her father, and the choir, of which she was a member, stood as the bridal party entered the church. The church was gorgeously decorated with potted palms and yellow acacia. The beautiful bride, gowned in white crepe de chine and carrying a shower of white buds and maidenhair ferns, was attended by her sister, Miss Annis Snow, with Floyd Geyer of Los Angeles as best man. Little Miss Geneva MacMath was the flower girl. Following the ceremony the immediate relatives and close friends of bride and groom were entertained at luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Snow, where an array of costly wedding gifts was displayed. Pink carnations and ferns and pink camellias and violets centered the small luncheon tables. After a fortnight spent in automobile trips over Southern California, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will go to Santa Barbara, where Mr. Robinson is a member of the high school faculty.

Wearables for the Opera Season

That this week's Grand Opera Season will bring out all the feminine finery in Los Angeles is a foregone conclusion. And that the J. W. Robinson store is equipped to furnish any missing article of woman's apparel or adornment was well demonstrated at the Fashion Show of last week. Correct fashions in Gowns, Wraps, Millinery, Gloves, Hosiery, Neckwear, Handkerchiefs, Veils and all Dress Accessories.

Blouses of Individuality

Character and individuality are plainly indicated in every stitch of the new blouse fashions. Furthermore, they have about them the element of economy that's next to irresistible.

Georgette crepe is the popular fabric employed, some being combined with satin or handsome laces, others adorned with shimmering crystal or self colored beads. Strong, contrasting colors are supreme—cyclamen, corn flower, orchid turquoise, coral, flamingo and white embroidered in bright colors predominate, while many combinations such as platinum gray and flesh, cyclamen and turquoise and other color schemes are faddish. Collars are varied and most becoming; the broad flat collar, others slightly raised broadening into the popular cape effect. Sleeves have deep cuffs and are very full. You owe it to yourself to see these new blouses—to get the prices and compare them with others of the class.

Popular Priced Blouses

We are showing also new assortments of Blouses of novelty striped taffeta, la jerz and crepe de chine correct styles for your sports suits. Hair lines and broad blazer stripes in black, white and soft pastel shadings. Plain crepe blouses $5.00 to $6.50, stripes $6.50 to $8.50.

The Test of Time

It is nearly forty years since Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham first prepared a botanic remedy for her women neighbors who suffered with ills peculiar to their sex. The roots and herbs—the same as are used today—she steeped on her kitchen stove.

Since which time the fame of this wonderful remedy has spread all over the world. There is barely a town or hamlet in the United States or Canada where you cannot find some woman who has been relieved of suffering by

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Thousands upon thousands of such letters as the three following tell why this famous medicine has stood the test of time.

Maryland Woman Testifies.

Cambridge, Md.—"I wish all women who suffer from female troubles would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and be convinced of its worth as I have been. At one time I was a great sufferer and my husband bought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me right away. Again, after my second child was born, it overcame a female weakness after everything else had failed. I know how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me, and I know it will help others."—Mrs. James A. Beidel, 107 Maryland Avenue, Cambridge, Md.

Wisconsin Woman Testifies.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a physical wreck. I had been going to a doctor for several years but he did me no good. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I decided to give it a fair trial, and it gave me relief from bearing down pains which had been so bad that I would have to lie down. I also used the Sanative Wash and it has done me a great deal of good, and I am not troubled with a weakness any more."—Mrs. P. L. Brill, 1299 Booth Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Ohio Woman Testifies.

Lima, Ohio.—"I was all broken down in health from a displacement. One of my lady friends came to see me and she advised me to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I began taking your remedies and took $5.00 worth and in two months was a well woman after three doctors said I never would stand up straight again. Careless Use of Soap Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Mrs. W. S. Simon of Orange avenue was the scene of a delightful dinner party on Wednesday, the affair being in honor of the birthday of John Cochrane and of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Schlaegel of Los Angeles, house guests at the Simon home. White roses and ferns decorated the table and places were marked for the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Trueblood, Madame Trueblood, Mrs. Susanna Simon, Miss Lenore Shirley of Enid, Okla.; Mrs. John Cochrane, Earl and Alice Simon, and the host and hostess. A beautiful birthday cake with an appropriate number of candles was an agreeable surprise for Mr. Cochrane, and the afternoon following the feast was most pleasantly passed in conversation, many of the party not having met before for a long period of time.

A colonial party formed a delightful surprise for Mrs. Fannie H. Collings on a recent Wednesday afternoon, when a party of about thirty of her neighbors, all gowned in colonial costumes, invaded her West Nineteenth-street home to aid her in celebrating her birthday. Some of the costumes worn by the visitors had been in existence for more than a century. Progressive games were enjoyed, and an interesting feature of the afternoon was the compounding of conundrums of "Ye Olden Tyme," some of these dating as far back as 1850. Mrs. Collings was showered with gifts and birthday postal cards in honor of the event. A collation of dainties taken in by the visitors was served, the piece de resistance being a lovely birthday cake adorned with the American flag and twinkling with candles.

Miss Florence Shultz was honored on Saturday afternoon with a delightful shower of gifts, the affair taking place at the West Third-street home of Mrs. C. E. Clem. The house was decorated in red and white, ribbons being suspended from the chandelier to each corner, red hearts swinging from the silken cords.

AMONG the most interesting social affairs of the season was the marriage of Miss Marie Louise Kidder of this city, to Mr. Forrest Robert Menzie, of Hollywood, which occurred at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, at the home of the bride's parents.

The affair throughout was beautiful in its simplicity. White daisies, yellow acacia, and a profusion of smilax and ferns was arranged in an artistic manner through the house. A canopy of acacia lighted with electric lights was suspended in a conspicuous place where the ceremony was performed. Miss Grace Vierma sang "Constancy," her solo being followed by Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" played by Miss Grace Shepherd. The bride and her maid of honor, Miss Myrtle Newkirk, preceded by little Priscilla Roys, carrying the ring in a rose, entered and joined the groom and his best man, Mr. Homer Raney neath the canopy of flowers. Rev. Edville A. Roys, pastor of the First Congregation Church, officiated.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Kidder. Mr. and Mrs. Menzie were the recipients of many beautiful gifts of fine china, cut glass, linen and silver.

After the ceremony refreshments of brick ice cream and lady fingers were served. Mr. and Mrs. Menzie then left for their new home in Arlington, where they will reside after a short honeymoon.

A wedding which came as a complete surprise to the many friends of the bride and groom, Miss Madeline D. Willard and Mr. Stanley W. Garvey, occurred in Riverside, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, in the First Congregational Church, the Rev. Horace Porter officiating. Dr. S. S. Willard of this city, father of the bride, was the only witness. Mr. and Mrs. Garvey left at once on their honeymoon and will return to this city after a trip of two weeks or more. The bride is the only daughter of Dr. S. S. Willard. She is a graduate of the Corona High School and of Pomona College. Mr. Garvey is a real estate operator and the owner of considerable property. He is the popular president of the Corona Country Club, and is active in all outdoor sports.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Andrews entertained Saturday evening with a very elaborate four-course dinner at their home at the corner of Tenth and Vicentia streets. The color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the place cards, as well as the decorations for the dinner table and the parlors, yellow acacias being used in profusion. Following the dinner a delicious birthday cake was brought on and set before the host. When this was taken care of the guests adjourned to the parlors, where auction bridge was enjoyed until a late hour. The prize was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence White, they having secured the combined high score.

Many prenuptial affairs for Miss Myrtle Newkirk, whose engagement to Homer Raney of this city, has just been announced, are being planned by members of the younger society set. Miss Newkirk is one of the most popular of girls of the set and her many friends will vie with each other in doing her honor. The wedding will probably be one of the big affairs this spring. Last evening Miss Myra Curtis entertained at her home on Victoria avenue in honor of Miss Newkirk. The rooms were very prettily decorated with choice flowers and ferns and added much to the gaiety of the evening.

QUITE the most successful affair of its kind this season was the firemen's second annual ball at Woman's Improvement Club House Saturday evening. The large and prettily decorated hall, while crowded, was comfortably filled with delighted dancers who kept time to the wand of Terpsichore till near midnight. Dancers young and not so young enjoyed the occasion as few are enjoyed and when the time for the last extra arrived it was with regret that the delightful evening had been of such short duration. Preceding the dance a short programme of song and recitation was enjoyed. [illegible] Woodmansee and Hazel Porter, accompanied by Miss Ruth [illegible] on the piano, sang several duets in a very accomplished manner and Mr. James Hanners of Monrovia sang in solo several selections which were much appreciated. STOPS FALLING HAIR

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To half a pint of water add:

Bay Rum ....1 oz.
Barbo Compound ....a small box
Glycerine ....¼ oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out and relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

In the Medical Record (New York) of December 18, 1909, Dr. John F. Russell says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. . . . Among inorganic substances lime salts appear to be of special physiological importance. . . . But if the salts are not in organic combination, it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food."

Years of widespread use confirm our belief that the success of Eckman's Alterative in tuberculosis is due largely to its content of lime, in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells.

Doubtless this has had much to do with the results in many cases which appear to have yielded to it. As it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs it is safe to try.

SERIOUS FILMS RULE.

FASCINATING OFFERINGS AT THE LOCAL MOVIE THEATERS.

Drama of the heavier type would seem to predominate along motion-picture row this week. William Collier, Roscoe Arbuckle and Mabel Normand appear to be the only comedians of note in this week's film offerings. There are some noted names among those in serious features, including Florence Reed, William Farnum, Blanche Sweet, Frederick Warde, Kathlyn Williams, Tyrone Power, William S. Hart, Hobart Bosworth, Lois Weber and other favorites of both stage and screen, and many of the offerings should be particularly worth while.

Tally's Broadway.

"New York," with Florence Reed in the leading role, will be the offering at Tally's Broadway, opening tomorrow. This photoplay has received unstinted praise in the East, being declared one of the best productions of its kind released during the past year. It is an adaptation of A. H. Woods's famous stage success of the same name. In the cast is Fania Marinoff as Edna Macy, the chorus girl.

The second installment of thrilling war pictures will be the added attraction.

Garrick.

"Silas Marner," adapted from the famous novel of George Eliot, with Frederick Warde, the noted Shakespearian actor, in the leading role, will be the attraction at the Garrick the first part of this week. The show will start today. The story is too well known to need repetition here. Suffice it to say that the types which George Eliot drew so faithfully are all graphically delineated by the excellent company of players selected to support Mr. Warde. The story is a wonderfully strong and human one, as everybody knows, and is said to have been carefully staged so as to reproduce the old English atmosphere.

Beginning Wednesday the attraction will be a strong story of Indian life, entitled "Betrayed."

Majestic.

William Collier, the famous comedian, in a screen comedy by C. Gardner Sullivan, entitled "The No-good Guy," will be the attraction at the Majestic Theater beginning tomorrow. The story is woven around Jimmy Coghlan, a lazy spendthrift, who, under threat of being deprived of his fortune, enters upon a career as the head of a private detective agency. Enid Markey supports Mr. Collier.

The other comedy feature of the bill will be a Mack Sennett film farce entitled "Bright Lights," featuring Mabel Normand and Roscoe Arbuckle.

Burbank.

William S. Hart in "Hell's Hinges" will be the offering this week at the Burbank, opening this morning at 11 o'clock. C. Gardner Sullivan wrote the scenario, and is said to have given a very novel twist, indeed, to his plot. Hart plays the role of "Blaze" Tracy, supported by Clara Williams, Louise Glaum and others.

On the same programme Mack Sennett will present Chester Conklin in "Dizzy Heights and Daring Hearts:" and Weber and Fields in "The Worst of Friends," this being the first showing of what is said to be one of the funniest film comedies ever screened.

Miller's.

"The Marble Heart," a tragic domestic drama filled with dramatic situations, is to be the photoplay offering at Miller's Theater starting tomorrow. It is a splendid production made in the West Indies and is filled with big pictorial climaxes. Realism is said to dominate the action, placing the picture on a plane by itself in this regard. Beautiful Violet Horner is the star and brings to the role of Therese Roger all the splendid talents that have made her so popular from coast to coast. She is supported by a cast headed by Walter Miller, Louise Rial, Hal de Forrest and Harry Burkhardt. The latest News Weekly and the Krazy Kat cartoons complete the programme.

Clune's Auditorium.

The total number of people who have seen "Ramona," the beautiful film version of Helen Hunt Jackson's California classic, on the screen at the Auditorium has now passed the 100,000 mark. At the close of its fourth week, the drawing power of the production appears to be quite as strong as during the first week.

"Ramona" is shown twice daily, at popular prices, just about one-half those to be charged in New York City when the film is launched there this month.

Palace.

"Hop, the Devil's Brew," a sensational story based on the fight of the government to keep opium out of the United States, will be the offering at the Palace this week, starting this afternoon. Lois Weber, who produced "Hypocrites," also supervised the present photoplay, and appears in the leading role, supported by Phillips Smalley.

The additional feature will be the first installment of a thrilling new serial, entitled "The Iron Claw," featuring Pearl White.

Strand.

"The Target" is the third of the Bluebird pictures to be shown at the Strand. The photoplay goes on this afternoon. Hobart Bosworth, one of the most popular of film stars, plays the leading role, supported by beautiful Jane Novak and others.

Symphony.

Marguerite Snow, or "pretty Peggy" as she is known to thousands of her admirers, is the star of the next Metro release, "The Upstart," which will be shown here at the Symphony Theater this week, beginning tomorrow.

This popular screen star will be seen as Beatrice Mitchell, a minister's wife. George Le Guere, whose work in "Destiny, or the Soul of a Woman," the Metro masterpiece, ranks as one

In the ascendancy.

Stars who are looming brightly on filmland's horizon. Juanita Hansen has just joined the American Film Corporation at Santa Barbara, to play the chief ingenue role in "The Secret of the Submarine;" Neva Gerber is leading lady with the El Dorado Feature Film Company, which is just starting work here; Teddy Sampson is one of the cleverest of the younger Fine Arts film queens, who has achieved distinct success in her portrayal of the principal role in "The Fox Woman" and a leading part in "Cross Currents," and Mina Jeffries promises her sister, Grace Cunard, the noted director-actress of the Universal, a close race for stellar honors.

THE SAD SIDE OF COMEDY.

Many Funny Films More or Less of Tragedy. Is His Sense of Hu the Director's Weak Point? Ensnaring the Comic Muse Proves Difficult Problem in the Motion Picture World.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

ONCE there was a humorist who was very sad. He could never find anything with a funny side, yet he wanted to find nothing else. He couldn't find anyone else who wanted to laugh or who could find anything to laugh at.

One day when the sorrowful humorist was walking behind two friends, the two buttons on the tail of their frock coats looked to him like the dead eyes of two dragons walking backwards. After that this man was always happy because the faces of his friends became the tails of dragons and it amused him endlessly to think that a dragon's tail could smile and show its teeth.

As time went on, our hero's sense of humor increased under the skillful hand of Gilbert K. Chesterton to the point where he thought that nothing was truly mirth provoking if obvious. He was elected king and he stuck his head between his legs and moo-ed like a cow at the friends who wanted to congratulate him when the notice came.

Then he turned his coat inside out and put it on with its tail in front, before marching down the hill to meet the people.

He was, of course, laughing at the idea that judges and college professors must wear gowns like women and that kings had to wear long purple robes and silly crowns.

Nothing to him was worth doing unless it held a laugh, and it turned out that the only man he could ever find to assist him in perpetrating a vast joke was the most serious-minded person in the world.

Now, while nothing is quite so sad as the average attempt at motion-picture comedy, some of the makers have the very sensible idea of taking a serious story and supplying it with incidental fun.

The only trouble with this plan is that, in nearly all cases, there is so much of the incident that there is nothing of the story.

They lay on their incidental comedy so thickly and make it so disgustingly obvious that the plot is buried in bathos and nobody has had a real laugh, but the director who should, by way of punishment, be laughed to death.

You know that the best way to catch certain fish is to bore a hole in the water, trim the hole with bait and, when the fish come up for the bait, you tell them funny stories until they die laughing.

Yes, you may kill fish and motion-picture directors in this way, but the public requires different bait.

We Americans have long boasted that we were a humorous nation and it would be a shame if our moving-picture comedies should destroy our right to the title just at a time when our national institutions are doing so much to support it.

We are, unfortunately, much funnier in our government than in our screen comedies. When our President makes a speech in January saying that we are too proud to fight and another one in February demanding the second best navy in the world, it shows that even our college presidents are humorists; and when Congress is composed of Democrats who declare they will do anything but support a Democratic President in his hour of need, and that they were just waiting to catch him in a crisis before showing him up by turning him down, then we may be very sure that our men are also humorists.

The people you work for and people who work for you are There is something odd about butcher and your baker, and haven't a neighbor at whom you not have to laugh.

In fact, everything and every in America are extremely funny cepting many of its motion-comedies. One must go to them order to see and realize the side of life. They are a great in the folly of overdoing and a ing against the destruction of mental values.

We had a lesson in the folly overdoing on the stage here last when an attempt was made burlesque a burlesque and to give travesty on a travesty by a caricature.

Mutt and Jeff are funny as but they cannot be cartooned. author has made them the their stage production was the limit, which is somethi nothing should be.

Motion picture comedies make the same mistake. They a situation that might be funny exaggerate it until it is utterly torted.

They get a man in a tight This is amusing. They have found out. That, too, is funny. they begin to abuse our intelli and to inundate our sense of with something grotesque and impossible.

They have a man shot in the part of his trousers some twenty thirty times without being hurt chucked from the top of three or sky-scrapers without sustaining fracture.

Any comedy that doesn't have principals shot up and through the air would not be sidered funny by the directors make comedy pictures, but it doubtful if any such picture funny to anybody else with the sible exception of the audience North Main street between the and First and Main.

It sometimes seems that all comedies have been designed hibition in those three also looks as if the makers of travesties had produced the house variety so long that they deadened the sensibilities be register of any intelligent

There is a humor of heart and it does not of necessity words to express this.

Situations may contain genuine comedy and they

Since the peculiar known as the Triangle came ing, the Fine Arts people out two or three comedies People laughed at the idea Lamb," and at the absurdity picture in which Douglas was the hero who wanted picture in the paper in order a half interest in his and a bride. They were amused by the quaint humor Quixote," even though it was with pathos.

The idea back of all these was richly amusing and each plied its own humor without play of incongruities or vulgar cal assaults.

When a beautiful thing like " Arden" is treated by slap-stick ods, the result is not funny, painful. To burlesque something fine sentiment in a boisterous is not comical; it is only brutal. Drew, Willie Collier, Ezra Nat Goodwin and men who have the world laugh did not do it way.

There is a big field for comedy possibly one excellent way to comedy is to take a strong and supply the fun as incidental no amusing moving picture will be produced on this plan so long we are given travesty in the of comedy and so long as tion distorts and destroys emphasizing.

Since screen comedies cannot ply words, and thus appeal to wits, they must be careful to almost a delicacy of situation will not completely deaden the ings.

Taking a story that is in ceedingly funny and having it straight by competent actors the present evil of burlesque foonery. We want actors, and plays, not travesties. It to produce one as the other lar taste will demand this holding patronage and the noisome, brainless antics let-proof, nonbone-breaking

Good acting that remains scious of its rich and pleasing and illuminating the situation pleasing and mirthful story a revolution of present it would be a tremendous lief.

Let somebody be amused the directors.

UNUSUAL FEATS IN THE LATEST COLLIER FILM.

By Grace Kingsley.

Those who have followed the startling developments in the art of trick photography are said to have further sensations awaiting them when "The No-Good Guy," in which William Collier is starred, is presented to the public at the Majestic tomorrow.

The principal tricks center about the supposed hallucinations of Collier while under the influence of liquor. His bed performs strange feats, and when he reaches for a decanter of liquor, it proves so elusive that he is unable to grasp it, although he gives it a merry chase.

"The No-Good Guy" serves to introduce "Buster" Collier, William's son, to the public.

Good Body.

Anna Pavlowa, the star of the Universal picture, "The Dumb Girl of Portici," is bound by her agreement with the Imperial Ballet School of the Russian capital, to make at least one appearance in Russia each year. This year it will be very difficult, if not impossible, for Mme. Pavlowa to keep her agreement. Wherefore she will send her ghostly counterfeit, viz., a print of "The Dumb Girl of Portici," to the Czar, so that he may not miss his yearly opportunity to see his favorite dancer.

's Film Debut.

"Silas Marner," filmed from George Eliot's novel, which goes on at the Garrick today, with Frederick Warde in the leading role, is said to be noteworthy not only for the interpretation Mr. Warde gives to the character of the old English weaver, but also because of the beautiful reproductions of English scenery.

What Next?

What with Anne Schaefer collecting cancelled postage stamps and old tinfoil for sweet charity, and George Kunkel collecting cigar and chewing gum coupons for his own sweet sake, the folks around the Vitagraph have acquired a habit of saving all sorts of odds and ends, on the chance that someone else may start some new kind of a collection.

Woodley.

"The Black List," a photoplay written especially for Blanche Sweet, the popular screen star, will be the attractive offering at the Woodley Theater for the week beginning tomorrow. Miss Sweet has been seen in many unusual roles, but as Vera Maroff, the little school teacher, and the American-born daughter of a Russian anarchist, Miss Sweet will have exceptional opportunities.

"The Black List" is a sort of check-up system used in many mines which makes it practically impossible for a miner who leaves or is discharged by one company to obtain work in another mine.

Clune's Broadway.

Kathlyn Williams and Tyrone Power, in a spectacular drama by James Oliver Curwood, entitled "Thou Shalt Not Covet," will be the offering at Clune's Broadway this week, beginning tomorrow. Miss Williams is one of the most popular of film stars, as Power is one of the best known of stage stars, and their work in this sensational photodrama will be watched with interest.

Quinn's Superba.

Marguerite Clark in "Out of the Drifts" is to be the offering at Quinn's Superba this week, opening tomorrow. Miss Clark is one of the most popular and fascinating of film stars, and in "Out of the Drifts" is said to have a very appealing role.

Turn-about.

USES MOVIE PEOPLE.

Gertrude Hoffman Finds Them Most Adequate in Interpreting Wordless Plays Like "Sumurun." Drafts on the Film World.

Gertrude Hoffman has reversed a long-standing custom of moving-picture producers who are constantly drafting upon the legitimate and vaudeville stage for actors for their photoplays. The vaudeville star has engaged many prominent motion-picture players for her presentation of "Sumurun," Max Reinhardt's wordless play, which is to be shown here at the Orpheum the 20th inst. She gives as her chief reason for drafting upon the movies for her new production the close relation of the screen drama to Prof. Reinhardt's ideas.

Experienced motion-picture actors alone would be capable of expressing the conflicting emotions which the principal characters in "Sumurun" depict. Pain, anguish, gaiety and laughter are alternately shown, and all by the art of facial expression.

Reinhardt conceived the idea of producing in his theater a play without words, because he wished acting, pure and simple, to have full sway, to provide a wider field for the actor's personality.

"But do not pantomime or allow your fellow-players to pantomime," cautioned Prof. Reinhardt in a letter to Miss Hoffman. "'Sumurun' is a play without words, which is to be acted precisely as if the actors were reading lines. Pantomime is highly conventionalized and is not a reflection of life, but is an arbitrary code. Motion-picture acting of the highest class is what I call wordless drama correctly played."

BOSTON NOT OFFENDED.

Boston, which balked at Ruth St. Denis's bare extremities and Ted Shawn's tootsies, has swallowed whole the Ballet Russe in "The Faun." It is said they approved the filmy fragment of cloth draped by the dancing nymph, with an unmistakable air of reverence. They declared it to be a charming episode resembling nothing so much as an animated frieze. In the audience were Mayor Curley and other magistrates, who, it is said, in discussing the matter between acts, commented on the fact that there was greater absence of clothes on some in the audience than was discernible among the dancers.

Where the Sun Shines Bright.

For all the stormy weather—
  The dreams of lost delight,
I know a winter garden
  Where the sun shines bright.

I tell the cold wind blowing:
  "Love's roses are in sight;
They crowd my winter garden
  Where the sun shines bright."

And for all Life's stormy weather
  Spring never takes her flight,
But makes a winter garden
  Where the sun shines bright.

GETS EASY MONEY FROM CALIFORNIANS.

"CRYING TONY'S" PITIFUL WAIL BRINGS SILVER SHOWER.

Newsboy's Sad Story Liberally Answered by Members of Congress Until He Tries His Game Twice on Representative Elston and Lands in the Police Station.

BY HARRY CARR.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Feb. 28.—The California Congressmen can now claim to be initiated into metropolitan ways. They have been nicked by Crying Tony, the famous New York newsboy. I can also claim to have been initiated. I also have been nicked by Tony.

The other night the House sat late. When adjournment was finally ordered it was dark. The night was very cold. An icy wind was blowing around the corners of the Capitol.

As I went down the stairs, ducking my head to avoid the blast, I almost ran over a little Italian newsboy. He was crying. He was crying the most of any person of that size I ever heard. Nearly any one of normal hearing within the distance of half a mile knew that Tony was crying.

Tony was howling. Tony was roaring. It was marvelous that such a volumn of sound could come from such a small opening as Tony's throat. If the noise that Tony gave forth could have been preserved in some manner there would have been enough noise to have run all the steam whistles in America for years to come.

I asked Tony what was the matter. He could not reply. He was too far gone with grief. He only howled the louder.

Finally I caught him by the arm and demanded to know the cause of his woe. "For heaven's sake what has happened?" I asked.

"I have lost a quarter," he shrieked. The poor little boy had no overcoat. His clothing was thin and worn. A pathetic little bundle of papers was under his arms. Tony was all fixed up for the part. Of course, like a boob, I dug down and replaced Tony's loss.

RAKER NICKED.

At the House Building a few minutes later I met Congressman Raker of Alturas, Cal. In Raker's eye was the same noble light that was in my eye.

"By George," he said, "the saddest case you ever saw. When I was coming out of the House just now I almost ran over a poor little newsboy. He had no overcoat out there in the cold. You know how cold it was. Well, he was crying. I could hardly get him to tell me what he was crying about. He finally told me that he had lost a quarter."

"And you——" I suggested.

"Well, what would I do?" snorted Raker indignantly. "I gave him a dollar, of course."

ELSTON, TOO.

I had hardly parted from Raker when I met young Mr. Elston, the Congressman from Berkeley. "Say," he said, "I just came across a case that hit me hard. I was just coming out of the House, when I almost ran over a little newspaper boy. He was crying."

"That's all right," I said. "You needn't tell me anything about him. What I want to know is how many were there of you."

"There were quite a few of the members, most of them from California."

"And you——"

"Why," Elston faltered, "I guess that we sort of took up a collection. I guess there must have been several dollars in it. I told you, didn't I, that the boy had lost a quarter. Wasn't he all right?"

I don't know just how well Tony fared. But after frisking the House side for a while he moved over to the Senate office building and bellowed in the cold blast of wind that blows around that marble structure.

As he waited, our golden Senator, Mr. Phelan of San Francisco, came down the steps with his secretary, Col. Irby.

UNCOVERED BY PHELAN.

Attracted to the howls, Senator Phelan stopped and unbottoned his million-dollar fur overcoat. With sympathetic hands he reached into his wallet and fingered over a couple of million dollars worth of greenbacks. For a minute Tony was so impressed that he forgot to cry. He gaped at the Senator's roll with transfixed admiration. This proved to be Tony's fatal mistake.

As Senator Phelan detached a piece of money from the roll, the colonel detained him. "Wait a minute," he said. "There seems to be a striking peculiarity about this young man's grief. It seems to be so dry. As I remember our childhood tears, they used to be damp, Senator. This young man's tears are dry."

He proceeded no further. Tony had ducked into the night.

About two days later Congressman Elston came to the House police station leading a young man by the ear. Tony had muffed the ball. He had tried it twice on the same man.

In the presence of the police captain Tony cast himself on the floor and roared out a petition for forgiveness. He yelled his penitence at the top of his voice. He rolled around the floor in a paroxism of woe. They kept him for about an hour, then let him go.

"I guess I'll go back to N'Yawk," remarked Tony philosophically as he left the station. "These guys is easy awright, but they ain't enough of them. You're liable to repeat on them."

How Do You Say Joffre?

[London News:] If we may judge from portraits I think it may be taken as a fact that Gen. Joffre is an exceedingly good-natured man. He may not know that his name has given some trouble to British bards and song writers. One has rhymed it with "Ophir"—which is not bad, and though it is not quite right it is certainly better than "sofa," which has been used for the same purpose by another poet. In these circumstances, and in order to encourage his warm admirers in a very friendly country, I dare say the gallant general would not mind having his name pronounced "Joff-er-ee" in a poem written to raise money for the Red Cross fund. Of course, such a pronunciation would not be recognized in France, and even in this country I think it should not be allowed to continue after the war. But as a sort of emergency regulation for a time of crisis, and to encourage our poets who are straining every nerve (their own and the nerves of others, too,) I hope the French commander will allow "Joff-er-ee" to be accepted until, say, three months after peace has been arranged.

So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Mrs. J. T. Albertson, wife of a painter of Sedalia, Mo., has received a check for $500 from Daniel C. Jackling, known as a copper magnate, in recognition of kindness extended to him years ago when he worked on the Albertson farm near Sedalia.

Jackling was left penniless when his parents died, but he worked his way through the Warrensburg Normal School and through the Rolla School of Mines. He then went west, and as an expert mining engineer, with headquarters at Salt Lake City, accumulated wealth. Later he went to San Francisco.

Peter McNeil, dockmaster at the Battery (New York) landing, has recently rescued his thirty-first man from drowning. While attending to his usual duties last week he heard the cry, "man overboard!" and without waiting for any further invitation he took a dive into the water and a few moments later he came to the surface, bringing up with him from underneath an ice floe Michael Martin of No. 620 Park avenue, Brooklyn.

Mr. Martin had fallen from a gangplank while trying to board the yacht Niblick. When the water closed over his head an ice floe pushed its way over the spot. The rescue was attended with great difficulty, Mr. McNeil holding the drowning man's head above water until Policeman Haggerty threw a rope and aided in bringing the two men ashore.

An ambulance call brought Dr. Bidwell of the Hudson-Street Hospital, and after restoratives were administered Mr. Martin said he felt strong enough to go home alone. Mr. McNeil declined the surgeon's ministrations for himself.

Ground will soon be broken in Philadelphia for the erection of a Friends hospital, which will stand as a memorial to the late Anna T. Jeanes, who died in 1908, leaving an estate valued at more than $2,000,000. In her will Miss Jeanes, one of the wealthiest women in the city, left two valuable pieces of coal land in Lehigh county to Swarthmore College on condition that the institution withdraw from participation in all intercollegiate athletic contests. After consideration the college trustees declined the bequest, believing the restrictions too great. The income from this land then merged with the residue of the estate, which the testator had directed to be used in founding a Friends hospital. There is approximately $2,000,000 now available for the hospital. A portion of this will be used to build the institution, and the remainder to maintain it.

America has contributed $7,500,000 to the relief of Belgium, according to E. Van de Vyvere, Belgian Minister of Finance, who has sailed for London after spending several weeks in this country.

Up to February 1 foodstuffs and clothing valued at more than $80,000,000 had been shipped into Belgium, he said. Belgian interests supplied more than $60,000,000 of the sum expended. The remainder was given by the people of the United States and other countries. Mr. Van de Vyvere stated that $56,000,000 worth of supplies had been purchased in this country.

The Belgian Minister thanked the American people for their generosity, and said in a farewell message: "I ask you, individually and as a nation, to accept the love, the friendship and the faith which is offered to America by every Belgian as the tribute of their gratitude."

THE UNCHLOROFORMED

Robert Bates, aged 96, of Whitesburg, Ky., is the father of three families. He has been married three times and has nine children by his first union, eight by his second, and seven by his present wife.

"To what secret do you attribute your very long life?" asked Federal authorities of Peter McMullen, aged 104, of McKeesport, Pa. "Simply that I've been a hard case and smoked lots of tobacco," was his jovial reply.

J. M. Haigler of Carlton, Okla., is now over 75 years old and attributes his good health to the fact that he has not worn a pair of shoes for the past thirty-five years, having gone barefooted all this time.

Andrew J. Wrick of Fern Ridge, Pa., celebrated his twenty-fourth birthday, February 29, but in point of fact he was just 100 years old on that day. Only one thing is bothering the venerable centenarian, and that is he is cutting two new wisdom teeth. Outside of those two new molars and a touch of rheumatism, Mr. Wrick is in first-class health, a veritable patriarch and typical example of Monroe county longevity. He comes from fighting stock, and probably that is the reason he hangs on to life so tenaciously, believing in the well-known doctrine of "the survival of the fittest."

Isaac Belles, the oldest man of Boone county, Pennsylvania, did not celebrate his one hundred and first birthday February 23, as he is ill with grip. He has observed his anniversaries for several years with a dinner but this year the event was marked only by the visits of friends.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Clerk" writes. "I feel tired and worn-out all the time. I have no inclination to do anything, and I suffer with headache, trembling and dizziness. I am only 28, but I feel more like 60. What may I do to overcome this condition? I feel restless and discontented."

Answer: I would suggest regular habits of living; avoid excesses and dissipation and start at once using three-grain cadomene tablets. These tablets act as a bracing, stimulating tonic for the nerves and blood, and have benefited thousands. Regular use of them should build you up and revitalize your system.

"Cured" writes: "A couple of years ago your prescription permanently relieved me of a terrible case of rheumatism. My joints were all swollen and I had lumps and bumps on my hands and feet and suffered terribly. Now I want the same formula for my sister, who suffers from rheumatism."

Answer: I have always prescribed the following in the treatment of rheumatism, and my records show it is the one you used with so much success; have your sister get 2 drams of iodide of potassium, 4 drams of sodium salicylate, ½ oz. wine of colchicum, 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort and 5 ozs. of syrup sarsaparilla comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and again before going to bed.

"Atlas" writes: "I am losing flesh constantly. I am all run down and weak, and exercise tires me. I want a good builder and tonic."

Answer: Three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets taken regularly with your meals should increase your weight, your strength, and overcome the tired feeling. They are the greatest flesh builders I could suggest.

"L. E." writes: "I want something to relieve me of a cold, tonsilitis, bronchitis and a severe cough."

Answer: To relieve you of cough and cold affecting the tonsils, bronchials or the air passages, I suggest that you secure from your druggist 2½ oz. concentrated essence mentho-laxene and mix with a pint of syrup made of pure sugar and water. It should break up your cold in a very little while. I have known cases of chronic bronchitis and severe coughs to be permanently relieved with this simple and inexpensive remedy.

"Madame" writes: "I have pains in my back, headache, and chills and fever all the time. My ankles swell and I have dark, sallow skin and puffs under my eyes. A friend of mine suggests I might have some kind of kidney trouble."

Answer: Your symptoms clearly point to a diseased, inactive condition of your kidneys. What you need is a kidney stimulant and tonic. The best thing you can take is balmwort tablets. Start using at once.

"Run Down" writes: "I'm all run down, have fever, and my complexion is a sight. I have a boil coming on my face and I have had one on my hand. I don't sleep well at night I am so nervous and headachy. I am always constipated—have coated tongue and bad breath."

Answer: Your blood is impure, as indicated by the boils and bad complexion. Three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur) will clean your system and tone your blood. Start using them at once. They are sold in sealed tubes.

"Ella" asks: "What do you suppose is the matter with my hair? It is all coming out and my scalp is covered with a kind of rash. It itches terribly. I am afraid I will lose all my hair."

Answer: Wash the hair, and while still wet apply by rubbing thoroughly into the scalp some plain yellow minyol. Rinse out and continue this treatment after washing for about two weeks, at which time your scalp should be healthy and your hair bright and glossy.

"Plump" writes: "I weigh 175 pounds and I am much too plump for my height. May I safely reduce to about 135 pounds?"

Answer: You may safely reduce your weight several pounds by using five-grain arbolone tablets. They are a harmless and successful flesh reducer. Sold in sealed tins, with full directions.

DARING DUELING IN CLOUDS ABOVE EUROPE'S BATTLEFIELD.

Thrilling Adventures Recounted by a Birdman of the Allied Air Service who Pursued to the Death a Zeppelin Raider, Bringing It Down in Sight of the Enemy's Lines—Tells of the Great Plans for Aerial Attack and Defense to be Carried Out This Spring by the Allies.

[Editorial note: The incidents which are hereafter related are the experiences of a pilot of the allied air service who has seen service in England, France, Italy, the Balkans and Turkey, whose name is known wherever aviation has its followers, and who has received medals of the first rank for gallantry and efficiency in airmanship. In simple language he relates the thrilling experiences in raids, aerial duels, gun-spotting expeditions, etc., which have befallen himself and some of his brother aviators. The stories present a romantic side of the great war drama which has not hitherto been presented by anyone so well qualified to tell it. For obvious military reasons the narrator of these thrilling war adventures in the air cannot use his name in connection therewith.]

IT was at Maubee that I got my baptism of gunfire. I was piloting a machine with an observer as companion. We ran into dense clouds so had to turn back. As we were coming over the French lines I saw a movement and bustle among the troops, and then there was the noise of about a thousand rifles cracking at us. The infantry had mistaken me for a German because my machine was different from most of the others!

That was my "baptism of fire" and I shall never forget it.

My first sensations were of surprise, which rapidly developed into a kind of fear, which in turn changed to fascination. It positively fascinated me to see the holes appearing in the planes as each bullet ripped its way through, although only a few of them pierced the wings. I was looking at my instrument board to see what height I was, when suddenly a bullet hit the board and a splinter jumped up in front of me. At about the same time a bullet pierced the gasoline tank and all the precious liquid ran out. Another one hit one of the instruments and smashed it. When the gasoline ran out there was nothing for it but to come down, so I trusted to luck and came down in the first good field I saw.

A dozen or so Belgian and French soldiers rushed out, apparently not sure whether I was English or German.

Angrily I jumped out and gesticulating at the approaching soldiers I shouted the meanwhile that I was a friend.

The captain turned around to his men and in the French equivalent shouted, "Look here! Damn it all! This isn't good enough!"

But the perforations in the wings of my worthy old plane did not upset my equilibrium at all. I had a spare gasoline tank, which was rapidly filled, and I was soon on my way in the air again.

IF THE ENEMY WINGS YOU.

Good fortune was with me in that episode, for it is oftimes possible for such holes to be rent in the wings by bullets and shells that it is absolutely necessary to make as quick a landing as possible.

It has not been my fate up to the present time—and I am writing this with one hand on wood—to make a descent under such conditions, but a very dear friend of mind who has since "gone west" had the misfortune.

When he left on the fateful flight his commander gave him the usual warning: "Take no risks. If the enemy brings you down, you must destroy your dispatches, and the aeroplane as well. Good luck!"

My friend was the observer on this trip and he related the story to me in the following way:

"While the pilot was inspecting his machine I took my seat, with the dispatches between my legs, and a carbine slung along the fuselage on either side. The machine rose. We steered directly north, shaken a little by the wind, which caught us sideways.

"Suddenly the pilot shut off the motor, and nothing was audible except the whistling of the wind through the wires. He turned to me and pointed out some little puffs of smoke far below. He signed to me to listen, but I could hear nothing except the sound of the wind. Then the motor was started again and its steady roar covered everything.

"The puffs grew nearer and more generous. We tried to rise still higher, when a gust threw us on one side. The pilot righted us, but another and more terrible shock hurled us vertically upwards. Then we began to fall. The smoke and flames were now quite near us, and we were thrown in all directions by great blasts of air.

"Still we flew ahead. Gripping the fuselage, I awaited the end, incapable of thought. Then suddenly calm was restored. We had passed the danger zone, and beneath us was a great forest, cut here and there with ravines.

SOME EXCITING MOMENTS.

"Hardly had we recovered our feeling of security when danger reappeared. Our aeroplane began to reel over. The pilot shut off the motor, and turning his head, looked towards our left wing, where a strip of torn fabric was streaming in the wind.

"At once a headlong descent began, ending with an abrupt landing in a narrow clearing. Only this pilot could have achieved so desperate a maneuver. Calmly he jumped to earth, shouting:

" 'Take your carbine while I repair the cloth.' Then he set to work to patch the torn wing.

" 'If the Boches come,' he added, 'fire at them, and I will burn the machine, and we will run for it.'

"While I watched, the pilot continued his work. At last he told me to lift the tail of the machine, started to pull himself, and we bent double with our efforts to drag it to the other end of the clearing. But the roots and stones impeded, and we were about to abandon our task when suddenly the pilot leaped forward and thrust his revolver into the face of an unkempt, dirty man who had approached unseen. I seized my carbine, but the man stood with his hands in his pockets and said:

" 'We belong to you; we were ready to guide our men through the forest. Whe nthe Boches arrived we hid. My friends are near, and we will help.'

"He called, and a number of equally unkempt peasants stood round the aeroplane. In an instant we were ready to go. The propeller was started and we rose, but the trees opposite us came towards us at a great pace, and their height appeared to grow as we approached; it seemed that we could never rise over them.

"Suddenly, with a bound that put us almost vertical, we passed above them, and were once again looking down on the tree tops. At the edge of the forest smoke-puffs reappeared; but a turn enabled us to regain the cover of the forest and to gain altitude. When we came out again, lost in the sky, the guns had ceased, and, descending slowly, we landed in the French lines.

PURSUING A ZEPPELIN RAIDER.

I had only been on the aerial frontier a week when I had my first encounter with a Zeppelin.

Out of the gray dawn of the very early morning, as I was starting on my first real reconnaissance trip, the gray bulk of a Zeppelin emerged, her engines thrashing fiercely. She was late in getting back from her night raid, and the captain had seen two ominous spots in the sky to the rearward.

Aeroplanes! Since the news of the night raid was flashed to the allies' aerial stations, men and machines had been preparing for the grim task of intercepting the Zeppelin on the return journey, when daylight would give the aeroplanes their full power of attack. While it was yet dark, two of the more daring pilots had started, and by clever airmanship they took a course calculated to give them a strategic position when the Zeppelin appeared.

But the crafty enemy had taken another course, and when dawn broke it was not to be seen by the aerial watchers. Masses of fleecy clouds rendered observation difficult, and hope had almost disappeared when suddenly one of the pilots saw the Zeppelin loom through a cloud bank several miles ahead. Heeling over at a terrific angle, the little craft swung round in pursuit, climbing as they went, so as to get the "hawk position" over the enemy ship.

The Zeppelin has disappeared! Somewhere in that upper world of coldness and rudely disturbed silence, the ship is traveling through billowy clouds now touched by the glorious lights of the new day. A reek of burned oil fouls the pure air, and the roar of engines in full throttle pulsates into space.

Like swallows in pursuit of flies the aeroplanes hunt high and low for the enemy, and not until after one long despairing dive to earth is the vessel sighted. It has cleverly been using the clouds for cover, and by the liberal sacrifice of gas and ballast it has danced up and down in the air to elude the hunters. In these tactics the Zeppelin has the advantage of quick movements. A brilliant burst of sunlight suddenly reveals the ship to the aviators, and the Zeppelin captain also discovers us as we wheel around to pursue. We are at a lower level and we promptly start climbing. The Zeppelin leaps upward, and, setting her elevation planes, seeks to gain a still greater advantage in height.

THE ZEPPELIN OPENS FIRE.

To us below it looked as though pursuit were helpless, but we held on grimly. Steadily we gained in forward speed. Our engines were fresh, while the Zeppeline motors were feeling the strain of long running at high speed. When the affair settled into a stern chase the Zeppelin opened fire.

We were prepared for this and kept as close as possible in the wake of the German ship, thus masking the guns in the forward cabin. But the Zeppelin, learning a lesson from previous encounters, had guns in the rear cabin, and despite the disadvantage of shooting in a line parallel with the keel, they made rapid practice on the aeroplanes.

The situation grew desperate for the Zeppelin. All the ballast had been thrown out, gasoline was running short, and the engines were showing signs of increasing weakness and irregular running.

Undeterred by the guns, one of our squadron of aeroplanes had already climbed to the same level as the airship and was steadily rising to a height where it would be concealed from the Zeppelin guns by the body of the ship itself. A great burst of forward speed could alone save the commander of the Zeppelin from being overtaken by the enemy.

The machine which I was piloting was the second to rise above the fire zone, though one ragged wing showed a wound of the fray.

As a balloon the Zeppelin could rise no higher, for all her ballast had been sacrificed. The captain decided to bring his elevating planes back to normal, and stake all on a high-speed flight in a horizontal course. He was encouraged in this by the sight of the German lines below, with the landmarks which he knew so well. Puffs of smoke told him that the aeroplanes were being shelled by German gunners, that the bombardment showered upon us might relieve him at any moment. Indeed, some of the shots burst so near the Zeppelin that the commander must have had an indifferent opinion of the gunners' marksmanship.

THE AWFUL SITUATION.

But the firing on land soon ceased. An ominous sign to the commander of the Zeppelin.

When I talked afterward with a comrade in a machine below the level of the Zeppelin he told me of the intense agony which the Zeppelin crew suffered as they looked at each other with horror-stricken eyes. Without doubt their one possessing thought was, "what is happening above us?" From their little cabins there was no possibility of an upward survey, for the great body of the ship loomed above them, shutting out the overhead view.

But the crew of the Zeppelin could picture in their mind's eye those two gaunt birds—of which I happened to be piloting one—flying after them remorselessly as fate, and inch by inch gaining on them. Well did the crew know that the Zeppelin would soon be beneath the aeroplanes. A bomb will drop on the great ship's back, and then—.

In a frenzy the captain plunged his ship downward and swung her to the right with a swerve that threatened to break her spine. But the little elephantine maneuver availed him little. We in the aeroplanes could dive and swerve with the grace of swallows, while the giant ship lumbered like a derelict balloon.

But what was passing through the mind of the commander of that Zeppelin? Full within his view, down there on land, was his harbor of safety, his hangar, only several thousand feet away. His fate was in the balance, and he knew it. His transit to land would be only a matter of seconds, but what of those buzzard aeroplanes above him? In the fierce conflict of the air in Europe there is no quarter. True, it is a more man to man combat than any other phase of the war, but it is unrelentless.

THE END OF THE BATTLE.

We of the aeroplanes summoned up all our remaining nerve energy—our prize was just within our grasp—he must not escape. If he did we would most easily become the prey of the antiaircraft guns that were waiting their chance to send aloft their deadly hail of shrapnel.

Down swept our bombs, with unerring accuracy. There was a dull thud, and then a sheet of flame, spreading with lightning speed, in a moment enveloping the entire massive vessel. The burning hydrogen consumed it with apalling fury, and in a few instants the great ship, crumbling and melting, hurtled to earth like a blazing meteor.

From the earth many guns spoke. They but served for the firing salute over the graves of the fallen.

Our machines rocked under the concussion of bursting shells, but we managed to keep on our way.

Only a German knows what it is to see a Zeppelin fall. It is an omen of doom.

What a tremendous impression that first aerial encounter with a Zeppelin left upon my mind! And while I tried to do my bit in the encounter, I was glad that it was not my bomb that had struck the backbone of the monster airship.

The Zeppelins have had their day, which I believe is fast passing. Of all the combatants at the outbreak of hostilities, the Germans alone possessed an effective aerial weapon of offense in their Zeppelins; their time of superiority in this respect is fast fading away, and the wonder is that the Germans hitherto have not made better use of their opportunities in this respect than the little they have actually done, for the damage they have wrought has been, from a military point of view, totally insignificant.

MIGHTY ARMADAS OF THE AIR.

There are two means of defense against the Zeppelin which have received attention. The first is the antiaircraft gun, enormously improved in vertical range and accuracy of fire since the beginning of the war, but still a poor and uncertain weapon at the best. The second method consists of offense, for the Zeppelin is more especially vulnerable, not in the air, but in its lair, and soon there will scarcely be a German airship base designed for depredations on England and on the North Sea, which will be out of range of the British long distance aeroplanes.

In the spring, in fleet formation, these long distance aeroplanes will make offensive raids on these Zeppelin bases.

In these bombardments of the air, substantially the same tactics will be used as was formerly used in naval warfare. There are three arms now of the aerial service, each utilizing separate types of machines. The first class comprises the scouting craft, light and heavy, according as the work is on a wide strategical or a limited tactical scale. Secondly, there are the aeroplanes which furnish the eyes for the artillery, fairly heavy machines with machine guns for beating off the attacks of hostile fliers. Finally, there are the squadrons, termed by the French, "group de bombardment," utilized wholly for offensive purposes, both against enemy aircraft, for bomb dropping, and for firing on enemy forces behind the battle line.

And this is the formation in which they will sally forth in their spring campaigns—the mighty Armadas of the air.

With such fleets in the air there will be aerial battles which even Jules Verne and Wells could not have dreamt of.

One of my own experiences in aerial combat, when magnified a dozen fold, will give the reader an idea of the coming air encounters.

WHAT IS COMING.

I had just passed over the woods of the German front line, which were bristling with "Archies," and which fired me a worthy salute, when a biplane and monoplane appeared east of me, the biplane leading, with ample evidence of being in a hurry, with the monoplane overhauling it hands over fists. We were about 2500 feet above the "busses," and when within about a mile I got a glimpse of the monoplane's front wing. Black cross on a white base. Good enough!

Down went the nose of my machine almost vertically. 2000 feet I came down, while the air speed indicator went up to the 160-mile per hour and then stuck, not having been designed for the purpose of exceeding recognized limits. I expected the little biplane I was piloting to fold up any minute, but she stood it like a rock. By this time the other machines were almost vertically below me. The German had caught the biplane and was emptying his gun into it at fifty yards range. It subsequently transpired that just at this time he had three bullets through the observer's arm and one through the main gasoline tank, with the result that the precious fluid was pouring all over the pilot, observer and fuselage.

I started pulling my machine out of her nose dive at 2000 feet above the German. I don't believe the pilot even saw me until I opened fire. Twenty rounds of lead I planted into the rear of his machine, though they apparently did not hit him. He then turned his attention to me, turning on a perpendicular bank and doing a complete circuit to see where he intended going to. The little beggar was describing circuits around me while I did a sort of inner circle, conducted, of course, with a perpendicular bank. Owing to the fact that my speed was so great and that I was doing complete turns in about twice the length of my machine, the centrifugal force was so great that the machine gun could not be held on its mounting and could not be pulled up square. Things being at that moment distinctly unsatisfactory, I wasn't sorry to see the German head for home.

"HERE LIES AN AIRMAN."

Hot in pursuit I went. I was getting a little anxious about the "Archies," for I was gradually decreasing my altitude. But a lucky shot found its billet, and the pilot was no more.

The evolutions that machine with no pilot, described when falling from 7000 feet were extraordinary, viewed from above. First wheels up, then right way again, a loop, several cartwheels, a nose dive, more loops and several turns on to and off its back sideways, until it was lost to sight almost on the ground.

About a week later I was flying over the same territory, at a low altitude. I was attracted by something I saw on the ground, and descending I discovered a small, hastily reared mound topped by a rough cross, and on the cross had been written as legibly as was possible with a pencil:

"Here lies an airman."

That was all. Not far away there lay the fragments of the aeroplane. It gave me a moment's pause.

OVER THE SEA.

King George of Great Britain follows the recruiting figures very carefully and can at all times tell you how many men have already joined the army.

King Ferdinand of Bulgaria is an enthusiastic botanist. His collection of Alpine plants is considered the most complete in Europe.

Dr. Juichi Soyeda, who has lately accepted the presidency of the Imperial Railway Bureau, is one of the accomplished Japanese best known to foreign visitors to Japan for his unwearied courtesy, his keen intelligence and refined hospitality. Dr. Soyeda was once the Vice-Minister of Finance and for a long time has been governor of the Industrial Bank of Japan. He is also connected with the Franco-Japanese Bank. He is well known in America, where he was sent by the Japanese Chamber of Commerce as representative to visit the Japanese residents of the United States in connection with the California land dispute some years ago.

Prince William, second son of King Gustave of Sweden, was recently operated upon for appendicitis. Prince William, who is Duke of Sodermanland, is 32 years old.

Sir Charles Cheers Wakefield, who recently took office as Lord Mayor of London, is a man of large business affairs and directs the operations of one of the great English oil companies. Since 1895 he has lived in London. He started on the long road to high office in 1904, when he was elected member of the Court of Common Council. He has been decorated by the President of France, the King of Belgium, and, in other and different days, the Kaiser. He has traveled greatly and has written a book called "Future Trade in the Far East." The new Lord Mayor has always been deeply interested in charitable work and prizes highly decorations of the Order of Mercy and the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, of which he is Knight of Grace. He is also a keen art collector.

King Nicholas of Montenegro's favorite game is poker, which he always plays very badly and yet always wins. It is an open secret that during the past ten years the old King regularly spent many hours every day playing poker with the diplomatic representatives of the great powers accredited to his court, whose chief and best qualification consisted in allowing him to win; thus a great portion of their office allowance was transferred into the King's pockets. The more a diplomatist lost in poker at the royal palace the greater was the influence he acquired with the King, who judged Ministers and the countries they represented according to the amounts they could afford to lose at poker.

The distinction of being the world's richest man undoubtedly belongs to the Czar of Russia, of whom it has been said that he has so much money that nobody can count it. And it is a fact that the wealth that is his as controller of the Russian Church, and as ruler of all the Russias, including that of the members of his extremely wealthy family, would certainly be too great to count, including as it does all the wealth of Russia, which is estimated at £7,000,000,000. The Czar's personal wealth, according to one statistical genius, works out at £110,000 a day, and should Russia get down to its last cent—or rather kopek—in the royal exchequer, Nicholas single-handed, could keep the entire Russian army in the field for several weeks. Most of the Czar's wealth is derived from landed possessions, of which he has nearly 150,000,000 acres, three-quarters of which is rich timber and yielding big rentals. The other quarter is mining land. Siberia's mines are owned by the Czar, while his jewelry and art works are of fabulous worth. The Czar's state income is about £2,000,000, out of which, however, he has to provide for the expenses of his household, which includes the upkeep of more than [illegible] palaces, to say nothing of the Russian court, with its 30,000 servants, [illegible] automobiles, 5000 thoroughbred horses and an army of several thousand soldiers and detectives.

The Easiest Way to End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

Art and Artists.

brilliantly proficient in his own art, master of written language, so why shouldn't he discuss art, among other things?

Landscapes by the Wachtels.

Unless art strikes its roots deep in nature, unless it grips hard the soil from which it springs, its life will be short and brief, and it will wither into nothingness. The artist who lives too long and too closely in the subjective may paint wonderful things, even beautiful things, but they will be lacking in the necessary texture of reality, they will suffer through need of firm technical expression, for these come only through close communion with the objective. In other words, he who would paint the earth must remain on it.

This rule applies with particular force to the painters of landscape, who flounder miserably when they stray too far from nature's facts. I am not denying them the vision—they must have that, too—but I do insist that this inner picture be not distorted from truth. The landscape painter must live close to nature from day to day, winning power, Antaeus-like, when he touches her, losing power when he soars too high and too long. For the artist is even more human than he is divine.

Sanity is the touchstone of the best art. The painter of sense shows respect for tradition, for he knows that nothing lasting has ever been built on sand. When he departs from it, it is in the true spirit of adventure, that he may open new roads to the same high goal that the best men have always sought in every age. He does not throw aside knowledge, ability and craftsmanship, that his load may be lightened—for he is aware that without these he will soon sink into quagmires from which there is no escape. Look at the fate of the cubists and the futurists. Their start was reckless and gay, their end—is it not already in sight?

Two Los Angeles painters who possess this happy balance with a fine perfection are Elmer Wachtel and Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel. You have found proofs of my assertion in the many exhibitions held by them in Los Angeles, and if you want more they are to be had in the exhibition they are now giving at Steckel's gallery through the month of March. The artists offer you some thirty-five of their recent paintings to study—and to convince you.

You cannot deny the poetry in these pictures of Southern California's landscape, and neither can you deny the truth to the outward aspect of things. Here are mountains, hills and valleys, sunshine and shade, trees and fields, all painted with knowledge as well as love, with crisp decision as well as brooding tenderness. These things, in the pictures, are nature's realities seen by two of her lovers—who have therefore become idealists. If certain moods of their mistress have appealed to them more often than others, let us be thankful, for it is by concentration that they have become subtle as painters—more subtle than you perhaps realize.

This subtlety is at its most elusive, most exquisite point in the pictures they brought with them last year from the high Sierras. The cold austerity, the sublime solitudes of the peaks brooding above their blue and icy glacial lakes held them in thrall in an enchantment not to be broken till the records had been made of the waiting mountains, till they had been signed and sealed, and then carried away for us to see. Some of these are now in the present exhibition—Elmer Wachtel's "The High Sierra," the peaks seen in the golden hour when shadows are gray and lavender on the snow, when the mountains are lilac, the trees gray-blue, the low-lying lake a steely green; "Snowy Summit," showing a full moon over peaks that rise, snow-clad, into the faint, indefinite green air, a picture full of the breathless mystery of the heights; "The Passing Shower," with its splendid wall of mountain to the right, whose shadow lies cold and dark on the plain below; "Shadow Lake," another vast mountain wall rising into a sky of mingled rose and blue. In all these the painting of snow is superbly done.

Among Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel's Sierra subjects are "A Glacier Lake," showing a golden sky over a cold blue lake that is set like a Titan's mirror among gem-like hills, a picture very simply and forcefully painted, for all its refinements; "Sculptured Peaks," the mountains rising in impressive majesty above a lake into the loveliest of skies, delicately gray-green with luminous clouds; "On the Trail," showing the sculptured peaks without snow and in afterglow, a transparent blue shadow creeping up almost to their very tops, two horsemen being seen on the road that winds around craggy rocks.

However, it is Southern California's gentler and more well-known vistas that have most attracted the Wachtels for the past fifteen years, and it is through these that we have learned to know their pictures. As I have said, both painters are truthful interpreters, always drawing from a great store of accurate knowledge, a store that is forever being enriched and increased. Their favorite hour is late afternoon, the hour of wonderful shadows and wonderful lights.

Elmer Wachtel has two pictures with the same title, "Ceanothus," which is the euphonious name of the wild lilac, whose billows of bloom surge among the rich green and gold and rosy splendors of spring in California. Both these pictures are full of the springtime spirit—lyrical, vital, and with a blended color. In his "ecito Bay" we see the ocean through scraggly oaks that seem to be dancing like Wordsworth's daffodils on their sunny hillside, while beyond them are dreaming mountains. In "Trout Pool, Matilija Canyon," we have a pleasant and shadowy retreat that yet offers us distant mountains colored in the afternoon light. Every picture is worthy of appreciative comment, but these few must stand for all the rest.

You will like, immensely, Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel's splendid "Eucalyptus and Clouds," whose clouds and trees are wonderfully drawn, the trees crowned with twilight's gold, below them a vista of valleys set among mountains and hills. The fine sky is full of movement—and in every way this is one of Mrs. Wachtel's best pictures. Another very attractive one is "Midsummer, Monterey Bay," all in a golden glow, mountains, valleys, trees, under an exquisite sky. This is a masterpiece of tone, and has a high lyric quality.

Then there are her "Misty Moonlight," Santa Barbara Mission in deep blue and green; "Santa Barbara Foothills," a lovely study of sunlight, a team of horses drawing hay under a sky of moving clouds and before mountains glorified by the sun; "The San Gabriel Valley;" "The Tranquil Hour, Mt. San Jacinto;" "Late Afternoon, Matilija," and so on, each one a delightful thing in color and arrangement, a little poem in feeling.

Chicago Painter.

Frank A. Werner, the Chicago portrait artist, and his family are guests at the Huntington Hotel, Pasadena. Mr. Werner comes to California mainly to execute a commission for the Sigma Chi Fraternity—a painting of Maj. Thomas C. Bell of Oakland.

This work is being done in connection with a plan of the officers of the fraternity to secure portraits of all of the seven founders of the organization, which was established at Miami University, Oxford, O., in 1855.

Mr. Werner has already completed the pictures of Gen. Benjamin P. Runkle and the Rev. Daniel W. Cooper, both residents of Ohio and who, with Maj. Bell, are the last of the surviving founders of Sigma Chi. The portraits are now being shown for the first time in an exhibition of the work of Chicago artists which is in progress at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Mr. Werner will leave Pasadena next week for a stay of some time in Oakland, but will return to Chicago via Los Angeles.

ART NOTES.

Charles Louis Turner is holding an exhibition of paintings of Italy and California in the Bentz gallery, No. 49 South Raymond avenue, Pasadena. The exhibition, which opened February 28, will continue to March 25. Mr. Turner is a very able technician, and some of these pictures are among his best.

The exhibition of pictures by the Woodstock landscapists now held in the Kanst gallery closes March 11. The next exhibition in this gallery will be one of marines by Frank W. Cuprien, the largest yet held by this artist. This will open March 13, to close April 3.

Elizabeth Borglum, whose studio has been at No. 39 Brooks avenue, Venice, all winter, is showing some interesting new landscapes and still-life studies at this place. The landscapes are particularly attractive and very poetic. The artist will go to Santa Barbara, as usual, in the summer.

An exhibition of etchings and lithographs by Whistler are shown up to March 11 in the Frederick Keppel gallery, New York. The catalogue is a long and interesting one.

Twenty etchings by Zorn are on exhibition in the small new gallery devoted to prints at Exposition Park. They will remain for several weeks.

LOVELY WOMAN.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

"What'll you have, blonde or brunette?" exclaimed I as I came upon the Oldest Inhabitant while holding up a Broadway corner inspecting the fleeting pageant of fashion and beauty.

"It's a great show," sighed the old man, contentedly. "They all look good to me. In my time I have loved them all. When I was a pup I was crazy about blondes, but when I grew up and learned how to pay alimony I switched to brunettes. Now I like 'em betwixt and between."

"Why, you old reprobate!" interrupted I. "Anyone listening to your bleat would think you were a regular Don Juan."

"Oh, I don't know," chuckled the veteran. "When I was in spring form they used to call me Launcelot J. Lothario for short—and I was short most of the time. We didn't have any fashion show then, but we had fashions and pretty girls just as we have had ever since Cain went wife hunting. The first girl I went with had a hoop skirt six yards around. That was before they had electric cars. A woman could never get into a car while wearing a uniform like that. When she sat down she had to hold the family Bible on her lap to keep her hoops from brushing the flies off the ceiling. A flock of dames on a windy day looked like a bit of the circus grounds. If the breeze turned one of them over everybody looked the other way."

"Everybody but you, you old scoundrel," said I.

"I pretended I was blind," replied the old man as he carelessly started a bonfire on the front end of a new cheroot.

"Well, they were different last year," said I.

"They were that," replied the veteran. "The girls looked as if they came wrapped up in porous plasters, and whatever shape they had was acutely visible to the eye."

"I suppose you pretended you were blind?" interrupted I.

"Not me," snapped the old-timer. "This was deliberate, not accidental. When a girl advertises her figure it's different. I'm a great believer in advertising and figures. But I like the stuff they are putting over this season. The girls don't care how much material there is in a skirt so long as they don't get their feet tangled up in it. The result you have before you. See that cute little chicken just stepping on the curb. She has a skirt that's maybe eight yards around, but it doesn't interfere with the lithe, panther-like movements of the fairy queen. When she wants to kick the chandelier all she has to do is to nod for the music. She doesn't even have to raise her skirt. That has already been done by Mme. De Grasse, who charged her $70 for the making. A girl has two feet and so they make the bottom of the skirt two feet from the ground. From the other side of the road I can see where my landlady carries her money."

"You're not worrying, I hope," said I, sarcastically.

"Oh, I'm not in mourning. I can stand it. In fact, I like it. I like to see a girl dressed so she can climb a tree or jump a fence if she has to. Any time you see my name at the head of a remonstrance against short skirts you'll know it's forged. In fact, I don't care whether they wear 'em at all. If the dames want to drop in the grill in their bathing suits far be it from me to make a roar. As the poet says: 'The shorter the skirt, and the lower the waist, the more there's in sight for a person of taste.'"

"I think you're a wicked old man," interrupted I, severely.

"They called me that when I was 30," chirped the ancient, "but they never ran away from me. Just because I fall for a pretty woman is no sign I'm different from the rest of you. You'd be a Romeo yourself if you wasn't so mean and ugly. I like a handsome woman and I'm proud of it. I don't sneak around and try to hide it. There's nothing prettier in the world than a well-dressed girl, and you can go ahead and print in your paper that I said so. That's why I'm watching this array today. I do it because it does my eyes good and helps me to forget my rheumatism. By the way, just look at that cosy party in the pale gray goods with a three-deck flounce. Isn't that the cutest bonnet you ever saw?"

"It isn't bad," said I with suppressed admiration. "I will admit that the dames are putting out a sensible line of helmets this season."

"They are that," exclaimed the veteran, warmly. "They have the cutest line of domeshields I ever saw. They're small and tasty. I hated those yard-wide vegetable gardens with the hatpins that were always spearing your eye."

"You seem to be terribly worried about your eyes," said I. "You are afraid something will happen and you not see it."

"I am that. I'm afraid that I'll go blind the year the women leave off their skirts."

Instant Hair Stain Better Than Slow "Restorers"

Some folks would have you believe that they have discovered some marvelous combination that will "restore" the color to gray, streaked or faded hair, without staining it. No such preparation has been discovered.

There is only one preparation so far as we know that is entirely free from sulphur, lead, silver, mercury, zinc, aniline, coal tar products or their derivatives. That preparation is called "Brownatone." It is so easy and safe to apply that the wonder is that anyone ever uses anything else.

"Brownatone" instantly tints the hair to any shade of brown (or black) that may be desired. If the gray shows on your temples or is streaking your hair—if the ends of your hair are lighter than the balance, or if for any reason you wish to stain all or part of your hair—use "Brownatone."

A sample and a booklet will be sent you (from manufacturers only) upon receipt of 10c. Mention shade desired.

All of the leading drug stores sell "Brownatone." Two sizes, 25c and $1.00.

Insist on "Brownatone" at your hairdresser's.

Take One Bottle of McBurney's Kidney and Bladder Medicine

CHICAGO, Ill., March 30, 1896.
MR. W. F. McBURNEY,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir: It affords me pleasure to testify to the efficiency of your Kidney and Bladder Cure. I have been troubled with my kidneys and bladder for over four years. I have been treated by Dr. C. A. Purdy and Dr. Frank Walls, the latter being my son. I regret to say they did me no good. I was advised to spend the winter in Los Angeles, which I did. On the night before I left for home I got a bottle of your medicine. The first dose did me good and I was well when I reached home, and I can say in conclusion that I am grateful to you. If this letter is of any use to you, use it.

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can make a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and rub briskly. This creates an abundance of thick, white lather that thoroughly dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly, with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that make arranging it a pleasure.

FRIENDSHIP AS AN ASSET.

Some of the Influences that have Made Men Great by Support and Help.

BY CHARLES F. THWING,
President of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio.

FRIENDSHIPS are among life's most precious values. George Eliot says that if a few weeks passed without receiving some message from a friend, she began to doubt that friend's love—so dependent was she upon her friendships. You first make friends, and then your friends make you. Friendships are based on personal likings and permanent principles. Friendships arise from and go to the soul. Friendships are mostly made when the heart is young, unfettered, responsive to give and to accept.

Of noble friendships life is full. Carlyle gave to Tennyson his tobacco-box as a pledge of eternal brotherhood, and in the bottom of the box was found a letter from Carlyle, introducing Mrs. Oliphant. The friendship between Tennyson and Browning is the best sort of an example. Browning dedicated a selection of his own poems to Alfred Tennyson:

"In poetry, illustrious and consummate
"In friendship noble and sincere."

The son and biographer adds, "Browning frequently dined with us. The tete-a-tete conversations between him and my father on every imaginable topic, when no one but myself was with them, were the best talks I have ever heard, so full of repartee, quip, epigram, anecdote, depth and wisdom; but it is quite impossible to reproduce them, owing to their very brilliancy. These brother-poets were two of the most widely-read men of the time, absolutely without a touch of jealousy, and revelling, as it were, in each other's power."

Perhaps the most impressive illustration of a large number of warmest friends is found in the career of Charles Wadsworth, the Bishop of St. Andrews. He tells during his day at Oxford he was intimate with Claughton, who afterwards became Bishop of Rochester, with Rounsdell Palmer, with Anthony Grant, Canon of Rochester, with Dean Lindell, with Canon Harrison of Canterbury, with Scott, the master of Balliol, with Vaughn, who became professor of modern history, with James Bruce, known as Lord Elgin, who became Governor-General of India.

The dependence of friend on friend, the helpfulness of friend to friend, the formative power of friend over friend, represent the active side of the resource of friendship. Thomas Jefferson said of one of his college teachers that he "probably fixed the outlines of my life." Mark Hopkins helped many a Williams man to find himself. Arthur Hallam, moving upon Tennyson, Sir William Hamilton upon Clark-Maxwell, Hawkins and Whately on Newman, Arnold on Stanley, Henshaw on Darwin, and Darwin on Romanes—how the list lengthens of noble mind inspiring noble mind in the conditions of intimate friendship! Many a younger man may sing of his friends as Romanes sang of Darwin, in his "Charles Darwin:"

"My help, my guide, my stay of heart and mind,
The friend whose life was dearer than my own."

To commend the worth of friendship is to commend what all recognize as of chief worth. In the centuries that divide the writing of Cicero's essay "De Amicitia," from the writing of Tennyson's "In Memoriam," friendships have been found to be the unfailing springs of refreshing in life's thirsty highways.

Strike Proper Balance.

[Kansas City Star:] Sex, religion and insanity are nearly associated. There is nothing that should be so well balanced as the religious belief of everyone. Sometimes experiences in religions are nothing but the most rampant of neurasthenic hallucinations. The religious zealot is almost always a neurasthenic, and it only takes time to prove it. There are two kinds of neurasthenics, those who have lost religion and, of course, happiness, and those who have religious fanaticism. Strike the balance and you have health.

THE RELIGIOUS RAMBLER.

Rescue for Hosts of Armenians by Russian Victory in the East—Principal Points of Concentration of the Refugees Reached by Christian Army—Armenian Men Taking Vengeance.

THE average person has only a hazy knowledge of the geography of the Caucasus and of the location of Erzerum, where the great Russian victory has been gained—a victory that may mark the turning of the tide of war and the entrance upon the final stage of the conflict. When the Christian is reminded, however, that another name for this region that has been figuring so largely in the dispatches is Armenia, he pricks up his ears, for the Armenian atrocities have for generations made a deep mark upon the religious thought of the world, and never more so than in the case of the latest and worst of these.

The present military development has a direct and an immediate bearing upon the condition of the persecuted Armenians. At present the Russian army is within the confines of old Armenia, but steadily breaking out toward the south and the east and the west. Momentous results are taking place behind the battle line, but some results are apparent.

The first effect of the Russian victory will be greater suffering for the Armenian Christians who are still within Turkish power. The news that the Turks massacred the Armenians at Erzerum ere they evacuated has already been published. It was to be expected that this defeat would turn the Moslem population in renewed savagery upon the Christians and intensify the religious issue. Besides, the fact is generally known that there are large numbers of Armenian men who had escaped across the border of Russia and are fighting with the Czar's troops.

Undoubtedly thousands or tens of thousands of Armenians will be slain as the result of the fall of Erzerum; but relatively this is negligible alongside of the emancipation that will be procured for hundreds of thousands. The present renewals of massacres are apparenly the last outrages before the deliverance of the Armenians.

Next will come the relief for the Armenian women and children who have been driven across the mountains in the desert and into the cities which are now within the present or prospective zone of the Russian operations. Urfa, Diarbekir, Bitlis, Harpoot, Sivas, Marsovan, Mardin, Mosul and Aleppo are all centers of the concentration of the deported Armenians. Practically the whole remnant of the Armenian race that is left in Turkey, numbering something over 500,000, is concentrated in and about these cities, and all of them are at present threatened by the Russian forces.

"ARMY OF DELIVERANCE."

By a curious reversal of programme or nomenclature the Russians h become an "army of deliveran which was the term applied to t Turkish troops who were expect attack Suez. Doubtless this Egypt expedition will have to be abandon because of the success of the Russ in the rear. The Turkish lines of co munication to both Bagdad and are threatened. Most of the mentioned above have already captured, or are likely to be in near future. In the case of Aleppo will not come to pass without a mendous battle, possibly one of greatest of the war.

Victory for the Russians, howev means deliverance for the Armen Even the fixing of the world's att tion upon these cities of concentra for the refugees is likely to allev somewhat the plight of the Armen sufferers.

AVENGERS PURSUE TURK

One may easily imagine the matic reunions that are taking between the Armenians accompany the Russians, who had escaped ac the border, and their kinfolk wh they find desolate in the cities tured by the Christians. Let us that some great writers are acc panying the Russian columns, for is the material for the most thr kind of literature.

It is estimated that there are Armenians bearing arms with the sians. These men are not natu cowards and they have the fie motives to nerve their arms. know the land in which the is taking place and they have the fleeing Turks. Husbands avenging wives, sons mothers fathers daughters.

Terrible is the toll that is taken of the Turks by these aveng Armenians. They are oriental Ch tians and feel themselves to be m isters of retribution. They ma a leaven of insatiableness and lesses in the Russian army.

CHANNELS FOR RELIEF OPE

The recent dramatic change in fortunes of war brings Russian to the Armenian refugees in and upper Armenia and is ope channels to all the other cities tured. Of course, the disorgani following military operations inte fies the need, and this is peculiarly hour for Americans to remember the National Armenian Relief C mittee has been organized, Charles P. Crane as treasurer, his fice being No. 70 Fifth avenue, York.

Dentistry minus Dread

—Being a Little Talk About the New Science of Painless Dentistry—Written Only for Those Who Have Open Minds

Ever since the dawn of history, Dentistry in some form has been practiced. From Kings to Common People men and women alike have suffered from the crude attempts of well meaning "dentists" who tried everything from the making of artificial teeth to the filling of cavities.

Over 4000 years ago the Chinese carefully catalogued Nine Kinds of Toothache and their favorite remedy for all Nine Kinds was the insertion of medicine in the Ear or Nostril.

All that seems very foolish to us today, and yet nine out of every ten people hesitate to visit a dentist because of the worn-out, antiquated notion that it "always hurts."

Fear holds them back. Fear helps build for them a miserable middle age of poor health, due in large part to badly kept, discolored, decayed Teeth. Poor health always follows close on the heels of Bad Teeth.

Dentistry has made more substantial advances in the last few years than any of the healing arts. As important discoveries were made, progressive Dentists seized upon them and improved upon them until today, to cap the climax of all achievements, the New Science of Painless Dentistry has evolved.

J. Homer, D.D.S.
Consulting Dentist
Author of "Ethical Advertising"

No Longer Fears the Dentist

"Dr. J. Homer,
Dear Sir:—

Just a few lines to tell you I cannot express my appreciation and gratitude for your Painless and First-Class Dental work. I wish everyone knew what I do about it. It is a pleasure now instead of Fear. Thanking you again,

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Thomas Weiss,
1582 W. 27th St., L.A."

A Dentist Writes—

"As a practicing dentist who doesn't advertise, I wish to commend your efforts in behalf of better dentistry.

If the dental profession would use more of your methods it would have a higher standing.

Dr. J. W. Leonard.
Demonstrator of Operative Dentistry, Wisconsin College of Physicians and Surgeons Dental Dept."

"Your Splendid Work Speaks for Itself."

Redlands, Cal.

"Dear Dr. Homer,

Your Dental work was a revelation to me and has given me much comfort and satisfaction. I am only too glad to say this for I know that anyone who has been under your care will find that your splendid work speaks for itself.

Mrs. R. T. Allan."

"Dr. Homer,
Dear Sir,

I have had Dental work done in New York, Poughkeepsie, Chicago and other large cities, but none was more satisfactory than what you did. Also, your offices are the finest and most complete and sanitary I was ever in.

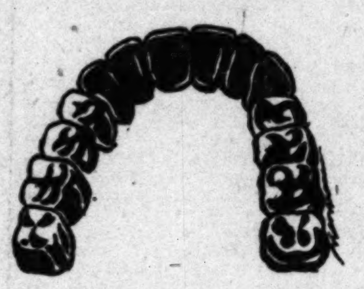
Caroline Ashby Brill,
1437 Oak Street, L.A."

Just Exactly What Do We Mean by Painless Dentistry?

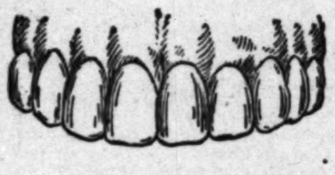
It means just what it says. It means that every operation, without exception, performed in our Office can be made Painless, whether it is the extracting of a tooth, the preparing of a cavity or the removal of a Live Nerve. Think what that means to the thousands of suffering people who have come to look upon dentists as monsters without feeling. That day is past and with the dawning of this newer day of Homer's Analgesic or Painless Dentistry the most nerve-shaken woman or timid child can step into the chair with the assurance that there will be no suffering whatever. The fact that our practice is the largest in the city—that thousands of people visit our offices every year and return, bringing their friends, is evidence beyond question that needs no comment.

Teeth WITHOUT Plates At Last!

A "dental triumph" is Homer's Replacement system of tooth restoration in cases where ordinary bridge-work cannot be used. Our method of teeth replacement is applicable to any mouth where there are at least two sound natural roots left. The great advantage of this method is that they look just exactly like real teeth and are put right in the jaws to stay! Once in the mouth they are for all practical purposes just as good as if Nature had put them there.



The OLD Way
Old style bridgework as it appears in the mouth. Notice how the gold comes down to the cutting edges of front teeth. Back teeth are all gold.



The NEW Way
Notice how different a Homer bridge looks in the mouth. No gold exposed.

How Much Do We Charge?

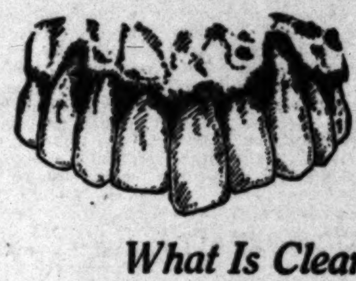
Every kind of work is worth just in proportion as it brings benefits to you. And Dr. Homer's Dentistry without Pain is no exception. When one considers that it is the very highest class of dental work obtainable today the charge is surprisingly reasonable—much more so than that of a great many private practitioners. And you know in advance exactly what the cost of your work will be, for a thorough examination is made and the exact price fixed.

Crowns That Really CROWN the Teeth and Save Them

Every dentist uses Crowns, and everybody knows that thin crowns soon wear through and warp out of shape, causing decay and Pyorrhea. We use nothing but thick crowns with solid cusps and Guarantee them to Last a Lifetime.

Do You Know That 75% of All People Have Pyorrhea?

Pyorrhea, the "white scourge" of the mouth, is hidden in the mouth of three out of every four people today. "Maybe," you say, "but I haven't got it." Don't be too sure! Pyorrhea is seldom detected until it reaches the third stage, and then a cure, while possible, is difficult and expensive. Better "an ounce of prevention than a pound of cure" with Pyorrhea, the first indication of which is a reddening of the gums not detected by the persons themselves and only evident upon close examination. There is never any pain in the first stages of Pyorrhea, and therein is its menace, for it gives one a feeling of false security. As the disease spreads, the gums recede and the teeth become loose in their sockets. Later Pus forms around the teeth and, being unconsciously swallowed, poisons the entire system.



Effects of Pyorrhea

What Is Cleanliness?

Cleanliness in Dr. Homer's Office doesn't mean that everything merely looks clean but that it is Antiseptically Clean to an almost unbelievable point. The offices, the person of the operators, the instruments—everything is as Clean as Modern Science can make it. Here Cleanliness is not merely a fetish or a hobby but a Habit.

Why Do We Advertise?

Because we believe that that is the best, surest and quickest way of letting the people know about him and his work. Time was when all advertising was looked upon with suspicion—when only the "fakers" advertised. It is only yesterday, as time goes, that banks began to advertise. Advertising is News, and if a merchant has good merchandise to offer or if a professional man has an Unusual Service that he can render it is his duty to let the public know about it. Fakers abound everywhere in business and professional life, but only the Man with a Message and who can render a Service that the people need will survive. Only timidity keeps hundreds of professional men from advertising in the newspapers today.

The Homer Method is the Method of Specialization

This is the day of specialists, and dentistry is no exception. It stands to reason that if a man specializes on any one thing and puts into that one thing all his energy and intelligence he can do it better than if he spread his energy over a dozen things. And so our office force consists of specialists in each branch of his chosen profession, each man concentrating upon the thing he has learned to do best. The result is an efficiency and permanence of workmanship not possible where a general practitioner is employed.

"Absolutely Painless," writes a patient.

Wasco, Cal.

"I want to thank you for the durable piece of Dental work. You are the first dentist to put bridges in my mouth that did not break in mastication and also the first to do dental work absolutely painless for me.

John W. Sward."

Many men can do good work if some one else plans it for them. Many times they excel the planner himself, in carrying out his own plans, while they may lack the initiative or imagination to tell in advance the best mode of procedure. Diagnosis, while new in dentistry, is just as necessary as in medicine or as the services of an architect in planning a building.

"You CURED My Pyorrhea."

"When formerly I had only a few decayed roots in my mouth which were badly affected with Pyorrhea, I now have a full set of solid teeth and my Pyorrhea is cured. The nerves were extracted, the teeth prepared and Pyorrhea cured without pain.

AN ARRAY OF BELLICOSE BOOKS.

Anatole France Sheds His "Pacificism" and Calls For the Downfall of Germany—Gilbert Chesterton Says England's Innocence From Time Immemorial Has Been Seduced by Sinful Prussians—Theodore Roosevelt Mightily Indignant and Noisy at the Way the Americans, Germans and Mexicans Run Their Governments—Owen Johnson, Arthur Gleason and George B. McClellan Have Been to the Wars and Tell Us About It—Some Good Books, Also: "The Real Story of the Whaler," and a Few Novels.

"The Paths of Glory."

The gods must giggle at the pranks they play, for here is the venerable, splendid Anatole France, who has long wielded a potent pen against the iniquities of militarism, opposed with written and spoken word the new conscription system in France introduced just previous to the great war, now as passionately in arms as his younger brothers. Not only did he offer to discount his three-score and ten years and shoulder a rifle in the trenches, but with personal letter and public article he has sustained and supported his fellow-countrymen. What he proclaimed as the maddest folly four years ago—preparedness—is now welcomed by him as wise precaution; and Anatole France is a man of such mental height that few pacifists (or others) come to his knees.

"The Paths of Glory" (John Lane Company,) edited by Frederic Chapman, is published in the uniform edition, contains also the original French text, but even so has hardly enough material to warrant the dignity of the binding and the inclusion with M. France's uniform works.

Says this erstwhile pacifist: "Friends, to the end that you may not have fought and suffered to no avail, that the blood of sons and the tears of mothers may not have flowed in vain, we must destroy from base to summit the military power of Germany and strip this barbarian nation of every possibility of pursuing its hope of a world-wide empire, the monstrous dream that at this hour is plunging Europe in fire and slaughter."

Besides "For Christmas, 1914," from which the above is taken, the other notable article is made up of a number of apothegms and conversations scattered through Herodotus with the view of presenting an analogy between the ancient Persians and Spartans and the Germans and French of today. He says of this arrangement that it has been something "to rediscover, in all ages and all lands, man, man unchanged and unchangeable, to note in the far vista of the centuries traits deemed peculiar to our own day, but which in very truth go back to that underlying basis of humanity which never alters."

"The Crimes of England."

Gilbert K. Chesterton, perhaps long ago inspired to act the clown by the brilliant success of his contemporary, Mr. Shaw, doubled himself into several paradoxical knots in "The Crimes of England" (John Lane Company) in an ill-tempered and ludicrous effort to show that from the days of Frederick the Great England has been a weak sister led into all manner of political seductions by the Germans. In an introduction addressed to a German professor preposterously designated as "Whirlwind," Mr. Chesterton with imperceptible humor alleges that he (Chesterton) has sold himself into Prussian service to recount England's crimes in return for "a cast-off suit of the Emperor's clothes (the uniform of an English midshipman,) a German hausfrau's recipe for poison gas, two penny cigars and twenty-five Iron Crosses."

Following the paradoxical kinks and twists of which he is normally a pastmaster, Mr. Chesterton tries to make it appear that the corrupting influence of the Germans goes back to the beginning of the Hanoverian Succession, that Germany lured England into the long wars against Napoleon and the French republic, that it was Germany who really mistreated and tortured the Irish, and that, though England has done a little sinning—very little—on her own part, yet she has never sinned against Germany, but has always been her protector and friend.

Mr. Chesterton's book doesn't have in it good common sense; however, it is easy reading and much of it is characteristically amusing, but he is never signally coherent, and in "The Crimes of England" is signally incoherent.

"Fear God and Take Your Own Part."

The dilemma of being agreed with by a disagreeable man has hooked us. Moreover an inveterate suspicion of this wily gentleman who cavorts in the spotlight with assiduous spectacularity, who has spoken with impassioned emphasis on every subject from birth control to animal coloration, and keeps himself in political training by throwing his "hat in the ring," shooting lions in Africa under the eye of the camera and "discovering" rivers in South America mapped three hundred years ago, takes cognizance of the "coincidence" between the appearance of Mr. Roosevelt's latest book, its intense political character, and the dawn of the 1916 national political campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt feels our government should have officially taken sides against Germany and not balked at war; he believes in preparedness and calls down vigorous anathema upon the supineness of his countrymen in tolerating pacifists of the Bryan-Jordan-Ford type; he excoriates President Wilson's policies, reviews with characteristic vehemence and force the wretchedness of the Mexican policy, negotiations, and unavenged atrocities perpetuated upon scores of innocent American citizens; and gives the administration's State Department a merciless lashing that it richly deserves.

As a book, "Fear God and Take Your Own Part" (George H. Doran Company) is direct, easily read, designed for the popular mind, and lacks wholly the cultured reserve that men of dignity are wont to maintain when protesting against policies of other men of dignity. But what Mr. Roosevelt lacks in grace, for which one who has made the most of popular publicity and newspaper sensationalism is not likely to care a whit, he has made up in vigor; the book is pitched in a high key but sustained.

He has evidently begun to "make good" his threat to "go after Wilson and tear him to pieces" which, as we remember it, was made in connection with the remark that the Republican party would "have" to take him (Roosevelt) for its candidate in 1916. Huh!

"Japanese Expansion and American Policies."

James Francis Abbott must not expect his "Japanese Expansion and American Policies" (The Macmillan Company) to be taken as so convincing as he perhaps hopes; not because he is sometime instructor in the Imperial Japanese Naval Academy, nor because he is not duly familiar with his material, but at the outset he arouses suspicions of his logical deduction.

His purpose is to show that Japan will never readily fight the United States; first, because she has a high regard and friendship for us; second, because little or nothing would be gained.

In trying to show why Japan is friendly with the United States, he stresses numerous courtesies which our government extended in years gone by, showing how we unselfishly acted in a way diametrically opposite to the way England acted (England cheated, deceived and robbed the Japanese for a long time on tariff duties,) and how grateful are the Japanese to us; but neglects to explain the inconsistency which has made them so forgetful of England's discourtesies and thievery as to link themselves up with a very strong and uncompromising offensive and defensive alliance with that erstwhile unmannerly and dishonest government. Their charity in forgiving England has been touching, indeed—so touching, that it would seem the United States has pursued with its past courtesies the wrong policy for winning the friendship of Japan. And though he approaches the subject, he does not explain why the Japanese should boil so indignantly at exclusion from California when noiselessly abiding by exclusion from certain dominions of her ally, England.

His second basis for believing war unlikely is more feasible, but a statistical hypothesis of the kind that vanish like shadows when any one of myriad incalculable economic and diplomatic factors unexpectedly protrudes. Briefly, he lays it down that Japan has no money to fight, the people are heavily burdened, our possessions in the Orient are too far from her base to be desirable for her, the Pacific Coast is much too far, and besides England would not tolerate Japanese invasion, as it would bring a possible enemy too close to Canada, and that if America will abide by Japan's slogan of "Asia for the Asiatics" peace in the Pacific will be assured.

Mr. Abbott's book has in it a great deal of material worthy of study, he presents new facts and new arrangements of facts, but he takes for granted many things which other people, with reasons defensible as his own, repudiate.

"The Real Story of the Whaler."

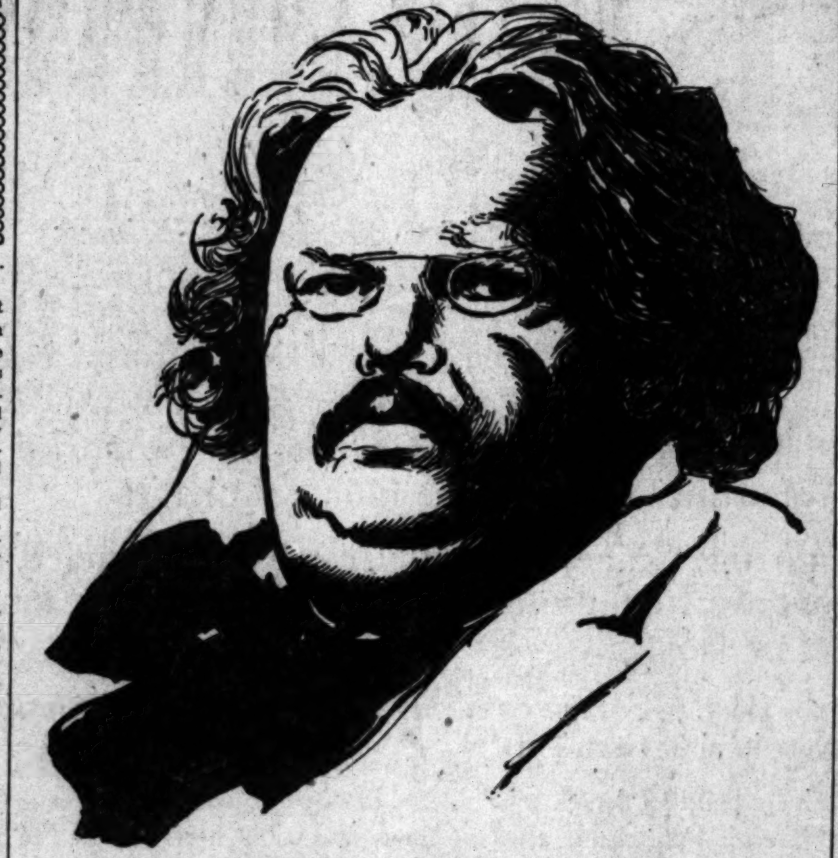
A few novels have been written around whalers, including "Moby Dick," but A Hyatt Verrill in "The Real Story of the Whaler" (D. Appleton & Co.) makes it clear by his own history, reciting the rise and fall of the industry, the daring heroism, tragedies and chances taken by whalers, their long voyages and penetrating explorations, the hard, bold, free life they led, that one of the most picturesque and romantic forms of American industry, one now sadly reduced in size and stripped of romance and danger by bomb guns and modern equipment, has been neglected both by novelists and historians.

Mr. Verrill's is a fascinating story; not only because he is comprehensive, and he is, going into technical details that are, however, neither tedious nor unintelligible, but because he has invaded an unhackneyed subject. Whaling, until the development of oil wells, was an important industry centered at New Bedford, at one time boasting a fleet of 736 vessels scurrying over the Seven Seas, plowing into the frozen zones of both poles and leaving their furrows in uncharted bays of tropical islands.

Few, if any, industries steadily followed entailed such dangers, of which reefs, storms, fires, icebergs and the general perils of the sea were considered negligible. A few men in a small boat engaged in practically a hand-to-hand combat with the mightiest of the world's creatures every time a whale was taken. "Imagine," says Mr. Verrill, "running a frail boat within arm's length of a ninety-foot wounded whale and actually shoving a lance into his flesh"—yet for almost a century every whale was killed in just that manner. The result was many tragedies, hundreds of the most desperate adventures, all kinds of strange mischances and escape—ranging from the case of one sailor who was carried down into the mouth of a whale and afterwards tossed back into his own boat to the stories of men drifting for thousands of miles in an open boat.

"Carfrae's Comedy."

Back away from "Carfrae's Comedy" (G. P. Putnam's Sons) if by the title there seems an invitation to read it and laugh. Whether ironically or in sheer spitefulness at the titles' usually labored lure, Gladys Parrish has called this a "comedy," we cannot say. It is anything but frivolous or amusing, being decidedly the reverse: a sympathetic study of a lovely woman's religious mysticism. Blanche Benwell's spiritual attributes are abnormal but not unnatural. Mothered by Catholicism, to which she became a convert late in life, divorced from her Protestant husband, loved by three men, one of whom is a playwright requiring her for the leading part of his comedy, her sensitive faith feels its way along the approval of the church in every move she makes; and in the end, missing her heart's desire when the one whom she does love is irrevocably gone, she cries out reconciled: "It was Fate. And Fate is God."



Britain's ponderous paradoxer.

Gilbert K. Chesterton in "The Crimes of England" (John Lane Company,) attempts to show that from the days of Frederick the Great Britannia has been lured into all manner of waywardness by the wicked Prussians.

Eames, the cynical adventurer, rather crowds Carfrae, the playwright, and Armathwaite, the wealthy patron with a pose of weariness, into the background; he even dares for a moment to meet her horrified astonishment with the statement that the refusal of the church to recognize her divorce is absurd; and once in the darkened recess of an English old bookshop forces her to listen to his plea of love, and is repulsed.

Carfrae and Armathwaite contrive a unique revenge by rewriting the play to include a shameful incident for which Eames was once responsible; and he, witnessing the play, is crushed; but Blanche, even knowing of the incident and its origin, holds him still worthy of the love which the death of her husband makes her free to disclose.

The men of "Carfrae's Comedy" are just men, such as are perhaps more commonly met in fiction than in life, and despite the author's effort to differentiate their characters, are much alike; but Blanche is a distinctive woman, well sustained, childlike in innocence without appearing unsophisticated—a woman in fact who carries into the world the religious feeling and reverence that seldom endures beyond the cloister.

"The Conquest."

"The Conquest" (J. B. Lippincott Company) is not a muckraking novel, but with a degree of force it takes and holds as a premise that law is a game refereed by judges in the interest of Justice—and that Justice is ever partial to the cleverest lawyers, such as John Howard.

Sidney L. Nyburg turns the spotlight on three brief periods in Howard's life, with good dramatic intensity each time; first showing him young, ambitious, brilliant, ruthless and playing the legal game according to the established ethics—though he ruins a struggling merchant to collect punitive damages for a client whose husband has been accidentally killed on the merchant's premises.

The second period shows Howard in financial deals, still honest, but desperately hard pressed for money, and how he maneuvers himself into an influential marriage for the prestige it will bring.

At last he is warned away from work by a doctor pronouncing his "angina pectoris" hopeless; but at this point the woman he loved in years gone by comes to him with the story of a wrong done the members of a labor union whose case is up for a final hearing before the State Supreme Court. For her, rather than for what justice he may believe is in the case, he takes it—yet is fully aware that the exertion will be almost certain to prove fatal.

"The Conquest" is written on identically the same plan that a three-act play is built; it is effective, direct, and tells its story completely without being sketchy or disjointed. Incidentally it is Mr. Nyburg' first novel, though he has previously tried out his equipment in a book of short stories, where he showed the same dramatic ability as appears in "The Conquest" but was not so felicitous in concentrating interest.

"Hearts Steadfast."

Edward Moffat's novel, "Hearts Steadfast" (Moffat, Yard & Co) relates only to one steadfast heart, that of Alva Leigh, who remained loyal to Donald Jaffray while he went to the western mines seeking his fortune. Hearing that he was shot and killed, she goes into the mining camp seeking his murderer and revenge, and finding one who she thinks is the murderer punctures his water bottles just as he is starting for the desert.

But novelists move in a mysterious way their wonders to perform! Lo, a jealous woman has poisoned the water, and shortly after reveals to Alva the true status of the dead Donald and of the man who is suspected of his murder. So the desire for violent revenge is replaced by contrite love; and out she bolts onto the desert to rescue the imperiled miner—arriving just in time to save him.

"The Spirit of France."

"The Spirit of France" (Little, Browne & Co.) by Owen Johnson is the conventional war book; having two chapters only that distinguish it from any one of a score. The first is an interview with Joffre, in which he declared "peace today would be a crime toward posterity. It would only be an armistice in which every nation would continue feverishly to prepare for war." We find also that Joffre impressed him much as did Grover Cleveland, and that Joffre said concerning the sinking of the Lusitania: "No French government would impose such an order, knowing that it would not be obeyed. We cannot give inhuman commands to human beings." The other distinctive chapter is an apology for France's position.

The book contains a few excellent photographic reproductions. Mr. Johnson passed over many battlefields and was often near the German lines. We learn for the twenty thousandth time that though a human being was not in sight a stone could have been thrown into the enemy's trenches; we find the same description of bombarded cities; the same account of the effect of shells and all that sort of thing. Nor is the work characterized by any unusual vividity, though as well—but no better—than anyone of a dozen or more other books it tells something of what warfare in France is like.

"In a French Military Hospital."

Dorothy Cator might just as well have an Iron Cross as not. An English woman though she is, her experiences as recorded in "In A French Military Hospital" (Longmans, Green & Co.) reflect nothing if not discredit on the hospital service of her country's ally. The French are dirty, careless, the physicians irritable and noisy, attendants often drunken, and the French people as a whole are liars. "Everyone lies," she says with sweeping generality, "apparently, from the highest to the lowest, with a wonderful glibness."

When she went into the hospital with another English friend, she says the French attendant put every obstacle possible in their way, "the most annoying being the constant hiding anywhere and everywhere of all nursing necessaries, in order to delay us and give us the maximum amount of trouble in finding them."

Miss Cator seems of splenetic temperament. A concluding chapter scolds the English nation as a whole, and especially the merchants, for being stupid enough to refuse to learn commercial efficiency from the Germans and so retain the world's trade for themselves. "In a French Military Hospital" should be widely popular in Germany.

"Young Hilda at the Wars."

Short stories, related as true incidents (which they may be) but for the most part told with the short story "technique," rather idealizing an Iowa girl who went into Belgium as a nurse with an English ambulance, make up "Young Hilda at the Wars" (Frederick A. Stokes Company) by Arthur Gleason.

The stories have a literary quality and—'tis an awkward phrase, but accurate—spiritual refinement that characterize Mr. Gleason's essays. "Young Hilda at the War" is not much unlike what one would expect Selma Laegerlof to write of the same subjects. Hilda's pertinacious ways of getting herself taken with the ambulance corps, her courage under fire, the capture of the spy, how she was decorated by the King of Belgium and of how the cockney chauffeur felt he had a personal interest in the ambulance, the war baby and her ministrations, are told gracefully and with strong, quiet feeling.

"The Heel of the War."

George B. McClellan, former Mayor of New York, son of Gen. McClellan, and professor of economic history at Princeton, is about as "good" an American as at least the average apologist for the allies. In "The Heel of the War" (G. W. Dillingham Company,) Mr. McClellan, though preserving an "objective attitude," is an apologist for the Germans and writes from personal observations.

Among other things he claims that Belgium is being resuscitated under German control, that refugees—the poorer ones—are returning to profitable labor, that the rich Belgians are living in luxury at resorts and watering places, declining to come home and join in the rebuilding of Belgium.

He says that Germany publishes the war reports from other countries, and that it is the only nation at war where books, newspapers and pamphlets, giving the "other side" may be freely purchased.

At length, Mr. McClellan lays stress on the dictatorship that has been developed in France and tells how the Constitution has been practically abrogated to meet more conveniently the exigencies of the hour. Italy is scored as decadent, mercenary and practically negligible in the war.

He claims that the "atrocities" and destruction in Belgium have been somewhat exaggerated inasmuch as he personally inspected Louvain, Antwerp and other places reported to have been "wiped out."

"The Heel of the War" is an antidote to the over-dose of "barbarous" stuff flung to America, though no doubt much of what Mr. McClellan has written is strongly prejudiced. Of course, what the English apologists have written isn't.

JOHN BOGARDUS
BY
George Agnew Chamberlain
Author of "Home," "Through Stained Glass," etc.
Four pictures by W. T. Benda. Price $1.35 net.

This is the kind of large fiction which exemplifies the saying that the novel is the grand opera of literature. John Bogardus, robbed of his youth while his father was giving him a scholar's education, breaks away from his university and goes wandering about the earth. In Europe, Africa, America, and on the seas between, he finds youth and romance and wisdom as well. His adventures, amorous and otherwise, are carried forward in swiftly moving narrative; and behind the rushing style, the astonishing fire of epigram, the groups of memorable characters, and the stream of the alluring plot, the reader senses gratefully the author's deep and rich background of seeing and thinking and feeling.

Inauguration Month

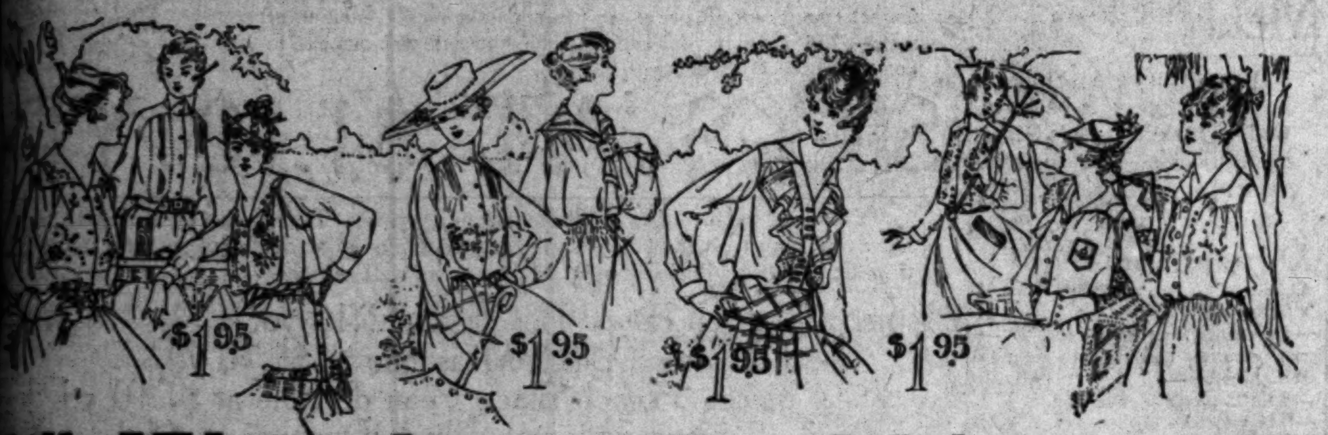
Bullock's Basement Store

Inauguration Month

And the Greatest Share of Bullock's Basement Store's Participation in Inauguration Month

—Will not find mention in these announcements—for Bullock's Basement Store does participate so generously and in every section—

—There are new suits at $15.00—and coats at $10.00—and waists at $1.00—new millinery, silks and cottons—new gloves—new shoes—new hosiery—new wear for women, children and for men. Bullock's Basement Store appreciates this opportunity to increase its list of friends—and will express that appreciation with "Values" and with "Service"—that should be of interest to every one to whom the lower prices may appeal.



Silk Waists, Inauguration Values, $1.95

—If it were possible to show the Waists themselves, in place of the cut and this written description—it is safe to say that the large number secured for this 9th Inauguration Month would not last until noon—

—New Waists in the new styles with all the Trimming touches which mark them Spring's very own—new Waists that have never before been shown—special values that should make this First Monday of the First Month of Bullock's New Year a day long to be remembered for Value-giving and Friend-winning—

—Waists of soft, washable taffeta, of crepe de chine, of striped silks and of habutai—in many different, distinctive models—embroidered fronts—wide hemstitched ruffles on either side of the box pleat—tucks and hemstitching are just a few of the trimming touches—Waists with convertible collars that can be worn high or low—in white, flesh, maize, Nile green and blue—and the sizes range from 34 to 46—$1.95.

(—Those who know the condition of the silk markets will buy for all summer and fall wear.)

Suits That Are Wonder Values, $5

—Not $5 Suits—make no mistake about that—instead these suits have been valued at many, many times $5—but because the size range was broken and the styles are not the newest Spring modes—Bullock's Basement Store's Coat and Suit Section obtained them at a very low figure and they are to be sold at the merest fraction of worth—$5.00.

They are not the newest Spring Styles—though the styles are good right now—the skirts are good width—and you could not buy the skirt alone for $5.00.

—Well tailored suits, lined with good quality satin, with all the finishing touches that mark good tailoring—the tailor-worked silk arrows, well-made button holes—good buttons—and well finished in every sense of the word.

—Suits of broadcloth, of fancy weave, of gabardine, and of serge—some of black taffeta—Just 40 suits all told in this lot—to be sold at $5.

—Then the buyer took 40 more suits from his regular stock and re-marked them $5—and many women will find them just as interesting—Monday should be a great day in Bullock's Basement Store Suit Section—these are great values at $5.

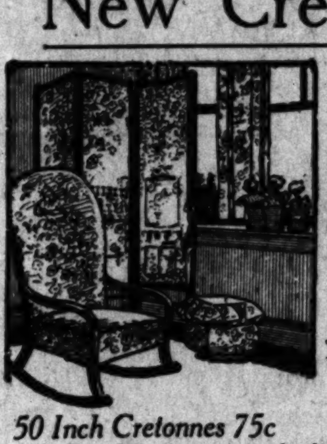
New Cretonnes at Bullock's!



—Actually thousands upon thousands of yards—the conventional patterns, the staple weaves, of course—but the newest of the new predominate this showing. It's an "Exhibition of Cretonnes" worthy of a manufacturer—an assemblage of the new in draperies unrivaled, we believe, in Southern California.

—Visit the 6th floor Monday—the first Monday of Bullock's 9th Inauguration Event. Let Bullock's drapery experts show you the wonderful possibilities of these artistic draperies.

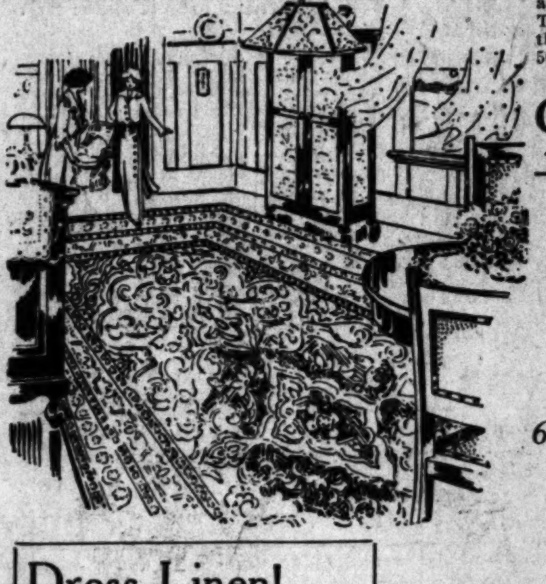
Tapestry Cretonnes 30c

—If you have box coverings to renew, pillows or overdrapes to make, remember these splendid tapestry cretonnes, Monday. volles in patterns that are new and different— yard.

Radium Cloth 45c Yard

—A range of charming pattern and color effects you might have considered it impossible to obtain in such inexpensive fabric. Pinks, and yellow predominate—45c yard.



9x12 Wilton Velvet Rugs $25

—And they are of the heavy grade! Unusual, of course—you the unusual of Bullock's, particularly during Inauguration Month—

—And because Bullock's secured great stocks before the dye situation drove rug prices skyward you now find values that would be welcome even under normal conditions.

—Heavy seamless Wilton Velvet Rugs in rich Oriental colorings of old rose, brown, tan and mingled effects. Deep, soft nap with extra heavy back—DURABLE rugs—9x12 ft., $25; 8¼x10½, $22.50.

6x9 Wilton Rugs $15

Genuine Wiltons, although that price might lead you to be skeptical. Underpriced because only one of a pattern—and only the one size. Quite a variety of very attractive patterns, however. 6x9 ft. $15.

9x12 ft. Axminsters, $17.95

1916 patterns—but secured before the alarming advance in rug prices—

—Forty of them in colorings and patterns to harmonize with Spring's new draperies. $17.95 for a 9x12-ft. Axminster quality.

National Baby Week

—Started yesterday—the same day as Bullock's Ninth Inauguration month—two events of great importance to Los Angeles women.

—In harmony with the churches and women's clubs of the United States, Bullock's has made extraordinary preparations for an educational campaign on the care and dressing of Baby.

—Mrs. Hubbard, a graduate nurse, is at Bullock's, ready and anxious to show mothers the best way to dress baby and to impart valuable information on baby's care.

—A Baby Room for the exclusive display of baby garments—a room whose appointments and decorations may offer some valuable suggestions for your nursery—is open on the 4th floor.

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING STREET, by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in everyday life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill-luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

THE BELMONT APTS. THE BELCAMP APTS.
Figueroa at Tenth st. 2407 West Ninth st.

Of all the apartment-houses in Los Angeles none give as much service and comfort, for the money paid, as do the BELMONT and the BELCAMP. "Not how little, but how much we can give our guests," coupled to our policy of operating for the comfort of the individual, rather than under general rules applying to all en masse, have made these houses

"the place like home."

If you are going to make an apartment your HOME for a month or indefinitely, you cannot find any place which will give you as much comfort, real home comfort, as the BELMONT or the BELCAMP. Our entertainment programme, in quality and quantity, is unexcelled. "Something doing all the time."

We are now quoting permanent rates, payable monthly, at both houses. If you are not perfectly satisfied where you are, call and see what we can offer you. Talk with our guests and learn how they feel.

DEPENDABLE USED CARS—

There are more new Studebaker cars sold in Los Angeles than any other car costing over $500. This means that Studebaker takes in more used cars than any other dealer in the city. The price of Studebaker new cars is 30 per cent. under that of any other car of equal quality. This means that Studebaker takes in used cars at lower prices than any other dealer in Los Angeles. Studebaker makes its profit on new cars, not on used cars. Each used car is put in dependable condition. It is overhauled, even rebuilt if necessary. The standing and reliability of Studebaker insures you honest sales and the lowest possible price on used cars.

We have bargains as follows:

5-passenger Cadillac overhauled, paint in good condition, upholstery in excellent condition. You can buy this Cadillac car for less than you would have to pay for any new car on the market.

Buick 5-passenger touring car, thoroughly overhauled, good for several seasons' use, price remarkably low—lower than a car of this kind can be purchased from any other dealer in the city, we believe.

Ford touring car driven slightly over 10,000 miles, price under $300.

Overland 5-passenger touring car, rebuilt and refinished, can be driven for several months and sold at the price we are asking for it. This means getting the use of an automobile free.

7-passenger touring car, standard make, in excellent condition in every way. Equipped with electric starter and lights. We believe our price on this car makes it the lowest priced electrically equipped car in Los Angeles.

5-passenger Chalmers touring car, equipped with starter and electric lights. This car rebuilt, refinished, new parts in wherever necessary, and we believe as good as new for all practical purposes.

These are only samples of over fifty automobiles which we have on hand at equally attractive prices. The rest include all makes, all styles of bodies. The prices range from $150 up. You are invited to inspect these cars and go over them thoroughly with a mechanic. If you do not care to pay cash, we will arrange suitable terms.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO GET JUST THE CAR YOU WANT AT THE PRICE YOU OUGHT TO PAY.

We still have a large assortment of used cars that have been thoroughly overhauled and refinished, also a lot that have just been taken in and have not as yet been worked on, which we will sacrifice before they go through our shop.
BUICKS: Cleaned out most of them this week. Still have a couple of dandies on hand.

CHALMERS 30—5 and 7-passengers; cars that are snaps. Some self-starters and electric lights; refinished and overhauled. Some as good as new and more service for the money than you can get in any new cheap car.
Prices only from $400 to $550.

MERCER ROADSTER—This car is king of the road, put in best possible mechanical shape by one of the best racing mechanics in the West at an expense of over $400. Snappy! Well, I guess, and the price is right.

STUTZ BEARCAT—A bear with all kinds of extras and self-starter, a chance you seldom get, and the lucky man with $650. Don't waste any time and bring your check book with you.

We have more like the above and others at prices that are one-half their real value. Such as

USED CAR DEPARTMENT,

A USED CAR TRADED IN AT ITS TRUE WORTH IS ONE-HALF SOLD WHEN THE DEALER PLACES IT ON HIS FLOOR FOR SALE.

WE DO NOT WANT SOMETHING FOR NOTHING, NEITHER DO WE CLAIM TO GIVE SOMETHING FOR NOTHING, BUT WE DO INSIST ON TAKING USED CARS IN AS CREDITS ON NEW CARS AT THEIR ACTUAL MARKET VALUES. WE ASK FOR NOTHING MORE, WE ACCEPT NOTHING LESS, AND THAT IS THE REASON BEHIND OUR TREMENDOUS SALE OF NEW AND USED CARS.

1916 MODELS OF OVERLANDS, AT THEIR PRESENT PRICES, REPRESENT THE GREATEST NEW CAR VALUES PROCURABLE, AND SUCH CARS AS WE TAKE IN ON OVERLANDS, TAKEN IN AS THEY ARE, AT THEIR TRUE WORTH, ARE TREATED BY US AS CASH. EVERY AUTOMOBILE NEW, OR IN A USED CONDITION, IS WORTH A CERTAIN AMOUNT OF MONEY, AND THAT WORTH IS ESTABLISHED BY THE MARKET. IN ORDER TO DISPOSE OF A CERTAIN PERCENTAGE OF OUR TREMENDOUS PRODUCT, WE ARE FORCED TO TRADE, THEREFORE, IT BEHOOVES US TO KNOW THE WORTH OF SECOND-HAND CARS.

WE DO KNOW THEIR WORTH, WE STUDY THE USED-CAR MARKET WHEREVER USED CARS ARE SOLD, AND ARE ALWAYS IN POSITION TO ACCURATELY APPRAISE A SECOND-HAND MOTOR CAR, REGARDLESS OF ITS MAKE OR MODEL. WE OPERATE TEN STORES ON THE PACIFIC COAST, AND IN EVERY CITY WHEREIN THERE IS A J. W. LEAVITT & COMPANY'S BRANCH, IT IS AT THAT STORE MORE FIRST-CLASS, DEPENDABLE USED CARS ARE SOLD THAN AT ANY OTHER AUTOMOBILE STORE THEREABOUTS.

FOR THE PAST YEAR IN THIS CITY WE HAVE SOLD A GREATER NUMBER OF SATISFACTORY USED CARS THAN ANY OTHER TWO DEALERS IN LOS ANGELES. THE REASON IS OBVIOUS TO THOSE THAT KNOW USED CAR VALUES—WE GIVE 100 PER CENT. AUTOMOBILE VALUE FOR EVERY DOLLAR ASKED.

GUATEMALA CONSUL IS NOT FOR DIAZ.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Ramon Bengoeshea, Jr., acting Consul of Guatemala in New York, received a message from his government today denying any active interest or part in the revolutionary movement in Mexico headed by Gen. Felix Diaz.

Reports received here intimated that President Cabrera of Guatemala was giving aid to the Diaz movement.

MOSLEMS SCENT OMEN IN VICTORY

Rejoice Over Defeat of British on Banks of Tigris.

Declare Sacred Ancient City is Saved to Faithful.

England's Prestige in East Lost, is Claimed.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 29.—The Constantinople press refers to the reverse of the British at Ctesiphon, near Bagdad, as an omen that British rule in the East is endangered. No military success of the central power group in the east or west, it is argued, could have produced the effect upon the eastern mind that was produced by the Ottoman victory on the banks of the Tigris. The British, it is believed, reckoned that the capture of Bagdad would be of no small importance in supporting the prestige of their flag in the east; and the failure to reach the city, which is sacred to all Moslems, has, of course, had the contrary effect.

Ctesiphon, which is several hundred miles up the Tigris from the Persian Gulf where the British expedition began operations more than a year ago, is famous for the number of decisive battles that have been fought there and the Turk, not wholly immune from superstition, thus regards the recent British defeat as all the more significant. According to Ottoman sources of information the British losses in this battle were seventeen colonels, 208 other officers, and 5000 men killed, and at least as large a number wounded. Gen. Townsend, the British commander, himself, is said to have been severely wounded. Much war material and several river craft and transport barges were also captured by the Turks.

Four days ago, when the news of the battle of Ctesiphon reached Constantinople, the city was decorated with flags and bunting as never before. For once the Turk emerged fully from his lethargic state and celebrated on an elaborate scale.

It had been Mohammed's intention, six centuries ago, to take the "White Palace" of Ctesiphon, but he did not live long enough to lead his Arab hordes against this Persian stronghold. The undertaking was left to the second caliph, Omar, whose commander-in-chief, Saud, defeated the Persians under Rustem at Seleucia, on the right bank of the Tigris River, so decisively that a few months later Emperor Jezdegerds, last of the Sassanide kings of Persia, also lost Ctesiphon, the twin city across the raging and wide stream. Thus fell "Madein," as the Arabs fitly called Seleucia and Ctesiphon—the "Twin City." So far Madein had been distinctly Persian in every aspect. The Moslem faith now replaced the mixture of fire worship and Zoroastrism.

Seleucia and Ctesiphon, under the Persians, had been the jewels of the Tigris Valley, materially and intellectually. The fertile soil of the district yielded crops in profusion, and in the city capet-weavers, gold and silver smiths and armorers, were thriving in prosperity. Though Persian in religion, the people were under the influence of the later schools of Greek philosophy and one of the last groups in which this high dvelopment of thought was forcibly supplanted by the cast-iron dogma of early Semetic creed.

Saud, as he stood on the place where a few hours before had been the throne of the Sassanides, turned his face in the direction of Mecca and cited a verse from the Koran which for many centuries was not without meaning to Seleucia and Ctesiphon:

"How many gardens have they left,
 And springs and crops;
How many a place of pleasure
 Serving their delight.
I (God) gave them to another people,
 And neither Earth nor Heaven
  weeps."

The booty which the Moslem conquerors of the twin cities took was one of the greatest of all antiquity. About 60,000 Arab warriors took part in the assault upon Ctesiphon. The share of each in currency, precious metals and jewels, was worth 12,000 silver drachmas, after a fifth of the loot had been set aside for the caliph and his treasury, and another fifth for the widows and orphans of the soldiers who had fallen in the campaign.

Before the Arabs left Ctesiphon they set the "White Palace" afire, after removing every object of value, among them the largest Persian silk carpet on record. The carpet was about 300 yards long, 100 yards wide, made entirely by hand, and it pictured a garden.

The birds woven into the carpet had been fashioned of precious stones, as were also the flowers. Saud decided to present the carpet to the caliph. But Omar was an ascetic of the most extreme type. When he saw the splendid example of the silk-knitters' art, he merely said:

"What shall I do with this handiwork of these devil worshipers? Divide it among the leaders of the troops!"

The splendid carpet was hacked to pieces.

During the recent battle between the Ottoman troops and the British the remains of the "White Palace," splendid even in their ruined state, as a number of large photographs in the Stamboul Museum show, were further devastated by the Turkish and British artillery fire. The extent of the damage is still unknown, but it brings to mind a verse from an epic poem which the Persian poet Firdusi composed on the fall of Ctesiphon:

"In the imperial palace at the gate,
The spider, chamberlain by fate,
 Draws shut the curtain,
While in Efrasiab's royal halls
Sounds weird war music of the owls."

Seleucia and Ctesiphon were built to take the place of Babylon, which latter city fell rapidly into decay after the death of Alexander the Great. Seleucia itself was founded by Seleukus, son of Alexander's favorite general, Antiochus. The building material was furnished by the ruins of the wonder city, Babylon. For many years the left bank of the Tigris, opposite Seleucia, was the site of splendid gardens and fertile fields. Meanwhile the Partian dynasty of the Sassanides had again made Persia into a powerful state. Seleucia lay on and commanded the main road from Syria to Persia and India, and the Sassanides therefore decided to counteract the existence of its very important strategic base by taking the left bank of the Tigris and founding there the city and fortress of Ctesiphon.

The new city grew rapidly. It is said that when Saud took it it had over 1,000,000 inhabitants, while the population of the territory north, east and south of it numbered no less than 3,500,000. Plenty of water from the Tigris and a most fertile soil, two essentials which, in the hot climate of Central Southwest Asia produced great wealth, made this aggregation possible. German capital and engineering are employed today to drive the encroaching desert back and reestablish once more the prosperity the district enjoyed before Saud came with his fanatic swarms of Arabs.

The present population of the Basra region, of which Ctesiphon is the center, is no more than 1,500,000, Bagdad included. It is said to have once been 10,000,000, but the decrease has in no way affected the strategic importance of the district. Though the political effect of the taking of Bagdad by the British would have been far-reaching in results detrimental to the Turks, capture of the city would have effectively blocked the road to Persia and India.

Bagdad is the one city which is known to every Moslem throughout the world; Mecca, in fact, occupies no greater place in Islamitic thought and literature. Had the British been able to announce that Bagdad was theirs they would have had a weighty argument to show that the Caliph of the Bosporus was no longer the head of Islam.

DIAZ IS REPORTED AT GUATEMALA CITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—F. R. Villancencio, Carranza consul here, announced tonight that he had received an official cablegram from Guatemala City, Guatemala, saying that Felix Diaz with 300 men was in that city. Hijupino Aguilar was acting as chief for Diaz, according to the consul's information.

MORE ACTIVITIES OF DIAZ ARE DISCLOSED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) March 4.—Activities of the Felix Diaz junta here have been disclosed by United States officers who since the junta was formed last December have been seeking to forestall the launching of a new revolution against Mexico from United States territory.

Several plans were considered by the junta, it is said, in addition to the one which has been carried out and by which Felix Diaz landed in Vera Cruz to recruit an army in Southern Mexico of the uprising against Carranza. It was planned to initiate expeditions in the lower Rio Grande Valley and in Sonora late in the summer. Overtures to certain Villa generals, notably Felipe Angeles, so far as known, were without results.

Federal officers have obtained the names of a score or more Mexicans, who attended the meetings of the junta.

LA FOLLETTE AGAIN SEEKS PRESIDENCY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MADISON (Wis.) March 4.—Petitions for placing the name of Senator Robert M. LaFollette on the official ballot as a candidate for the Republican nomination for President and for placing the names of twenty-six LaFollette candidates for delegates to the Republican National Convention were filed in the office of the Secretary of State today.

FOR FORECLOSURE ON ROCK ISLAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—Immediate foreclosure on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway was demanded today by Louis C. Krauthoff in the hearings of the receiver's petition for instruction regarding certain funds now going on before Judge George A. Carpenter in the United States District Court. Mr. Krauthoff is attorney for the Central Trust Company of New York, trustee of $100,000,000 worth of first and refunding mortgage bonds.

Attorneys for the stockholders and the holders of $20,000,000 debenture bonds are urging the court to instruct receiver Jacob M. Dickinson to pay the $500,000 interest on these bonds, as the only means of saving the road.

JAP LAWYER IS DEAD.

First to Have Been Admitted to American Bar Passes Away.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—Word was received here of the death today in Los Angeles, Cal., of Mr. Masuji Miyakawa, the first Japanese lawyer ever admitted to the American bar, who was attorney for Japanese in the first case tried under the Japanese-American extradition treaty. He recently returned to California after a trip to Honolulu, where he had been injured in an automobile accident. The vehicle in which Mr. Miyakawa was riding went over a precipice. It was said that the tires of the auto burst causing the accident.

Mr. Miyakawa was a naturalized American. He was born in Japan and was graduated from Yale. Afterward he took prominent part in affairs regarding the Japanese living in this country.

Prominent Japanese of Los Angeles, last night, knew nothing of the presence in this city of Mr. Miyakawa.

Von Hinderburg or Copper?

[World's Work:] There is a story of one German attempt of smuggling which is amusing. It has been reported on good authority that Germany at one time ordered in Sweden several hundred thousand copper busts of Von Hindenburg for early delivery. The Englishmen did not like this. They did not object to Germany honoring the great hero by placing a statuette of him in every home in the Fatherland if she chose, but they did insist that if the statuettes were to come from Sweden they would have to be of wood, papier-mache or some other innocuous substance—but not, not of copper.

The Quality of Mercy.

[Philadelphia Ledger:] The great explorer was captured by the savage savages.

"We will spare your life if you will marry my daughter," stated the chief in a ukase or ultimatum or irade or whatever you call it in those parts of the world.

The great explorer quailed, as well he might, for the princess had an ingrowing face.

"Still," he murmured philosophically, "it might have been worse. They might have insisted on a fashionable wedding."

And so they lived happy ever after.

Big Job.

TO MAKE WAR IMPOSSIBLE.

Swedish Minister Working on Permanent Peace Plans.

Believes Genuine International Court will be Adopted.

Sees no Signs for Early Ending of Present Strife.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERNE (Switzerland) Jan. 2.—Baron Adelsward, former Minister of Finance of Sweden and now a member of the Swedish Rigsdag, is one of the outstanding figures of the peace movement in Europe—not the peace movement which seeks to intervene or stop the present war, for the belligerent governments have made it plain they will have nothing to do with that and will settle peace in their own way—but that other movement which seeks to pave the way for a readjustment of the world's affairs, economic, social and international, so that when peace at last comes there will be some assurance against a recurrence of such a world disaster as is now going on.

Baron Adelsward is recognized as a practical man and not an idealist, and that is what has made him the practical leader of the present movement. He has recently toured the countries at war, conferring on this plan of permanent world peace with such men as Premier Asquith in England, and President Poincaire in France, coming here later where his brother is Swedish Minister to Switzerland.

Baron Adelsward gave the Associated Press a vivid picture of conditions in the belligerent countries he has just visited, and also laid down the lines on which he is working, particularly as to making the Hague Court of Arbitration a real force in the world's affairs instead of a mere organization on paper.

"I regret to say that the outlook appears darker during recent months than at any time since the war began," said Baron Adelsward. "This was the result of my observations throughout the tour of principal countries participating in the war. And for that reason, much as I would like to see peace, I do not believe there is the slightest chance of peace at the present time or in the near future.

"In England," continued Baron Adelsward, "I found among officials and the people at large that they look upon the war as just beginning—yes, that is their expression—'the war has just begun.' They recognize now that they were not ready for war at the outset, and lacked men and munitions. But now it has taken firm hold of the whole people that the war is a tremendously serious question, and they feel they are only now beginning an effort adequate to the huge task before them. So that it is useless to talk peace to them when they are firmly convinced they are just beginning the war.

"In France there is indignation at the mere mention of peace, and the whole country is united in the policy of carrying on the war with the utmost energy.

GERMANS RECEPTIVE.

"But in Germany there is undoubtedly a very strong public sentiment for ending the war. I have made four trips through Germany since the war began, and have observed the gradual growth of feeling that the war should end. This was most marked during my last visit, and extended to all classes, men and women exclaiming, 'My God, who would have thought this terrible war would last so long.' The statement of the German Chancellor, that any effort of Germany for peace is opposed by Germany's enemies appears to be designed to calm the public feeling in Germany in showing that the government is ready for peace, but cannot realize it through the opposition of the allies.

"There is, too, a significant and rather ominous attitude among the German people, of being ready to criticise men in high places—even the highest. Such a thing would not have been thought of a short time ago, but now it is general.

"For instance, men who direct large forces of employees were recently discussing the serious conditions arising from the war.

"'The responsible ones will be punished,' said one.

"'But the ——— is responsible, and will he, too, be punished?'

"'Yes, I mean him, too; he is the one,' was the reply.

"And this is very typical of the way the ordinary people are talking, and it is a condition which might have the gravest consequences.

"And yet," added Baron Adelsward, "it is a mistake to think that Germany is exhausted and will be forced to peace through sheer exhaustion. She has many resources still, and can fight for a long time."

Baron Adelsward visited Aldershot, the great military rendezvous of England, also the grand fleet in one of the ports of Scotland, and later conferred with Premier Asquith and other British leaders.

"The British fleet in reality has three points of concentration," said he, "and we visited the main point where most of the great battleships are gathered. It is a most impressive sight, not only of strength, but of alert readiness."

Turning to the question of permanent world peace, in which he is so much interested, Baron Adelsward said:

LOOKS AHEAD.

"It should be understood we have no concern in seeking to end the present war. That, of course, is highly desirable, but it has nothing to do with our movement, and the belligerent governments are firmly determined to deal with the question of peace in their own way. But our aim of an enduring peace is the same whether the war lasts one year or ten years—we must prepare the way, study the practical methods and mold public opinion toward preventing another world disaster such as the present.

"Certainly every civilized nation has an interest in such a work. We have met some discouragement and opposition from some of the allied governments, on the theory that we were urging a premature peace. But that is not the case, and in talks I have had with some of their leading officials I have shown them that our movement is in truth seeking the same end that the allied forces fighting in the trenches are seeking—an honorable peace which will be lasting and will be a guarantee of future security to them and to the whole world."

"But what practical step can be taken to insure world peace?" Baron Adelsward was asked.

"The most practical means, it seems to me," said he, "is to make a reality of the Permanent Court of Arbitration of The Hague, giving it an actual existence and a strong controlling force in the regulation of international affairs, instead of having it as a mere platonic agreement to which the nations have assented in principle. The Hague organization is a splendid nucleus, but it needs to be developed from an ideal and a principle, to a reality. It is a great deal that all civilized governments have already agreed to it in principle. But it remains to give this principle the definiteness of a practical, working, judicial tribunal—a real world court, actually in session, with international jurists representing the various countries actually in attendance, considering and determining international litigation with the same systematic regularity and finality that state courts consider their cases, and with branches taking an active part in conciliating and mediating national disputes, so that nations will come to look to this international body as the one competent and prepared to act with authority and finality. There is nothing Utopian about this; the principle, it should be remembered, is already recognized and agreed to by all nations, and the machinery is at hand, so that only the practical details of organization remain.

"The organization and equipment of The Hague has, therefore, appeared to me to be entitled to first place in the basis for a lasting world peace. There are many other propositions—reduction of armaments, etc. These are of the utmost value and importance, and yet the reduction of armament and other peace measures will follow naturally, once the great essential—a world court at The Hague is realized.

MANY PROPOSITIONS.

"Various propositions are being carefully studied, in addition to that concerning The Hague, notably the question of plebiscite among people to be annexed before any annexation of their territory is effected; the reduction of armaments; the open door for commerce, as the closing of commercial doors often leads to international discord; liberty of the seas; civil and religious liberty, and the right of people to use their own language; control of parliaments over foreign policies; prohibition of secret treaties. These and other plans will all contribute to lasting world peace, yet with The Hague tribunal firmly and practically established as a world court those reforms will follow naturally.

"As to 'freedom of the seas,' I fear that part of the programme will have to be abandoned, as it is a war measure and has no logical place in a plan for international peace. It appears to have been proposed largely as an appeal for German support, but it is obviously out of place. I discussed the matter with Prof. Lowes Dickinson of Cambridge University, one of the most interested in the world peace movement, and he felt the 'liberty-of-the seas' plan had no proper place in our work toward lasting peace."

Referring to the neutral attitude of Sweden, Baron Adelsward said:

"The sentiment of the Swedish people is one of absolute neutrality. Naturally there are groups and this has created the impression that Sweden is favorable to the central powers and opposed to the allies. But that is not the case, taking Sweden as a whole and without regard to groups or factions. So that when Mr. Asquith asked me as to the attitude of Sweden—not as to individuals or groups, but Sweden as a whole—I was able to answer him that Sweden was absolutely neutral, and that the impression of her favoring the central powers was unjustified by the facts."

A New America Discovered.

[Odd Lot Review:] Columbus discovered America in 1492. America is discovering herself something like 500 years later. This country is learning for the first time how completely endowed with resources is the United States. In the beginning, this country was dependent on supplies from abroad. We have successively attained economic and political independence. Last of all has come the attainment of our financial independence. World leadership in all constructive enterprise now rests with the United States. Leadership entails responsibility. In the next stage of progress Americans must not only work hard but think on broader lines than ever before.

Truth About Sermons.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst's sermons are preached without notes. They seem extemporary, though, of course, they are always carefully prepared, then memorized.

Dr. Parkhurst, at a luncheon in Brooklyn, advised a young Presbyterian divine to stop reading his sermons.

"But, doctor," said the young man, "I've got a bad memory. Without my manuscript I'd forget what I have to say."

"Hm," said Dr. Parkhurst, "if you can't remember your own sermons, you musn't blame your congregation for forgetting them."

KILLS ONE, WOUNDS FOUR.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—A man believed to be insane stood today in the doorway of a house in the southern section of the city with a repeating rifle in his hands and before he was overpowered he shot and killed one man and wounded two men and two women. The maniac, Anthonio Pronogo, 29 years old, emerged from the house and taking his stand on the doorstep, raised his rifle and shot at every one who came within range.

NORWAY IS RICHER THAN A YEAR AGO.

Surveys of Economic Conditions Indicate that More Money is in Circulation than Usual, Although There is no Little Suffering Among the Poorer People—Price of Coal, Grain and Flour Doubled.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

CHRISTIANIA (Norway) Jan. 15.—Although there is scarcely any industry, trade or business in Norway that has escaped the influence of the war, the year-end surveys of economic conditions have generally shown the country as a whole to be richer than it was a year ago, at least from the viewpoint of the capitalist.

The closing of the usual markets on which Norway has been dependent for such necessities as coal and grain—doubling the price of flour and fuel, during the coldest winter the peninsula has experienced in seventy years—has caused no little suffering among the poorer people, but outside this class it appears that more money is in circulation than usual.

It has been difficult for the farmers to get sufficient quantities of fodder and fertilizer, but, on the other hand, prices on farm products have been higher than they ever were before, and the net result has been a profitable year for the farmers.

GENERAL TRADE.

General trade has had many obstacles in its way, but, notwithstanding this, new industrial enterprises are constantly being founded, with plenty of capital at their command. An incidental feature of this new capitalization is the fact that there has been much speculation on the part of young people. Even office boys and school children have been speculating in stock, eager to get rich quick. A common practice has been for people without means to subscribe to stock in the new companies and then, after a few days or weeks, when the stock is rising, even before any capital has been paid in, to sell at a profit. This has been especially true in the case of steamship companies, which are growing up everywhere like mushrooms. In order to prevent such unsound speculation the government is forming a measure that will require the stockholder to pay a certain amount in cash before he can subscribe to stock, and that will forbid any transaction in stocks on which nothing has been paid down.

SHIPPING TRADE.

The Norwegian shipping trade has flourished as never before. The high freight rates, which show no signs of reduction, and the scarcity of foreign tonnage, has made the Norwegian ship owner a rich man. And this notwithstanding that the loss to shipping as a direct result of the war has been heavy. In all fifty-four Norwegian steamers and twenty-eight sailing vessels, altogether representing $13,000,000, have been blown up, with the loss of seventy-one sailors. New ships have been added, however, at a faster rate than ever before, and still the yards are unable to keep up with the demand.

A number of ships have been ordered at American yards, and some of them sold several times over before ready to be launched.

Two months ago five motor tank ships for the oil trade were ordered by a newly-formed Norwegian company at American ship yards, to be delivered next fall. Of these four are already sold to other companies (three to France and one to a Norwegian company) at a clear profit of $1,250,000. The stockholders had only paid a small part on their stock, and now the company is dissolved, after a couple of months, without conducting any real business, and having cleared a little more than 100 per cent. of its fixed capital.

LUMBER TRADE.

The lumber trade has also had a very good period. The demand for round timber and props has been so great that, notwithstanding the high freight rates, the high prices have given a great profit.

The fishing industry has had a good catch with prices doubled. Such a product as raw cod liver oil sold at $5 a barrel a year ago. It is now sold at more than $50 a barrel.

Fishing in the North Sea has practically been abandoned because of the war and is in that way protected, a protection that has not been possible before, although some of the interested nations have in vain tried to come to an agreement in that way. Fishing experts declare that fishing in the North Sea when the war is over will be extremely profitable.

The canning industry has had many difficulties to fight against. The increased demand from the belligerents has caused an advance in the price of canned goods, but aside from that prices on raw material, as olive oil, tomatoes, fish and meat, have gone up. The canning plants are dependent on England for their coal and tin, and shortage on these products has caused much trouble.

TIN PRICES DOUBLE.

The price on tin is doubled and it is difficult to get, as the British government has taken the tin factories for the munition production and England also is controlling the tin import to Norway from the United States, so it seems that some of the Norwegian canning plants will have to close down.

From the United States comes the report that some canning plants in Maine have found it profitable to work along the same lines as the Norwegians and produce fishballs and canned herring at prices lower than those imported from Norway. There is no reason known here why American canning plants should not be able to compete in this line—especially as they are now employing Norwegian experts from the best factories here.

VIENNA SOLVES COST OF LIVING.

PRICES NOT AS FORMIDABLE AS THEY MIGHT BE.

Sales People and Buyers Declare that on the Whole the Average Family is Able to Obtain About the Same Thing as Before the War at Fifteen Per Cent. Increase.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

VIENNA, Jan. 15.—Vienna's high cost of living problem is not as formidable as it appears, if the consumer is willing to buy at any one of the many markets maintained by the municipality. For the purpose of obtaining information first hand on this subject, the Associated Press correspondent went "shopping" in one of the larger city markets, but did not buy, much to the disappointment of many stall keepers of whom the price of their wares was asked. Sales people and buyers alike said that the price of food had gone up since the war, but that on the whole the average family was able to procure the same meal at a cost not more than 15 per cent. higher than before the war.

	Cents.
Austrian beef, shoulder, per pound	28@35
Austrian beef, rump, per pound	35@43
Imported beef, shoulder, per pound	29@37
Imported beef, rump, per pound	36@47
Imported pork, cutlets, per pound	34@36
Imported pork, fresh ham, per pound	40@45
Imported pork, fresh bacon, per pound	47@52
Imported pork, smoked bacon, per pound	48@52
Imported pork, lard, per pound	46@58
Imported beef, suet, per pound	27@32
Imported veal, cutlets, per pound	37@42
Imported veal, steaks, per pound	40@43
Imported mutton, cutlets, per pound	23@33
Imported mutton, leg, per pound	26@37

Poultry was very cheap on Saturday. Chickens were: Roasts, per pound, 26c-32c; broilers, 32c-45c; boilers, 16c-25c. Istirian pullets sold for $1.43-$2.28 apiece; Hungarian pullets, $1.30-$2; fat geese, 74c-78; lean geese, 54c-60c; ducks, 68c-79c; pigeons, 19c-22c; turkeys sold at the low figure of from 20c to 33c a pound. Eggs were not quite 3 cents apiece and stored eggs sold for about half that. First-class table butter was 58 cents a pound, three other grades sold at 53, 46 and 41 cents a pound.

Cabbages were from 1 to 3¼ cents a pound. Other vegetables were in proportion to these.

It is of interest to note that December 11, there were offered on the Vienna meat cattle market, 4657 beeves. Of these, 400 were bought by army conserves factories, and for 604 there was no demand. Offered were 1596 meat and 6330 fat porkers; unsold remained forty-five of the former, and 3150 of the latter. During the week prices declined as follows: Beeves, per hundred pounds, average $1.12; cows, $2.17; calves, $1.72; pigs and sheep also showed slight declines.

These data and the fact that the Austrian government is considering the advisability of again permitting the baking of wheat bread, indicate that the food supply of Austria is far from exhausted.

Same in Los Angeles.

[Kansas City Journal:] If you are on the street in business hours you are liable to be run down by a motor car on account of the congestion of traffic. If you are out very late at night you risk the same fate because reckless drivers assume that the streets are practically deserted and there is no reason why they may not go at break-neck speed.

BRITAIN ON DEFENSIVE IN ALIMONY COURTS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Feb. 15.—A statement made by a discharged soldier, summoned to court for failure to pay alimony, that a great many men discharged from the army for disability receive no pensions, has put the War Office on the defensive. The War Office has definitely promised pensions for disability due to disease resulting from war service. But it now appears from an official statement that the men have to prove that their disability is directly due to war service. If it is shown that they had the seeds of some disabling disease in their system at the time of their enlistment, which developed straightway on the ordinary exposures of soldiering, they get no pensions. But their cases are first gone into carefully by medical experts.

FAMILY OF BEBEL TO BECOME EXTINCT.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The family of August Bebel, the famous Socialist leader who died in 1913, is doomed to extinction through the death of his only grandson, which has just occurred at Jena. This young man, who was the son of Bebel's daughter, an only child, was born at Zurich, and was greatly beloved by Bebel. Soon after the outbreak of the war he had to go into the army through the mobilization of the Swiss troops. He was not able to stand the hardships of the service, however, and soon developed symptoms of consumption; but instead of going to a health resort, as advised by his physicians, he went last October to Jena to begin his studies at the university. He left no sister and his mother is a widow.

A MURDEROUS REPRISAL.

A Revengeful British Soldier Shot Twenty-four Germans.

[New York World:] In reprisal for the Germans' shooting of reversed bullets—which inflict frightful wounds—a British officer, American by birth and a Princeton man, stood up twenty-four German prisoners in a row and with his own hand shot them dead, one after another.

George Harvey, writing from London on "England To-Day" in the North American Review, repeats the story as the officer told it while in London on six months' sick leave.

"You know, sir, I love my Tommies," said the officer; "by God, I love 'em, and that's all there is of it; and it about breaks my heart to have to leave 'em to take in a new battery. Well, anyhow, it was a beastly little scrimmage at best, but what do you suppose those scoundrels did? Why, God damn 'em, they—but say, did you ever see a body mangled by reversed bullets? No? Well, don't; that's all I have to say.

"Seven of my boys went in a heap, and we were in a bad way when some fresh lads came up and gave 'em the steel. When it was over we had twenty-four white feathers on our hands quite ready to slip over to nice, comfortable quarters around here and receive bouquets and chewing gum from Lord Haldane's friends. And, mind you, they were my prisoners.

"We found the reversed bullets in their guns all right, remember that. Well, I took one glance at that sickening mass at my feet and looked into the eyes of my boys, and they looked into mine. I didn't want to get them into trouble, and my chances were better than theirs, anyway.

"All I had them do was to stand those twenty-four up in a row, and then, one after another and without any particular hurry, I dropped every man in his tracks dead as a door nail. Oh, it's war, all right! I must say," he added, reflectively, "they took it very well."

"But say, there is one thing you may as well know, and I swear to you I speak for every fellow from America in the bunch," declared the officer.

"There are just two men in the world I should have liked to have in line with those twenty-four. One is the Kaiser and—well, never mind who the other is."

The British War Office forbids such reprisals in "nice, civilized warfare," and the officer was reprimanded. He was reprimanded for another exploit of which he tells.

"You can imagine how strict they (the orders) were when I tell you that for four successive days the Germans banged away at our ambulances with particular relish, and we stood there and let them gather up their wounded and never pulled a trigger. But the time came when my pal, as fine a young Englishman as God ever made, got his along with a dozen or more others, but was still able to wave that he was only wounded. Two of my boys were just lifting him into the ambulance when all three men were shot to pieces.

"Then I bided my time, which was not long in coming. A score or so of Germans lay writhing in a heap after a futile assault, and I got the range for my eighteen-pounder and waited.

"Sure enough, in twenty minutes or so out came an ambulance with I guess a dozen soldiers as nonchalantly as you please and feeling safe as a clock, as they had every reason to feel. They got their wounded aboard and were just starting back when I blew the whole damned lot to hell and gone. Of course, I got it in the neck at headquarters the next morning, but they let our ambulances alone after that."

LAWYERS WALLOP COLLEGE ALUMNI.

The college of law baseball team walloped Ew Knox's College alumni at Exposition Park yesterday afternoon by the score of 5 to 1. Tracy, who was on the mound for the barristers, pitched a remarkable game, allowing only three scattered hits. The only alumni run came in the first inning, when McKellar rounded the bags.

The law school team played a splendid fielding game. Marxen caught a high foul fifty feet back of the plate after running around the wire batting cage and some bleechers. Curry leaped over a bench and caught another high foul one-handed. The last law school play of the day was a double play, Holloway to Miller to Curry.

Thomas was the only man who jumped into batting fame as a terrific slugger. He made a home run.

The U.S.C. team will play two games with the California varsity at Bovard Field Friday and Saturday afternoons. The barristers will go north March 24. They will play the California freshmen, March 25, the varsity on March 28 and 29, and Stanford March 31 and April 1. A game may be arranged with Santa Clara for March 30.

L. A. FACULTY TENNIS CHAMPS.

HARVEY SNODGRASS IS FEATURE OF TOURNAMENT.

Students of Manual Win Every Match—But Los Angeles High School Faculty Come Through and Avenge the Wrong—Ralph Noble Gives Wonderful Exhibition.

Manual Arts and L. A. High split even in the dual tennis tournament held at L. A. High yesterday forenoon. The Manual lads trounced the Hilltoppers in every one of their matches without giving them a game. However, the Blue and White faculty came back and handed the Manual teachers a walloping in return.

Harvey Snodgrass, playing first for the Manual team, found Kirkpatrick easy and went through him by 6-1, 6-0 scores. Winnie repeated the performance by winning his match from Phillips, 6-0, 6-1. In the doubles Snodgrass and Winnie just played with Phillips and Kirkpatrick. The final score stood 6-1, 6-0.

NOBLE STARS.

The excitement started when the faculty teams came out for their matches. Ralph Noble and Mr. Montgomery played together like a clock and handed Messrs. Ligda and Nihart the short end of a 6-4, 6-3 match. After 'twas all said and done, Mr. Noble induced Mr. Nihart over onto another court and slipped him another trouncing. The only match of the day to go over two sets was the fight between Mr. Ligda and Mr. Montgomery. These old timers fought it out with neither seeming to have the advantage over the other. After the sets stood one all, Mr. Ligda began to weaken and offered to forfeit the match as he had to go to Pasadena. However, he was induced to play it out, so he finally won the final set by a 6-3 score.

SUMMARY.

Snodgrass defeated Kirkpatrick 6-1, 6-0; Winnie defeated Phillips 6-0, 6-1; M. Reinke defeated Ralston 6-2, 6-1.

Doubles—Snodgrass and Winnie defeated Phillips and Kirkpatrick 6-0, 6-1; Reinke and Reinke defeated Ralston and Frost 6-0, 6-2.

Faculty singles—Noble defeated Nihart 6-4, 6-3; Ligda defeated Montgomery 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Faculty doubles—Noble and Montgomery defeated Nihart and Ligda 6-4, 6-3.

JAPS' INTENTION ORIENT MYSTERY

With its Sixty Millions it Simply Must Expand.

Demand Predominating Role in China's Empire.

Its Great Possibilities are Whet to Appetite.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TOKIO, Dec. 31.—Just what Japan's intentions are with reference to China, is a question that everybody is discussing in the Orient. Although official utterances adhere closely to the declaration that Japan seeks the peace of Asia and the maintenance of the integrity of China and the maintenance of the open door for the people of all nations, men in various walks of life appear to believe that the future of Japan lies in China, but as to how that future is to be attained and what direction and paths it will follow only the vaguest ideas exist.

Japan, with its 60,000,000 population and with a yearly increase of about 1,000,000, is conceived as feeling the absolute necessity of expansion somewhere. Her people do not fancy the cold climate of Hokkaido or districts like Sakhalin Island, the half of which was acquired from Russia. They are filled with a business-like determination to emigrate to those places where opportunities are many and where they will get the most money for their services as well as the most material comforts for their money. Japan hemmed in by the waters of the Pacific in her island territory is described as looking with friendly envy upon the great expanses of countries like the United States with their vast natural resources and as wondering why she, great nation as she is, should not have something of what Baron Kato, the ex-Foreign Minister, called "her share of the good things of the world." The material possibilities of the Chinese empire with its almost limitless areas are supposed constantly to whet the appetite of the people of Nippon.

FUNDAMENTAL DOCTRINE.

The one thing that can be deducted from talking with the Japanese is that they believe their position in the far east and their power entitle them to increase their influence in China until they fill the predominating role among the foreign powers. If anyone is to fill the predominating role, it should be Japan, they think. And they think that Japan should fill it in the interest of China and the interest of Japan. That may be said to be the fundamental doctrine underlying this year's negotiations with China.

Several writers have come forward insisting that Japan must at once take full advantage of the economic opportunities she has obtained in China, pointing out that the mere acquisition of these rights is not sufficient unless followed by business-like developments. Dr. S. Suyehiro, a professor in Kioto University, declares that this is one means of dissipating anti-Japanese sentiments in China. He holds that the aversion of the Chinese people would disappear when they realized the satisfactory effects of Japan's exploitation of their resources on the general condition of the country. Instead of criticising the government, Dr. Suyehiro says, the people should study the chances of gain in Manchuria and Mongolia, where Japan has established a sphere of influence.

He urges the Japanese to become active in every field of endeavor in these regions. Now that Japanese interests are increased there should begin a big emigration there. The doctor is rather pessimistic as to labor development as he thinks that the Japanese laborer is no match for the Chinaman in Manchuria. The same is true as to shop-keepers, the Chinese being able to undersell the Japanese. So the writer concludes that the field for the Japanese is in industry and agriculture. As to industry, with an abundance of cheap and superior coal from Fushun, the prospects are excellent. As regards agriculture, rice cultivation appears hopeful. Dr. Suyehiro doubts, however, whether the Japanese farmers can obtain the same success in Manchuria as they have in California, which he has visited. He urges his fellow-countrymen to understand that it is only by long, patient and strenuous efforts that they can hope to find real benefits in Manchuria.

TO PUSH IN CHINA.

Other prominent men, especially those engaged in business, dwell upon the necessity of pushing Japan's opportunities in China. They voice their faith in the sincerity of the government in enunciating the principles of the open door and integrity. "It must be quite evident," wrote Mr. Yamada, a member of the House of Representatives, "that in pressing her demands concerning Manchuria and Mongolia Japan was completely free from the ambition of seeking to annex these regions. Japan is convinced that in order to establish closer relations between the two oriental powers, to extricate China from impending danger and thus to insure the maintenance of peace in the Far East, she ought to secure a firmer foothold in China. If the Chinese are really sincere in their oft-expressed desire for closer economic union with this empire they should see the reason underlying our demands."

"The interests of Japan and China are identical," wrote another business man. "We have no desire to crush China. On the contrary, we want her to develop."

CRITICISE TREATY.

Declaring that the treaty signed early in the year is unsatisfactory both to Japan and China a writer in the Kokumin urges the Japanese nation to "stretch out its arms to China and by its national power to help China and win her lasting friendship."

He continues: "What we should do now is to make practical use of the privileges already secured. The business men of Japan should not indulge in meditation casting their heads down. Some influential Japanese statesmen should go to Peking to secure the good will of the Chinese and build up an entente based on helpfulness and friendship."

Baron Ishii, the new Minister of Foreign Affairs, is represented as favoring a policy of conciliation with China. This kind of policy is backed by the business interests who are seeking to extend the Japanese markets and in a general way develop the material interests of the empire. Another group, representing the political interests, are said to favor a more aggressive policy towards the oriental neighbor.

BARON ISHII'S VIEW.

Baron Ishii, who was subjected to an almost endless series of questions about China at a recent meeting of the Budget Committee of the Diet, said that the government would have no hesitation in giving official recognition to the proposed empire when it is considered certain that no disturbances will occur.

The impression exists here that Japan does not wish to alienate the sympathy of her ally, Great Britain, and the other great powers, including the United States, by action against China which might be interpreted as unduly aggressive and arouse hostile public opinion abroad. The attitude of Great Britain, which is interpreted by some Japanese as acting as a brake on Japan, is beginning to arouse considerable criticism of England.

PART OF JAPAN IN PEACE CONFAB.

QUESTION OF ADVISABILITY DISCUSSED IN TOKIO.

Score of Professors, Navy Officers and Eminent Publicists Have Taken up Topic, Some Advancing One Theory and Some Believing They Should Participate.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

TOKIO, Jan. 30.—The question as to what Japan should expect at the peace conference following the war and other questions pertaining to the war, have been posed to prominent men in Japan by the magazine Greater Japan, which is the organ of the National Defense Association. This is the organization recently launched by a body of leading publicists who advocate military and naval expansion and the general strengthening of the defenses of the empire.

The exact questions were these:

(1.) Is Japan's participation in the London non-separate peace compact an advisable step?

(2.) Will the issue of the European war, whether in favor or against the allies, affect Japan's glorious victory over the Germans in Tsing-tau?

(3.) What will be Japan's basic principle and what will be the conditions due to Japan in the coming peace negotiations, and what should be Japan's determination?

VARYING VIEWS.

About a score of professors, navy officers and eminent publicists responded to the queries. Some writers favored Japan's participation in the allies' peace pact on the ground that it would produce a good effect on Japan's position in the world by securing the right of speech in the peace conference and that it would lead to the enhancement of Japan's place as the leader of the Orient. A means to this end, the writers believed, would be the complete elimination of Germany's influence in the Far East. Other Japanese denounced the step taken by the Japanese government as being unnecessary, though they would not go to the extreme of saying that it would prove to be a mistake.

One of the most striking contributions to the discussion was that of Vice-Admiral T. Kamaya, who recently entered the list of retired officers. The naval officer expressed opposition to Japan's participation in the non-separate peace pact. He declared that the allies had invited Japan to become a party to the agreement from their fear as to issue of the present war. Also, he affirmed his belief that the allies wished to place Japan under the obligation of the pact so as to free themselves from vague apprehensions as to the future attitude of Japan. To his mind the Japanese government in accepting the invitation has committed a diplomatic blunder, which was against the interests of the nation.

Regarding the second question, the vice-admiral expressed the view that Japan's victory at Tsing-tau would remain unaffected by the defeat of the allies in the European war, while the victory of the allies would add no fresh color or luster to Japan's national dignity or glory.

KAMAYA'S SUGGESTIONS.

Vice-Admiral Kamaya then suggested the following items as basic conditions to be claimed by Japan at the post-bellum general conference:

(1.) German rights in Tsing-tau and Shantung province shall be ceded to Japan.

(2.) The German islands in the South Pacific occupied by the Japanese navy shall be ceded to Japan.

(3.) Germany shall pay compensation for the expenses of sustenance of German prisoners of war detained in Japan.

(4.) The amount of war indemnity to be paid by Germany must be sufficient to cover the total expenditure made by Japan on account of the war.

The second claim, that concerning the islands of the South Pacific, would be useless, according to the vice-admiral, if Japan's naval strength was inferior. He declared that at its present strength the Japanese navy was no equal to the German navy. The very fact that Japan desired to remain in permanent possession of the islands should induce Japan to augment her sea power.

The question of the permanent occupation by Japan of those South Sea Islands, which have been in her possession since the outbreak of the war, came up yesterday at a meeting of the Budget Committee of the House of Peers. Baron Ishi, the Foreign Minister, replying to an interpellation, said that the disposal of the islands occupied by Japan was a question not yet settled. Whether these islands would remain permanently as Japanese territory would be decided at the post-bellum peace conference.

NITROGEN IN SHELL MAKING.

Europe has Plants for Drawing this Valuable Property from the Air and America Must do the Same.

[Sunday Magazine:] Nitrogen drawn from the air is going into the making of the hundreds of thousands of shells exploding on Europe's battlefields. All modern explosives, regardless of their base, depend upon nitrates or nitric acid. Black powder contains saltpeter, which is nitrate of potash, and smokeless powders are nitrocellulose. The high explosives are all nitrogenous. Under normal conditions, the nitrate comes from nitrate deposits—such as those for which Chili is famous. But these deposits are not sufficient now to supply the demand nor available as a source of supply to all the belligerents. Consequently, the nitrogen is drawn from the air. There it is in inexhaustible quantities, but it was not until a few years ago that a method was discovered whereby it could be rendered available. Enormous plants, designed especially for the purpose of reducing the atmospheric nitrogen, are situated in Norway, Sweden, Switzerland and Germany and, of course, in this country, near Niagara Falls.

BUENOS AIRES FEELS THE WAR.

Daily Routine of Life is Thrown Out of Gear.

Shifting of Labor Constant in South America.

Freighting Vessels are Few and Rates are High.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 15.—The influences of the war in Europe are being felt acutely in South America. The routine of life, as fixed by the seasons and their phenomena, is thrown out of gear. Immigration returns for the first time in many years show a balance of emigration. This is attributed to the exodus of Italian reservists, who have rallied to the colors with enthusiasm and spontaneity. In normal times the Italian and Spanish immigrants flock in about equal numbers to the harvest fields of Argentina. The efflux has gone on in the same proportion, for it is a peculiar fact, one which no one seeks to explain, that the Spaniards, as if acted upon by some sympathetic influence, are leaving by every passenger steamer. It cannot be said that they are going in greater numbers, for the simple reason that all those who are not radicated in the republic already have drifted away.

This shifting of labor is not strange, but, occurring at a period when hands are most needed and wages are highest, it causes a certain feeling of uneasiness. One good result is that the national and provincial authorities have been induced to think more seriously of their natural sources of human energy, and how to organize them. The country is so large that with ample railroad facilities the unemployed hands in the north, for example, could be shifted to the south, where, at a given period of the year, extreme difference of climatic conditions prevail. This organization, so far, has not made itself apparent by results.

UNEMPLOYED QUESTION.

At the present moment there is a considerable number of unemployed in the Pampa territory near what may be called the geographical center of the republic. Having drifted there, these elements are causing considerable trouble by their truculent and menacing attitude. As the territories are, of course, under national administration, fifty men of the metropolitan police, armed with rifles and well supplied with ammunition, have been sent down to reinforce the local police and maintain order. The Department of Labor declares that had these elements been amenable to control they would not have drifted, at the precise moment when they were wanted elsewhere, to a point at which they were not required. It is, however, difficult to organize elements so illiterate that they cannot read.

Another serious effect of the war is that freighting vessels are few and rates exceedingly high. The amount of Argentine produce held up for lack of transport is very large. An idea of its magnitude can be gathered from the following facts, which, relating to a few zones, may be regarded as common to all: The great Central Argentine railroad system, ramifying through the central, northern and eastern provinces, report that over 200,000 tons of wheat and linseed of the last harvest are still waiting to be moved.

IN ROSARIO.

In Rosario, the depot of the north, there is at least the same of corn of the same harve and waiting for export. In there are 600,000 tons stored lying stations ready to be to the port of Rosario en the consuming markets. The therefore, a plethora of grain and the stock is being creased as operations upon harvest proceed. At the time ing about 40 per cent. of the son's wheat and linseed has lected, the quality and yield very satisfactory. The corn tions, favored by adequate tion and warmth, look very ing, too.

The great Southern Railroad tem, which ramifies through and pasture lands of the South West, reports identical There is a decided scarcity where labor is wanted, there same plethora of grain in the aries and abundance in the being harvested. Doubtless the ern Railroad, which serves as necting line between the two systems already named, has the general conditions and phen deal with. It all means loss and low prices for the who are always in need of money. In the meantime the ers which should be carrying vests of South America to the Europe and feeding the indus the old continent, are acting ports, carrying troops and the war.

Locally it is difficult to possible loss, direct and cal caused by this dislocation of cial currents when the war The consequences of the war sist. It will be a long time ports of this republic are again shipping from the seven seas were a few years ago when, the pressure, the port of Bue extension works were decided and pushed forward. That dertaking, by the way, is now lyzed, nothing in the nature amicable arrangement or com having been reported.

FACT AND COMMENT.

[illegible] the time for the taking of the [illegible]card vote among the property [illegible] of the open-cut assessment [illegible] draws near the modern Los [illegible] edition of the battle of Bunker [illegible] grows hotter. Unless all the indications are deceptive, the cause of common sense and municipal expediency, as represented in the campaign of the open-cut proponents, is [illegible] and irrestibly winning. One [illegible] is certain and that is that real [illegible] are being made in the ranks of the opponents. Whether a sufficient number will change over to offset all possible protesting power of the anticut element remains to be [illegible].

[illegible] of those working against the [illegible] notable among them, Marshall [illegible], the secretary and attorney of [illegible] opposition organization, have come to be regarded by the proponents of the plan as more of a help than a [illegible] in the movement. Abraham Lincoln a half-century ago ad[illegible] expressed the idea that it is impossible to keep on indefinitely fooling people. Had the open-cut [illegible] been put to a vote just after the opposition had unloosed its avalanche of misstatements and exaggerations and before any owner had had an opportunity to investigate into the [illegible] or to discover by any chance [illegible] he was being fooled, it is possible that those fighting this most important public improvement would have prevailed. The longer the [illegible] is delayed, however, the poor[illegible] the chance of the opposition to [illegible].

[illegible] of the efforts that have been [illegible] forth by the opposition spokes[illegible] are an insult to the intelligence [illegible] property owners who are called [illegible] to settle the open-cut question. [illegible] has been called to the attention of the Fact and Comment man [illegible] a property owner was frightened by the overzealous personal [illegible] among the opponents into [illegible] that his assessment would [illegible] the neighborhood of $2000. The [illegible] was so worried over the prospect as outlined to him that he was [illegible] to contribute $50 in cash to [illegible] "defense fund," as those fighting the cut call it. Within a few [illegible] that owner will receive a post[illegible] stating that his assessment under [illegible] engineer's estimates will be $40, [illegible] less than he has already spent [illegible] fighting a project which he con[illegible] will greatly increase the value of his property. There is every reason for believing that there are hundreds who have been similarly frightened into foolish support of the movement that is so inimical to their interests.

The Champion Anti.

The champion of the antis, champion by virtue of the wildness of his [illegible] and his general all-around [illegible] in a cause that won't hold water, is Mr. Stimson, whose efforts against the cut are actually accom[illegible] more in its behalf than those [illegible] some of the open-cut boosters. Mr. Stimson has made so many utterly [illegible] statements and flown in the face of reason so often that his efforts to induce property owners in[illegible] voting against their own best interests are having a back-action effect. Even his best friends admit that he has let his zeal get away with him.

Mr. Stimson's sins of commission and omission in the propagandist line found him out with a vengeance yesterday at a meeting of the City Club, when he debated with Miles S. [illegible] on the open-cut question. Statement after statement he had made in his efforts to induce property owners to antagonize the cut were hauled out before him and aired, not only by Mr. Gregory, but by others, following the debate itself. PALATIAL HOMES CHANGE HANDS.

HUNDRED THOUSAND INVOLVED IN TWO DEALS.

Handsome Residence of English Type at Fifth and Kingsley and Beverly Hills Mansion of Spanish Architecture the Places Sold—No Trade Consideration.

Two residence transfers of unusual size and interest are reported by Los Angeles firms as having been closed within the past few days. Together the deals represent a total consideration of well over $100,000.

One of the transactions was made through the agency of the R. C. Mitchell Company, represented by Ralph O. Williams, and involved the sale of a handsome residence of the early English type of architecture at the southeast corner of Kingsley drive and West Fifth street. Ed Halbriter was the seller and J. W. Acker the buyer. The consideration is reported to have been $42,500 cash.

The first story of the house is of solid cut stone. Above this are two additional stories of frame and plaster construction. All the rooms of the ground floor are in mahogany, a massive mahogany staircase in the reception hall being a feature. The second floor contains five large bedrooms, finished in old ivory, with mahogany trim. The third floor is given over almost entirely to a ball room of elegant finish and appointment. The lot is of generous area and is one of the sightliest in the Wilshire district.

The other sale was negotiated by R. A. Rowan & Co. and involved the transfer by Mrs. Marie Castello to William B. Joyce, president of the National Surety Company, of the former's palatial home at Beverly Hills. The consideration in this deal is given at $65,000.

The house contains fourteen rooms and suggests Spanish types, having white plastered exterior walls and a red tile roof. The interior decorations are of Oriental design for the most part and are carried out in oak and mahogany. The grounds comprise about three and a half acres overlooking Cold Water Canyon and the Santa Monica Mountains on the east and the town of Beverly Hills and the ocean to the west.

The new owner is said to contemplate extensive improvements to the grounds, planning elaborate landscaping effects, the installation of a swimming pool and the building of riding stables.

TRADES ORANGE GROVE.

Los Angeles Man Exchanges Corona Holding for New Mexico Lots.

An exchange deal, totaling $35,000 and involving a large block of residence lots in Albuquerque, N. M., and a Corona orange grove is reported for the past week by the Janss Investment Company. By the deal Judge John Baron Burg, a prominent resident of Albuquerque, secured a full-bearing, twelve-acre orange grove near Corona and J. B. Stearns of this city took over forty-six lots, a part of the holdings of Judge Burg, in the New Mexico city.

Judge Burg, it is announced, plans to spend his winters on his orange grove purchase. Already he has contracted for the picking and shipping of the remainder of this season's crop now on the trees.

NEW VERMONT SQUARE.

Sales are reported in New Vermont Square for the past week as follows: Dan Cline to H. E. Baker, six-room bungalow at No. 1843 West Forty-third street, $3850; R. C. Jenkins to Mrs. Mary E. Fearan, six-room chalet at No. 1482 West Vernon avenue, $4000; E. S. Castle to E. A. Jones, six-room bungalow at No. 1917 West Forty-third street, $3300, through agency of J. S. Jenneson; Albert V. Harris to John A. Saxon, six-room bungalow at No. 2011 West Forty-first drive, $3600, through agency of Harris & Rudell.

FOOTHILL COURT THING OF BEAUTY.

HOLLYWOOD BUNGALOW GROUP HAS INDIVIDUALITY.

Landscaping of Ground Plays as Important a Part in the Scheme as the Design of the Buildings. Winding Paths, Lily Ponds and Hedges are Features.

A bungalow court that is distinctly different from anything else of the kind in Los Angeles and its vicinity has just been completed on the east side of Highland avenue, in the sightly Cahuenga Pass approach through the Hollywood foothills, for Shore Bros. of this city. The architectural and landscape development work were done by Wilbur David Cook, Jr., and represent a degree of study not usually given to such projects. The property is known as Highbourne Gardens.

The ten buildings in the present group constitute in reality only a part of the development eventually contemplated, representing the improvement only of the front and comparatively level half of the site. Back of the area now built upon the ground rises on a steep slope and here are to be erected other structures within the near future.

The scheme is being developed as a series of units, each with its own interesting landscaping and architectural features. Some of the houses are tied together with a pergola treatment and others by lattice work and terraces. The walks are for the most part curvilinear paths and all lead at some point of their extent past a lily pond or hedge or bit of garden. A bowling green divides the property on north and south lines, forming a long vista back through the grounds, across a bridge spanning a miniature brook and ending at a pergola teahouse. Fine sycamores add picturesqueness to the layout.

The houses are described by their designer as an adaptation of the architecture of Italy to Southern California conditions. All are of gray stucco and have moss-green roofs. They run from three to six rooms, several having balconies and sleeping porches. All have hardwood floors, tiled baths, tile fireplaces, white-enameled kitchens and built-in features. Many of the rooms are finished in mahogany and fumed oak.

Members of Realty Board Adopt Important Plan.

Committee of Experts to Make Valuation Estimates.

Methods to be Followed Have been Tested Out.

The Los Angeles Realty Board has taken what is generally regarded by the real estate men of the city as an important forward step by establishing a permanent Appraisal Committee. The plan has been under contemplation for a number of years, but never until recently had it been seriously taken up. Several months ago members of the board began making a thorough investigation of the appraisal systems in use in Chicago, Cleveland, Minneapolis and other cities in which the organized realty men had formed appraisal bureaus, and out of this investigation grew the successful local movement.

President Mines took the first definite step last December by appointing a committee, composed of D. F. McGarry, W. M. Garland, George M. SoRelle, James R. H. Wagner, W. I. Hollingsworth, S. M. Cooper, L. E. Shepherd, Robert M. Allen and Edwin G. Hart, to draw up a set of rules and regulations for the proposed appraisal work. This committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. McGarry, held numerous meetings, carefully considered the systems of other cities, and submitted a report to the Governing Committee of the board a week ago.

The report was approved by the Governing Committee without a dissenting voice. On Thursday, at a luncheon and meeting held by the board in the Broadway Department Store cafe, the members present ratified the report and made the Appraisal Committee a reality. The men who had given of their time in the preparation of the report were by unanimous vote made the first regular appraisal committeemen.

IMPORTANT WORK.

In many eastern cities the realty board appraisal bodies are looked upon as final authorities in matters pertaining to appraisals of public and private property and inspect and report on millions of dollars worth of real estate annually. It is proposed to place the work of the Los Angeles Realty Board's Appraisal Committee on the same high plane. The board will seek the appraisal work of banks, estates, corporations, trustees, railways and individuals.

The rules and regulations for the government of the committee provide that the number of members serving on the appraisal body shall always be nine. Members will be elected for three-year terms. Vacancies will be filled by elections participated in by the members of the board, the nominations being made by the Governing Committee or by groups of ten or more members.

The main committee will be divided into sub-committees for the appraisement of business property, residence property, industrial and harbor property, subdivision property, suburban acreage and agricultural lands. The

BUSINESS INVESTMENTS—

A GOING AND PAYING MANUFACTURING CONcern, organized under the California Blue Sky Law, requires a man in its organization who has character and force coupled with executive ability—this man to take a responsible position in the management and control of the company. There is a great and increasing demand for our product, and the enlargement of our output capacity is necessary. We have no competition on the Pacific Coast, and can greatly undersell the eastern manufacturers on their own ground, owing to the availability and cheapness of the raw materials here. The man we require must put himself into the concern without reservation, as the organization and the profits warrant his whole-souled application. Supplying, as we do, a universal demand, and being able to undersell everybody, the whole country is ripe for exploitation, and there is no limit to our growth. We require that the man applying shall be able to invest $5000 in cash now, and have available $5000 more when required. He may have control of the expenditure of this money, and the interest given for his investment in the concern will be adequate and satisfactory to him. It is essential that the man applying has the qualities we require, for without them his money would not be of use. To the man with the money plus the brains we will make a good proposition, but you must act quick and prove qualifications. Address PT, box 320, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

WANTED—

HAVE YOU $2000.
TO INVEST
WITH OR WITHOUT YOUR SERVICES?

How often have you desired the exceptional chance to so invest the money you have, that it might return you comfort for the rest of your life? Lady or gentleman with the above amount to invest can secure an equal interest with three others, in the promotion of a corporation about to be formed in San Diego to supply an existing necessity. Investor will receive a directorship, together with $30,000 in stock, which should conservatively return better than $5000 per year in dividends, and if you can devote your time, you can also assume the duties of secretary, with a nominal salary of $100 per month to start.

If you can appreciate the value of square, clean-cut, business associates, and have enough red blood in your veins to recognize a big, exceptional investment opportunity when it looks you straight in the eye, and you have the cash amount required, then this is a chance that comes but seldom in a life time. Every word in this add is just the simple TRUTH, and takes quick action.

This advertisement I have carried in this paper all week. Look up the different prices last Sunday and this.
I ESPECIALLY RECOMMEND
GOLD RANGE MINING CO. STOCK.
Look up your map and convince yourself. See the good properties surrounding Gold Range. It is on the main vein system. A wire today from the superintendent said:
"GOLD RANGE GETTING INTO ROCK THAT PANS IN BOTTOM SHAFT, WHICH IS DOWN ONE HUNDRED TWENTY FEET.
"THOS. A. WETZEL, SUPT."
Three shifts will be started soon as compressor is in place and rapid progress will be made. Well financed, under new and aggressive management.

URGES SPEED ON DIVERSION PLAN.

ENGINEER ADVISES A SURVEY OF TWO ROUTES.

Says Supervisors Should Take Steps to Secure for Government Rights of Way for Flow of Waters from Dominguez Dam to Ocean. Appropriation may Hinge on This.

Immediate survey for channel routes to divert the flow of the Los Angeles River from the Los Angeles and the Long Beach harbors, in order to comply with the provisions of the Stephens bill, will be requested by Flood Control Engineer Reagan at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors tomorrow morning.

In filing application for the right to proceed with the work, Engineer Reagan yesterday, through his communication to the board, asked to have two survey parties put in the field as soon as possible. He pointed out that under conditions of the Stephens bill to improve Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors, by the construction of a dike at Dominguez for the diversion of flood waters from the harbors, assurance must be given that the rights of way will be provided as soon as possible for the government.

In order to carry out this condition Engineer Reagan stated that the survey for the actual location of the diverting dam at Dominguez and the right of way for channels from this point to the ocean at Alamitos Bay should be started at once.

"It is probable that the survey for two routes from the end of the diversion dam to the ocean will be necessary, and the routes should be surveyed in such clearness and detail as to be in absolute harmony and to the entire satisfaction of the government," he stated.

"I will advise that this work should not only be commenced at once and pushed by possibly two field parties, but that active efforts by other departments than my own should be inaugurated that the government should be satisfied that an earnest as well as rapid effort is being made to assist in the offer to make a diversion of storm waters from the Los Angeles Harbor for the benefit of the city and county."

With his communication Engineer Reagan submitted the plan of the general route as outlined by the United States Engineering Department. Since the appropriation of more than $1,000,000 hinges on the speedy cooperation of Los Angeles county, it 's believed by two of the board members and by Engineer Reagan that his proposal will meet with unanimous approval and work will be started within the month in securing the routes necessary.

GONE IS NOTABLE CAT.

Peter, Winner of Cups and Ribbons Galore, and Owned by Pasadena Man, Has Closed His Brilliant Record. Crossed Continent Seven Times.

Peter, the exposition cat, champion of the P.P.I.E., winner of cups and ribbons in shows from New York to San Francisco, styled by competent judges the best short-haired cat shown on the Pacific Coast, is dead, cremated, and his owner, Edward J. Ryan of Pasadena, who valued the cat at $3000, has only his ribbons and cups as a reminder of what he says was the best cat in its class in America.

The cat was to have been exhibited throughout America, and the owner estimated its earning capacity at $6000 annually. Death was caused by an abscess of the brain.

Peter was born in New York City, May 8, 1910. He was a tabby neuter, weighed twenty pounds and made a meteoric record in the cat world. In fifty-five days he won the San Francisco S.P.C.A. trophy that had been held up for six years, won two international blues, two cups, and all the specials in first and blue. His first show was at San Jose, October 6 of last year, and Peter then swept away all previous records by winning everything up to the exposition championship.

Peter crossed the continent seven times and was viewed by 150,000 in three days at the exposition.

POCKET PICKED ON CAR.

Florence Man Tells Police the Robbers Escaped in an Auto.

Arthur Hildebrandt of Florence early last night reported to the police of University Station that his pocket was picked of a purse containing a $10 check, while he was riding on a Watts street car, and that the two pickpockets made their escape, after springing from the car, in a large, red automobile.

The pickpockets, according to Mr. Hildebrandt, thrust their hands into his pockets as the car passed Fifteenth street and, taking his purse, sprang from the street car. Mr. Hildebrandt told the police he left the car and followed the two to the automobile in which they escaped.

Pomona.

"SHORTY" AND "SLIM" CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, March 4.—"Wrap Slim up well and bring him down to the corner of Fifth and Garey avenues," said A. Tadlock over the telephone to a man at the other end of the wire. The police grabbed Tadlock at the street corner when the two men met in the dark. "Slim," wrapped up well, proved to be a pint of whisky. Tadlock, who is a plain-clothes man, claimed he had bought the booze from Harold Howell.

When the police "frisked" Howell for the marked coin which Police Chief Lyter had given to Tadlock for bait, some one yelled, "Look in his hands," which he held behind him. In the scuffle which followed, a marked dollar rolled into the grass and the police recovered it.

Today a jury, standing two for conviction and ten for acquittal, disagreed in police court when Howell was tried on a charge of having violated the liquor ordinance. Howell identified the marked dollar and admitted having accepted it for a pint of whisky. He said he had loaned dribs of money to Tadlock till the latter was in his debt $4.50, and that Tadlock had then informed him that whisky could be had for 50 cents a pint and sold for a dollar.

Howell testified that he went to Los Angeles and bought some whisky. Tadlock would go to him and get a pint and return with a dollar, 50 cents of which was applied on the alleged debt. He testified to having let Tadlock have eleven pints, but that sometimes Tadlock did not return with money. The understanding was that Tadlock was retailing the liquor to erase four bits of the debt every time he sold a pint.

Tadlock testified that he never has owed Howell a cent and that he bought liquor merely as an agent for the police department. A jury, consisting of L. Lewison, J. W. Billings, G. F. Ross, L. M. Mills, C. B. Nicklin, A. E. Good, J. Kime, R. Chapin, F. A. Blatz, F. Yorke, W. H. Fairwell and L. W. Baker, couldn't agree in regard to the merits of the case, and so Judge Mason has reset the trial for the forenoon of March 17.

Tadlock says that he and Howell had a language of their own to use over the telephone because Howell is on a party line. "Shorty" indicated a half-pint and "Slim" was supposed to indicate a pint.

The police are in possession of several bottles containing various quantities of alleged liquor which they claim were tossed out of windows at the place where Howell was residing, when they went there to search it.

BELGIAN SENATOR FOR SWISS SYSTEM.

STUDENT MILITARY TRAINING TOPIC BEFORE WOMEN.

European at Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Meeting Tells Advantage of Mental and Physical Preparedness—Guard Officer for Drill in Schools.

Before a gathering of the President's Council of the First District of the Congress of Mothers and the Parent-Teacher Association, held in The Times assembly-rooms yesterday afternoon, Hon. Henri La Fontaine, member and secretary of the Senate of Belgium, discussed features of military training in public schools.

"The first year of the war in Europe cost the nations $400,000,000," said Senator La Fontaine, "and it is now nineteen months since the outbreak of the conflict. During these last seven months, the cost of the war has amounted to $800,000,000, or just double the cost of the first year of campaigning. In considering military traning, one must think of the cost of that training.

"I am in favor of the training given by the government of Switzerland. There the young men are not taught so much to shoot and handle arms as they are taught physical training and discipline. Swiss preparedness is based upon physical and mental fitness rather than on automaton exactitude in military drill."

Senator La Fontaine was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1913 for his efforts during that year. He has been touring California for some months and is now in this city for a short stay.

Lieut.-Col. S. M. Saltmarsh, Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., spoke in favor of compulsory military training in the schools, giving it as his opinion that the young men in high schools and colleges need the training as the majority of them are lacking in obedience and discipline.

He said: "I am not in favor of military training as conceived by the average person. The average man or woman believes military training is a method whereby men are taught to handle arms and are misled until lust for blood obscures their reason and renders them more beasts than men. But that is not military training. I believe in such training in public schools, not for purposes of war, but for the benefits of discipline and obedience. The school is where the boys who are to be doctors, lawyers or engineers first receive their training. Why should the school not teach love of country?

"As for gradual disarmament, who can predict when avarice, greed and ambition will be purged from the hearts of European diplomacy? When that time comes the United States will have time enough to consider disarmament."

Mrs. Seward Simons, president of the Friday Morning Club, maintained a vigoorus stand against military training in schools.

MINISTERS TO MEET.

Pastors of Southern California Churches Here Tomorrow.

The Christian Ministers' Association of Southern California will meet in the First Christian Church, Eleventh and Hope streets, tomorrow, with the first session opening at 10 o'clock.

After devotions there will be a business session followed by an address on "Preparedness" by W. H. Bagby. Andrew F. Mitchell, pastor of the Friends' Church, Long Beach, will speak on "Preparedness as Applied to Our National Life," and the forenoon session will close with devotions.

After the luncheon there will be a song service, and the general subject for the afternoon will be "Preparedness for Christian Service." Echoes from the recent great laymen's convention will be given, followed by discussion.

BEATEN BY ROBBER.

Victim Knocked to Sidewalk with a Club when He Resists.

Attacked by a thug near Naud Junction early last night, Jack Murphy, living near Third and Figueroa streets, was badly beaten about the head with a club and left unconscious on the sidewalk. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital for treatment.

Mr. Murphy told the police who investigated the attempted hold-up that the thug attacked him without warning and attempted to rob him. Calling for help, Mr. Murphy struggled with the bandit, but was beaten to the sidewalk. The highwayman then fled.

SKULL FRACTURED.

L. L. Flodin of No. 1023 Wall street was probably fatally injured early last night when he fell on the curb near Ninth street and Maple avenue and his skull was fractured. He was taken to the County Hospital. According to Police Detective Williams, the injured man was intoxicated and fell while running away from a drug store at No. 327 East Ninth street, where he had broken a show case.

LIFE OF INDUSTRY DEPENDS ON ISSUE.

GRAPE GROWERS TELL EFFECT OF "DRY" AMENDMENTS.

Investment of Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars and the Employment of a Hundred Thousand Persons will be Lost if Prohibition Wins in November Election.

At a meeting of the Southern California Grape Protective Association held yesterday in the offices of the Italian Vineyard Company, No. 1234 Palmetto street, winemakers and growers of grapes from nearly all districts condemned the prohibition amendments to be submitted to the voters at the next general election and unanimously adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, there are to be submitted to the voters of California at the general election in November, 1916, two drastic amendments to the constitution of the State of California, one prohibiting the manufacture, sale, giving away, or transportation of wine, and another making it a crime to serve California wines with meals in hotels, restaurants, cafes and clubs, and preventing the sale of wine in sealed packages (not to be consumed on the premises) in grocery and other stores, and,

Whereas, the adoption of these amendments will destroy not only California's wine industry, but will also cripple the raisin and table grape industries, which find an outlet for their surplus production through the wineries; will throw out of employment over 100,000 people engaged in these industries; annihilate an investment of $150,000,000; make nonproductive 170,000 acres of wine grape land, destroy revenues to the State and nation and increase taxation which must be made up by other industries, and

Whereas, the principles of the proposed amendments are contrary to the established policy of the State and nation, which, since 1862, have fostered viticulture and viniculture in California,

Therefore, be it resolved by the members of the Southern California Grape Protective Association in meeting assembled, this 4th day of March, 1916, that we take this opportunity to express our strong opposition to the adoption of either of the California campaign federation's prohibition amendments, because they are unfair, confiscatory in nature and against the commercial and industrial development and public welfare of this State.

Prior to the adoption of the resolution H. F. Stall, secretary of the organization, gave an outline of the educational campaign carried on by the grape men, which they expect will result in defeat of the prohibition measures at the polls November next. As a part of this programme enthusiastic meetings have been held by State viticultural organizations in several counties, and the grape men in other districts are being organized for similar work.

EMPLOYEES DANCE.

Five Hundred Pacific Light and Power People at Frolic.

Employees of the Pacific Light and Power Corporation to the number of 500 held their first dance in the new Los Angeles Railway Recreation Club House at the Georgia-street terminal last night.

While this clubhouse, which was the gift of H. E. Huntington, belongs principally to the Los Angeles Railway employees, the fact that the Pacific Light and Power is also a Huntington company makes it possible for employees of the latter corporation to take advantage of the railway club.

The committee in charge of the ball was composed of H. J. Eichhorn, A. E. Erickson and M. M. Taylor.

The Floor and Reception Committee, which was made up of officers and representatives of each department of the system, follows: D. D. Morgan, H. R. Bowie, H. H. Cox, Jean Crerar, E. R. Davis, W. J. Gracey, C. M. Grow, F. W. Hunter, J. A. Joyce, A. N. Kemp, E. P. Miller, J. B. Wheeler, D. A. Munger, R. C. Starr, W. T. Schlinger, O. V. Showers, S. Van Dreezer, Mrs. Van Dreezer, G. C. Ward, D. H. Willard, Alma Wilson, George Gordon, Roy Kutter, F. W. Bradley, E. S. Regan and Ethel Weaver.

ROBBERY CHARGED.

Alleged to Have Stolen and Disposed of Money Orders.

Arthur C. Cox, who is wanted in a half dozen cities on the charge of robbing postoffices and stealing blank money orders, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hammack yesterday. Cox was arrested at Santa Barbara, where he had disposed of five $100 money orders, made out on blanks stolen from the Allentown, N.J., postoffice. In default of a bond of $2500, he was committed to the County Jail. His examination will be held next Saturday.

It has been determined to prosecute him here, and it is believed that the Federal grand jury will make a report on his case Tuesday afternoon. If indicted, there will be five counts in the bill.

MUST REBUILD TRAILS.

More Than Eight Hundred Miles of Road Damaged.

The official survey of the loss to timber, roads, trails, etc., in the Angeles National Forest by recent storms has just been completed by Supervisor R. H. Charlton.

One hundred men, divided up into eleven crews, are now busily engaged on the work of rehabilitation. Each crew is in charge of a forest ranger, who will remain in the field until May 15, when the rangers will be compelled to return to their jurisdictions to watch for forest fires, as the season begins at that time.

It is estimated that more than 800 miles of trails and roads will have to be entirely rebuilt or extensively repaired, and the cost will not be less than $100,000. The necessity of doing this work will cut off payments for any other improvements for more than a year, and it will be necessary for the county and independent organizations to assist financially. This is the most extensive damage by water reported since the organization of the local district.

TWO and three acres with fine oaks, opposite San Gabriel Country Club. Water, gas, electricity, available. Just what you are looking for. H. G. Holabird, 626 South Spring street.

For Health's Sake.

DEMONSTRATES SAFETY'S WAY.

Nathan Straus Shows how Milk is Pasteurized.

Tells Hearers this Safeguard is Imperative.

Urges State-wide Campaign for Babies' Pure Food.

The care and protection of the milk supply is the first and most important step in safeguarding the health and reducing the mortality in every community, according to Nathan Straus, the millionaire philanthropist of New York, principal speaker Wednesday afternoon at the health show and welfare exhibit of the Health Extension League at the Shrine Auditorium.

Mr. Straus, assisted by his wife, gave a personal demonstration before a large audience of the methods used in pasteurizing milk at his laboratories in New York.

No article of food should be kept under closer observation, and none is more liable to infection than milk, Mr. Straus declared. He stated that pasteurization is as much a necessity as it was twenty-five years ago.

"Sickness in cows transmitted to the milk and infection during and after the process of milking, are the two principal causes of infected milk," Mr. Straus said.

"We are able to ascertain if a cow has tuberculosis. Prof. Koch, who isolated the germ of the disease, gave us the tuberculin test. If this is properly applied the cow will react if she has the disease. Further infection is prevented by the removal of the cow from the herd.

"Frequently the infection spreads before the diagnosis is made because the milk from healthy and tubercular cows has been mixed.

"I know from my personal experiences of many cases at model farms, conducted with unlimited means, where infection was discovered among the herds. If this is true, what can we expect of the small farmer?

"In New York we have strict milk laws. The milk is graded, and, according to its quality and bacteria count, it is divided into certified, guaranteed and inspected milk. In accordance with the laws which became operative in 1912, all milk has to be sold in its pasteurized state except when it is certified.

"There are many other fatal diseases besides tuberculosis that are transmitted by infected milk. It is easy to avoid these dangers by enforcing your milk ordinances. Pasteurizing adds very little to the cost of the milk. A fraction of a cent per quart covers the expense.

"When the health of babies is in danger the women are naturally deeply concerned. With suffrage in your State you are able to enforce any law in the interest of the welfare of the family. The enforcement of the law must be State-wide, because municipal control only would mean that milk refused by the cities would be used in smaller places."

FOR LIFE SAVING.

Board of Supervisors Urged to Establish County Homes and Farms for Tubercular Patients and Those Susceptible but not Having the Disease.

Furtherance of the plan for the establishing of a county tubercular home will be urged before the Board of Supervisors next Wednesday. Dr. J. H. Burgan, authority on tubercular research, filed a petition yesterday with the board, suggesting that an outdoor tubercular colony be started as soon as possible. He proposes a plan which may finally be incorporated in the county project.

Dr. Burgan's plan calls for establishment of a model mountain farm, with extensive gardens, which will supply not only the wants of the inmates of the colony, but also those of some of the other county institutions with fresh vegetables and fruits. Instruction in farming, dairying and other outdoor work for the patients is suggested, in order to give them a future occupation that would prevent a return of tuberculosis. He also suggests a department of sanitation and hygiene.

One of the integral parts of the work would be the recreation department, in which wholesome sports and recreations would be taught, something after the plan of the outdoor German gymnasium system. Occa-

MUST PROVE QUALITY.

Experts to Pass on All Exhibits Offered for Pure Food Show, and None Will be Admitted that Fall Below Standard of Purity.

"Get qualitywise" has been adopted as the official slogan of the third annual Pure Food Exposition, to open the 15th inst. at No. 239 South Broadway.

Charles M. Fuller, County Sealer of Weights and Measures, has been given space for an educational exhibit.

The quality of foods exhibited at the exposition will be judged by a board consisting of national, State and local experts. Food products failing to secure the indorsement of this board will be ordered removed from the show. The borrd will pass upon the products at a meeting to be held the day prior to the opening of the exposition.

The Booster Committee of 100 will meet with Manager Olsen some time during this week, for the purpose of arranging a series of special entertainment features for the show.

There will be a free concert every afternoon and evening by the California Poppe Ladies' Orchestra.

Manager Olsen said yesterday that practically all the space at the exposition has been taken.

AMBULANCE TURNS JITNEY.

Hospital Machine Carries Young Picnickers to Their Homes.

The new Receiving Hospital ambulance was transformed into a jitney bus yesterday, when it was found necessary to deliver a dozen youngsters to their homes.

Mrs. F. W. McGoran of No. 630 South Grand avenue started out early in the afternoon with her two small daughters and a crowd of other children of the neighborhood for a picnic in Elysian Park. Unfortunately, the party had not progressed very far when Mrs. McGoran slipped and sprained her ankle. The ambulance answered and, at the injured woman's request, loaded the youngsters on board and delivered them at their homes. Mrs. McGoran was then treated at the hospital before she, too, was returned home.

COME FOR PRISONER.

Cincinnati Detectives will Return Cohen for Trial.

Detectives Fred Sterber and W. A. Anthony of the Cincinnati police department arrived in Los Angeles yesterday to take charge of Charles Cohen, who was arrested here February 21 under the name of George B. Murray. Cohen answers to many aliases and will have to answer many charges when he arrives in the Ohio city. He was arrested here by Detectives Frank Williams and Charles Jones, charged with having morphine in his possession.

The day following his arrest the Los Angeles officers were able to identify him, through the local identification bureau, as a man wanted in Cincinnati. Detectives Sterber and Anthony will take the prisoner East.

What Scope?

CHARITIES ORDINANCE.

City Council will Sit as Committee of the Whole Tomorrow Morning for Hearing on Much-discussed Subject—A Lively Meeting is Anticipated.

Immediately after the regular session of the City Council tomorrow forenoon the members will meet as a committee of the whole to have a hearing on the subject of a new ordinance to regulate charities in Los Angeles. The session gives promise of being a very spirited one, as all factions on this much-discussed subject will be in attendance.

The Council, upon recommendation of the Public Welfare Committee, composed of Councilwoman Lindsey and Councilmen Conwell and Topham, has instructed the City Attorney to prepare an ordinance that will be in conformity with the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the case of the city against the Salvation Army.

The Council is determined to provide for the municipal regulation of the charities of this city. One of the changes proposed in the new ordinance is that which would make non-eligible to a place on the Municipal Charities Commission any person who is a director or a manager in any institution that is subject to supervision by the commission.

As an indication of the prospective spirit of the hearing tomorrow the Council decided yesterday that "as far as possible no personalities will be permitted."

SAYS HE'LL SUE CITY.

Trusty Who was Rearrested Alleges that Charges are Unfounded.

M. L. Silverthorne on his release from the East Side Jail yesterday, where he had served fifty-eight days of a 180-day sentence on a charge of being an escaped prisoner from the same prison, declared he would enter suit against the city tomorrow for false imprisonment. The basis for the suit, Silverthorne declared, is that fifty days is the maximum sentence for the offense with which he was charged and that the police judge had imposed a six months' sentence wrongfully.

Silverthorne was originally sentenced to 180 days in the East Side prison on a charge of threatening to kill his wife. He left the jail premises when made a trusty and is alleged by the police to have again made trouble for his wife. His arrest followed and he was given the second 180-day sentence, but was later paroled. While on parole, the police stated, he visited his wife and destroyed her clothing. While officers were searching for him he was placed in jail by other officers on a charge of violating his probation by drinking.

"I did not threaten my wife's life in the first place and I did not destroy her clothing," Silverthorne said yesterday. "I have received a raw deal and was given more than three times the maximum sentence. Now I propose to see what the law will do for me after I was wrongfully held a prisoner."

FREEDOM IS SHORT.

Just Out of San Quentin is Arrested on Smuggling Charge.

A. J. Taylor, who last May was released from San Quentin, after serving two years for smuggling smoking opium, is again in the clutches of the law at Calexico.

He had been under surveillance for weeks and had just left Calexico for San Diego when picked up by the immigration inspectors. It is said Taylor at one time operated with Arthur J. Smith, who pleaded guilty to smuggling smoking opium in Judge Cushman's court, a few days ago, and was sentenced to McNeil's Island for a year and a day. The dope found with Taylor is worth about $4000 on this side of the line.

When word came to Capt. Charles T. Connell, chief inspector, that Taylor had started south, a cordon of men was thrown across every avenue of escape that he was likely to utilize on his trip north. As Taylor is also an operator in contrabands it was believed that he might bring Chinamen from Mexico, and it was the information here that he had arranged for a half dozen to be taken into San Francisco.

The recent order of the Carranza government prohibiting the importation of opium into the country either in a crude or raw state, has created a shortage of the narcotic across the line, and it is reported that prices are rapidly advancing. The factory at Ensenada utilized for cooking opium has gone out of business, on account of the shortage of crude opium.

MORAN LOOKS GOOD FOR BIG BATTLE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SARATOGA (N. Y.) March 4.—Appearing as fit as the huskiest backwoodsman who drove to the station to bid him good-by, Frank Moran, contender for Jess Willard's fight crown, left this afternoon for New York. Moran stripped, jumped onto the scales before the gaze of a couple of dozen newspaper men and awe-stricken farmers, the beam balanced at 204 pounds, two pounds above his fighting mark.

Go Afar.

MAKE HOUSES HERE FOR WAR REGION.

LOS ANGELES CONCERN SECURES LARGE ORDER.

Portable Structures are to be Shipped from this City to Southern Part of Belgium to Shelter Folk Whose Homes Were Destroyed by Big Guns and Fire.

Belgian mining communities, where the homes were destroyed by the German guns and by fire following in war's wake, are to be sheltered in portable houses made in Los Angeles. The work of reconstruction is to be given much impetus through a contract that has just been placed with the Pacific Portable Construction Company of this city by a syndicate that has secured a concession for the operation of the mines in the devastated districts and which, as a part of its requirements, must provide adequate shelter for the homeless of those districts.

The contract for these houses was closed last Friday, although the negotiations had been in progress for several weeks. A representative of the syndicate was here for some time and also visited other Pacific Coast cities in his investigation of the possibilities of supplying portable houses for Belgium. The contract was finally closed by cablegram.

This contract provides for the delivery of from ten to sixty factory-built and ready-cut houses per month, the order to continue for a long term of months. This is said to be the first order of its kind ever secured by a California concern.

These houses are to be of various sizes, from one to five rooms. The materials will be cut and assembled here, and photographs taken of the process in all stages, so that these photographs may be a guide to the Belgian workmen when the material arrives there. The ready-cut houses will be sent in car lots to New York and there reshipped until the Panama Canal is open, when that route will be used. These houses are to be set up in the southern part of Belgium, near the French borders.

There is great scarcity of building materials in the war zone of Europe, and practically all of the timber available is hardwood. The main source of supply of soft woods has been Canadian lumber. This has been shipped in a raw state, and therefore there has been much waste. Naturally, no Canadian lumber is being shipped to Belgium now. The shipment of ready-cut houses is expected to prove an economical move. The average price of the houses when they are completed in Los Angeles will be about $400 and the transportation charges from here to Southern Belgium will be about the same as the original cost of the house.

The initial shipment of these houses will leave the yards of the Pacific Portable Construction Company the first part of next week. Preparations are being made by this company to keep up the required construction for its foreign order without interfering with its local business. Additional machinery is being installed and options on large orders of lumber have been taken.

CHAMPION SPELLERS.

Lincoln High School Claims Record for the United States.

The Lincoln High School boasts of having a higher average grade in the subject of spelling than any other high school in the United States. In other words, the students of the local school as a body are better spellers than any similar body in the country. Of the 1100 pupils a large porportion are intermediate school students using the buildings. The average grade for the past semester was 94 per cent. The percentage of students failing in spelling was only 1 5-6 per cent.

R. E. Wiatt, head of the commercial department, has compiled a chart which he intends to copyright, which he claims is directly responsible for the remarkable record of the school. The chart consists of a system of blocks measured off on a large tablet, from which at a glance the weekly, monthly or yearly average of the students may be determined. The room best represented at the end of a certain period is awarded a prize pennant.

An estimated standard of excellence is made for each class. In the intermediate school a grade below 80 per cent. is a failure. In the freshman and sophomore years the mark must be above 90, and the junior and senior classes are required to spell above 95 per cent.

When Mr. Wiatt was commissioned to take charge of the spelling course of the school the average of the students was 73 per cent. In a few months the average has been raised to 94, and 95 per cent. is predicted for the next semester. Every student in the school is required to take the spelling course.

Chamber of Commerce.

FAVOR PRIVATE SHIP TRAFFIC.

National Body Opposes Owning by the Government.

Holds United States Should Loan to Merchantmen.

Urges Subsidies for Marine Under Certain Conditions.

Edward F. Trefz, of Washington, D. C., field secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who is a guest at the Alexandria, yesterday announced the report on the vote which the chamber has taken on government ownership of mercantile vessels. The vote was decisively against such ownership.

This referendum was participated in by the principal trade organizations of the United States, and expressions were also received from the important American Chambers of Commerce abroad. The general expression was against the government purchasing, constructing, chartering or operating vessels for mercantile purposes, and also against government ownership with operation by private parties.

The vote, however, put the National Chamber of Commerce on record as favoring government subsidies, under certain conditions, in favor of government subventions to mail and freight lines under the American flag, and of the creation of a Federal shipping board with adequate power. It favors the amendment of the ocean mail law of 1891, and favors legislations abolishing deferred rebates and Federal licenses for all shipping.

In discussing the position taken by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States through this decisive vote, Mr. Trefz said yesterday:

"Summed up the referendum showed the following important results: An overwhelming vote against government ownership both with government operation and with private operation under lease; a very strong vote in favor of subsidies to offset the difference in cost of operation under the American and under foreign flags, and a still stronger vote in favor of mail subventions to establish lines to all points where the commercial interests of the United States are large enough to justify it; an indorsement of the plan for a government shipping board to take over regulation of merchant marine matters and presumably to have at least advisory powers in connection with subsidies and subventions.

"Indorsement of the plan for power in this board to regulate rates and routes analogous to the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission over common carriers by land.

"There was a large vote in favor of a plan for having the government, through a mercantile company, loan on ship security. This proposition failed to get a two-thirds vote, although it got a majority and under the by-laws of the chamber we are not authorized to support it."

NEW SHIPPING BILL.

Mr. Trefz explained some of the features of the new shipping bill, now the subject of open hearings before the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

"Numerous changes have been made from the measure which failed last February," he said. "The new bill is so constructed as to emphasize a purpose of having private operation of the merchant vessels built or otherwise acquired by the government. Their acquisition by the government is to be with a view to their operation by American citizens and American corporations in over-sea trades. Government operation of the government-owned vessels is left to the discretion of a shipping board, with three members appointed from private life and two members from the Cabinet.

SHIPPIN GRATES.

"In the last Congress a bill which had much of the nature of a committee measure was introduced, but kept back while the shipping bill was brought forward. In this Congress the two bills are combined, and it is proposed that regarding ocean rates, preferences and discriminations by steamship companies, etc., the shipping board should have practically the powers which the Interstate Commerce Commission exercises with respect to railroads.

"Provisions which had no place in the bill of last year are intended to encourage the operation of vessels under the American flag. For goods to be carried abroad by American vessels the shipping board could prescribe preferential rates by rail-and-water from inland points in the United States to foreign ports, if necessary joining with the Interstate Commerce Commission in holding hearings to determine in what proportions the railroad and the steamer should share the preferential through rate.

"It has sometimes been said that a large part of the 172 foreign-built vessels aggregating 588,000 in gross tonnage which have taken American registry since the law of August, 1914, was enacted, will be transferred to other flags as soon as conditions again become normal. To regulate such a possible movement, and to control transfer of any American vessel to a foreign flag, the bill adopts the principle which is in force in England, of a transfer requiring the consent of the shipping board."

RANCH IS AUCTIONED.

Col. C. F. Calhoun, real estate auctioneer of the firm of Calhoun & Fleming, reports the sale at auction for Sarah J. Hunt, administratrix of the estate of Lorena Ferris, of a five-acre ranch facing east on San Gabriel boulevard, one and one-half miles southeast of San Gabriel and one mile northeast of Wilmar, for a total of $6962, or an average per acre of $1312.50. The price went to four different buyers, J. H. Shaug of Philadelphia, taking two and one-half acres with the improvements at $3687, James McLeod of San Gabriel, two acres at $3100, and John Ericson of Alhambra, one-half acre at $775.

LEASE WAREHOUSE.

A lease has just been closed between King C. Gillette and the Lord Motor Car Company, whereby the latter has secured for a term of years a brick warehouse at the northeast corner of Fourteenth and Alameda streets. The building is served by spur tracks from the Southern Pacific. R. A. Rowan & Co., handled the deal.

New Industry.

WILL MAKE JELLIES.

Local Manufacturing Concern Takes Ten-year Lease on Large Building to be Erected for Its Uses on East Ninth. Concrete Structure.

An important industrial project is assured for this city as the result of the closing of a lease whereby the California Orange Jelly Company will take over for the period of ten years a three-story and basement factory building to be erected by R. H. Arnold at the northeast corner of Ninth and McGarry streets. Plans for the structure are now being prepared by Charles E. Shattuck.

The building will cover a ground area of 11,000 square feet and will be of concrete and brick construction. Its walls will be of a strength sufficient to support two additional floors, when these may be needed. The lessees will install the latest machinery and equipment for the manufacture of orange, lemon and grapefruit jellies.

BROADWAY LEASE.

The W. Ross Campbell Company, through J. C. Thomas of its leasing department, has leased for the Lyon-McKinney-Smith Company for a long term of years, the second floor loft at No. 650 South Broadway. The lessee, Jack J. Leff, will maintain a large display of childrens', boys' and young men's ready-made clothing in the space secured.

PERMIT FOR CLINIC.

A building permit was granted during the past week for a two-story reinforced concrete structure to be erected by O. T. Johnson at No. 936 Yale street as a free clinic for children. The structure will cover a ground area of 40x140 feet. Arthur B. Benton is the architect.

Fact and Comment.

Stimson's assertion that he favored tunnels through the hill was met by an emphatic declaration from a listener that he (Mr. Stimson) had on such and such a date fought all tunnel projects through the hill.

Mr. Stimson certainly used poor judgment also in quoting the opinions of a well-known realty operator in the course of his arguments. The man quoted is by his own admission trying to build up a brand new retail district on Olive, Grand and Hope streets, south of Seventh street, at the expense of the present established business section. He spends his time trying to influence capital to invest in this new district. One of his stock arguments is that, as the open-cut project for creating a direct outlet into the present business district from west and northwest Los Angeles is bound to be defeated, all traffic from these regions will be forever forced around the hill into Seventh street, whence it can be headed off before it ever reaches Broadway.

The Seattle Cuts.

The speaker made another fatal and reactive blunder by trying to controvert facts presented by Mr. Gregory about the great value of the extensive regrading work done in Seattle. Two Seattle men arose in the audience to tell out of their own experience the truth of the situation in the northwest city. One, N. C. Mason, who owns two lots in the proposed regrade zone in this city, gave a most effective answer to Mr. Stimson's pathetic description of the ruin that would befall the property owners just west of the hill through having to pay assessments that would, as he tragically avowed, do them no possible good.

Mr. Nason stated that he had bought a corner lot just west of Denny hill in Seattle for $3600 just prior to the regrading of that obstructing elevation. Within a short time after the regrading had been completed, he declared, he had sold the same lot for $26,000 in cash. The situation of the lot in question with respect to the business district of Seattle and its proximity to thoroughfares of importance did not compare, he said, with that of the average lot just west of Bunker hill. Mr. Nason invited Mr. Stimson to ask him questions, offering to discuss the Denny hill project in all its details. The offer was not accepted.

Cards Worth While.

It is indeed well that the City Council's postcards and accompanying statements are going out among the property owners. Never has there been so assiduously cultivated a misunderstanding about any project as that which exists in relation to the Bunker hill open cut. The best private engineering talent available has gone into the question of expense and arrived at the conclusion that the project will probably cost less than $3,000,000. The City Engineer himself believes that his estimate of $4,000,000, as printed on the post cards, is at least $500,000 too high. He was instructed to purposely make it high. These figures have all been arrived at by actual measurement and computation, and yet the opposition has come baldly out and declared them to be far too low, without a shred of evidence to support the contention.

Mr. Stimson in particular has set himself up as having greater knowledge about engineering than any and all the engineers. He talks of the open cut as though it were a second Panama canal. Regrading work of greater magnitude has been done in city after city and no fuss has been made about it. In Mr. Stimson's excited imagination, the excavating of an outlet one block wide through Bunker hill is an undertaking that would require many years.

Mr. Stimson and his fellow crusaders against the open cut have not informed the property owners that under the proceedings it will be to the interest of the contractor to make a record job of it. All cash must be in the city's hands or all bond provisions accepted before the work will be started. All work must be done before the contractor will get his money. Engineers estimate that First street can be opened through the hill in six months' time, if that part of the work is attempted by itself as a first step.

Many a deluded property owner will get his first intimation that he does not have to pay his assessments in cash, when he receives the Council's open cut literature. The fact that any owner may distribute his payments over a quarter of a century under the open cut proceedings, as now determined upon, is, in the opinion of the Fact and Comment man, the thing that will play the biggest part in getting the project through. The only argument against it, worthy of the name, has been the one question of cost to those assessed. Even that problem has now been solved.

BUILDING IMPROVEMENT.

Volume of Structural Operations Shows Gain Over Last Year.

Building operations continued to show a steady improvement through February by comparison with the corresponding month of last year, according to the monthly report issued by the chief inspector of buildings on March 1. Both J. J. Backus, head of the building department, and his chief deputy, Mark C. Cohn, express confidence that 1916 will rank high among the years of Los Angeles' construction activity.

Permits to the number of 676, representing a total outlay of $976,378, were issued during February for new buildings of all kinds in this city. The totals for February, 1915, were 538 permits and a valuation of $560,697.

To date for the year 1260 permits, representing a valuation of $2,655,102, have been granted. The totals for the same period in 1915 were 1184 permits and $1,421,057 in valuation.

James V. Baldwin, owner and subdivider of the new Marlborough Square tract in the North Wilshire district, reports sales of homesites aggregating $23,000 for the two weeks that the subdivision has been upon the market. This activity, he declares, indicates a revival in the demand for residence subdivision property. The new tract adjoins the Windsor Square tract on the north and is close to the fashionable new Marlborough School for Girls on West Third street. It is on the line of the proposed new West First-street boulevard.

For Permanent Home.

BUYS BEVERLY HOUSE.

Wealthy Woman Who Recently Received Record Consideration for Magnificent Foothill Estate Acquires Smaller Property In the Same Vicinity.

Having recently disposed of her palatial mansion in the foothills back of Beverly Hills at a consideration reported to have been in the neighborhood of $200,000, Mrs. Eudora Thorkildsen, divorced wife of Thomas Thorkildsen, president of the Sterling Borax Company, purchased yesterday a smaller place in the same vicinity, where she proposes making her permanent home. The house contains 10 rooms and is in the Mission style of architecture. It occupies a 100-foot lot on Rodeo drive a short distance south of the Beverly Hills Hotel. For it Mrs. Thorkildsen is reported to have paid a consideration of $14,000.

The sale of the former Thorkildsen estate, with its thirty-room Elizabethan house and its seventeen acres of wooded foothill and canyon land, to L. Joyce, a retired capitalist of Boston, was a sensation in the local realty market last month and was reported exclusively in The Times. This magnificent place figured in the property settlement between the Thorkildsens late in 1915, when the borax magnate secured a decree on the ground of extreme cruelty. It is regarded as one of the residence show places of Southern California.

The residence just acquired by Mrs. Thorkildsen, while in no way comparable in size or elegance of appointment with the mansion she sold, is of attractive design and finish. It was built by W. C. Campbell, of Hollywood, and was only recently completed. Mrs. Thorkildsen, who has been staying at the Beverly Hills Hotel, is now moving into the place.

REPORTS CASH SALES.

Ginsburg, lot on east side of Hobart, near Sixth street, 60x150 feet, $5750 cash; S. S. Dickinson to J. H. Smailes, two lots on east side of Catalina street, between Wilshire boulevard and Seventh street, 120x145 feet, $12,500 cash; F. W. Purrington to Isabella M. Allen, lot on east side of Normandie, 200 feet north of Third street, 75x150 feet, $3250 cash; Richard G. Beebe to Q. A. Knouse, lot on west side Tenth avenue, between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth streets, 50x140 feet, $1500 cash; Glenn M. Smith to G. M. All of the sites, it is announced, will be improved.

NEW RAMONA ACRES.

Ernest R. Durell, a retired business man of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, purchased two adjoining farms at New Ramona Acres during the past week from the Janss Investment Company for a given consideration of $3800. He has started construction work on a bungalow and is setting out his land to fruit trees and garden. An improved Ramona Acres tract was sold during the week to D. E. Plank, superintendent of paving and bridge construction work for the Pacific Electric Railway, for $3750. The improvements consist of a five-room bungalow, chicken corrals and a small orchard of fruit trees. With the building work now in progress, fifteen new homes have been completed or started at New Ramona Acres during the past month, according to the Janss company.

JUAB VALLEY SALES.

The Conant-Winstanley Company reports having sold to William F. Squires 240 acres in the Juab Valley district of Utah. Mr. Squires has purchased a portable house and a 42-horsepower tractor and will at once improve and develop his land, it is announced. Mrs. Margaret Switzer, whose son bought Juab Valley lands last summer, has just purchased additional lands in the same section, and will make her home in the district.

OPEN AVACADO TRACT.

An avocado orchard tract, planted to the Harmon variety of the fruit, with forty-eight trees to the acre, has been laid out by the firm of Stearns & Webster, as owners and agents at Fairview. A water supply from flowing wells has been installed, with steel pressure pipes, said to be adequate for domestic and irrigation purposes. The Southern Pacific Railway has a station on the property, and the new macadam highway from Los Angeles to Newport and Balboa fronts the land. The holding is to be marketed in one-acre parcels, the developers caring for the grove for four years, it is announced.

NEW FIRM IN FIELD.

The Robert L. Ware Investment Company has been organized to do a general real estate, rental, mortgage loan and insurance business. The officers are Robert L. Ware, president; C. S. Edwards, vice-president and treasurer, and Edwin M. Ware, secretary.

WHEAT DECLINES MARKET IS STEADY.

GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT TO ISSUE NEXT WEEK.

Prices are Influenced by Knowledge that Liberal Reserve Holdings are Still in the Hands of the Farmers—Provisions are on the Up-grade.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—Wheat declined in value today influenced to a considerable degree by prospects that the government crop report from Washington next week would show liberal reserve holdings were still in the hands of farmers. The market closed steady but ½@⅝ to ¾ net lower, with May at 1.13¼@1.13⅜, and July at 1.10½. Corn finished ⅛ off to 1-16 up and oats down ⅛@¼ to ⅛ up. In provisions the outcome was a gain of 5 to 15. Favorable weather for the domestic crop movement eased the corn market. Trade in oats was almost entirely of a local character. Higher prices on hogs carried up provisions.

COTTON PRICES ARE DEPRESSED.

SELLING BY PROFESSIONALS AND THE BEARS.

Failure of Liquidation to Develop and the Evidence of a Fair Demand Around Fifty for May Somewhat Discouraging to the Traders and Speculators.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—Selling by local professionals and leading bears depressed cotton prices early, but the failure of liquidation to develop and evidence of a fair demand around 50 for May was rather discouraging to this element, and resulted later in efforts to cover. There was nothing startling in the news developments over night, and the strengthened technical position of the market was chiefly responsible for the underlying firmness. Spot advances, however, seem to indicate that offerings have diminished preceptibly. Scarcity of tonnage continues to militate against freer export demands. Spinners takings for the week were 367,000 bales against 303,000 bales last year. The trade continues to discuss the political situation in an animated way, and this influence therefore will have an important bearing on the future destiny of prices.

Liverpool cables due 1½ higher on March, 2½ higher on May and 3 higher on July, came 5 lower than due on March and May, and 3½ lower on July. The spot market was dull; prices easier; sales, 5000; speculation and export, 500; American, 3310; receipts, 13,000; American, 11,900; middlings, 7.83; futures opened steady.

Stocks and Bonds.

STOCK TRADING IS LIGHT; SPECIALTIES MANIPULATED.

Petroleum, Tobacco and Coppers go to Higher Figures. Report of Corn Products Company Shows Substantial Gains in Income and Surplus—Railroads Handle Large Tonnage.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—Although there were no developments during today's short session of the market, stocks again were under the uncertain influences resulting from the situation at Washington. Trading was light to the point of utter apathy.

In the first half of the session a few specialties, chiefly petroleums, tobaccos and coppers, were manipulated to higher levels. Later the market began to drop in all quarters. Total sales amounted to 165,000 shares.

The annual report of the Corn Products Company, showing substantial gains in income and surplus, offered partial explanation for the recent activity and strength of that stock, and additional statements of railway earnings attested the maintenance of large tonnage on main systems.

Bonds were steady, with total sales, par value, $1,260,000.

United States coupon 3s advanced ⅛, registered 3s and 4s, ¼, and Panama coupon 3s, ½ per cent. on call during the week.

LITTLE ACTIVITY ON LOCAL EXCHANGE.

WEEK-END TRADING OF SMALL PROPORTIONS.

Sales of Associated Oil Increase in Volume—Mining Stocks Continue to Attract Attention of Speculators—Home Telephone Securities in Demand.

Continued heavy buying of Associated Oil was the only feature out of the ordinary at Saturday's session of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Amalgamated was firm at 81.00 and 1000 shares of New Pennsylvania Petroleum sold for 25. A few shares of Los Angeles Investment changed hands at steady prices and the remainder of the activity was distributed among the mining issues. Gold Range was a heavy trader and the stock closed up at 14½ bid. United Northern advanced and Boundary Cone was strong throughout the day. Ivanhoe continued to accumulate strength and closing transactions were recorded at 22. Home Telephone securities were firm on call and the demand for the preferred stock was rather well sustained. Bonds were steady but there was no active call for the same. Practically all the bank stocks have been strong of late and First National in particular has attracted attention of buyers, bids for the stock being at the high figure of 630.00.

THE CITRUS MARKET IN THE MID WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

Cases sold chiefly at 6.50 and 7.00 and freezer stock on a basis of 20 per quart; some small and soft went at 15. Apples—Western, boxes, eight varieties, 1.25@2.50, latter prices for fancy delicious. Oranges—Boxes, California navels, small to medium, 2.50@3.00; large, 2.25; Florida, 2.50, 2.75@3.00 for extra fancy. Lemons—Boxes, California fancy, 3.25; choice but off sizes, 2.75@3.00. Kumquats, quarts, 12½. Grapefruit—Boxes, 1.50@2.50.

COMMERCIAL.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Almost every meat cut in the provision list was raised in price Friday, although the only change in the live stock list was the advancing of hogs. Beef cuts in particular have advanced sharply and dressed hogs are half a cent higher. Poultry prices remain practically the same as previous quotations, with broilers still very expensive.

Apples are stronger and fancy four-tier Bellefleurs have been marked up to $1.50 a box, while White Winter Pearmains are up 10 cents a box at $1.35. The last keg of Red Emperor grapes was sold yesterday, and as a result the local market is now totally bare of grapes of any kind. Pineapples are in good demand and the jobbing price continues 6 cents a pound. Idaho Russet potatoes are more expensive, the quotation yesterday having been raised to $2 and $2.10 a sack. Seed potatoes are moving freely and the call for Bliss Triumph is unusually heavy for this time of the year. In the dried bean list black eyes are a trifle firmer and the buyer is offered a wide range of quality and sizes at $4 to $4.50 a hundred. White beans are steady, although the market on the same has been rather sluggish of late.

A small shipment of cocoanuts arrived in Los Angeles yesterday from the West Indies and they were at once placed on sale at $1.10 a dozen. The nuts were of an exceptional quality and ran above normal size. Brazil nuts are scarce, as the crop in South America was small this season. Prices today run 17½ to 18 cents a pound.

Trading was of limited proportions on the Produce Exchange Saturday, 30 cubes of butter extras selling for 25 cents a pound and 20 cases of eggs bringing 18 cents a dozen. At the price mentioned for butter the market was 1 cent a pound stronger. The cheese list was neglected and little interest was paid to the offerings. Jack cheese appears plentiful and most of the dealers are stocked up with this variety. Eastern sorts, on the other hand, are scarce and will be for a few weeks. Receipts were 496 cases of eggs, 53,800 pounds of butter, 3100 pounds of cheese, 3510 sacks of potatoes and 300 sacks of onions.

We Recommend Immediate Purchase of Lucky Boy

Those who have been watching the market have seen Lucky Boy advance from 12½c to 22½c.

Those who followed our advice and bought at the low price have seen their investment almost

DOUBLE IN VALUE

In our opinion Lucky Boy is selling too low. We predict still higher prices —still greater profits. The shaft is down 180 feet and in heavily mineralized ledge matter that indicates an ore shoot at less depth than was expected.

IF YELLOW PINE SHOULD BE LISTED ON THE NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE
WHAT WOULD IT BE SELLING FOR?

Compare Butte and Superior, a similar zinc producer, listed on the New York Stock Exchange. It is earning about 200 per cent. net for its stockholders and the stock is selling at $93 per share or over nine times the par value of per share. A year ago it was $25 per share.

Yellow Pine is earning about 100 per cent. net for its stockholders, has ore reserves and is admittedly one of the best managed mining properties in the country. Yet its stock is offered at $2.00 per share or only twice its par of $1.00 per share.

Is it not reasonable to conclude that Yellow Pine would command $8.00 per share if it were listed on the New York Exchange? A 10 per cent. dividend was paid Feb. 20th. Another dividend of at least 10 per cent. will be paid March 25th to stock of record March 10th. Buy the stock now. SHARE IN THE WAR'S PROFITS.

SCOTTY ARMSTRONG WINS INVITATION TOURNAMENT.

Defeats D. de Windt Four up and Three in 36 Holes. Youthful Player has Hopes at First, but Soon Loses Them—Armstrong Does not Play Sensational Golf, but, as Usual, Manages to Win with Ease.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, March 4.—E. S. Armstrong of "ours" won the Santa Barbara Country Club's invitation tournament. He beat D. de Windt of this club in the finals today, 4 up and 3 in 36 holes. He had shut his hand in a door, was feeling decidedly under the weather, was not playing spectacular golf, but as usual he managed to play just well enough to win.

The youthful De Windt had him two down at the eighth in the first round and suffered thrills of hope. But he was 1 down at the thirteenth, 1 down at the sixteenth, halved the seventeenth and won the eighteenth with a clever putt; Armstrong 3 up when they retired for lunch. Although the boy was obviously nervous he managed to square the match at the eighth, winning the fourth, fifth, seventh and eighth in the second round, but he never won another hole after that and the match ended on the fourteenth.

OLD ELM CLUBBER.

This young De Windt is a member of the famous Old Elm Club of Chicago, which holds femininity in contempt and bars them from membership. He is out here for his health, but is a really fine player in embryo. He has an odd little trick of simulating a vast indifference when his opponent makes his shot, gazing afar at the scenery in magnificent preoccupation. One suspects this to be a psychological necessity, what the eye doth not see the heart doth not grieve. Our southern players will bring home all the array of cups, excepting only the two runner-up trophies for the first and second flights, one of which goes to De Windt and the other to L. Pritchett. Orange County players continued their career of scintillation today. "Poll" Perritt, soon to pitch for San Francisco, won the second flight, beating L. Pritchett 8 up and 7 to go in the 36 holes, with an 86 medal score in both rounds. That was just the amount of his handicap, which will, of course, see a severe cut when he returns to Balboa. For a golf prodigy, he is certainly a wonder, has actually improved his game another ten strokes this week, and he only played his first game under Simpson's tutelage less than six weeks ago. He won a cup at Altadena a week ago, too.

INFANT PRODIGY.

Another infant prodigy is the very youthful Howard Thurston of Orange County, who won the third flight, beating S. M. Coe of this club 6 and 4 in the 36-hole finals. He was 7 up at the end of the first flight, and was never once down throughout the match. Since Lee Collins won the next qualifying cup that makes three for Orange county in one tournament, and Harold B. Lamb of Midwick won the best gross, so our southern clubs just swept the board.

No wonder W. L. Parkinson, who is a sort of fairy godfather to the Orange County Club, basked in sentimental enthusiasm and had a yearning for celebrations. What does a mere local team match trophy matter compared to a triumph like this, dash it all, when your men can sally forth to unknown fields, conquering heroes all.

VERY SUCCESSFUL.

So here endeth an eminently successful tournament, in spite of ominous weather and coy sunshine. The Santa Barbara Country Club, which, breathe it not in Gath, held a reputation for chilly exclusiveness, has proved itself a warm host and every-

FLYING RACER TURNS TURTLE.

Omar Toft and Kincaid are Badly Injured.

Fast Time Made in Second Day's Practice.

Sunbeam Takes a Rest from Speed Work.

> Late last night, George R. Bentel announced that the Ascot Speedway race programme would be carried out today unless there was a heavy downpour. If the rain ceases by noon, the cars can start as the speedway is so constructed that water will not endanger the lives of the drivers nor cut down the speed of the cars.

BY AL G. WADDELL.

Not fifty feet from the spot where Jack Callahan went through the fence and lost his life last season, Omar Toft and Arch Kincaid were wrecked yesterday afternoon while practicing in the fast Omar car entered in the 100-mile races scheduled for this afternoon by S. A. McKee.

Both the driver and mechanic were badly mangled. Toft, the driver, was badly cut about the body and his right arm was torn in several places. It was reported that Kincaid suffered a compound fracture of both legs together with internal injuries and a shattered knee cap.

UNFORTUNATE.

The accident marred the second official practice on the Ascot Speedway. Toft had just turned several laps at the fast pace of fifty-five seconds to the mile. There was a cloud of dust and smoke and two men lay unconscious on the speedway with the Omar car a total wreck.

It happened as the car was coming out of the first turn, Toft was driving high on the bank as he swept down onto the straightaway, the rear wheels started to slide away from the pole. The car was traveling too fast for Toft to straighten out of the skid and as he pulled hard at the wheel, he crashed through the pole fence and the car turned over in the space between the track and the parking space.

ROMANO AHEAD.

Rea Lentz, on the Romano, was just ahead of the Omar and his mechanic was looking back over his shoulder and saw the accident. The Tahis was just behind Toft and the driver of Frederick Robinson's car was the first to reach the injured men.

As soon as the Omar rolled over, S. A. McKee, entrant and owner, jumped into his touring car and raced across the infield to the scene of the wreck. Bill Taylor, driver of the Marmon, was on the scene as McKee arrived and assisted in putting the unfortunate driver and his mechanic into the car.

QUICK WORK.

Before the ambulance could get to the scene, the men were on the way to the Angelus Hospital and McKee, veteran Phoenix road race pilot, shattred all traffic records between the speedway and the hospital.

As soon as the accident occurred, the drivers were flagged down and when they were again turned loose, they all played for safety and no laps were turned faster than 52s. flat. The drivers all were more or less affected by the accident to Toft, but

ROGER BRESNAHAN FINALLY FIXED.

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—All is quiet along the Potomac so far as Roger Patrick Bresnahan and Charles Weeghman are concerned. Word comes from Toledo that Roger received satisfaction from the Cub owner a week ago and will not return to Chicago, but his attorney has signed or will sign the papers which give the Dook a proper settlement of his contract to boss the North Siders.

Bresnahan received $10,000 for peaceable severance of relations with Weeghman, which $10,000 he will immediately convey to the Cleveland bankers as part payment for the A.A. franchise. This he will pack to his home village, Toledo where the portly backstop expects to wax prosperous magnating. Weeghman admitted tonight that he expected official confirmation from Bresnahan. However, Roger's Chicago attorney already had authority to close the deal.

THOMSON TAKES HIGH HURDLES FROM KELLY.

New Star Noses Champion Out by an Inch—Time is Clocked at 15 Seconds Flat—U.S.C. Tracksters Walk Away from the L.A.A.C. Hopes—Beebe Captures Mile Event with Very Little Trouble.

THERE was much excitement out at U.S.C. yesterday afternoon. The Iconoclasts were busy and also the young gentleman who tended the score board. Although a college student and versed in calculus and trigonometry, he had a lively time splitting hair-like fractions. Before the score reached its final proportions, U.S.C., 85 9-10, and L.A.A.C., 45 1-10, he was suffering from an acute case of writer's cramp.

The first idol-breaking took place in the 120-yard high hurdles. Kelly, the champion, and Thomson, the contender, were off from their marks in perfect unison and charged down the course side by side with heads back and nostrils dilated, like the mythical span of the sun god.

INTIMATE.

Not a hair's breadth separated them until the third from the last hurdle. Here Thomson seemed to be in the air a fraction of a second ahead of Kelly. By the next barrier this lead was slightly longer. On the last hurdle Thomson's right foot touched the ground, while Kelly was still in the air. Exactly this difference separated them at the finish. Many thought the race to be a tie.

AWFULLY SWIFT.

The timers then got together and shook their heads in a mysterious manner. Two of the clocks said fifteen seconds and the third recorded 14 3-5 seconds. The former mark was agreed upon, although it will not stand as official, since the required number of timers were not on hand. If the time had been allowed as official Thomson would now be a co-holder of the world's record

However, Kelly came back good and strong in the low hurdles. He was up against Harry Kirkpatrick and Thomson. Kirkpatrick was pressing the champ up until the last curve, when the junior champion suddenly wobbled and lost his stride, finishing a poor third. Something or other inside of Kirk's leg had slipped out of place or the results might read differently.

Pete Bagnard, the broad and genial Pete of Pasadena High fame, contributed greatly to the afternoon's entertainment. Not content with winning the discus and shot put and getting third in the broad jump, he decided to enter the high jump, much to the delight of the bleachers.

MUCH TOO FAT.

When it came his turn to jump Pete would sing out, "Here goes the fat boy. Just watch him!" For a time Pete's balloon-like bulk sailed over the stick in great shape. But he finally broke the cross-bar and retired. Four other gents tied with him for third place.

The mile was a pretty race. Miller, the fat little U.S.C. boy, looked like the goat until near the finish. In the last lap he managed to pull up from fourth to second, although he appeared to be all in before the second circle was finished. This event was won by Crippen of the Trojans in 4 min. 45 4-5 sec.

Beebe, the Anaheim wonder who is now a Trojan, captured the 880 without seriously exerting himself. Bonnett, who was expected to duel with him for first honors, did not display his personage to the fans at all. Tuffy Conn was likewise missing, having chosen to witness the Pasadena and Pomona High fracas instead of upholding the honor of the Mercuryites.

RELAY EASY.

The relay was a walkaway for the Trojans, although Starter Bob Weaver nearly acquired nervous prostration in getting Moseley and Dillible off on their journey. This pair showed so

TRUCK MAKERS ARE KEPT BUSY.

The motor truck makers of the United States are just entering an era of prosperity which will last for years, in the opinion of W. K. Chilchott, sales manager of the General Motors Truck Company, who is visiting the western branches, and was the guest of Don Lee during the last week. While the war orders have kept the manufacturers busy, there will be a greater purchasing of trucks after the war is over than there is at present.

In the rehabilitation of the warring nations trucks of every size and power will be in constant demand, and the American makers will reap a huge harvest. The dearth of draft animals will make it imperative for Europe to turn its attention to the motor trucks for transportation purposes. Europe will not be able to fill the demand out of its war-racked factories, and the result will be heavier orders than ever before.

While the General Motors trucks are being used by several of the warring nations, it has been the policy of the company to fill all American orders first, and large contracts with Europe have been refused because to have filled them would have meant to starve the American market.

J. W. Leavitt,

Explaining how to keep carbon out of combustion chamber.

ELIMINATING THE CARBON.

BY J. W. DEAVITT,

President J. W. Leavitt & Co., Pacific Coast Overland Distributors.

KEEPING carbon out of the combustion chamber is very easily attended to by anyone by scraping the carbon loose with carbon scrapers which can be secured from any supply store, and blowing carbon out of the valve domes, or the valve caps, with a foot pump, bellows, or compressed air. The only point to be careful about is to see that the valves are shut so that none of the loose carbon will get under one of the valve seats.

To insure the piston being in firing position, with both valves closed, proceed as follows: Remove the valve caps or domes from No. 1 cylinder, open the pet cocks in the other cylinders, crank the engine over by hand and watch the inlet valve until it rises and then seats. The next time the piston comes to the top it will be in firing position and both valves are shut with the piston anywhere near the top.

With the piston at the top, or within 1-4 inch of the top of the stroke, get in with your set of three carbon scrapers and scrape the carbon loose and blow it out as above directed. Screw in the valve domes and pass on to the next cylinder, working the one cylinder at a time. On a four-cylinder car the usual firing order is 1, 3, 4, 2, so if you have the piston of No. 1 cylinder in the right position, if you will turn the engine one-half of a revolution, No. 3 will be in firing position, so you could scrape the cylinders in their firing order, turning just half a turn each time.

It is not necessary to grind the valves except after several thousand miles' use—about once a season—but the carbon scraping can be done to advantage frequently—any time you wish the car to run a little better—it is time well spent, and will eliminate many so-called "engine knocks," and give great increase of engine power. The necessity for carbon scraping can be much reduced by injecting a tablespoonful of kerosene into each cylinder through the pet cock after a day's run while the cylinders are hot. Do this once a week.

CAR AND TIRES SAVE THE KING.

If ever there was a time when life depended on a good tire it was that time when the King of Servia fled before the advance of the Bulgars to cross the border into Montenegro. A delay occasioned by a blow-out might have changed, at least in one important detail, the history of Servia.

The flight was made in a Cadillac "Eight," and the tires with which the car was equipped were Kelly-Springfield kant-slips. Since the Kelly-Springfield company has refused to make any direct shipments of tires to any of the warring nations, preferring to remain absolutely neutral and take care of the business at home, the car probably was equipped with Kellys when it left the factory.

ART KLEIN NO LONGER RACER.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

YOUNGSTOWN (O.) March 1.—Arthur Klein, former racing driver and well known on the Pacific Coast, where he piloted the King and Puente Pronto and in all the races of the 1915 season, and a Stutz in the last Corona race, has retired from racing for all time, according to his own statement. Klein was ruled off the course at Indianapolis and then competed in some outlaw meets, after which he was disqualified by the contest board of the A.A.A. and became a hippodromer, breaking several speed records on outlaw tracks, driving the Kleinart car. Art Klein was refused reinstatement by the contest board and he decided to go into the automobile business.

Securing the agency for the White line in Youngstown and the entire Mahoning county territory, the former speed merchant is now the head of the Kleinart Motor Service Company, which handles both the White truck and the White line of touring cars.

CAISTER WITH FAULKNER NOW.

Al G. Faulkner, Southern California distributor for the Marmon car, and his new sales manager, E. E. Caister, are receiving the mutual congratulations of their friends along automobile row, Mr. Faulkner for securing a man of such ability to take charge of the sales force, and Mr. Caister for becoming associated with the Marmon and a man who knows the automobile game as Mr. Faulkner does.

For nine years Mr. Caister was the sales manager of the Earl C. Anthony Company, and has had long experience in the motor car world, all of it with buyers of high-grade cars. His experience in this field has formed for him friendships which will be invaluable in his new position.

Caleb Bragg, the famous racing driver, was one of the first to greet Mr. Caister as sales manager of the Faulkner company. Bragg is here to continue his study of aviation. He has not yet decided whether to drive at Corona or not. He shipped his Marmon "34" to the Coast several weeks ago.

LOCAL FACTORY DOUBLES OUTPUT.

H. K. Wheeler of the Miller Carburetor Sales Corporation, reports that the demand for Harry A. Miller's new automatic carburetor, for which the company has the exclusive contract for marketing, is far exceeding the present supply of the local factory.

The Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company is now making every effort to increase its equipment in order that the capacity of the plant may be fifty carburetors a day by April 15. The fact that this carburetor requires no adjustment and is absolutely automatic is making a strong appeal to motorists. Two small advertisements in The Times brought so much business that it has been found necessary to double the capacity of the factory to supply the demand.

Pittsburgh University will in the near future boast a $2,000,000 athletic stadium if present plans go through.

Thru Ice and Snow

An official of a prominent Los Angeles corporation drives an Ensign-equipped Cole "Six."

In February he drove from Los Angeles into Nevada and Utah—through freezing weather—snow 18 inches deep and into an altitude of 9500 feet, at an average of 12½ miles to the gallon.

We have his signed statement that these conditions made no difference with his Ensign.

DRIVE BANDITS OUT OF SOUTH.

Auto Club President Issues Call for Action.

Advises Motorists to Help Police Nab Crooks.

Lap Robes Tempt Well-dressed Hook Weilders.

That the motorists of Southern California should unite and drive automobile thieves from this part of the State was the declaration made yesterday by Fred L. Baker, president of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

In a statement unusually vital at this time, President Baker pointed out that each automobile owner can co-operate with the club's theft bureau and the police by becoming each his own detective.

If every motorist would make up his mind that his car would not be stolen, and take precautions to make this a fact, then there would be no more of this sort of criminal work, he said. In view of the fact that from one single block in the business section of Los Angeles more than 500 automobiles were stolen last year, it becomes apparent that a carefully-worked-out system of thievery has been and is practised.

"No matter how large or how efficient the police department, no matter how active the club's theft bureau, automobile stealing in Southern California will continue to lead the world until the car owners themselves join forces and protect their property," stated Mr. Baker yesterday.

WORSE HERE.

"It is an acknowledged fact that nowhere else in the United States is automobile thievery practised so extensively as in Southern California. There are good and sufficient reasons for this, which have often been outlined by the police department and by the Automobile Club. Granting these, then there must be found a solution to the matter.

"Suppose an automobile owner drives up to the curb in the Los Angeles shopping district. When he alights from his car he is followed by a thief or an accomplice, who 'spots' his destination, while another steps into the car and drives it away with an air of proprietorship. The automobile is almost invariably stolen while the engine is yet 'warm.'

"According to club detectives, this was the method employed in each of the 500 cases reported from that single downtown block. Now, what can the motorist do? He can turn just after he has left the car and while he is entering the office building or shop where he is going, and look to see if a stranger is entering his car. Or he can return suddenly a few minutes afterward and look to see if the car is still there.

"Delay in reporting a theft has proved fatal to the recovery of a stolen automobile in a number of instances. It is necessary that 'tracers' be sent out by the theft bureau immediately a car is taken, else the thieves will pass through the same 'checking stations' and make good their escape to some private garage or to Nevada or Arizona, where it is triply difficult to dig them out.

Presenting Letters From Byron Erkenbrecker
and Gen. E. C. Bellows

They Speak for Themselves

"Don Lee, Esq.,
"12th and Main Sts.,
"Los Angeles, Cal.
"Dear Sir:

"In connection with my purchase, just completed from you of a Type No. 53, 7-passenger Cadillac touring car, 1916 model, beg to state that this is the third consecutive Cadillac auto which I have purchased, and that this last one was taken by me without even a demonstration.

"I have now driven Cadillac cars over 50,000 miles, and certainly would not purchase another one if I had not heretofore been very greatly pleased and satisfied with the workings of its mechanism. I have never yet found a hill too steep or a road too rough for it to get over.

"Incidentally, will mention that I have obtained remarkable mileage from my tires, the two rear ones have gone 12,500 miles and 12,700 miles respectively and the front tires over 17,400 miles and over 18,000 miles respectively.

"My opinion of this car is the very highest and it's an absolutely unbaised one, based on my own judgement, observation and use.

"Thanking you very kindly for past courtesies and considerations which I have received at your hands, and wishing you continued success and prosperity, I beg to remain,

"Yours very sincerely,
(Signed) "Byron Erkenbrecker."

"Don Lee,
"Los Angeles.
"My Dear Sir:

"Now that I feel perfectly at home with my new car, I feel that it is only just to you and any others that may be interested, to say that although I drove the splendid Stevens-Duryea car for seven years, I never realized the acme of joy, pleasure and solid comfort until I drove a Cadillac "8" of the 1916 vintage.

"That you may not regard my conclusions as the hysterical illusions of an over-wrought imagination, I will add that TEN of my immediate neighbors are happy and contented owners of Cadillac cars, and my expressions of satisfaction are modest as compared with the high praise of these people, each of whom has owned and operated other cars.

"Another topic of conversation among Cadillac owners that should be pleasent reading to you pepole, is the courteous, fair, and honorable treatment accorded your customers in the Don Lee garage. This is all the more noticable to me, because of the striking contrast with my past experience with men, whose modest talents were devoted to self instead of service.

"Hoping that the Don Lee conduct and the Cadillac cars will never cause me to reverse my present high esteem of both, I am "Very respectfully,

(Signed) "E. C. Bellows."

HUNS CAPTURE A CLOSE MEET.

McLain Disqualified, Giving Opponents Margin.

Adkinson Leaves Cook in the Quarter Mile.

Tigers Make a Joke Out of the Relay Race.

BY HOWARD ANGUS.

Pomona won the dual track meet from Occidental at Baer field yesterday as predicted by the wise ones, but the score was much closer than the most nervous and pessimistic Hun ever feared. The final figures read Pomona, 68 1-2, Occidental 62 1-2.

POMONA'S HERO.

Nor was the meet won as the Huns expected by Adkinson running away from Cook in the last lap of the relay or by Stone trimming Lupher and Webster in the sprints. The party who won the meet for Pomona was a thin, little man of fifty, gray haired and stooped with years. He did not get into a track suit to win the meet either and his name was never announced through the megaphone.

He won the meet by disqualifying Fred McLain of Occidental in the high hurdles. The long and lanky Tiger finished ahead of the narrow Hun Green with Creighton of Occidental just behind the two. Away back in the rear was Wallace of Pomona. When the judges came to look over the hurdles they found that two were down in the lines of McLain and Wallace. It takes three to disqualify, so Seward A. Simons waved his hand to signify all was well.

HERE HE IS.

Then it was that this little gray-haired man came running and tugged at the coat of Seward A. Simons. "Mr. Simons," he said, "there should be only one hurdle down in Wallace's lane. McLain knocked down the other one when he knocked down his."

Simons gave a long, low whistle like a detective whistling for a pal. "Then McLain knocked down three," he said. The little man nodded and McLain was disqualified. That gave Green first, Creighton second, Wallace third and six points to Pomona and three to Occidental instead of the other way round. That was just the number of points Pomona won by. But for that the meet would have been tied.

Wallace, who was behind McLain in the race, said afterwards that he did not remember stepping over a fallen hurdle. Several psychologists present took notes on the subject. They seemed to think the feat a remarkable one in the annals of mind history.

WALLACE AGAIN.

There was another exciting moment in the broad jump. The meet would have been up to the relay had Occidental won all three places. With three Occidental jumpers and one Pomona all within three inches of each other, Wallace, the Hun, leaped into second place and cinched the day for Pomona.

It was lucky he did for just a few minutes later the Tigers won the relay by about fifty yards. The Huns didn't want the meet left to the relay with Lupher, Ohl, Wells and Cook running for the Tigers.

This Wallace man ought to be given a medal by Pomona. It was his lane in which McLain knocked down the extra hurdle. So he figured very largely in the victory.

THE QUARTER.

Adkinson defeated Cook, Wells and Lupher of Occidental in the 440. This was probably the most exciting race of the day and the feature event of the programme. Stock Cook lit out from the gun at top speed and plowed along with his head down, followed by the wiley Adkinson.

As the two runners rounded the curve by the traning quarters, Cook was still plowing along. Adkinson, however, stretched out several feet farther on each stride and glided past Cook, his twisted face alone showing the strain. As the two runners came into the straightaway Adkinson never slowed down. Cook wobbled and Wells came up from behind and slipped by him as he fell toward the tape.

Stone did not turn out to be the sprinter that early reports predicted. Lupher defeated him in the 100 in 10 3-5 seconds, while Lupher and Webster rushed across the tape breast and breast in the 220 with Stone about ten yards behind.

ALL POMONA.

The distance races ran true to dope with Pomona taking every place but third in the half. In the two-mile run the Pomona long distance men ran together in a bunch singing college songs to while away the time. They chided Stanton after the race for not entering a four man who could sing tenor so that they could have a quartette.

In the mile Gerry slipped one over on Walt and Det Sturges by winning. Walt strived hard to win in the last few strides but the judges could not be bribed and gave the race to Gerry. Det Sturges ran along behind Gerry telling him funny stories to keep up his courage and his mind in a happy mood. Det said after the race that he'd be hanged if he'd tell Gerry any more stories.

NOT A CHANCE.

Green was outclassed in the low hurdles, skidding considerably on the turns. Daniels ran like a champion for 200 yards. During the last twenty yards he complained of being dizzy and was seen to stumble on the last hurdle almost landing on his bean. While he was falling, Creighton was winning the race.

Tub Wieman, the broad athlete of Occidental, startled the students thereoff by breaking the college record in the hammer throw, tossing the lead pellet out 134 ft., 7 in. This news was received with uncovered heads in Arizona. Parson Thomson, who held the record, is the skypilot out there.

The field events as a whole were divided about evenly between the two schools with nobody but Tubby doing anything startling.

EASY MONEY.

In the relay the Occidental runners had sweet revenge for the defeat slipped over on them by Pomona at Pasadena. Ohl started out by leaving Nisbet fifteen yards behind. Lupher kept up the good work and reached he tape about twenty-five yards ahead of Dowling. Wells aided and abetted in the victory by finishing thirty-five yards ahead ofg Green. With that lead against him Adkinson had little chance of catching Cook. The Tiger ran the first 220 yards easily watching the Hun over his shoulder. After Adkinson was all tired out, Cook sprinted and won in a walk.

CORONADO POLO MEN PRACTICE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—The cut-in practice game at the Coronado polo field this afternoon, the last before the opening of the annual tournament tomorrow, was of peculiar interest in many respects. Perry Beadleston, the New York poloist who has been unable to go on the field for six weeks since his fall, appeared on the field as referee. Mr. Beadleston, who was thought dead at the time of the accident, will be able to play in the tournament, it is said.

Arriving on the noon train just in time for the game, C. Maurice Heckaher, well-known New York polo player, lost no time but joined in the cut-in. Heckaher's ponies have been awaiting him here for six weeks and as he carried his polo togs with him on the train he was ready for the game.

DUTCH REUTHER IS SIGNED UP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—Dutch Reuther signed his 1916 contract with Blankenship this morning after half an hour's chat. Reuther will be used in the outfield for the first month, or until such time as Ryan is able to get back into the game.

Blankenship had intended to go to Stockton to see Jimmy Shinn, but has decided that it will not be necessary.

"Reuther tells me he has received a letter from Shinn, in which Jimmy declares he will sign his contract as soon as he sees me," said Blankenship. "That's all I wanted to know, so I will wait for Shinn to arrive here. That practically means that the entire club has been signed and we can rest easy."

PADDOCK WINS FOR PASADENA.

CHAMP SPRINTER TAKES HUNDRED-YARD DASH.

Relay is Most Exciting Event of the Day—Long Beach Leads Until the Last Lap and Then Burton Comes Through with Sprint and Wins by a Foot.

Charles Paddock was altogether too good for the Long Beach sprinters yesterday, and as a result, the Pasadena High tracksters triumphed over the beachcombers by a 69-to-44 score.

Young Paddock, the freshmen marvel of Pasadena, nosed out Mattox in the 100-yard dash in 10 1-5 seconds, which is fast time for that track. Not being satisfied with the honors he had already won, he again stacked up against Mattox in the 220-yard dash. After the first 150 yards of the race, Paddock steadily increased his lead until he breasted the tape a good six yards in the lead. The watches caught him at 22:3.

Mistah Moore, the football phenom of Pasadena, was somewhat disappointed yesterday when he was beaten in the high jump by his younger brother, Titus. The last event of the day, the relay, was a humdinger. After the Long Beach runners had lead nearly the whole time around, Burton came through with a strong finish and won by less than a foot for Pasadena.

SUMMARY.

Mile run: Won by Cooper (P.,) Staufer (P.) second, Ireland (L.B.) third; time 5 min. 2 1-5 sec.

The 100-yard dash: Won by Paddock (P.,) Mattox (L.B.) second, McKenzie (P.) third; time 10 1-5 sec.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR BUT TEN YEARS OLD.

ENTERS POLYTECHNIC WHEN HE IS ONLY SEVEN.

Youngest Student is no Prodigy, Says Mother, Just Plain Boy. Studies Algebra, Latin and Spanish, Still has Time for Scouts and to Lead in Sports with Companions.

Entering high school at only 7 years of age, at present a junior in the Los Angeles Polytechnic High School at the age of 10, and expecting to receive his Ph.D. degree at the age of 16, Raymond Ray, living at No. 1051 Westlake avenue, has earned recognition as the most learned boy in the world.

While his contemporaries in age are studying addition of a column of figures and searching for the Pacific Ocean on the map, Raymond Ray is studying advanced algebra, Latin, Spanish and chemistry.

Raymond is not a prodigy, according to his mother, Mrs. Katheryn M. Ray. The boy is well developed physically and as keenly active as any other boy of his age. He belongs to the Boy Scouts, excels in swimming and takes part in all other games with his friends. There is nothing abnormal about him. He owes his superior mental training to his mother, who has been his constant teacher since he could distinguish one object from another. She says that what she has accomplished with Raymond may be easily done with any other normal child.

Pictures formed a large part of the boy's earlier education. Before he was 10 months old he was able to call the Presidents of the United States by their correct names. At the age of 3 years he could read and write. At the age of 7, when the average boy is graduating from the kindergarten and ready to enter the first year of the elementary grades, Raymond entered high school as a freshman.

While still 7 years old he was learning to speak and read Cicero in the Latin. He is especially fond of history, and expresses himself a candidate for journalistic work when he has finished his education. He is now 10 years old and will graduate from Polytechnic High School at 11.

Raymond is called the "mascot" of the school, and is, as far as known, the youngest student ever admitted to a Los Angeles high school.

ALLEN WINS GREAT BILLIARD CONTEST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, March 4.—Champion Bennie Allen scored his first victory of the national pocket billiard meet today, beating Charles ("Cowboy") Weston of Chicago, 100 to 61. Allen played the best game of the tournament and Weston also did good work, but lost heart when the Kansas City man ran a 40. It took Allen 36 innings to run out.

Exceptionally brilliant safety play was the feature of the win Ralph Greenleaf, the Monmouth (Ill.) a boy scored over Joe Concannon of Jersey City. Greenleaf had a little the better of the safeties and won a rather slow game 100 to 61 in 54 innings, scoring a high run of 12.

COIN GIVES FORM TO LYONS'S HIGH HURDLERS.

Coach Lyons of L. A. High has adopted a unique scheme in training his high hurdlers. He places a shiny half-dollar carefully atop the barrier and instructs the men to brush it off as they go over. Hesson's good form in the high sticks is said to be due to incessant practice at "knocking down" the mazuma.

When the crowd of spectators gets too thick Lyons carefully pockets his four-bit piece and substitutes a chip or stone. It is said that Raz Kinney was looking for the customary coin when he stopped to examine the fourth barrier in the Pasadena meet.

Truth in Advertising Motor Truck Merits

WHEN a manufacturer or dealer finds it necessary through his advertising to assail the reputation of standard-made trucks of recognized merit and true value, it is evidence good, clean competition is hurting—is getting under the skin. The best proof of the truth in what we say is the increased number of Mack and Saurer trucks we are selling and the fact that the majority of our business is in repeat orders from satisfied owners.

Uplift vs. Muck Rake

INSTEAD of seeking to discourage and abuse the mind of the intending purchaser of a motor truck by false and malicious statements and the claim we sell the only Honest Trucks at Honest Prices, ours is a policy of education and enlightenment. We would be willing to print over our own signature a list of trucks we know to be good values to the prospective buyer and we would recommend any and all of them. If we were so narrow-minded as not to recognize the value of these trucks, we would feel incapable and without an idea of relative merits and values. We believe all trucks are good, but there is a broad distinguishing mark between good and BEST. Otherwise we would not be in the motor truck business. But, having the knowledge and experience we have, we would recommend only any one of LESS THAN TEN makes of trucks, including Mack and Saurer. All of these ten are of "Eastern" make and long-established reputation.

Live and Let Live Policy

OUR policy is the broad-minded one of Live and Let Live. We do not believe in boycott tactics and we are proud to acknowledge competitors' success, believing at all times the sales they make increase our market. We do not profess nor claim to be prophets, but know that to recommend or guarantee a motor truck, it must be so good a guarantee is not needed. We credit the truck buyer with intelligence and do not attempt to force his judgment by dictating his decision.

The Question of Drive

WE APPRECIATE the fact that the worm drive is more modern than the chain drive truck, just as the shaft drive touring car is more modern than the chain drive, but the word MODERN does not mean Low Operating Expense and Highest Efficiency. By reason of the fact that the worm drive has been used but a short time compared to the chain drive, we prefer to withhold our decision until the relative merits are proved. We know what the chain drive Has Done and Is Doing, therefore, are dealing in facts. We believe in the principle of the worm drive, but cannot predict nor guarantee life and mileage. Rather than assume the position of prophets and foretell the future as to what Should be, but May Not be, the International Motor Company builds both chain and worm drive models, leaving the selection to the purchaser and offering only a candid and honest opinion of the relative merits of the two types.

Crowning Proof of Supreme Merit

FRENCH automobile designers and engineers are regarded throughout the world as the peer of all and the French government has placed an order for two hundred 5-ton, chain-drive Saurer trucks with the International Motor Company. This order was dictated by the War Department and all of the trucks will be manufactured in the United States. The Saurer factories in Switzerland and France are operating at capacity to supply trucks for military service. The French War Department subsidizes the manufacturer of Saurer trucks and all are chain-drive models. This is the judgment of a nation's experts on efficiency against an obscure assertion that chain-drive trucks are obsolete and antiquated.

ARMY OFFICERS LAUD ARMY RESERVE CORPS

BY CAPT. HARMON D. RYUS,
President Oldsmobile Company of California.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The organization of the automobile reserve corps in California has met with the hearty approval of the officers of the regular army, and in the first test that I staged with them along the lines of rapid mobilization, have convinced them that this is really the only practical way in which to carry troops on the Pacific Coast in time of danger from foreign invasion. Most particularly was Gen. Sibert, commander of the Coast Artillery Corps, impressed after the trip to Half Moon Bay.

I have given this phase of our defense a great deal of study during the past five years and possibly some of the Los Angeles motorists will remember that in 1912 I took a one-pounder from the armory in Los Angeles to Pasadena and went into dummy action in just twenty-nine minutes. At this time motor transportation was considered, but no definite steps had been taken in defining ways or means and no regular organization had been thought of, such as the automobile reserve corps.

Gen. Sibert said that he was fully aware that before a motor corps could be efficient there would naturally have to be a degree of intelligence above the average. The general told me that after the Half Moon Bay trip he felt sure that to make any motor corps of great value in time of trouble, the men driving the cars would have to know them, and as it is the idea of the A.R.C. to have owners, ranking as sergeants, driving the cars, this feature will be easily met.

REAL EFFICIENCY.

"I feel sure that this branch of our volunteer service will be not only one of the most important, but also one of the greatest intelligence," said Gen. Sibert. "In time of war we would have to commandeer all automobiles for the purposes of mobilization, and in this event would have to select drivers from the ranks of the enlisted men. It is very likely that the best that could be done under the circumstances would be to find two out of ten men, detailed for driving service, who would know a car. As I understand the present movement, each driver in this corps will be owner, who, of course, will know car and be able to get more out of it in time of stress and it through rough country with more ease than any man could was driving it for the first time. is another very important which seems to have been thought and that is to have the cars of company all of one make. It is to realize just how much this mean in making long, hard trips time of war. In short, I believe this organization is the one big now needed in perfecting the of the Pacific Coast."

When it is remembered that Sibert is the officer who plant the big guns at Panama his stat should carry weight and give an added impulse in forming the automobile reserve corps. He knows tions as they exist and know problems which will have to be should this country be invaded, the fact that he will go on record strongly regarding this movement should tend to show what a there is for the motor reserve.

THE ONLY WAY.

There are certain portions of the western coast that may be by the railroads, but the places are the most tempting to an foe are generally unprotected in transportation sense. However, roads, all of which are suitable motor travel, touch all portions of the coast and at the most points.

I feel sure that should San cisco be attacked the place of would be Half Moon Bay. In cent test, staged by myself and Sibert, it was found that troops be rushed into action at this in just one hour and thirty while the heavy guns, of the variety, could be put on a in two hours and thirty-five utes. It must be remembered that landing place is just forty-four from San Francisco and over country.

It was this potential speed in the aforementioned test impressed the general. Of course could have made better time, idea been to stage a race, was not the plan. In the motor it must be remembered that the big thing is to get the troops good order and not have detach straggling in during the course or three hours. I advise a speed of not more than miles per hour, on good not more than twenty-two dirt roads. This should tend the machine in running times and this is the big feature.

We should have at least panies formed by the time of the quet in Los Angeles and I that we will have been able some regular movements of

The motor corps is something Uncle Sam needs, and every owner who can, should feel it's duty to lend all of his support organization.

MARINE CORPS COMMAND MADE UP OF ATHLETES.

Young Men Well Known in All Branches of Sport and Business Enlist in High Branch of National Guard—All Who Cannot Shoot will be Compelled to Withdraw from the Organization.

LOS ANGELES has a military organization which it is claimed will rival the Astor Battery of [illegible] York, the Cleveland Grays or the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston, before many months.

Many of the most prominent young men of the city, men well known in athletics and business, have joined the First Company, Marine Corps, Naval Militia of California. The local Marine Corps command is the second [illegible] Marine Corps command in the United States. There is one Marine Corps company in Massachusetts and the command located in Los Angeles is the first on the Pacific Coast.

Lieut. Newton Best, commanding [illegible] of the marines, is a prominent member of the Athletic Club and a [illegible] University man, well known in business circles of Southern California. The lieutenant has gone after only big leaguers for the [illegible] and has enlisted a bunch of [illegible].

REGULAR GUYS.

Among the members of the crack organization are A. T. Smith, better known as Firestone Smith, manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Firestone Tire Company. Smith is a private in the outfit. R. C. Durant, son of W. C. Durant, head of the Chevrolet factory and controller of the General Motors Company, is enlisted in the organiaztion as a bugler. [illegible] Taylor, prominent in South [illegible] yachting circles; Cecil H. Smith, advertising manager of the Moreland Motor Truck Company; Boyd Comstock, the famous track and field athlete; Waldo Throop, former champion sprinter of the University of California and now engaged in the [illegible] business, are among the enlisted personnel which is claimed to be the [illegible] of any organization in the [illegible].

Another celebrity who is a member of the marines is George Hill, racing driver and technical expert of the Harry A. Miller Manufacturing Company. C. J. Caldwell, known throughout automobile racing circles as "Doc Caddy," the carburetor expert of the Miller plant, is also a private in the highbrow citiben soldiers of the sea.

CELEBRATED GENTS.

Owen R. Bird, former star college athlete and present Pacific Coast advertising manager for the Oldsmobile Company, is a member, as is also Ray Biggy, well known automobile man now associated with the Master Carburetor Company in this city.

Andrew M. Smith, the young dental student who rode with Ralph C. Hamlin in the 1912 Phoenix road race when the Franklin distributor won first place, is one of the members of the newly organized command. W. S. Clute, Dean Fifield, Fred Jones and Herb Little are also signed up to serve in the marine command and take the cruise to the Hawaiian Islands next summer.

The company already has a waiting list and this organization will undoubtedly be one of the finest in the country as soon as the members can be whipped into shape.

One of the requirements is that every member must qualify as a first class rifleman over the regular militia course. After a year in the organization, any member who has not qualified with the government rifle will be discharged for the good of the service, according to Lieut. Best. This is the first time in California that such an order has been issued by an officer, but the lieutenant claims that twenty riflemen are worth more to the country in service than 100 kid-gloved members of a marching club.

The entire marine outfit is to attend the great preparedness banquet to be staged by the Motor Reserve organization March 15.

RICKENBACHER COMING FOR CORONA CLASSIC.

Novel Racing Car to be Piloted on Circle City Course by Veteran Road and Speedway Driver—Ray Harroun's Aviation Motor is Power Plant and Largest in any Speed Creation.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) March 2.—Eddie Rickenbacher, manager of the Prest-o-Lite racing team, has returned from Detroit, where he had been superintending the construction of a freak race car at the Harroun Motor Company, which is being rushed to completion in time for the Corona race, next month.

According to Rickenbacker this car will have a number of original ideas incorporated in its construction that he has gained from his years of experience in automobile racing, and the fact that Ray Harroun, one of the pioneer race drivers, severed his connection with the Maxwell Motor Car Company after they retired from the racing game, and started building aviation motors of the twelve-cylinder type, made it possible for him and "Rick" to build a car capable of developing great speed.

In appearance this car will be in a class by itself, the rear wheels being two feet apart and entirely enclosed in the body with the exception of three inches at the bottom for traction, the front axle will be of standard width, making a tricycle effect, with a cigar shaped body, underslung and only about four inches clearance.

In this chassis will be installed the Harroun aviation motor, which is the largest motor ever used in automobile racing, having 1200 cubic inches piston displacement and capable of traveling more than two miles per minute. Work was started on this powerful motor some months ago when the Harroun Motor Company was organized, and it is said by the ones that are motor wise that all the race car records are due to fall during the coming season where this car is entered.

Rickenbacher will drive this car at Corona April 8, and he is confident that he can lower the record made by Pullen there in 1914, when he established a record of 83.7 miles per hour for 301 miles, and in view of the fact that the course is said to be much faster than it was at that time "Rick" believes that 100 miles per hour can be made with ease.

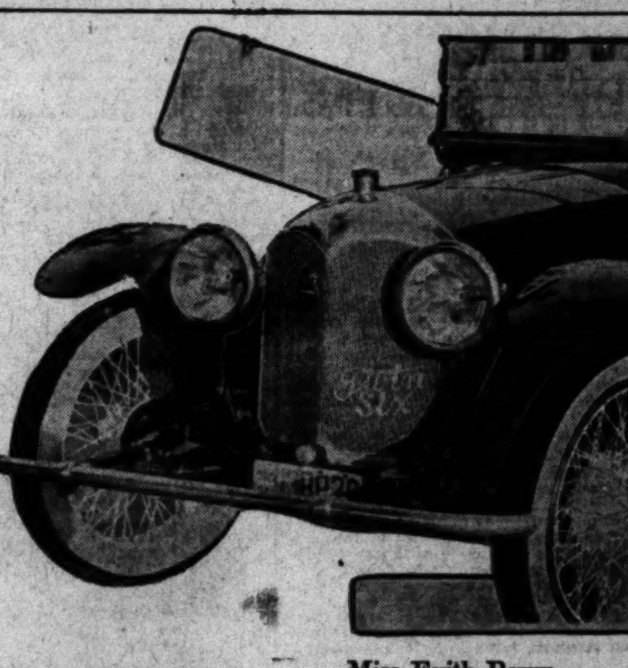
SEEING AMERICA FIRST BY AUTO.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EAST HIGHLANDS, March 4.—J. G. Conderman, who for many years was the manager of the Pantages circuit in Chicago, is making a tour of the country in his automobile with his wife, and has continued his "see America first" journey after a visit here. "California roads are by far the best. The 4000 miles I have traveled in this State seem to be only half that number," said Mr. Conderman.

Mr. and Mrs. Conderman have been on the road since July 22 and they have traveled over 8000 miles. In the machine they carry a chest of groceries, an oil stove, a large trunk for their wardrobe, cans of oil, water and gasoline and equipment for making their beds in the car. And at that they have loads of room.

They have visited all the places of interest in California, but say that they will return some day and make their home here.



Miss Eyith Perry

And her twelve-cylinder Pathfinder touring car which she has just purchased preparatory to the opening of the season.

Drive Bandits Out.

"Another case where motorists have suffered from negligence or carelessness is in regard to the activities of the new 'lap-robe' thief. The method is simple. Having located a number of good robes, the well-dressed thieves enter a machine, drive slowly or rapidly past the spotted cars and literally 'hook' the robes from the tonneaus by means of a small steel hook on a slender cane.

"Hide your robes, or tie them down, or take them with you, seem to be the only methods, according to the detectives, for circumventing the activities of this type of thief.

"More than a year ago the Automobile Club of Southern California established the first club theft bureau in the world for the purpose of helping to protect the motorists of this part of the State. During this time hundreds of cars have been recovered, and the experience of the bureau has proved invaluable in learning how owners can best secure their cars from future theft.

"First, lock them; second, place identification marks on them, and, thirdly, report their theft at once. With the support of the motorists given to the club this year additional steps can be taken which will go far to clear Southern California of the 'bandits.'"

Bill Bernhardt will again umpire the hopes of Cornell this year.

PREPARING FOR MOTOR-CAR TOUR

"I do not feel," said Miss P she smiled out of her new red Pathfinder touring car, "there is a sense making an automobile without being fully prepared, and being fully prepared does not even begin with the purchase of a good like my Pathfinder, and more or of rope water bags, picks, axes, etc. No matter where one there is just as much in being pared to understand what is as well as what is seen, as there being prepared for what might happen.

"After I decided to spend the summer touring the States and then abroad in the fall, if the war is I began the serious study of German and Italian, not merely languages, but the customs of different countries as well, and I I will not be over prepared, even I do not go abroad, because the States is such an international that one can find daily use for of the languages I am learning am making this trip in order broaden myself so that my work on will show a greater versatility be more really human.

"There is one experience I positively insist on having this mer when we get East, and the driving of my Pathfinder up that frightful Fort Lee Hill, York City, that every woman gets frightened at and does thing ridiculous. It's the hill the Pathfinder has made on finished going faster at the at the start; but a man drove I think I can do what he did."

Supervisors Decide to Build manent Roads Through Motor Trails to Resorts Travel Early in Season—Will Solid Rock to Make High

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MENTONE, March 4.—The dents of this valley, who own homes in the mountains, believe great good will come of the storms of January, although many the automobile roads were out. The repairing of the roads give work to hundreds of men, county will expend thousands of lars on the mountain roads, greater system of roads for bile travel in the mountains ly result.

HUPMOBILES

Owners will tell you the new Hupmobile has twenty per cent. more power, giving a quicker pickup, an even stronger pull on hills and in sand, and slower running on high speed. And we can prove it to you. Note these mechanical features: Tungsten steel valves, disc clutch with 17 hardened steel plates, bronze-shell motor bearings, spiral bevel gears in rear axle, nickel steel axle shafts, vanadium steel mainleaf in springs, tubular propeller shaft. Compare these features with any car on the market.

The new Hupmobile maintains the reputation of earlier Hupmobiles for economy. It has probably reduced the Hupmobile repair cost record of less than ¼ cent per mile. Though 20 per cent. more powerful, it is a fit companion for our earlier models in gasoline mileage, tire service, and oil consumption.

We have been told countless times that the 1915 Hupmobile was the easiest riding car ever built. The Model N Hupmobile is more comfortable. The upholstery is deeper. Genuine high grade hair and improved cushion construction give the comfort of an old shoe. Springs are even more flexible and easy riding. Tires are large in proportion to weight. The 119-inch wheelbase of the Roadster and 5-passenger cars cradles you over bumps and smooths rough roads.

The new Hupmobile has the famous Bijur system for electric starting and lighting. This equipment is used on some of the highest priced cars. Latest improved battery ignition—surest and simplest built—is used. In our own shops we build the genuine Golde one-man top and Collins quick-acting curtains. Five demountable rims, complete electric lighting equipment, latest and best speedometer, an exclusive design rain vision and ventilating windshield, Hupmobile patented tail light, genuine crown fenders, non-skid tires on the rear wheels, are regular equipment on the Model N.

You get these many improvements at $1195 for the five-passenger touring car or roadster. Compared with previous Hupmobiles the Model N is immeasurably greater in value.

These results have been accomplished—first, by a tremendous increase in production for 1916, which means better materials at lower cost and greatly reduced overhead cost per car; second, by an increase of factory facilities and improvement of factory methods — new machinery and new processes enable the company to build better at lower factory cost; third, we are confident that no car on the market is sold on a narrower margin of profit than the 1916 Hupmobile.

In considering this car, please remember that the Hupp Motor Car Company is one of the few manufacturers in the United States that have never built a poor car or had an off year. Wherever you go you will hear the Hupmobile spoken of as a car of most unusual value at its price. That is why "we believe the Hupmobile to be the best car of its class in the world." That creed of ours is fact to Hupmobile owners.

Let us show you in an actual merit test that the new Hupmobile is just what we say—truly "the best car of its class in the world."

OLDEST MEMBER OF THE A.R.C.

[illegible] Motorist and Owner of Late Model Car Pledges Service of Auto and Self to the United States in Case of War—Joins Second Company, California Section.

"I THINK that it is the sacred duty of every free-born American citizen to aid in every possible way the building up a proper defense for the Pacific Coast."

With this sentence C. E. Rawlings joined the Automobile Reserve Corps last week, attaching himself at this time to the Second Company, now forming in this city as a part of the California section of the national organization.

Rawlings was the first to come into the office of the Oldsmobile place, which has now been practically turned into a recruiting station for the A.R.C., the Second Company being composed of Oldsmobiles. He is [illegible] years of age, but says that should this country be invaded by any foreign power a few years would not be allowed to stand in his way, if he could be of use.

Following the entry of the first recruit, the office was stormed by eager [illegible] asking for particulars. [illegible] were received from all the outlying cities, and by the middle of next week Owen Bird of the Olds company says that he expects to have a full war-strength company under arms and ready for service.

THE REASON.

When asked for his reasons for joining the movement, Rawlings stated that he would go for such service in case of war in any event, and that he felt sure that under efficient training a corps of this nature could be brought to a far better standard than by any other means.

"A man who knows his automobile," said Rawlings, "can do more in moving troops than any number of inexperienced drivers. Then there is another point in favor of having the Motor Corps made up of car owners, and that is the man who knows his car can drive it with more economy, thus saving the wear and tear on the machine itself and also the fuel for the government."

Knowing that he was going to enter the lists, Rawlings made a test trip last Sunday. He covered forty-[illegible] miles in his Olds "42" in one hour and forty-five minutes and used two gallons of gasoline. He stated that he had five persons in the car at this time, and feels sure that he would be able to do even better than this if called upon to move troops for the government.

Maj. Fries, who served under Gen. Sibert, now commanding the Coast Artillery Corps of the United States Army, back in '99, also called in to laud the new movement. He has just returned from Chicago, where he made an address at the meeting of the commissioners for the national defensive highways.

He says that this is the only movement that will accomplish anything in the way of rapid transit for troops and that he is going to devote all his time in aiding the work on road construction. The major expects to remain in Los Angeles until April, during which time he will cover every one of the good roads in Southern California. He also stated that he would attend the military banquet of the A.R.C., which is to be held March 15, and would be only too glad to aid in any way in forming the various motor companies here. He has put his Oldsmobile in the service, and will be a member of the Second Company.

Word was received yesterday from San Francisco that there would be at least four companies organized in the Bay City by July, at which time the troops of the Artillery Corps would go on extensive test trips up and down the Coast. By this time Maj. Fries will have submitted several serious mobilization problems to the Motor Corps, and these problems are to be solved then.

Maj. Fries and Gen. Sibert are both convinced that the best means for transporting troops will be with the light touring car. These cars being able to cover any kind of rough and open country, so that the army officers are going to bend every effort in an attempt to see that the various companies are formed along these lines.

BARNEY CANS CIGAR AT LAST.

A Norfolk (Va.) firm has just named a new brand of cigarette after Bob Burman, being distinguished from other makes especially by the name on the outside of the packet—"Speed King Burman." Cigarettes have been on Bob's mind of late, and as there has been considerable jesting among the racing drivers about Bob's campaign for smokes for the fighting armies, it seems the laugh that is the loudest is in favor of "Wild Bob," for he is after Barney's stub cigar reputation.

Nobody ever saw a picture of Barney without his famous cigar. On track and speedway, the famous Barney smile with his stub cigar is an attraction that satisfies the curious.

Knowing this, Burman set out to make a reputation for another brand of the weed and the cigarette campaign was the result.

Some of Bob's friends ordered 1000 cigarettes with the pictures and names of these two speed demons printed thereon, so yesterday the packages arrived and under the printed pictures of the pilots was blazoned in blue and gilt — "Barney Oldfield — Bob Burman." Between the lips of the "Master Driver" was a Burman cigarette. So immediately Barney ordered 2000 desert horses for the foreign soldier smokers—and for once Barney smoked a cigarette for a photograph.

Nine States have new automobile laws passed during 1915, these being California, Delaware, Florida, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Washington. Perennial regisration still reigns in the District of Columbia and Utah, while Texas has both local and perennial registration. Only one State, South Carolina, now has purely local registration, Louisiana having joined the majority with State registration during 1915. Triennial registration, or registration every three years, is still found in Minnesota.

HANNA HANDLES NEW LINE NOW.

Mark Hanna, who has the reputation of being one of the most successful tire salesmen in the local automobile field and who has been associated with the Chanslor & Lyon Company for the past six years, is making himself acquainted with new environs this week. He is the newest addition to the Norwalk tire sales organization and will have complete charge of the sales and promotion work among the large corporations of the city. For the past several days he has been receiving the congratulations of his friends who wish him success in his new connections.

Mark, whose real name is Thomas Hanna, is the man who was instrumental in launching the selling campaign of the Kelly-Racine, now known as the Racine, and the Lee tires here in the city.

With his comprehensive knowledge of conditions in the local field, his success in the postion of sales manager for the Norwalk Tire Company is practically assured. He has to his credit an exceptionally wide acquaintance in the automobile trade, not only in this city but throughout Southern California.

We Cannot Describe the Beauty of the New and Greater Chandler

IF you have seen the new Chandler touring car body you understand why we do not attempt to describe it. If you have not seen it come in today and get a new idea of motor car beauty.

This new touring car is the most beautiful car of the year. There can hardly be any argument as to that. Someone having reason to be biased might dispute this, but you are unprejudiced—you will look with open mind for grace of line and beauty of finish—and you will agree with what countless thousands at the automobile shows have said very positively. They have said the Chandler is the most beautiful car of the year. So come in and see.

The walnut-paneled tonneau cowl has pleased the public everywhere. It will please you. It gives the car a very unusual air of complete finish. It reflects, too, the thought which the Chandler Company gives to details throughout the car, inside and outside. And remember this, any type of touring body other than the Chandler tonneau-cowl type will be old-fashioned and out of date before the season is over. The old style design, with the backs of the front seats projecting abruptly above the body, looks odd even now.

Come see the Chandler. You will be delighted with the style of the car and you know now that you can depend on it mechanically—depend on it for all the power, speed, flexible control and day-in-and-day-out service that you could ask for in a car at any price.

For the Chandler chassis, distinguished by the Marvelous Chandler Motor, has been proven right through three years of service in the hands of thousands of owners. It is free from any hint of experimentation, free from any hint of untried theory.

In spite of higher prices of all materials entering into it, the Chandler is still noted for high quality construction throughout and the finest equipment.

PISTONS STAND HARD GRINDING.

FIRST OVERHAULING DISCLOSES LITTLE WEAR.

Mining Man Travels Throughout California, Arizona and Nevada and Gives Car Hard Hammering Over More than Thirty-seven Thousand Miles of Desert Roads.

The pistons from an eight-cylinder Cadillac that has run 37,000 miles without being overhauled were on display at the Don Lee salesroom last week. H. K. Howard of San Francisco and Los Angeles came in from the north with one of the first 1915 models and decided to have the car overhauled as he had rolled up the phenomenal mileage of 37,000 miles.

The car has been used by Howard in the mining business and he had made five round trips between Los Angeles and San Francisco during the last six months and last summer went from one end of Nevada to the other and one trip to Phoenix.

When the motor was taken down it showed practically no wear. Don Lee and Manager J. E. Brown of the Los Angeles branch inspected the cylinders closely.

Howard reports perfect service with the car and says that for hard desert use it is the best he has ever seen.

CACTUS KATE TWINS NEXT.

ANTHONY PUTTING ANOTHER IN FIELD FOR STUNTS.

Flaming Colors Give New Arrival Same Dash of Barber-pole Tinting as Carried by Old Kate but Motor is Different—Louis Nikrent is Pilot of the Loud Creation.

When they refer to the paint shop at Earle C. Anthony, Inc., at present they call it the "maternity ward." "Cactus Kate's Twins" are being born.

Outwardly the casual observer would think that it was merely the old "Cactus Kate" that is coming to life under the skilful brush of Anthony's boss painter. The "twins" are under the hood of flaming red and are the twin blocks of six cylinders that promise to make the career of the new Packard stunt car even more spectacular than that of its illustrious predecessor.

The purpose of Earle C. Anthony, Packard distributor, in putting the new twelve-cylinder Packard into service as a stunt car is the same that prompted him to start the original "Kate." "We wanted to show them that the Packard was a car for any sort of service, and the original 'Kate' amply proved it," said Anthony last week. "The Packard engineers have pronounced the 'Twin-Six' the sturdiest Packard ever produced, and 'Cactus Kate's Twins' will prove them right."

In appearance the only difference in "Cactus Kate's Twins" from last year's stunt Packard will be a decorative door-panel symbolic of the "Twins." The checkered radiator, vermilion hood, cubist body and gold fenders that featured the original "Kate" will be reproduced in faithful manner.

Louis Nikrent, who is identified with the Packard technical staff of the Anthony organization, will pilot "Kate's Twins," and Nikrent's long record as a racing pilot and rough road driver is guarantee that the "Twins" have a strenuous career ahead of them.

Incidentally the painting of the "Twins" is a job that is not calculated to improve the disposition of Anthony's boss painter. The painting of the checkered radiator for example, represents three days of very exacting work. The radiator was first enameled with white paint all over, and then the tedious work of painting in the black squares began. A little excursion into mathematics proves that there were aproximately 3000 of the tiny hexagons in the radiator that had to be patiently blocked in with black paint.

COAST ROAD WILL BE OPEN MARCH 18.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN DIEGO, March 3.—The coast route of the State highway between here and Los Angeles will be opened again by March 18, the opening date of the exposition. This is assured by the various organizations which are attending to rushing the repairing of the road. The bridge at Sorrento is now completed, and work on the Santa Margarita bridge just north of Oceanside will be started at once. The bridge over the San Luis Rey River is about completed now. All of these bridges are temporary, as the financing of the permanent work will have to be done through a bond issue specially voted for the fund. The permanent road work in the county will amount to about $700,000 and the cost of the permanent bridges has not yet been determined.

CURRY OF YOSEMITE IS BACK FROM WASHINGTON.

DAVID A. CURRY, the stentor of the Yosemite, is back in California after a long stay in Washington where he has been fighting the battles of the motor fraternity before the Department of the Interior and spreading the tidings of the beauties of our great scenic valley throughout the East.

For years Curry has been fighting for the rights of the motorists and he said yesterday that without doubt most of the objectionable restrictions would be removed. Curry is especially pleased with the breaking of the one garage and one parking space rule which has been in effect since the valley was opened to automobiles. Motorists driving to the Yosemite have been required to leave their cars at a certain place no matter where they wanted to stay. Some of the camps were two miles from the parking space and the only way to get back was to walk. The hotel was a long distance and Camp Curry about a mile. Through Curry's efforts this has been changed and each camp will have a garage of its own.

Motorists will also have the right to travel through the valley and will no longer be treated as objectionable characters. The fee for entering will be cut down $1 and many roads heretofore closed will be opened to the automobile.

BOOSTS RACING SPORT AND KNOWS REASON WHY

"THE speedway classics and endurance runs of the past few years have done more than any single medium to put California in the fore rank of the motor world," said Hugh Chalmers at the Hotel Maryland yesterday.

Mr. Chalmers has been identified with automobile manufacturing for a great many years and is a keen student of track and road records in America.

"Your wonderful boulevards and macadamized highways," he continued, "demand the admiration of the visitor, but before the elegance of your highways comes the value of your racing publicity.

Note Carefully How These Tires Are Built Up

Things to Insist on in Tires

Naturally, you should insist upon mileage. However, there are other essentials, and, just as you would not buy shoes that caused discomfort—even if the shoes did give long wear—neither should you be satisfied with tires that give mileage alone at the sacrifice of personal comfort and at the cost of heavy upkeep due to the racking and straining of your machine.

But when you can get comfort, car upkeep economy and tire mileage, use the tires that give these—"things to insist on in tires."

All that the finest materials, the most modern construction methods and practice, and expert workmanship can contribute to your comfort, the saving of car repair bills and assurance of mileage go into QUAKER TIRES.

Then, we add our secret and exclusive process of tempering the rubber—a factor that multiplies comfort, reduces upkeep and increases mileage.

Tempering improves tire rubber just as it improves tool steel, or spring steel or brass—imparts the necessary degrees of hardness, toughness, tensile strength, elasticity, resiliency and endurance.

You cannot get more in tires than you can get in QUAKERS. Users tell us that they never got as much for their money. Invest in a QUAKER now—try it out on any make or weight of car; you will then be convinced that QUAKER TIRES are "MILES CHEAPER."

There is a QUAKER Dealer near you. Look him up, or write direct to the nearest distributor.

AUTO DRIVEN BY M'COMAS.

CROSSED CONTINENT WITH OX TEAM IN GOLD DAYS.

Introduced Irrigation in Pomona Valley—Knew Town of Cock Fights and Sunday Horse Races. Watched Horse Go from Highways to Make Room for Machines.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, March 4.—Senator J. E. McComas of this city is, many people believe, the oldest man who drives an automobile day in and day out through the year. He has gone past his eighty-second birthday, yet he is still actively engaged in business, and he never misses a day at the office. However, he drives to and from the office and takes his prospects to see property in his automobile. His pace is uniformly fifteen knots an hour, and he has never met with a mishap worth mentioning.

The Senator, who was born in Virginia back in 1834, came to California by ox team back in '53, when the gold craze was on at Placerville. He mined for a few years and then went into the stock business and made a fortune. He served in the State Legislature.

It was this man McComas who introduced irrigation in the Pomona Valley. Something like thirty-five years ago he became superintendent of a land company's colony at this place. They decided upon an auction of such lands. He engaged the use of every inch of water available from the water companies in the hills. When the land excursion train began to toot its whistle ten miles west of this place he ordered the water turned loose from the reservoirs, and when the colonists arrived the ground was wet to a depth of several inches. The sale was a success.

Mr. McComas can remember when there were less than twenty people in Pomona. He vividly recalls the day when there were sixteen saloons and 800 citizens. He was here when the Mexicans entertained themselves with cock fights and horse races on Sunday.

In his time Mr. McComas sold building lots for a hundred dollars which are now valued at thousands. He bought for $75 and sold for $160 a lot which has since been sold for [illegible].

He has outlived the day of the old nag. Unlike most men of advanced years, he grasps the progressive idea and hangs onto it. He says the fellow who does not buy an automobile and use it, when he can abundantly afford it, is a back number.

AUTO CLUB'S OFFICERS HELD.

The Automobile Club of Southern California has selected the officers for the coming year.

Fred L. Baker was again the choice of the organization as its chief executive, after having served in this capacity for a number of years, during which the club has undertaken some of its greatest activities.

The election resulted in a unanimous re-election of all officers, and the addition of a new one. Standish L. Mitchell was again selected as secretary, while a new officer, to hold the position of assistant secretary, was chosen. This was Ralph Reynolds, manager of the inter-insurance exchange of the club.

Directors of the club number many of the best known Southern Californians. As vice-president, W. L. Valentine was re-elected, as was H. G. Miller to the office of second vice-president. The directors are A. C. Balch, H. W. [illegible], W. H. Booth, E. G. Kuster, E. [illegible], Harry Chandler, Fred L. Baker, W. L. Valentine and H. G. Miller.

From a statement made by President Baker, following the election, it is evident that the Automobile Club faces a year of unusual activity. Much of this will include the erection of hundreds of new guide posts and signs throughout the southern part of the State, and it is hoped to materially increase the membership of the organization.

STEEPEST GRADE EASY GOING.

Mr. Al. G. Waddell,
Automobile Editor,
Los Angeles Times, City.

My dear Mr. Waddell: Acting upon the suggestion of C. S. Pope, who in a letter to you printed in The Times of February 27 told of the completion of the pavement of Baxter street from Echo Park avenue to Lemoyne street, at a grade of 29.04 per cent., the steepest paved grade in the city that your demonstrator friends come on with their cars, wish to say that the writer and two others 'came on' and furthermore went on over.

Knowing that live news of interest to motorists is to be found first in The Times and desiring to be first to act upon any suggestion we took a five-passenger six-cylinder Oakland touring car last Monday morning and went in search of Baxter street. We found it, all right, and looking up from the botto mmade us remember Quintero street as a level road.

A crew of employees of the city's water department was at work and they asked if we intended driving the Oakland up the hill. They said no automobile ever had gone up it, and they did not believe any could. We told them we were not making any promises but had come clear out there to go up and had not lost our nerve.

One of the party walked to the top to lay down the chains across the street to prevent vehicles coming down without the driver stopping first to look the situation over. He called back to us to come on if we were not afraid. Admonishing Eugene Webb not to kid me, I put the Oakland to it, and up we went. There were three of us in the car and, of course, the first trial was in low gear.

However, the first trip gave me confidence and returning to the bottom of the grade I determined to try it in intermediate gear with only myself in the car. It was difficult to get much of a run as a truck was on one side of the street and a pile of sand on the other, but the car delivered and that was all asked of it.

Having conquered Baxter street, if you, Mr. Pope or any others have further suggestions relating to hills for an automobile to climb, please make them known and I'll stack the Oakland six up against any and all of them.

Sincerely yours,
A. C. BEATTY,
No. 1027 South Olive street.

OIL FIELDS SAVED BY TRUCKS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

M'KITTRICK, March 3.—The uses of the auto truck as a method of rapid transportation were perhaps never more severely and generally tested in the State than immediately after the recent storm which devastated the McKittrick, Belridge, Lost Hills, Midway-Sunset and Coalinga oil fields, when nearly 2000 derricks were wrecked and the service of trucks was at once in demand for the removal of broken timber and the hauling of lumber and other material to the many leases affected. This work is still in progress, as well as the transfer of rig timber from local freight stations and lumber yards, where great quantities yet remain awaiting the orders of the purchasers, notwithstanding the immense consignments already delivered on the ground. The rush orders placed by companies as rapidly as was possible in the first few days succeeding the storm exhausted the stocks in various yards, and millmen all along the Coast were called upon to satisfy the demands from all the fields. Long trains were dispatched to their destinations, and day and night trucks were loaded and sent to the storm-stricken districts. Every available truck was placed in service. As stated, this work is still progressing, and will continue for weeks.

Even tractors were and are being used in the conveying of material to the oil fields. With several wagons attached, each bearing a heavy load, the tractors make their way with little trouble over rough roads here and there and through sage brush. These machines are, of course, not so fast as the trucks, but "they get there all the same," to use a common expression.

The development work now being carried on and that which is expected to follow in due course throughout the different oil districts will, no doubt, result in the purchase of many trucks, their value and efficiency having been given such a severe test and with such agreeable results. The Associated Oil Company has just added two three-quarter-ton trucks to its "fleet," at present consisting of nine machines, in use on its various leases. The sale was made by James Bruce of Bakersfield. The Midway Pioneer Truck Company, of which W. O. Maxwell, J. H. Hayter, O. C. Heck and J. L. Wheeler are directors, has been organized for the purpose of transferring freight, and will operate from Fellows. The capital stock of the company is $10,000, and the incorporators of the concern are among the best-known oil men in Kern county.

A Studebaker auto, a four-cylinder, series 17, has been purchased by Ferguson & Kellogg of Fellows through J. J. Jacobs of Bakersfield and is to be used in the Taft-Fellows motor stage service.

E. L. Brown & Son of McKittrick have bought a Ford car for general merchandise delivery purposes. A car of the same make is being used for the same purpose by C. D. Christian of Reward.

The local garages report business excellent. The travel through the oil districts has been heavy since the storm, and the consequent demand for supplies, although large, has been promptly met by the well-stocked establishments located here.

The Board of Trustees of the city of McKittrick has passed an ordinance fixing the license fee for the operation of automobiles for profit at $6 for six months, and the penalty for a violation of the ordinance at $25. There are three cars in operation as stages here, one in service between McKittrick, Fellows and Taft, and two running between this city, Fellows and Bakersfield.

AMERICAN CAR WINS CHEER FROM BRITAIN.

FROM the earliest days of the motor car the merits of the American-made Cadillac have been recognized by automobile engineers of Great Britain. When the Dewar trophy was offered for the world's most perfectly-standardized car it was a one-cylinder Cadillac which carried off the prize against a field of the best American and foreign cars of that day. Seven years later the trophy again went to the Cadillac company, "this time for showing the greatest advance in motor-car development. It is a noteworthy fact that the Cadillac was the only American-made car ever awarded the Dewar trophy and the only car of any nation to win it twice.

So Don Lee regarded with considerable interest a clipping from London, received last week, in which a noted English motor-car expert gave his opinion of the eight-cylinder Cadillac. The expert wrote:

"So far as my experience goes, I can pronounce the Cadillac '8' the best thing in the shape of a motor car that has yet come to us from the land of the Stars and Stripes.

"It is to all intents and purposes a one-gear car, as you can use the top speed (high gear) on anything from five to over sixty miles an hour. The acceleration is really wonderful. The rate at which the car can jump from a creeping pace up to a mile per minute was to me a revelation. This was not my first introduction to the eight-cylinder engine, having made a run two years ago on a De Dion with the same number of cylinders. The one impression left on my mind in connection with that trip was the smooth running of the engine. I described it then as 'being pulled along by a cable.' There was not only the feeling of sweet and easy running, but the sense of supreme and constant power as well. My forty-mile run in the new Cadillac, in and out of traffic, through slush and snow, uphill and on level, was a repetition of my previous experience."

ANOTHER GARAGE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, March 4.—Whittier is to have another garage, and this time it is to be a special home for the Buick agency. The contract has just been awarded by C. G. Warner to Contractor Evert Hinshaw for a handsome brick building 50x110 feet to be erected at No. 135 North Greenleaf avenue. W. H. Coulthurst, the Buick agent here, has leased the new place. With the new garage completed it will be the closest in auto shop in the city, being less than a half block from the business center of town. It is also announced that the new place will be well equipped with every convenience necessary for a modern garage. The building is to be completed within sixty days.

Overland

SIX

$1145

Model 86 f. o. b. Toledo

No Advance In Price

The price of the big, powerful Overland Six (Model 86) will not be advanced.

Prices of other Sixes are advancing. Prices of Sixes recently announced on new models, are higher. In fact, comparatively figuring, prices of practically all Sixes are now far in excess of the Overland.

On the basis of present prices of raw materials a Six of the Overland quality would have to sell at a much higher price.

But due to a little foresight in purchasing we escaped having to pay premiums for raw materials—hence the price of the Overland Six is not increased.

This in spite of the fact that prices of all steels are up from 100% to 150%; that the price of aluminum has gone from about 20 cents a pound to over 50 cents a pound; that the price of copper has more than doubled; that tires and other accessories have had a sharp advance.

We cannot guarantee that this present price of $1145 will hold indefinitely.

The serious condition of the material market makes that impossible.

But the quality is not lowered; and for the present price is not advanced.

Just compare the size, power, flexibility and quality of the Overland Six motor; the length of the wheelbase—the seating capacity, the finish, the equipment, the comforts, the conveniences and improvements of the Overland Six with all others and you'll find no valid reason for paying more than $1145 for a six cylinder automobile.

Big Policeman is Detailed to Arrest Vagrant Noises.

Roosters, Newsies, Hucksters and Car Wheels Beware!

Doctors Head Call for More Quiet; Chief Acts.

Police Sergeant Al McClain stands without a rival west of Baltimore. His distinction began yesterday when Chief Snively appointed him as "The Anti-noise Policeman." He has but one thing to arrest—noise.

Enthusiastic roosters, weary axles that squeak, whining car wheels, indiscreet auto horns, boisterous children, hucksters, and newsboys with operatic lungs are all to be censored by Sergt. McClain.

The demand for his appointment came to the Chief from numerous organizations interested in the reduction of a city's noise. The medical fraternity reported that patients in the hospitals and in their homes were disturbed by unnecessary clamor, and their recovery was arrested.

Residents who enjoy the delicious sleep of the later morning hours protested Morpheus was startled and fleeing by sunrise because of the activities that might be noiseless but weren't.

"Everybody's business is nobody's business," quoted the Chief, so he determined to center the duties in one person. Of his force most available was Sergt. McClain. He knows noise in all its antecedents and habits. He was one of the first men to drive a twenty-mule team in the [illegible] district. While engaged in that unusual occupation he became a master of noise, for his team showed a disposition to be induced into obedience by volume and accent of sounds.

VOCAL PROFICIENCY.

By the time he had driven the team six months, Sergt. McClain was able to chide the most indifferent mule with only his tongue for a lash.

Also, more recently, he has been the conductor on the Receiving Hospital ambulance, a vehicle that has contributed much to the noise of the city's streets.

So he has been given a roving commission to arrest noise, wherever and whenever found.

Before daylight he will be abroad wherever roosters are giving warning to the early worms. It will be his duty to wrench the heads from the roosters and present the remains to the housewife for disposition.

Hucksters will know him and the beauties of their wares shall not be so admiringly cried. Car wheels, that protest at sharp turns, must glide over oiled rails. Carts with wheels that nag and whine at their duties must be given the wheelwright's care.

Newsboys, too, are to be under the particular ear of Sergt. McClain. He will receive the numerous complaints that come to the police station daily from persons annoyed by noise.

"There has been a real demand for such an officer," said the Chief yesterday. "The doctors have said repeatedly that less noise is essential to the welfare of the sick of the city, and while there is no more sickness here than in other cities, yet many persons come here to secure rest and quiet, and it is unfair to our guests to permit these noises that can be abated with little trouble.

"I have instructed Sergt. McClain to go about this work systematically. It will be several weeks before he can finish investigating the complaints already made to us. In the past we have asked the policemen on their beats to investigate the complaints that come from their particular areas.

"In the future Sergt. McClain will do this work. He will go about the work sympathetically but determinedly, and whenever persons he has warned fail to abate nuisances they will be prosecuted."

TILLER CAVET IS RELEASED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—Tiller Cavet, who came to the Seals from Detroit and was a complete disappointment last fall, has been unconditionally released by Wolverton. Harry tried to land another job for the heaver, but was not successful. Even then, he figured on taking Cavet to the San Jose camp, but when Tiller would not stand the cut in his salary it was decided to let him go. It has been a foregone conclusion that Cavet would not make the club.

STUDENTS CONSTRUCT OWN STAGE SCENERY.

CREATE ALL ACCESSORIES FOR HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS.

Manual Arts Girls as Adept as Boys in Work of Stagecrafts Class. With Tools and Paint Pots Climb Tall Scaffolding and Build Every Needed Setting.

A class in stagecraft, thought to be the only one of its kind among the high schools of the country, is a feature of the Manual Arts High School curriculum. The class works in conjunction with the dramatic department, the class work consisting of building, painting and setting the scenery for the dramatic productions of the school. Four girls of the class are considering following the work after graduating. They are required to do practically the same work as the boys, and apparently are as much at home in the rafters high above the stage as in the classrooms.

Climbing on shaky scaffolding, thirty feet above the ground, with paint pot in one hand and brush in the other, the students paint every piece of scenery used on the stage. Besides painting the drops and wings, the class constructs all the properties, such as marble balustrades, thrones and trees. The girls are the artists of the class and to them is intrusted the majority of the scenic painting.

One novel feature of the class is a miniature of the Manual Arts stage, which, with its present equipment, is one of the finest high school stages on the Pacific Coast.

On the miniature stage the entire play is worked out with dummies. After a conference with the director the class assembles before the model stage to plan the scenic effects and the lighting. Model scenery is cut from cardboard and painted with water colors. When the setting has been determined the play is rehearsed with toy actors.

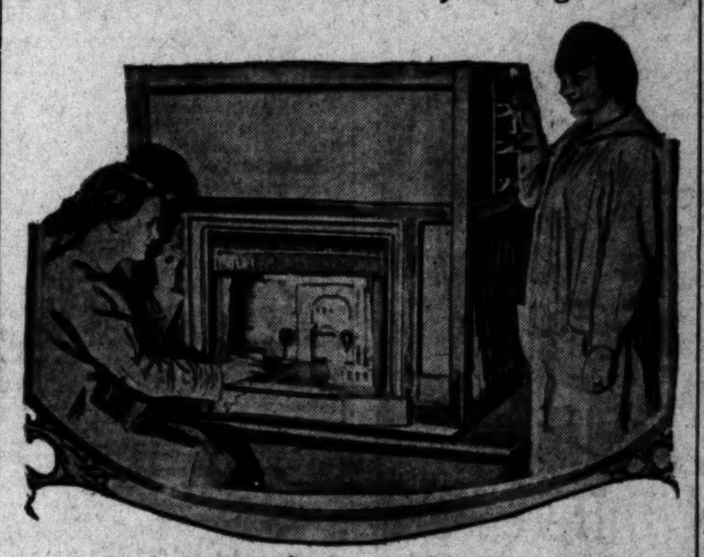
The miniature stage is the work of Perry Dilly, a member of the class. It is equipped with a full set of drop curtains and a complete lighting system. Twelve separate switches and three dimmers are located on the tiny switchboard. The apron of the stage is complete, even to colored footlights.

Several days are spent working with the model stage and then the work of constructing the actual scenery for the play is begun. The lumber is cut by the boys in the wood shop and the canvas is stretched and secured by the class.

The class is divided into groups. The stage manager and assistant manager hold the executive offices. The head property man, the head electrician, head fly man, head carpenter, head of scenic artists and master gripman each has his corps of assistants. J. C. Beswick is the instructor.

The next big scenic play which will be presented by the Manual Arts High School is the "Serenade," under the auspices of the music department.

Remarkable Work Done by Young Artists



In the stage-craft class at Manual Arts,

One of the unusual features of that high school's curriculum. Here two of the students are shown working out practical stage problems on the miniature stage, their activities to be later transferred to the great stage of the school itself.

COMPTON TRACKSTERS MAKE GOOD SHOWING.

Compton High School ran away with their first track meet of the season yesterday afternoon, when they defeated the Lincoln team on the former's track, 73 to 41.

The beet-toppers secured nine of the possible thirteen first places and in the pole vault and discus secured all three places. Le Valle in the hurdles and Harms in the sprints for Compton did the best work of the day, both copping their respective events handily.

Swann of Lincoln ran a nice mile and was never pressed, while Isenhour of Lincoln was the individual star of the meet for Lincoln, annexing the 440, broad jump and taking second in the 100-yard dash.

SUMMARY.

Mile run: Won by Swann (L.,) Coche (C.) second, Nevins (C.) third; time 4 min. 59 sec.

HARSTAD MAY HAVE A DIFFICULT TIME.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) March 4.—"We've heard it said that Portland is no place for a minister's son and ere the summer is out we will know one way or the other. A. T. Harstad, the new Portland pitcher, originally from Cleveland, is the son of a clergyman of Parkdale, Wash., a suburb of Tacoma. He learned the baseball originally around that part of the world, playing with the kids, but never got into the game seriously until he went to school in Tacoma, where he and Tony Brotte, the Vancouver player who goes to the St. Louis Cardinals this spring, created somewhat of a sensation as a clever kid battery in 1912. In 1914 Harstad won his first game of the season, lost his second, and failing to round into real form, Brown kept him on the bench for six weeks or so. When he started again he established a fine record, leading the league with a percentage of .867. The record shows:

Games, 30; innings pitched, 137; runs allowed, 36; hits allowed, 109; strike-outs, 125; base on balls, 47; wild pitches, 4; hit batsmen, 3; won 13, lost 2; percentage, .867. He fielded .973 and batted .251.

BASEBALL STARTS AT CROWN CITY.

Pasadena High School will open her 1916 baseball season Monday afternoon, when she meets the Los Angeles Polytechnic team on the Crown City grounds. The game will be in the nature of a practice affair, but should give a line on the strength of the two teams.

Although the league games are almost a month away, the Pasadena boys have been practicing since February 1, and are in fairly good shape at the present time. Mitchell, Webster and Hunnicutt have been showing considerable stuff in the box and there doesn't seem to be much choice between them. Mitchell will probably start the game Monday with Capt. DeHuff on the receiving end of the battery.

FREDDIE AND AD GREATLY EXCITED.

HARDENED VETS HOOK UP IN FEATURE BOUT.

Battle will Attract Fans from All Over the Country—Wolgast Stakes Reputation on Outcome of Fight. Sports Think Welsh will be Pounded to Pieces.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MILWAUKEE, March 4.—Freddie Welsh and Ad Wolgast are the next pair on exhibition. These hardened, gnarled vets in the lightweight division represent the champion what is and the champion what was and if they do what they say, then the fur is sure to fly at the Arcadia Rink Monday night.

From all indications this battle will attract the fans from all parts of the section and Chicago will send a big delegation to the ringside to see the excitement.

The fact that Wolgast has staked his reputation on the outcome of the battle is evidence enough of his sincerity. Ad says he isn't so wild over the money that is in it, but he wants to vindicate himself in the eyes of the public, which has been pointing the finger of scorn at him. Because Wolgast has been beaten a couple of times the critics have started the talk that the little Dutchman should retire to his farm near Cadillac, Mich., and live comfortably on the fortune that he has stacked away.

However, the little wildcat has been singing another tune. Ad said he was going to train for the first time in many months and get into the best of shape, just to see how good he really was. This is what the Dutchman has done and he predicts he will rock the sporting world from Mexico to Alaska with his work.

All Milwaukee is pulling for Wolgast. Milwaukee was always the Dutchman's stronghold, and the fans think he can come back long enough to show that he can beat Freddie Welsh.

POPULAR ADMIRATION FOR JESS WILLARD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, March 4.—Popular admiration for Champion Jess Willard continued at his training quarters at the Amsterdam Operahouse today, the hall being filled with enthusiastic ring followers. The crowd included many women. Willard, after his workout announced himself well satisfied with his week's work. He thinks that he has taken off about three pounds during the week, but this is hardly noticeable on his big frame.

The champion boxed six rounds, working two each with Jack Hempel, Bob Williams and Walter Monahan.

Tom Jones had offered $50 to anyone who would knock Willard off his feet and today Sam McVey showed up and started to clamber into the ring. Willard immediately went out on the other side and later announced that he would draw the color line in his fights and also his training.

92,000 Miles Difference in Favor of Worm Drive

There is a great big sufficient reason why Europe absolutely refused to accept chain-drive trucks. European engineers demand the worm gear.

The chain drive has an average life of 8000 miles. The Timken-David Brown worm drive has an average life of 100,000 miles, a distance equal to four times around the world.

The Moreland is equipped with the Timken-David Brown worm drive. It is the only truck in the world that successfully operates on distillate, the cheapest practical fuel.

BIG DEAL CLOSED.

The Aston Motor Car Company, distributor for Pullman cars, reports that 150 cars were sold to the Tefft Motor Car Company, San Diego, distributor from that point, and this amount is to be shipped as early as possible to fill the spring orders. Other large shipments are going forward to J. C. Phelan of Fresno, who will distribute Pullman cars from there.

BOLTON MANAGER.

There has been a change in the personnel of automobile managers in Los Angeles during the past week. B. L. Bolton, who was for four years with the Cadillac, has now assumed the duties as manager with the Chevrolet Sales Company, under the new regime, which has been consummated lately. Bolton has been in the automobile industry for a number of years in California.

MASKED MARVEL MAY GET A MATCH WITH STOCKER.

THE "Masked Marvel," who is scheduled to meet Sam Clapham Wednesday night before the Olympic Club, in what will be the first finish wrestling match that has been staged hereabouts in years, has been promised a match with Joe Stecher, the sensational Nebraskan grappler, about the first week in April, if he defeats the "British Lion," Sam Clapham.

Clapham's opponent has made himself a great drawing card in the Southern City, and the San Diego sportsmen have asked the proomters of the grappling matches in that vicinity to try and bring apout a meeting with Champion Frank Gotch's legitimate challenger.

Stecher, according to press reports, will soon arrive in the Southland, and will immediately issue a personal challenge to Champion Gotch for a titular match.

Since San Diego will want a Stecher-Masked Marvel contest, it will be up to him to come out victorious in his match with Clapham, or lose the chance of a lifetime.

Billy Meek, the promoter of the Wednesday night tilt, is just as anxious to bring about a meeting between Joe Stecher and the victor of the coming set-to, and he too will put in a bid for such a contest.

Word at hand has it that the Masked Marvel is doing road work every morning in San Diego, wearing his mask, and this has caused no end of speculation among the townspeople, who are not accustomed to seeing a man running through the streets with such a regalia, covering his face.

The English wrestling champion had quite a strenuous workout Thursday afternoon, he showing great improvement over his previous exhibitions hereabouts, and those who witnessed his work were very pleased with his performance.

BABY IS MANSION MISTRESS.

STORIES of the "silver spoon" are many, but few can compare with that of little Miss Sarah Dolph Firestone, who, since the departure East of her father, R. J. Firestone, is now sole mistress of their Altadena mansion.

Surrounded by everything beautiful in nature, and well chaperoned by a full retinue of servants, little Miss Firestone holds full sway, and daily entertains her many friends.

Concerning her father, Miss Sarah says: "I want to be with daddy, but I do wish daddy was here, 'cause everything here is so beautiful."

In Southern California.

CAPTAINS OF MOTOR CAR INDUSTRY ENJOY SPORTS.

THE belief that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy is shared in by John N. Willys, presiding genius of the Willys-Overland Company, Toledo, O., Harry T. Dunn, his vice-president and director of sales and George S. Mills, head architect of the same concern, all of whom arrived in Los Angeles last week and are now enjoying to its fullest extent a well-earned vacation in Pasadena.

Golf, motoring and other out-door sports have taken the place of millions and manufacturing interests in the minds of the visitors. Willys is one of the best amateur golfers in the country, and having had practice on all of the leading courses, he can hold his own with any of the local lights.

Willys is very democratic and likeable and one would not think, when meeting him on the links dressed up in golf toggery, that he controlled a manufacturing concern with a production which will reach close to the 200,000-car mark this year. The gross sales of the Willys-Overland plant amount to more than $150,000,000 dollars. The employees and their families could easily populate a city of 100,000 people.

Dunn is also democratic in his ideas, numbering the mechanic as well as the millionaire among his personal friends.

Both Willys and Dunn are taking advantage of the excellent weather conditions here at present to make long motoring trips, using Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles.

Willys, who purchased a home in Pasadena last winter, will probably remain in Southern California until May. Dunn expects to be here for four or five weeks at least.

PLAYING FIELDS TO BE LOOKED OVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, March 4.—For the first time in its history the National League will have its playing fields surveyed by competent engineers and the correctness of the measurements certified to the president of the league. This announcement was made by President Tener today in an official communication sent to his club owners.

FACTORY ADDITIONS NECESSARY.

THE only blurs on the horizon of the automobile world are the soaring price of raw materials, and the proposed Federal tax on motor cars, writes A. G. Seiberling, general manager of the Haynes Automobile Company, to Froman Speers of the Bekins-Speers Motor Car Company, Southern California distributors of the Haynes Light Six. The year 1916 will pass into motor car history as one of unparalleled growth, he declares.

The late winter market gives every assurance that the plants of the better known and better advertised makes of cars will run night and day. Many purchasing departments who sensed the possibility of overstocking will be surprised to find that their company's sales for the year have been underestimated.

The bright prospects for the year at hand can not be ascribed to any one condition. On the contrary they arise from a combination of encouraging conditions.

Business the nation over has a healthier undertone than it has felt since 1901. Money is plentiful in the agricultural sections of the Middle West. Last year's wheat and corn yields were heavy, and the crops were disposed of at figures that left a profitable margin for the farmer. Livestock prices, while not topping the market of previous years, were not unreasonably low. Heavy fruit yields at a time when the demand was greatest have left the fruit growing regions in the far west in good financial condition. Last year's depressing conditions in the South have given way to a general optimism with the return of anti-bellum conditions in the cotton market. The prosperous agricultural classes will buy a greater number and better quality of motor cars than in previous years.

The reflex from the war has put the metal working industries in an uncommonly favorable position. There is scarcely a phase of this branch of commerce that does not have more than it can do. Labor, skilled and unskilled, is being well paid. The working class will absorb its full share of the motor car output this year.

The automobile industry has been encouraged with the consideration that the automobile is being regarded as less a luxury and more a necessity. Motor cars have become an integral and unreplacable part of daily business routine. At the same time the demand for pleasure cars is increasing. With the improvement of roads and cross-country traveling accommodations this pleasure car sector of automobile production promises an unprecedented expansion.

Automobiles are being used by a daily increasing percentage of the population. More people than ever are buying the lower-priced cars. Families that several years ago bought low-priced cars for their initial and experimental purchase, are now in the market for a medium-priced automobile. Except for specially built and appointed bodies, medium-priced cars offer the same conveniences as their peers in price. A buyer in the automobile market can buy a car at $1500 whose performance will match automobiles of twice the price.

The past season for the Haynes company has been a successful and prosperous one. Significant of this prosperity and increased demand is the fact that we have in the course of construction at the present time extensive factory additions. Immediately east of the factory, adjacent to the Lake Erie railroad, a four-story building is being pushed to completion. In the ground floor a power plant has been installed to furnish light, heat and power for the entire factory. A wash rack occupies a part of the first floor space and adjoining this, will be a 200-foot concrete loading platform, thus facilitating the shipping of cars immediately after washing.

The second and third floors will be used for storing materials and finished products in the slack season of the year, and obviate the inconveniences caused by shipping delays. The Haynes experimental and engineering department, which now occupies cramped quarters in the old factory building will be transferred to the fourth floor of the new building. The new building is constructed of brick and steel with concrete floors and roof.

Immediately south of the present factory building a new paint shop, three stories high, 100x132 feet, is being built as rapidly as the work can be pushed in the winter weather. At its completion, the Haynes company's new painting system will be set in operation. This will not only increase the number of cars that the factory can handle in a day, but will be the means of improving the body finish.

Across the street from the factory, a new two-story glazed brick office building has been completed and occupied by the administrative offices. In the space formerly taken by the officers in the old factory building, machinery has been installed and it has become a welcome addition to the factory proper. The new offices are patterns of modern office equipment. The rapid growth in production has made it inevitable that the highest efficiency in systematically handling the production must be attained.

Within the last few weeks, the Haynes company has made additional purchase of thirty-three acres of land in the south end of Kokomo to take car of future expansion. The rapid growth of the automobile industry in the last few years, has made extensive provision for the future necessary.

REDLANDS BALL TEAM DEFEATS COLTON HIGH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, March 4.—The baseball team of the Redlands High School started off well this season by defeating the Colton High School in a game here this morning by a score of 10 to 7. It was a practice game as the Citrus Belt League season does not open for a month.

Coach Lutz has discovered another good man for his string of pitchers in the person of De Rue, a six-footer. De Rue pitched half of the game with Colton and had the Hub City boys helpless. Patrick, who pitched most of the games last season, is in better form than ever. Frost, also a good twirler, has not been out for baseball yet as he is busy with track.

In the practice games Lutz is using Winters on first base and he will probably land the berth. Miller is on second, Harbes at short and Lamb on third. Edwards is in the left garden, Frenzell in center and Mayes in right. With the exception of Mayes the team is the same as last year with Max Weld catching. Raynor and Pepper formed the battery for Colton.

Although dropping one game to the Banks-Payton combination, Kennedy and David of Jack's billiard parlors still hold the lead in the Southern California roomkeepers' pocket-billiard tournament.

Wilson and Terrass of the Rex parlors are a close second.

The sensation of the past week's play, however, was the playing of Evans and Willinson of the Lankershim team and Bowers and Coles of the Lincoln parlors. Both teams won their two matches last week and are right in the running for first-place honors.

SHOWING FORM.

Bowers is showing the form that enabled him to win two city tournaments. His high run in one of his games was 31.

Harry Hill and Stephens of the association have lined up $100 worth of additional prizes for the class-B players. The class-B man making the biggest run each week will be given one of the special prizes.

These prizes are, in addition to the $300 in cash, the Brunswick-Balke-Collender trophy and the Bartlett trophies.

BUSTED.

After losing four straight games Banks and Payton of Voorhies broke the winning streak of Kennedy and David of Jack's parlors.

The contests each night are for fifty balls, and admission is free.

Following is the schedule drawn up for the coming week by E. H. Ellingworth, secretary of the association: Casino at Sierra and Lyceum at Voorhies, Monday night; Lankershim at Rex and Jack's at Ball's, Tuesday; Jack's at Lyceum and Voorhies at Lincoln, Wednesday; Hill at Casino and Lincoln at Jack's, Thursday; [illegible] at Hill's and Sierra at Lankershim, Friday.

MAKER MUST BOOST PRICES.

That no alternat[illegible] to raise prices will face th[illegible] manufacturers who m[illegible] quality of their product for the 19[illegible] is the declaration of Alvan Mac[illegible] vice-president and general [illegible] of the Packard Motor Car Company of Detroit.

"The rise in price of raw materials makes it an absolute impossibility [illegible] prices of automobiles next season [illegible] remain where they are today, and allow the manufacturer to make a [illegible] profit," declared Mr. Macauley [illegible] recent interview.

"To build an automobile at the prices of raw materials prevailing today costs approximately 20 per cent. more than a year ago, due [illegible] the rise in the cost of raw materials. At the present time our contracts protect us to a certain extent from the effect of the tremendous rise in prices of every sort of metal, but they will not protect us for the period of our 1917 manufacture.

"We were forced to raise the [illegible] of the Packard "Twin-Six" [illegible] and to maintain Packard quality [illegible] impaired, there is every prospect [illegible] we will be forced to raise it again [illegible] our 1917 product. Two other [illegible] companies have already announced increases in their prices, and it is certain that all will eventually be forced to do so or else cheapen the quality of their cars unless the present trend in metal prices is reversed.

"As an example of what the automobile maker faces today it may be cited that hot-rolled steel [illegible] have increased their prices [illegible] cent. within the year. On manufactured steel, the situation is still [illegible] An average increase of $1 [illegible] hundred pounds has been recorded [illegible] this sort of material.

"Brass castings, for example, have risen from 20 to 27 cents per [illegible] with every prospect of an increase [illegible] 35 cents. Brass rod has gone from 13 cents to 35 cents.

"The man who buys a motor [illegible] today is really getting it at a bargain price, because they are getting the benefit of the low-price contracts still in force. Cars built of material bought in the open market [illegible] would unquestionably have to be priced at least 20 per cent. higher [illegible] the manufacturer was to make a reasonable profit."

BANNER YEAR IS PREDICTED.

The roseate prospects of the motor truck industry, which has made particularly striking strides in the last year, has caused greatly-increased 1916 schedules at all the big factories building commercial cars.

"Five years ago people would have laughed if I had said that by the beginning of 1915 the number of trucks sold in this country would [illegible] 100,000," said O. B. Henderson of the Pacific KisselKar branch, distributor of Federal and Kissel trucks. "[illegible] true the number sold fell a few thousand below the mark, but it has [illegible] been reached, and I am ready to [illegible] a further prophecy. By 19[illegible] United States will number [illegible] streets and highways at least [illegible] motor trucks. Furthermore, [illegible] present year will see a large percentage of the increase.

"For years the truck industry has had, not alone to overcome the natural prejudice of business men [illegible] anything that so revolutionizes business methods as does the truck, [illegible] also to fight sentimentalism. [illegible] men who own horses have disliked to admit that there could be a more efficient servant than Old Dobbin, [illegible] in the face of facts.

"But competition has settled [illegible] Dobbin's faithfulness and [illegible] is still appreciated, but so are [illegible] limitations. Every business man knows that the motor truck [illegible] employed if the best delivery [illegible] haulage results are to be [illegible]

"It is, therefore, no longer necessary to convince him of [illegible] the difference in trucks, [illegible] the best one to meet his [illegible]

CHECKERS AT THE L.A.A.C.

Alfred Jordan gave a simultaneous exhibition in the commodious lounging-room of the L.A.A.C. last Tuesday evening, and, while he escaped with a "whole skin," there were times it seemed as though Adams, Cardell, Hunter or Schoder might, at least, break through his "first line of trenches."

After the battle was over, several of the boys thought the old Biblical expression should be changed to read: "It is as easy for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle," as for one of us common scrubs to win a game from Jordan.

Hunter and Cardell seemed to have him in "hot water" on several occasions, but neither were able to "scald" him with it. One of the most remarkable games of the evening was played by Bert Adams, and lasted for over two hours. The game was all book play on the Alma, an opening Jordan is very familiar with, but Adams, who is unfamiliar with published play, showed wonderful analytical ability in securing the draw. The game will be given below. Jordan played about forty games during the evening, winning twenty-four and drawing sixteen. The draws were distributed as follows: Cardell, 3; Whitehill, 2; Bickinson, 2; Nichols, 2; Adams, 1; Hunter, 1; Schoder, 1; Woods, 1; Wigney, 1; Singrey, 1, and Geo. Spitzer, 1.

Most of the work of arranging the details for the evening's entertainment fell on the shoulders of D. A. Mizener, and well did he acquit himself of his task, and wound up his work by introducing Jordan with a few well-chosen remarks.

New York State has expended $75,000,000 in highway improvements, representing all of the first highway bond issue and one-half of the second, approved in 1912. Of the second bond issue there remains $25,000,000 to be expended. Seven thousand three hundred and eighty-eight miles of road construction have been completed out of 11,988 proposed. The New York-Albany route will be completed by the summer of 1917.

FLYING SPARKS OF MOTORDOM.

The average freight car holds five ordinary-sized automobiles.

Definite steps toward State-wide organization have been taken by the Automobile Trades Association of Colorado. Dealers throughout the State are to form local associations and affiliate with the State body. Headquarters will be maintained at Denver.

The total retail value of the automobiles and trucks built in the United States in 1915, according to latest figures, was $691,778,950, of which $565,856,450 represented the passenger cars and $125,992,500 the commercial vehicles.

The congregation attending the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Portland, Ind., recently listened to a motor car sermon by the pastor, Rev. Asher S. Preston. The subject was "Lessons From the Highway."

The Automobile Club of St. Louis, the Real Estate Exchange and scores of individual car owners united in opposition to the proposed traffic law now being considered by the Board of Aldermen.

The Ohio State Auditor is holding up a voucher of $9000 in payment for 1916 license tags, on the grounds that the contract was not awarded after competitive bidding.

Eighty-seven persons were killed and 1500 severely injured in motor accidents on the highways of Iowa during 1915, according to a report by the Iowa Highway Commission. Two-thirds of the accidents were due to speeding, inexperienced driving, and the use of intoxicating liquors by drivers, according to the report.

All owners of cars in Champaign county, Illinois, have been invited to join a new organization, the object of which is "to meet, discuss and prepare to carry out, in an approved manner, all such matters as shall or may appear to be beneficial to the owners with reference to pleasant and profitable traveling, the prevention of depredations and of the violations of the laws, particularly touching the ownership and use of motor cars."

The Massachusetts Highway Commission has issued statistics that answer the question of whether or not women figure in more accidents than men. Because a bill was put in the Legislature to prevent women driving cars of more than thirty horse power, the Highway Commission was requested to furnish some facts and figures. These show that women drivers are not dangerous on the highways. The commission reported that out of 297 fatal accidents last year in which motor vehicles were involved, women figured in seven, or 2 1-3 per cent.

Out of a total of 99,199 private operators in Massachusetts, women number 8680. So they constitute 8¾ per cent., yet were involved in only 2 1-3 per cent. accidents.

There were 90,519 men licensed as private operators, and 37,736 professional chauffeurs, a total of 125,255 licensed men operators. These 125,255 men operators figured in 280 fatal accidents, or one fatal accident to every 432 licensed men.

Steering is faulty on the average car because it requires too much effort. There is too much power lost in friction, and it also is inefficient because of absence of true castor action. The mathematics of castor steering are not complicated, but they admit of plenty of room for discussion. While the front wheel with a central pivot, raked a little fore and aft, is the ideal, there are other ways of obtaining a similar effect; and it only needs to drive a car with perfect steering to appreciate what an enormous amount of additional pleasure it gives.

AUTO SOLVES MANY PROBLEMS.

BY T. E. A. BARTHEL,
Vice-President King Motor Car Company.

THE automobile has solved many problems. The growth of the industry during the past year has been beyond expectations. The future no one can predict. Automobile manufacturers have laid their plans for the coming year on huge production figures.

The motor car occupies a unique position in the mechanical locomotion family today, because it largely counteracts the ill effects that followed the introduction of other forms of transportation. It has given to municipalities the biggest problem they ever tackled—the solution of street traffic regulations. There is not a city in the country where this problem is not serious and the subject of great thought.

No one now regards the motor car as a mere fad. The world knows it has fulfilled its mission. That it is a real necessity for comfort, health and business progress. With millions of American-made automobiles for this country, the expectation that the foreign demands the coming year will be greater than ever, the automobile industry is counted upon as avdancing the business of the country generally. For the automobile today is a financial investment.

With all different types to choose from—small or large, from two to seven-passenger capacity, with either four, six, eight or twelve cylinders, overhead expense cut down, simplicity the keynote of construction—the field for the automobile is larger today than ever before. The fact that the American public has money, the banks have let down the bars for the purchase of automobiles, gives to the automobile manufacturer every opportunity to market big production.

The motor car has many missions. It first gives to the public the healthful and stimulating pleasure of flying through beautiful country scenes and delightfully fresh air. Second, it furnishes a perfect, flexible means of transportation that is exactly adaptable to the public's wishes, that is, to go and come when and where one likes. Third, it relieves the burden from the horse; and finally, to banish him entirely from the city streets enlarges the radius of commercial operations and makes two engagements grow for the busy American public where but one grew before.

And when a good motor is running under full speed it makes the least fuss about it. This is an adage that can also be applied to many a young man who is striving for his start in life.

With $1,000,000 worth of horses and mules sold each week from the Kansas City territory, and with the first agricultural motor tractor exposition held in that city the same week as the annual motor show, the motor car manufacturer should be positively assured that the day of motorizing the farm has arrived. The places of horses and mules sold must be supplied by motor power, and the agricultural motor tractor is developing at a good pace to fill the gap.

The committee on agriculture of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce is arranging for an Iowa tractor show. A 1200-acre tract of land west of the city will be leased for demonstration purposes.

ECONOMY

The Car that Knocked the "Con" from fake Economy Talk

Economy talk is cheap along the automobile row. Some is based on facts and some is not.

Oakland Six Economy is absolutely based on facts. There is no "con" to this talk.

Economy in gas consumption.

Economy in tires, as car is light (2100 pounds,) and tires are small accordingly (32x3½.)

Economical from every standpoint.

And power—this engine fairly radiates power and flexibility.

Not a stunt car—but at that it will do anything any car can do.

Not what we say, but what owners say after months of usage.

When Your Friends Ride in Your Car

—what opinion do they form? What opinion must they form? And what do they say (not to you) to themselves?

Do they find themselves in a commonplace machine — that they could never again hope to identify except by seeing you in it, because it looks just like so many other cars? Or,—

Does a ride with you create one of those favorable impressions that are always so pleasantly remembered?

Today nearly everybody owns a car, and the ordinary automobile is only a mere utility. But the really superior car is a constant delight not only to its owner, his family and his friends, but to everyone who sees it. For it is superior inside and out—in its mechanism, in its power and its restful riding qualities, and also—

It shows its superiority in that individuality of appearance which expresses the owner's personal taste.

Only the very finest of cars are ever designed to satisfy the buyer's personal requirements. We make individuality our specialty. Hence, when you own a Winton Six, your car is, in every respect, a delightful and superior personal possession.

Two sizes: 33 at $2285; 48 at $3500. F.O.B. Factory. A telephone call will bring you all the particulars.

SAXON ROADSTER $395

Buyers have fairly flocked to this car

It has won an amazing welcome. Men see in Saxon "Four" at $395 a marvel of motor car progress.

By former standards $395 meant a low-grade car. There was not a quality roadster but that cost two or three times that amount. It marks a record among two-passenger cars of fine type.

And this price buys a car whose very lightness reveals expensive materials and ablest engineering. Whose smoothness and flexibility are comparable to that of the costly class cars. Whose power, speed and stamina have been proved time and again in public test and private performance. Whose acceleration, coolness, hill climbing ability, and operative economy have never been equaled by cars of like price. We are anxious to have you personally inspect the new series Saxon "Four."

ALTADENA MEN LOSE STRUGGLE.

VICTORIA CLUB TEAM IS A LITTLE TOO GOOD.

All Final Matches are so Close that Results are Uncertain Until Last Minute—Clark Smith is Given Hardest Race of Day—Paul Wold Wins from C. P. Hebert.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

RIVERSIDE, March 4.—Altadena golfers lost to the Victoria Club team here this afternoon by a score of 3 to 2 in both scratch and handicap, but it was not a victory that gave the locals any chance for hilarious celebration. The two matches lost were by such a close margin and one of the diciding three won by the locals so close that the final result was in doubt until each pair had sacked their clubs and started for the clubhouse.

Clark Smith of the visitors was given the hardest race of the day by Robin Skelley, who carried the Altadena man to the twentieth hole before yielding the scratch, 1 up. The handicap was won 3 up and 2. The other victory for the visitors was almost equally close, Paul Wold only winning from Dr. C. P. Hebert 1 up on scratch and 2 up and 1 on handicap.

Of the victories won by the locals that by Arthur Childs over Henry Newby was hardest fought, Childs winning 2 up and 1 on scratch, but only 1 up on handicap. Walter Davison cleaned up Bud Story, captain of the visiting team, 6 up and 5 on scratch and 2 up and 1 on handicap, and C. O. Evans of the locals won the fifth match from George Gironard 5 up and 4 on scratch and 4 and 3 on handicap.

The handicaps were as follows: Davison, 4; Storey, 12; Skelley, 6; Smith, 12; Childs, 10; Newby, 12; Hebert, 12; Wold, 16; Evans, 14; Gironard, 16.

Bob Burman on the Peugeot did the fastest miles yesterday. Burman was clocked on two laps at 51.8s. Eddie Pullen, Earl Cooper and Eddie O'Donnell all showed 52.2s. for a lap or more, and Teddy Tetzlaff was clocked at 53.4 on the Milac.

The Sunbeam was not out yesterday but Hughie Hughes was quoted as saying that he was through as far as practice went, after the workouts on Friday afternoon. The Britisher said that he saw no use in going out and taking a chance on a mishap with his car when he knew that it was ready for the race.

Bill Taylor showed up yesterday with the Marmon and was driving in his old-time form. Sterling Orice, on the Apperson, did some fast work yesterday, also, although he did not do a lap faster than 55s.

With the injury to Toft and the wreck of the Omar car, Eddie Pullen takes the pole in today's race and will set the pace on the preliminary lap to the rolling start.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLOUDS SPEED ASCOT RACERS.

George R. Bentel, chairman of the Ascot Contest Committee, last night issued the following statement: Cloudy weather will only have the effect of making the race faster because of keeping the tires cooler. Unless there is heavy rain the race will start at 2 o'clock as scheduled. We are making every provision for the public. Should the weather be threatening rain checks will be issued with the tickets, which will be good at the first following race. Rain cannot hurt the track any more that a street pavement. The surfacing is such that it will hold the cars at top speed in driving rain.

Transformation.

JUNK HEAP IS MADE VERDANT.

Students' Hands Replace Ugly Rubbish with Vegetables.

Wonderful Result Obtained at Foreign-quarter School.

Little Workers Much Happier and Poor Families Fed.

Transformed from a dumping place for junk and refuse into a well-cultivated vegetable and flower garden, the once unsightly block at the rear of the Hewitt-street grammar school, Hewitt near First, has assumed the aspect of a well-kept back yard, through the efforts of the students, who are for the most part of foreign birth and in many cases unable to speak English. For the past six months they have steadily improved the ground and planted it to vegetables for the poor of the neighborhood and for the "penny kitchen" of the school.

Most of the work of clearing the lot has been done by the Japanese and Chinese students, who, while handicapped by their ignorance of English, are willing workers and eager to learn.

When their work was begun the lot was overgrown with weeds and covered with stones and junk. Ten wagonloads of rock and stones were removed from the ground, and as many more were buried.

For several years the property has been a dumping ground for the neighborhood. Junk dealers were in the habit of disposing of their unsalable junk at the back entrance to the school, and three cement driveways to an adjoining lumber yard crossed the DEMAND FOR WORK.

With the demand at the school for a practical course in home gardening it became necessary to secure a plot of ground in the vicinity. Nothing was available except the dump heap. Every student who was strong enough to wield a pick or shovel was ready and eager to help in the work of clearing the land. Almost before they knew it the ground was leveled and marked off into plots for the different classes.

The produce from the garden for the most part is distributed to the pupils of the school, who in many cases do not receive proper nourishment at home. The parents of the students are called to the school and the vegetables are allotted to those who are in most need. Some of the vegetables are sold to those who are better off.

The "penny kitchen" of the school receives its share of the crops. The kitchen is the school cafeteria, where for a penny the children who are not properly fed at home are served with a bowl of nourishing soup and bread. More than $10 has been saved the school by the growing of the vegetables used in the soup.

The training received at school has in many cases been carried to the home. Several of the students have cleared their small back yards and planted them to corn and other nourishing vegetables. Besides being a material aid to the community and a training for the students it takes the children into the open air, a relief from the small, cramped quarters in which the majority of the pupils live outside of school hours. The young gardeners take keen pleasure in their labor, especially the Japanese, who are hard workers and seem to have a natural instinct for the raising of plants.

SCIENTIFIC METHODS.

Some experimenting has been carried on with different methods of fertilizing and irrigation. A study of the soil has been made with a view of obtaining the best results from their efforts.

The Hewitt-street school is probably the most cosmopolitan school in the city. The number of white pupils is far less than that of Europeans or Orientals. Of the 358 children in the school only thirty-eight are Americans. There are ninety-two Mexicans, which is the greatest number of any one nationality in the school. The Chinese are next with sixty-eight. There are fifty-six Japanese, thirty-one Jews, thirty-six negroes, fourteen Italians, five Germans, three Hungarians, two Koreans, two Swedes and one Eskimo. The great majority of the pupils are in the lower grades, unable to speak English.

A feature is the classes for mothers. There are classes for both the Mexican and Jewish parents. While the children are in one class the mothers are in another. In some instances the children are more advanced than their parents.

PLAYS GREAT ORGAN.

Organist from Salt Lake Presides at Mormon Tabernacle on the Most Comprehensive Instrument in America. Pipe Organ Music Grows in Public Favor.

J. J. McClelland, organist at the Tabernacle at Salt Lake City, and one of the best known musicians in the United States, with his wife, is spending a vacation in Los Angeles, staying at the Hotel Clark. With him is Mr. L. E. Harmon and bride of the [illegible] city.

Mr. McClelland is not only one of America's foremost organists but owns one of the largest music libraries in the country, numbering more than [illegible] selections. He has played 4120 pipe organ recitals and is known wherever the pipe organ is appreciated. The number of recitals given by Mr. McClelland is undoubtedly the largest ever given by any individual.

Speaking of the increasing popularity of the pipe organ, Mr. McClelland said that in his opinion the organ was supplanting the smaller orchestras in theaters, moving-picture houses of the better class and in private homes. He cited half a score of wealthy Americans who have organs costing from $80,000 up and who retain their own private players. In addition an automatic player for the organ has been perfected that will allow the installment of organs in homes of less wealthy persons.

Within ten years the pipe organ has risen from a sombre instrument used only for sacred music and heavy selections to a position of musical dominance. In time, the organist declares, the pipe organ will be the most popular musical instrument for public entertainment.

Mr. McClelland's vacation was made possible at this time from the fact that the big organ in the Tabernacle is being enlarged at a cost of $60,000. The additions will bring the total cost of the organ up to $180,000, and will place it in a class of its own as the most comprehensive musical instrument in the United States, if not in the world. The organ will be completed and ready for use April 4 of this year, if the terms of the contract are fulfilled.

CATHOLIC AFFAIRS.

Activities of the Local Churches and Societies.

The season of Lent will begin next Wednesday, which will be observed in all the churches as Ash Wednesday. Mgr. Harnett, administrator of the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles, has issued the Lenten regulations, in which the usual rules are outlined, and an especial appeal is made for the preparation of children for their first communion. Mgr. Harnett also calls upon the pastors to give special instructions on the laws of the church concerning marriage and the sacredness of the contract and its obligations. He announces that at all the masses on of the first Sunday in Lent, collections will be taken for the Indian and negro missions.

A Red Cross benefit will be given in the St. Joseph's parish hall Tuesday evening. A dramatic and musical programme will be followed by a dance.

An Irish show, with the presentation of "The Irish Eden," will be given in St. Mary's parish hall on the night of March 17.

The Redemptorist Fathers will open a mission at St. Cecilia's Church today. The mission will continue for two weeks.

Tomorrow evening the young people of St. Michael's parish will give a comedy-drama, "The Corner Store," in St. Michael's auditorium.

The Queen's Daughters will give a card party at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Times assembly rooms.

St. Cecilia's Institute, Y.L.I., will have a class initiation in the clubrooms, No. 118 1-2 South Spring street, at 2 o'clock next Sunday afternoon. The regular meeting will be held tomorrow night.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Ladies' Auxiliary will have a banquet at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse on the night of March 16.

DIOCESAN PROGRESS.

Interesting Figures Regarding Catholics of this See.

The Catholic Directory for 1916, which has just been published, gives many interesting statistics regarding the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles. These show that the total Catholic population of the diocese is 178,168.

There are 185 diocesan priests and eighty-six priests of religious orders. The diocese has 127 churches with resident pastors, seventy-eight missions with churches, sixty-one stations and nine chapels with resident chaplains.

Thirty-two ecclesiastical students are credited to this diocese and there are forty students in seminaries of religious orders. There is one college for boys, with 150 students, and one for girls, with 116 students. There are sixteen high schools for girls, with 213 students; forty-three parishes with parochial schools, and there are 8602 pupils in academies and schools.

Eight orphanages are maintained, with 1417 orphans, and there are three infant asylums, with forty-five infants. One hundred Indians are attending Catholic Indian schools and there are 381 Indians in the government Indian schools.

The total number of Catholic young people in Catholic societies is 10,545. The diocese has eight hospitals, three homes for the aged, one house of the Good Shepherd and two homes for working girls.

During the past year there were 7277 infants and 552 adults baptized. There were 546 converts; 1802 marriages and 2195 deaths.

TO GUARD BIG INDUSTRY.

Prosperity League, that Will Fight Prohibition, is Organized Here.

Opposed to the plan of the "dry" element to destroy the wine and liquor industry in California, many prominent business men of Los Angeles will take active parts in the fight to be waged against the prohibition movement. As members of the Prosperity League fifty well known men will be identified with the campaign that is designed to protect one of the State's greatest industries.

The Prosperity League now is being organized, the membership including bankers, merchants, leading real estate dealers and others prominently connected with the economic life of Los Angeles. It is expected the organization will be effected this week, following which a big banquet will be given in its honor at the Alexandria.

WHO KNOWS THEM?

Mrs. B. I. Worthy of No. 818 East Tenth street, Kansas City, Mo., has appealed to The Times to aid her in finding her cousins, Horace Motley and Carbelle Motley, whom she says left Memphis, Tenn., in 1897 or 1898. Mrs. Worthy's maiden name was Curley Johnson, and her home was in Canton, Miss.

America's Greatest "Light Six"

AMERICA'S GREATEST "LIGHT SIX" is no idle elaim when applied to the Haynes "Light Six." What other car is so flexible as to go one to sixty miles per hour on high? What other car runs under all conditions, from 15 to 22 miles on a gallon of gasoline? What other car can pick up a speed of 30 miles per hour in seven and a half seconds from a standing start? What other big car will average 8,000 miles to a set of tires, and 400 miles to a quart of oil? THE HAYNES MOTOR, WITH CYLINDERS 3½x5, WILL DEVELOP MORE POWER THAN ANY OTHER MOTOR OF ANY MAKE OF EQUAL BORE AND STROKE. How could there be greater efficiency? Get behind the wheel of the Haynes "Light Six," and you will quickly understand why it is called America's Greatest "Light Six."

America's Greatest "Light Six"

Here's a car you're proud to own. Placed alongside of cars of the very highest price consideration the Haynes does not suffer by comparison. Compared with cars in the same price class, it gets a wide margin of preference.

It's great to drive a car so graceful and thoroughbred in appearance that you smile with pride every time you step in for a drive. There is real pleasure in owning a car that will do more than the other fellow's—a powerful car that is so easily controlled that any woman can drive it—a car that will pull through hub-deep mud and up the toughest hills on high without shifting gears.

The "Light Six" and "Light Twelve" motors are interchangeable. All models are completely equipped, including seat covers, moto-meter, ammeter, and all accessories.

Let us demonstrate the Haynes to you—actually SHOW YOU WHAT IT WILL DO. Last spring and summer more people wanted Haynes cars than could get them. The same will be true this year. But placing your order now will insure delivery of your car when you want it.

America's Greatest "Light Twelve"

This beautiful new car is Haynes quality throughout. Behind its twelve purring cylinders you get a joy of driving you have never before known—just one long sweep, up hill, down hill, everywhere, with no vibration. It is a light-weight car containing a powerful, smooth running twelve-cylinder motor which actually develops seventy-five horse-power.

This Master Motor is of the high-speed type, with valve-in-head construction and removable cylinder heads. Aluminum pistons are used. The design is simple and all parts are readily accessible. The motor is light, weighing but little more than the "Light Six" motor. It is powerful yet economical—absolutely the last word in automobile engineering.

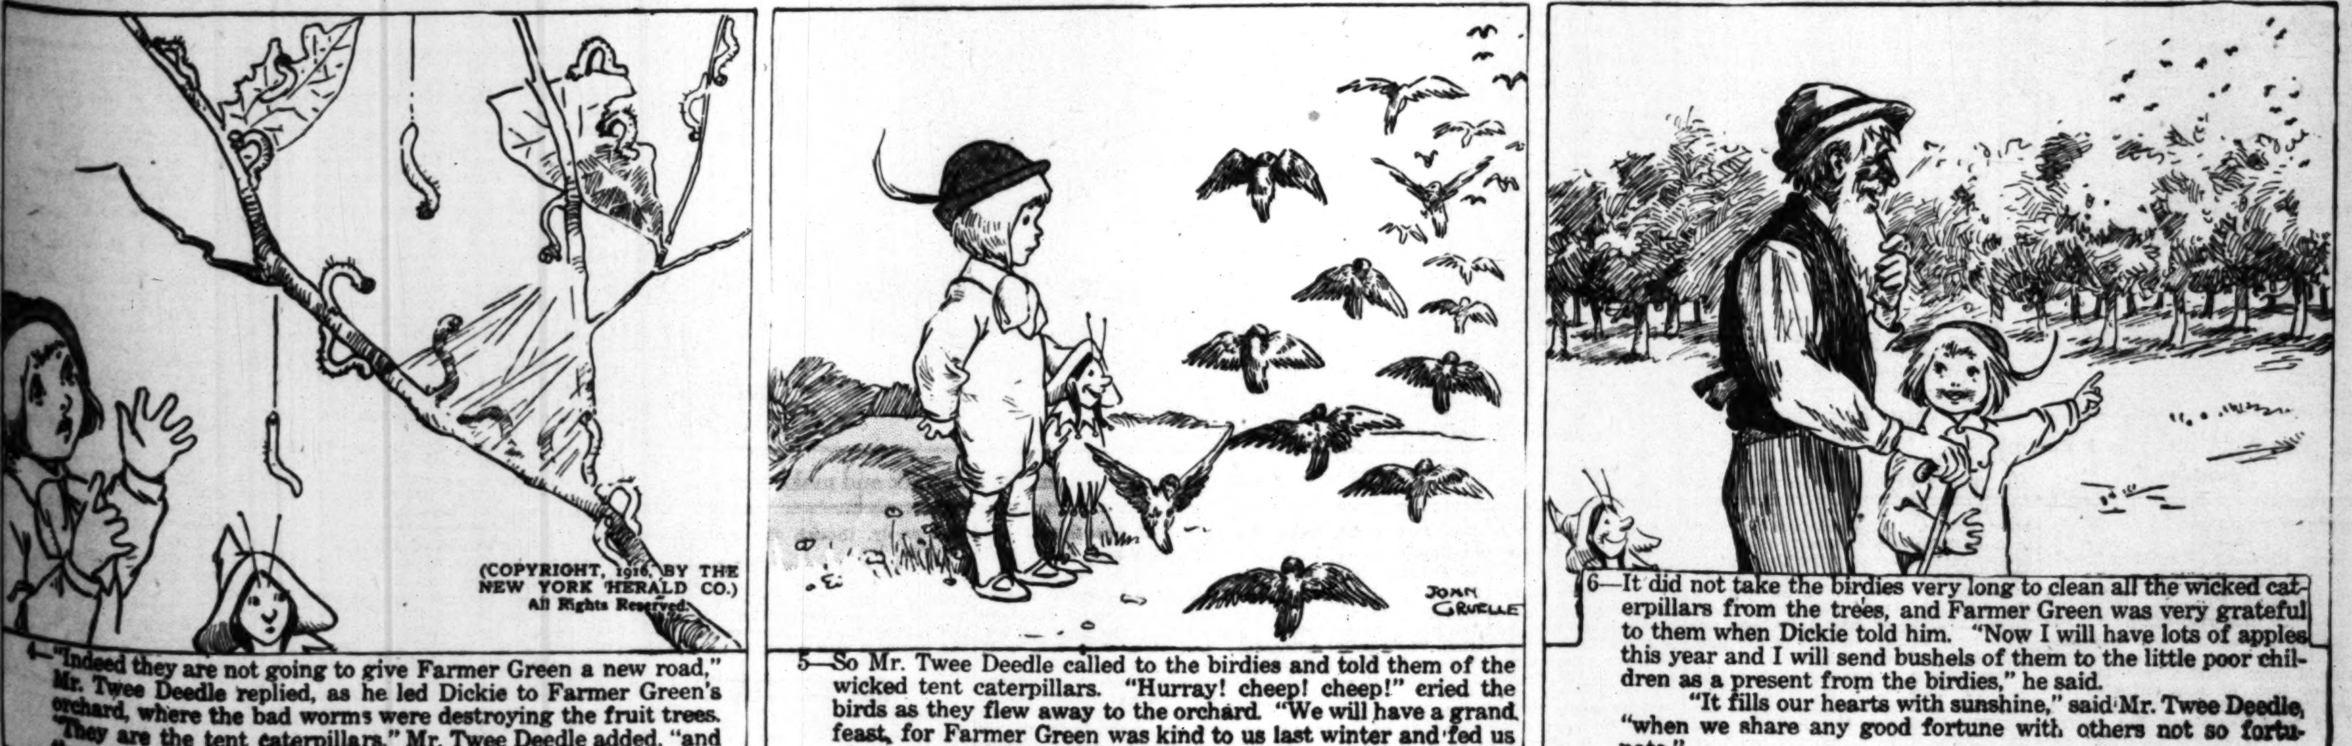
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.

1—"Oh, Mr Twee Deedle!" Dickie cried, as he saw Mr. Twee Deedle sitting upon a bush by the roadside, "come and see the parade on the path."

2—So Mr. Twee Deedle jumped from the bush and the two friends went to the path, upon which thousands of tiny green worms were crawling just as if they were having a parade.

3—So that he might see the worms better, Mr. Twee Deedle made Dickie very small. "They are measuring the road!" cried Dickie; "perhaps they are going to give Farmer Green a new road!"



JOHN GRUELLE

4—"Indeed they are not going to give Farmer Green a new road," Mr. Twee Deedle replied, as he led Dickie to Farmer Green's orchard, where the bad worms were destroying the fruit trees. "They are the tent caterpillars," Mr. Twee Deedle added, "and they are very destructive."

5—So Mr. Twee Deedle called to the birdies and told them of the wicked tent caterpillars. "Hurray! cheep! cheep!" cried the birds as they flew away to the orchard. "We will have a grand feast, for Farmer Green was kind to us last winter and fed us when we could find no food."

6—It did not take the birdies very long to clean all the wicked caterpillars from the trees, and Farmer Green was very grateful to them when Dickie told him. "Now I will have lots of apples this year and I will send bushels of them to the little poor children as a present from the birdies," he said.

"It fills our hearts with sunshine," said Mr. Twee Deedle, "when we share any good fortune with others not so fortunate."

WHAT IS ART WHEN THE MOVING PICTURES MUST CUT DOWN EXPENSES, ASKS BIRSKY.

And Everybody Has Sidelines in Films, Zapp Says—But Cheap Candy Business Suffers.

By MONTAGUE GLASS.

Illustrations by Briggs.

Copyright, 1916—The Tribune Association. (The New York Tribune.)

"I MET Sam Polongin in the subway this morning," Barnett Zapp, the waist manufacturer, said, as with the aid of his thumb and a quart of gravy which remained from his portion of gefuellte Miltz mit Farfel, he demonstrated the capillarity of a slice of rye bread.

"And how is the herring business?" Louis Birsky, the real estater, asked.

"What do you mean—the herring business?" Zapp demanded. "The herring business is now a side issue for Sam. Him and J. Schlapp of Katzberg & Schlapp in the pants business has formed the Charoses Fillum Company and next week they are going to release their first fillum by the name 'The Fatal Murder.'"

"The way it looks nowadays," Birsky said, "everybody has got two businesses—his regular business and the moving-picture business."

"All except the feller in the cheap candy business," Zapp said. "There ain't nothing in the cheap candy business no more. Birsky, on account if a lady gives her 6-year-old boy 5 cents he should buy himself a taffy on a stick, y'understand, he goes right away to a moving pictures instead and blows in the nickel to see 'Thou Shalt not Covet Thy Neighbor's Wife,' a feature fillum in five reels."

"Not alone cheap candy," Birsky said, "but every business is feeling the effects of the moving-picture business—a few businesses favorable, like the delicatessen and lunchroom business, which the nearest some married men has got to a home-cooked dinner since the moving pictures started is a half a pound of sliced luncheon bolony mit Kartoffel salad. Then there is the spectacle business, which while in former times ladies whose husbands made from $30 a week down used to get housemaid's knee from keeping the flat looking as neat as a pin, y'understand, they have now got to be fitted with glasses for eye strain from watching moving pictures every afternoon up to five minutes before 6 or five minutes before whatever time the husband comes home."

"Well, there's one business moving pictures ain't improved none," Birsky said, "and that's the regular theayter business. Even on first nights nowadays the 50-cent gallery and balcony is empty excepting the ushers and a couple of dozen reporters with false mustaches and smoked glasses which was borred out by the management for claiming that the Follies should ought to be a stag. The theayter managers is kicking something terrible about the way the moving pictures is eating into their business, Zapp."

"Sure, I know," Zapp said, "and they are their own worst competitors, Birsky. It's like if all the saloonkeepers would become temperance lecturers becouse they seen a chance to make a little money on the side and then complained there was no more profit in the liquor business, y'understand. Every theayter manager has got also a chain of moving-picture houses. They are killing the hen that laid the golden eggs."

"That's all right, too," Birsky retorted, "but compared with the golden eggs which moving pictures is laying, the old-time theayter was a rooster, Zapp. And not only is the moving-picture fellers making big money, but they ain't got to invest not near as much capital as a regular theayter manager. Take this here Belasco, for instance, which he specializes on re-elastic shows with telephone switchboards, restaurants and doctors' offices, and supposing for instance, hes got a restaurant in it, y'understand, then every night that show plays in New York or Grand Forks or Sandusky or wherever it happens to be, they put on the stage a real restaurant, with coffee machines and gas griddles, and they broil right down there in front of the audience every day steaks for $10 or $15, because Mr. Belasco is very artistic that way. If he puts on a restaurant it's put on right: it don't make any diference what it costs; aber you take a moving picture feller, and if he has got a fillum with a restaurant in it, all he does is to go to a restaurant and ask the feller that runs it he should allow for a five-dollar note the movie actors to carry on there, and pictures is taken of it with a camera und fertig. Then when you go to see the fillum, understand, me they flash on the screen:

NED DISCOVERS HIS SISTER IN A FASHIONABLE BROADWAY RESTAURANT.

and afterwards they show the fashionable Broadway restaurant, and on the wall is a sign:

CHILI CON CARNE,
15c.

That's the difference between Mr. Belasco and moving picture fellers. What do they care about being artistic if it's going to cost an extra ten dollars, Zapp? All they want is to keep the expenses down."

"That's where you make a big mistake," Zapp declared. "Moving picture fellers is eaten up with expenses. For instance, the wages which moving pictures fellers pay to their actors is something terrible. Five hundred a week is small already."

"Well, why not?" Birsky retorted. "Look what a moving picture actor is got to do to earn his money. We will say for example, that he goes to work at 9 o'clock. At half past nine he goes up to Central Park and falls out of an oitermobile running thirty miles an hour. The first time he falls out, maybe, the feller that works the camera was't looking, so he's got to fall out again. This time somebody moves the camera, so he falls out a third time, and one way or another they keep that actor falling out of an oitermobile going thirty miles an hour from half past nine to lunch time. Supposing he does get five hundred dollars a week. Is that a life? I ask you."

"Just the same, it's a lot of money to pay," Zapp said, "and furthermore all the moving picture actors get contracts for a year already."

"But what is such contracts worth?" Birsky asked. "If a moving picture feller wants to get rid of such a contract, all he has got to do is to get the party of the second part to play Ned in the fillum where Ned escapes from the Sheriff by leaping on horseback from a cliff 500 feet high, y'understand, and the widow can frame the contract and hang it in the front parlor as a sowveneer of the two weeks when her husband olav hasholom used to make $500 a week."

Zapp sighed heavily.

"I got a designer which has me under a three-years' contract since last Tuesday already," he said, "and if I could hire Maxine Elliott for a model and C. M. Schwab for a salesman I couldn't get rid of that murderer's designs for the cost of the linings alone. There's big money in it for somebody who could persuade that Rosher to play in a fillum where Ned gets locked in a burning ranch by the Mexican for a thousand dollars a week. I would pay two weeks' salary out of my own pocket, and if they ain't got a ranch to burn I would even schenck the moving picture concern a house out in Borough Park which I got vacant on my hands since 1913."

"Maybe you think such a thing ain't possible that a waist designer should get a job as a moving-picture actor?" Birsky said. "Believe me, Zapp, the last thing in the world which is necessary in the moving picture business is experience—in particular the actors and the people which writes the scenarios. You remember in the old days, Zapp, that everybody thought he could sell clothing. Well, nowadays every Schlemiel thinks he could be a moving picture actor, and most of them are. It's the same way with writing the scenarios. Take any retail dry goods concern today, and everybody from the cash girls to the store superintendent is writing scenarios on the side. Also, Zapp, if you go into a street car and the feller opposite to you is talking to himself, y'understand, you might think he's a lunatic, Zapp, but as a matter of fact he ain't crazy by from $3 to $10, on account he is doping out a scenario which he would sell for somewheres around that price to a moving picture concern. Furthermore, if you see a man stand still on the sidewalk and make marks on an old envelope with a pencil, that ain't no sign that he's trying to figure how it could be he is overdrawn at the bank $2.45. No, Zapp. A feller could make a good living nowadays collecting old envelopes and selling 'em to people to make memorandums of scenarios on."

"Aber how do they do it?" Zapp exclaimed. "I could no more write a scenario and get away with it as a check for a million dollars."

"That's because you ain't never tried to write a scenario," Birsky said. "All you've got to do is to take a play like 'Hamlet,' for instance, and you call Hamlet Ned and the King Mexican Louis. Then you dictate the main points to a stenographer and send it to a moving picture concern which was formerly in the plumbing supply business or children's knee pants, and you're bound to get away with it, Zapp, because the only plays them fellers knows anything about is shows they used to take their customers to see, and if you are trying to sell a customer goods, you naturally don't take him to see 'Hamlet.' Am I right or wrong?"

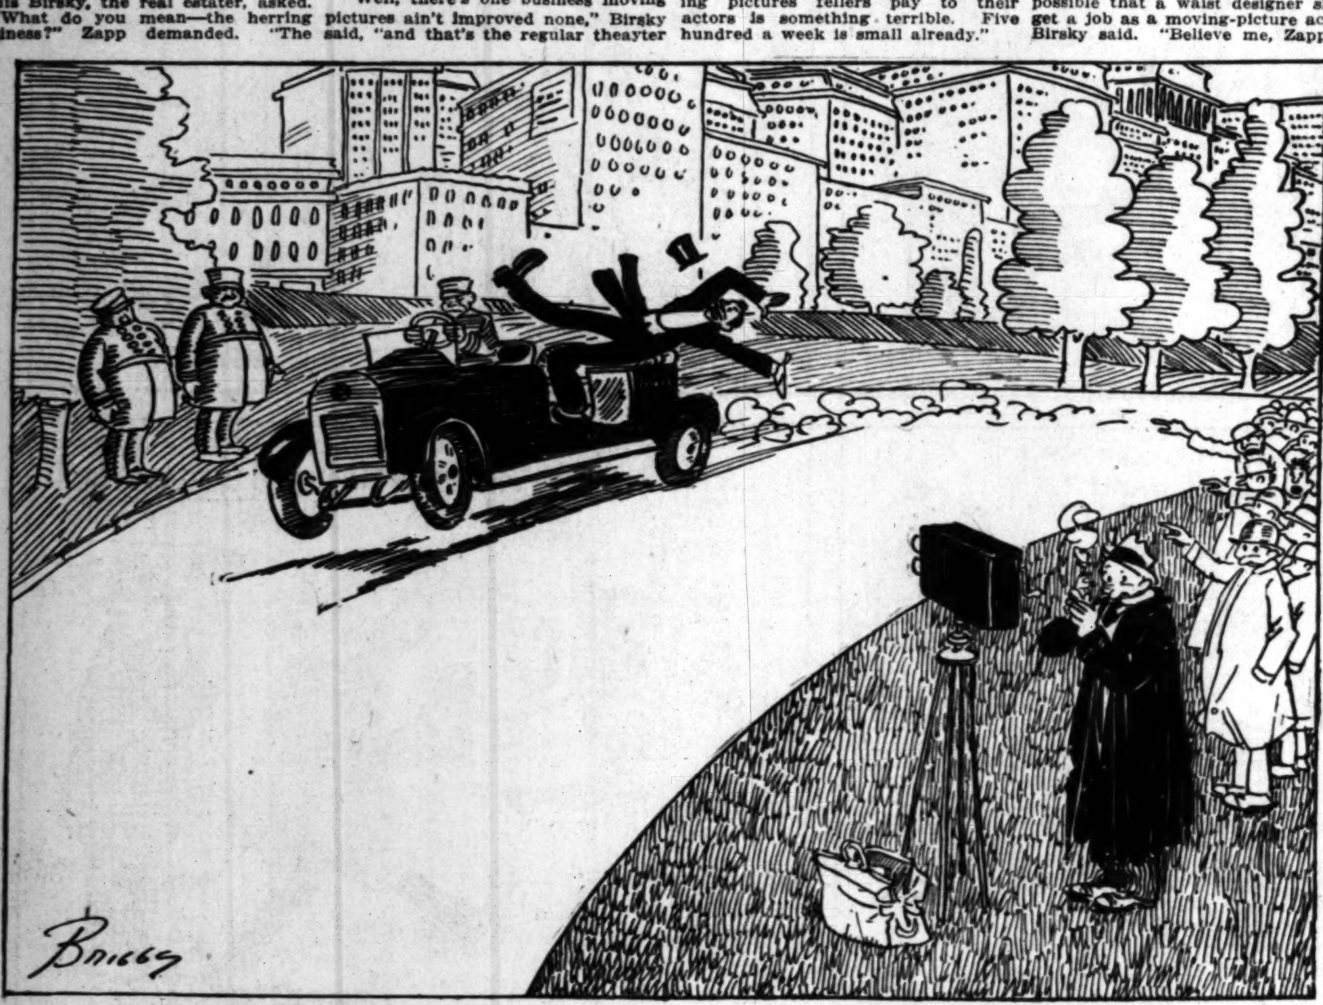
"You don't take him to a moving pictures, neither," Zapp said.

"I know you don't," Birsky replied. "Asking a customer to go to a theayter and then taking him to a moving pictures, Zapp, is the equivalence of inviting him to lunch and then blowing him at a drug store to an egg chocolate with malted milk."

"At that, there's lots of people makes a luncheon off of chocolate malted milk," Zapp said.

"They're welcome, for all of me," Birsky said, "but so long as I've got the price I would stick to soup, meat, dessert and coffee, and I'm the same way about going to a show. When I go broke, I'll be a moving picture fan too, Zapp, but as it stands, when I feel like taking in a theayter I want to see a show which was written by an author, not a truck driver. Also I like to hear an actor as well as see him, Zapp."

"Me, too," Zapp agreed, "and if he's got other talents besides falling out of an oitermobile going thirty miles an hour, Birsky, so much the better."



"Maybe the feller that works the camera wasn't looking."

A BRITISH FAILURE.

The Many Physically Unfit Men Result of National Policy.

[Philadelphia Press:] England's great failure time and again at critical periods during the war to succor her allies has been due very largely to lack of men. Lack of men lost her Antwerp, lack of men crippled the Dardanelles expedition at the outset, lack of men permitted the central powers to overrun Serbia. Her expeditions have always been comparatively small.

The answer to the question as to why England is short of men reveals an alarming social symptom in her body politic. England has not the men because she has not taken the proper care of her working population. The evidence is cumulative. In round numbers, says Dr. C. W. Saleeby, in the London Daily Chronicle, perhaps 3,000,000 of men have been accepted for British service in the past year and 1,000,000 rejected.

One million men rejected! Rejected because they were physically unfit. Rejected in a time when the receruiting officers are enrolling men five feet one inch, with a thirty-three-inch chest, and are even taking those of four feet eleven inches. These facts as presented by Dr. Saleeby constitute a terrible symptom of decay.

During the Crimean war the height for enrollment was five feet eight inches. But about that time a great change took place in English life. The abolition of the Corn laws drive the people into the cities, and England was transformed from an agricultural to a manufacturing nation. The result of three generations of slum dwellers is seen in the figures of rejected men. The proportion of defective men was just as great during the Boer war, when the recruiting office lowered the physical requirements three times in order to get enough men to serve.

Observers invariably remark on the discrepancy in height between the men and the officers in the English army. Tommy Atkins is recruited from the industrial population, has been housed in the slums, eaten food with little or no nourishment in it and deprived of leisure and comfort necessary to mental and physical development. The officers are sons of the aristocracy and rich, well fed, well educated, well taken care of.

Poverty exists in Germany, as everywhere in the world, but she has taken care of her working people and when she summoned the nation to the colors there answered sturdy, healthy, vigorous men. Germany seemingly has an inexhaustible supply of cannon fodder to man the trenches and work the guns. England appeals and appeals, yet must reject one out of every four who apply, though the requirements are very low.

The war has taught England many lessons. May it also teach her the greater lesson that the strength of a nation in the last analysis is not in the money that it can amass, but in the physical well-being of its working class.

WOMAN'S FIGHT FOR SUCCESS.

The Navies of the World Owe the Invention of the Coston Signals to a Plucky Woman.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] Very few women have turned their attention to invention with the result that the outcome has been most valuable to the world. One exception was Mrs. Coston, the widow of Benjamin Franklin Coston of Philadelphia. Her husband had been a young man of genius and was a successful inventor, but died too soon to reap much reward from his labors. When necessity called at the door of the Widow Coston a thought came to her. She remembered that her husband, during his last days, had mentioned a certain box of papers as being of considerable value and it occurred to her that in that box she should find hope and health.

When she opened this box she found that it contained the records of plans of inventions unfinished. One of these was a system of signals to be used in the night at sea for the purpose of communicating messages from ship to ship and from ship to shore. In the envelope was a chart of all the signals proposed to be used, neatly colored, with ample explanations of the manner of use.

She examined the papers carefully and found that her husband suggested the use of colored lights of great brilliancy. She made up her mind at once to attempt to develop and complete this invention. She visited a staunch friend of her family, Admiral Charles Stewart, then commander at the Philidelphia Navy Yard, for advice how to proceed. She went to Washington, where the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Isaac Toncey, at once consented to give the invention a trial.

A few signals, imperfectly made, were placed on board a vessel of war and subjected to a trial at sea. A letter soon came from Admiral Paulding telling Mrs. Coston in kind but uncompromising language, that they had proved good for nothing, but he added that the idea was an excellent one, and that she ought to be encouraged by the department to develop it.

Mrs. Coston now entered upon a series of labors which kept her in the fullest activity for more than thirty years. It required months of work and worry to get colors made of the indispensable brilliancy. The widow happened to be in New York when a big display of fireworks was being given in honor of the laying of the Atlantic cable, and the idea flashed across her mind that the men who made those splendid colors could produce some which would answer her purpose.

In ten days she received a package containing the desired colors. She persuaded a friend to drive to a mountain five miles distant, and burn them to show her the effect. The trial was a success. She soon had a supply of signals which she was confident would realize her husband's idea, and so it proved. She was present herself, and in deep mourning, when a board of naval officers gave them their second and decisive trial. Their success was such as to extort exclamations of delight from all who witnessed it, and the officers gave to the department a most favorable report.

In a few days after the successful trial Mrs. Coston was given an order by the government for signals enough to supply every ship in the navy, and she entered into a partnership with a manufacturer, and the work began. The government proved to be slow pay, and the widow had to wait a long time to get much beyond the barest subsistence by the manufacture of her husband's signals.

The signals came to the navy just in time; for nearly all the blockade runners that were caught during the war were caught by the use of the Coston signals. Admiral Farragut and Admiral Porter, and indeed all the admirals who held important commands, testified to their great and constant utility.

In the course of time this resolute lady made her way to almost every court and cabinet in Europe, in order to bring to their notice the excellence of the signals. She procured their adoption in the French, the Italian, the Danish and the Swedish navies, and today the Coston system is in use by practically every navy of the world. Some of her journeys tested her powers of endurance to the uttermost, and she displayed in many strange scenes a high degree of tact and ability. The most striking benefit of these night signals is seen at the life-saving stations, which are enabled by them to hold a continuous conversation with the officers of a stranded ship, and to convey, as well as to receive, that precise information upon which success in relieving them often depends.

EUROPE'S LITTLE STATES.

Have been Saved in Present War by Preparedness.

[Buffalo Enquirer:] "If preparedness prevented war," say the antipreparationists, "Europe would now be at peace."

Even in Europe, however, it is possible to discover evidences of the war-preventing services of preparedness.

Switzerland's preparedness saves that country from being the highway and battlefield of foreign armies.

Holland's preparedness saves her from the trespass that both sides would commit if they did not fear the cost would exceed the benefit.

How long would Russia hesitate to sweep over Rumania to get at the German, Austrian and Bulgarian armies if Rumania were not prepared to defend herself?

The deference the allies and central powers are showing to Greece is due to nothing but their respect for that country's preparedness.

If Russia could use Scandinavian ports in her war business, how long would she refrain from seizing them but for dread of raising up a new, though weak foe, to fight? Even Denmark's tiny army is a factor that helps stall off any thought of a flank attack on Germany through her territory.

Isn't it strange that reasoning beings who lock their doors at night and cheerfully pay policemen see no reason for locking the coasts of this country against invasion?

Silver Sword of Hawaii.

[Honolulu Star-Bulletin:] One of the most curious plants in the world, and one of the greatest interests to all botanists, is the Silver Sword. This exceedingly rare plant, with its magnificent silver spines and handsome crest may still be found in profusion in the upper part of Kaupo gap, the southern outlet of the vast extinct crater of Haleakala on the island of Maui. It flowers from July to October and occurs hardly anywhere else in the world. Even stranger is the variety known as the green sword, which occurs only in Haleakala crater and is unknown to exist elsewhere.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC'S INTEREST.

The Task of Congress to Make Steamboat Inspectors Inspect.

BY ALEXANDER R. SMITH,
Editor "The Marine News" Author of the "Report on Ship building for the Twelfth United States Census."

Unquestionably the reorga of the United States steamboat spection service will engage the rious attention of Congress at the coming session. The better prot of life and property intrusted to sels is found necessary, as a result the Eastland disaster at Chi July 24.

Federal inspectors look after saving appliances carefully, and amine engines and boilers and appurtenances thoroughly; but matters of design, in the vital ter of stability—of vessels being to stand up under strain and and, to an extent, in matters of struction, it has been the custom inspectors, says Secretary of Commerce Redfield, "to leave them to the builders."

He proposes to have this detail corrected by having a board naval architects pass upon designs steam vessels over 100 tons, the sels not to be used until approved the board, but with appeal to "higher authority" from the board's decision.

There must be rules adopted by the government governing the construction of vessels, so that designers build them within the law. Private interests heretofore have formulated such rules, and in most countries owners and builders control the associations and corporations whose rules govern construction. In the United States underwriters control the association that formulates rules for the government of ship construction upon which the classification and rating of ships are based, and which form the basis of insurance of hulls and cargoes. The rules in the of the American bureau are availed of to any large extent, and is believed, because the "factor of safety" is so high. Owners desire vessels built with the maximum of carrying capacity and the minimum cost, and they know that every of weight of material added to the strengthening of ships in their construction eliminates a ton of carrying capacity during the life of the ship. Hence their tendency to build close to the danger point, to build vessels lightly instead of strongly. The government's interest is the same the underwriters' interest—for safety's sake each desires that the vessels shall be strongly, and not lightly built.

So long as local inspectors of steam vessels are required to sign certificates of inspection of steam vessels swearing that they inspected them and found them seaworthy and when in fact they did not inspect them at all, there will be serious impairment of the efficiency of the Steamboat Inspection Service. Assistant inspectors are appointed because local inspectors are with important office details. the assistants file their reports certificates of inspection, ing the vessels' safety, are local inspectors swearing inspected the vessel and condition she was found in, pleteness of her equipment purtenances.

When accidents happen vessels the local inspectors the officers of the ships fore them and examine them ing the matters, and if as a such examinations they believe this or that officer, or these officers, are blameworthy, then hold an investigation. In the local inspectors are judges, juries and executioners. have prejudged the case in of investigating it. This is all it should be remedied. The who formulate the charges censed officers should not cases, deliver judgment and sentences.

The Federal government is gether too parsimonious, in vital matters such as involve safety of the people, and to the services of the kind of of steam vessels that it should the money paid them should twice what it is at present. public safety would be the but if things are continued are less public safety on board vessels will result.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

ENTERTAINING WITHOUT SERVICE.

TWO letters came to me the other day which I think may be answered here helpfully for a number of the Cornerites. I print them below:

"For years I have been so busy with my children that I have not had much time to give to entertaining and now I have fallen out of the habit of it. Let me tell you a little about myself and then perhaps you can advise me.

"My husband is a business man with a modest income. We have a nice little home, but my two daughters—17 and 19 years old—and I do all the work except the washing and ironing. For that we have a woman come in. Both my boys, who are younger than the girls, are away at boarding school, and it takes so much to keep them there that we cannot afford to pay a regular servant. Then, too, we like to take care of the house ourselves.

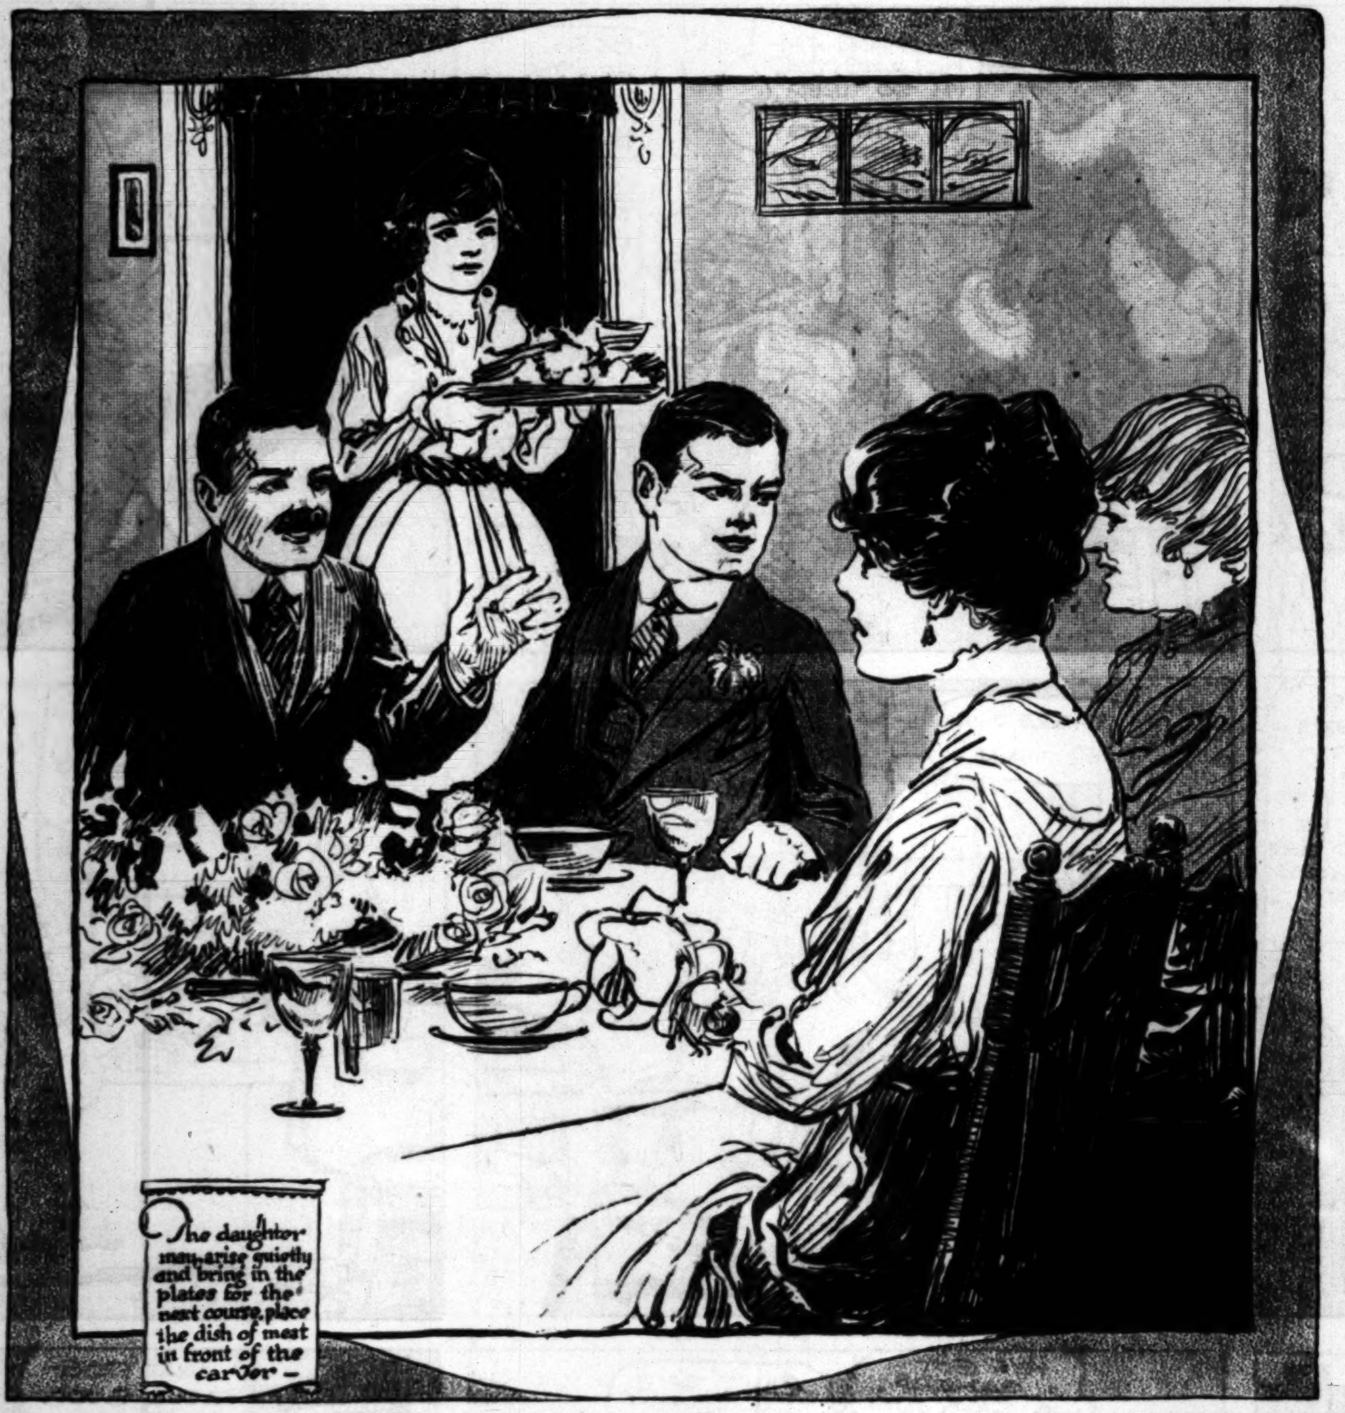
"The trouble is that now and then we want to have some one come to dinner. The children have always been allowed to invite their friends informally, but now that the girls are older I like to be able to tell them they can ask new acquaintances if they wish. It makes the home bright and pleasant and keeps their father and me young. But how can I have people to dine when we have no maid? It would send the price up to hire some one to come in whenever we have any one to dine. Can you give me some helpful counsel as to what to do? E. L. M."

"I am a young housekeeper with a dear little home. I take care of it myself and my friends were so good to me when I married that I have some lovely things. I am eager to entertain a little by asking some of my girl friends to luncheon now and then. Can I do this without a maid and how can I manage it? BRIDE."

As it is estimated that over 90 per cent of the housekeepers in the country do not employ hired help, it strikes me that the answers to these questions may be of practical importance to others besides the writers of the letters I have quoted.

I wish to begin by saying that one of the biggest mistakes that can be made by persons of moderate means is to attempt to entertain in a more expensive and elaborate fashion than their finances warrant. When they do this they assume a false position, and lay upon their own shoulders a burden that is bound to gall and chafe them sooner or later. They strike a false note in the domestic harmony—to change the figure slightly.

It has been my pleasure and honor to have among my friends many who did their own work, and in such graceful and easy style that the trained and paid service was never missed. To my mind there is no reason why the circle of the home should not be widened to include guests who will take the family as they are accustomed to be when by themselves. A little extra elegance of the menu, a few specially prepared dishes may be added, but there need be no departure from the usual methods of serving. These should be properly conducted when the family is alone, and there will thus be no unusual effort when guests are present.



The daughter may arise quietly and bring in the plates for the next course, place the dish of meat in front of the carver —

In the first place, consider the dinner to which guests are to be asked. The table should be carefully set, as it is every day, with good linen, spotless and shining china, glass and silver. The vase of flowers or the pot of plants or the growing fern that generally adorns the middle of the table may be unchanged. If there is an extra course it means a little additional silver.

When a maid is employed the soup will be served outside and brought in by the waitress. In her absence one of the daughters may either fill the soup plates—or cups are better when the soup may have to stand a moment—and put them on the table before the guests come in, or the soup may be served on the table from a tureen, and the plates passed from hand to hand.

This course finished, the daughter who has undertaken the task of acting as waitress may arise quietly, remove the soup plates and bring in the plates for the next course, place the dish of meat in front of the carver, the vegetables in their positions before those who are to serve them, and then resume her seat. The carver does his duties, passing the plates along for vegetables and to the persons for whom they are meant. No apology is called for nor should one be made.

Let me impress upon those who entertain without service that every means must be used to prevent the necessity for jumping up and down to get missing articles. Not only should a butter ball and a slice of bread be on each bread and butter plate, but a plate of bread and one of butter should be on the table. A pitcher of water should also be there, so that the glasses may be easily replenished.

Not so long ago but what most of us can recall it easily, it was considered the correct thing to have such reinforcements of bread and butter on the table, even in homes where a butler or waitress was employed, and the bowl of ice or the ice filled glasses, the pitchers or carafes of fresh water were taken as a matter of course. The custom was sensible and worthy of continuatioin. Many a time I have lacked bread, butter, or water in a dining room where a servant was in waiting who did not understand his business well enough to watch over my needs when these were unobserved by the hostess. It would have been a great relief to me to be able to serve myself or to ask my next neighbor to pass to me what I wanted.

As an adjunct in saving the work of getting up and down frequently, a serving table is a great help. This may have on it extra plates and various other items for which there is not room on the main table, and their presence close at hand will save running back and forth when the daughter arises to change the plates after the principal course is ended.

When salad is offered, the cruets of vinegar and oil may either be on the table from the beginning or on the serving table, within easy reach, if the dressing is to be mixed then and there, or this may have been made in advance and put near at hand. The salad itself may be left where it is cool until it is wanted, but cheese, crackers and the like may be in the dining room.

When the salad and plates for it have been removed the rest of the dishes may be taken off, including pepper and salt, butter, bread, and the like, and the table brushed off with a folded napkin. A tea or dinner wagon is of great assistance at such a time, since all the dishes to be removed may be placed on this and the loaded wagon pushed quietly to one side or into the pantry or kitchen.

The sweet comes next, after the fresh plates have been put on and the coffee. With the number of coffee machines for making the beverage on the table that are on the market now it is, if possible, desirable to have something of this sort. If not, the coffee may be made outside and either brought in in cups, or, better still, in a coffee pot put before the mother, who fills the cups as they are needed.

I have referred to the daughter who assumes the duties of waitress because the letter of my first inquirer told me of the two daughters of her own who aid her in her housekeeping. But when the mistress of the home does the work herself there is no reason why she should not rise to discharge these little offices. To her, even more than to the one who has helpers in her family, is the serving table of use, since at a small party she can take the plates that have been used from their places, without rising, and put them on the side table in lieu of the fresh ones she substitutes for them.

Let me put in a plea here for the various dishes which come to keep food hot. I have spoken of the coffee machine, and the chafing dish in which cooking is done is known to all of us. But there are also hot water dishes in which food is kept warm over a reservoir of scalding water. In addition to this there are metal and earthenware casseroles and dishes with covers which conserve the heat much longer than the ordinary open dishes and platters. They are worthy of being numbered among the labor saving inventions for which I so often plead.

With the aid of such dishes as these, the serving table or tea wagon or butler's tray, or whatever the helper may be called, presence of mind, a sense of the dignity of housekeeping and the habit of preserving the best standards of living when one is alone with the family, entertaining without service is robbed of its terrors.

Sometimes there is danger that a woman who does her own work will slip into the habit of shrinking from guests. She has a false pride which makes her think that if she cannot entertain in the manner practiced by those of wealth she would rather not ask friends to her table. This is a mistake in more ways than one. Not only does it render a woman self-conscious when the necessity for hospitality is forced upon her, but it also drives her family into the position where they feel they must go out of the house to meet their friends. Anything is better than that, especially where young people are concerned.

A word as to the bills of fare. When extra dainties are provided they should be tried first before they are offered to strangers. As a rule the family likes experiments and the housekeeper can accustom herself to preparing dishes which she thinks would be pleasing to company when only the household is present.

The chafing dish is a great help in this line, not only for Sunday night suppers, where it is supposed to be peculiarly appropriate, but also for luncheons and dinners. It is a pleasing novelty to have an entree prpepared at the table, and the woman who has the habit of the chafing dish appears well while presiding over it. Other entrees that are made by the woman who does her own work are pleasing and can be ready in advance, so that she need not worry over them at the last moment, while sweets which can be made ahead of time are numerous and delicious either for dinner or for luncheon.

Flour as a Cleanser.

"I WONDER if any one will be interested in knowing that common wheat flour will clean white yarn garments, such as sweaters, scarfs, and caps. Put the garment into a small quantity of flour and rub with the hands in the flour until the soiled spots are gone. Then take the garment into the open and shake and beat it in the hands until all the flour is gone. The garment will be soft and white as new. Also common baking soda, applied on a damp rag, will take almost any stain from white oilcloth. I would like so much to have the box of magazines offered by Mrs. G. H. I love to read and we cannot buy books, as we have six little tots to care for and my husband does not have work all the time. I am almost a shut-in, for it is seldom I can go out when I have so many small children to care for. If any one could send pictures of any kind or postcards I would appreciate it very much.

"MRS. M. A. J."

The directions for cleaning white woolen garments with flour will be of service to some of our housekeepers, I am sure. I am sorry that all the magazines offered by Mrs. G. H. have been given elsewhere, but is there not some one else who can supply her need for reading matter and her wish for the pictures and the post cards as well? I will keep her address on file.

Tried and Found Good.

"I send a few recipes which I have tried and found good:

"Best Ever Cake—Put into the mixing bowl one cup of flour, one cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, and a level teaspoon of baking powder. Mix well together, dry. Melt in a measuring cup butter or lard the size of an English walnut; break into this an egg, without beating it; fill the cup with sweet milk, pour upon the dry ingredients in the mixing bowl, and beat all together hard for a minute. Flavor to suit the taste and bake in a hot oven.

"Cheese Cake—Soften half a pound of cottage cheese with milk; add to it two tablespoons of melted butter and three or four eggs. Mix well and sweeten; flavor with vanilla or lemon to taste. Add milk until the mixture is thinner than griddle cake batter. Use a baking pan about an inch and a half deep, lining this with good pie crust. Put in the cheese mixture, sprinkle with nutmeg, and place bits of butter all around the edge. These will melt and form a delicious brown top.

"Clabber Cake is made of clabber from which the whey has been drained. The necessary ingredients are a pound of flour, half a pound of butter, fourteen ounces of sugar, and three eggs. When these have been mixed together, stir in one and a half cups of clabber and just before pouring into the pans add two even teaspoons of baking soda, dissolved in a tablespoon of new milk. Bake in a covered pan, but leave the cover off until the cake begins to rise.

"And now I have a favor to ask. Has any one a small incubator for which she has no further use? I have a few brown Leghorn hens and if I had an incubator I could raise chickens and sell eggs, and it would be such a help to me. I cannot afford to buy the incubator, as my husband is in poor health, and it takes all my pennies to buy the absolutely necessary things. If any one can send me the incubator I would also like an instruction book, as I have never used such an appliance. In exchange I would send plants of the bearing kind of Giant Himalaya berry or return the kindness in any way I could. MRS. M. T."

These practical recipes are gratefully received. I trust that some one may have an incubator which is no longer needed and may be able to gratify her desire to make a little money by the means at her disposal. I shall hold her address for those who may ask for it.

Want Quilt Pieces.

"I saw in the paper a while ago that a woman would like to have a quilt pieced in exchange for some dress goods she had to give. As I am poor and like to piece quilts I would be glad to get the work or to do other quilts in the same way. I would also like to get calico scraps to piece quilts on shares. MRS. L. S."

The name of the Cornerite who wished to have the quilt pieced is not given by this correspondent, which makes it more difficult to trace her, but I think I know the one referred to, and her work has already been taken and done. Is there some one else who would like to have quilts pieced on shares, as this writer suggests? If so, will she please write for the address, inclosing stamp for reply?

Disposing of Old Relic.

"In regard to an inquiry on the part of an old lady who has a one dollar silver certificate dated 1776, I would suggest that she might dispose of this to some of the government museums at a better advantage than she could to an old coin collector. I do not know the exact address of any of these museums, but imagine that there is a department of antiques in the capital at Washington, D. C., and that if she would take the matter up with persons there they would in all probability purchase the old certificate or give her the information as to where to dispose of it. It is, of course, possible that the museums might contain old bills more historic than the one mentioned, in which case she might dispose of it to some other museum where the collection was less complete. In any case I think she might get the information she seeks from the museum department at Washington.

I pass on this suggestion for the benefit of others who may have valuable notes of the same kind.

Twins Want a Carriage.

"I have twin babies and can't afford to get a carriage for them. If any one has a twin carriage or a big one I would be much obliged for it. I could give preserves to anybody who would be so kind. My babies are 8 months old and I can't take them out much for want of a carriage, as they are getting too heavy to carry. BLUEBELL."

I hope most sincerely this mother may receive the carriage she asks for. It is hard enough to carry one 8 month old baby out for an airing, and the thought of taking two is rather appalling. I have no doubt some one will be glad to get the preserves in exchange for a twin carriage or for an ordinary baby carriage of large size.

Would Like Some Correspondents.

"I have already written to the girl whose address you gave me. She wanted music and reading matter. I would like some correspondents; can you get them for me? "L. H."

All I can do is to put this letter here in the hope that some one may wish to correspond with this girl and may write to me, inclosing stamp, for her address.

Needs Infant's Garments.

"I should like to ask some assistance for a friend who will soon need some infant's garments. If I were able I would provide for her myself, but as I cannot I appeal to the Corner. Anything would be acceptable, or material to make up. She does hand sewing and simple crochet stitches neatly and would do what she is able in return. For myself I should like an old guitar and in return would do any work in my power. I have had to do many kinds and can turn my hand to almost any kind of woman's work, from making dolls' clothes up to boarding children. I get so hungry for some sort of music I can make myself. I will pay all charges on anything sent either for my friend or myself. The friend is not a poor manager, but she has a large family and must provide for them on a small income. MRS. H. H. L."

I have no doubt that something will be sent for the prospective mother, but I am a little uncertain as to the guitar. However, I print the request and hope it may be answered favorably.

Cries from Loneliness.

"Some time ago I wrote to ask you if some one had a phonograph to give away, and now I venture to write again. If you knew how I long to get some kind of music to cheer my poor old invalid mother you would be anxious to help me, I am sure. She has not been able to walk any further than a little about the house for years, so she cannot get out among people at all and she gets lonely—so lonely that she cries a great deal. Her eyes are so bad that she cannot see to read or sew and she just has to sit with her poor old hands folded and think, think, think! It breaks my heart to see her and I would gladly go without things myself to get her what she wants, but I do without things now in order to get the real necessities. Please keep on asking until you find the phonograph for her. I hate to beg and I never have done it before, but you have helped so many people! Perhaps I could do something in return for the instrument. I can embroider and would be glad to do it. MRS. H. S."

The desire for music is natural in the circumstances and my sympathy is almost as strong for the daughter who must see her mother unhappy as for the poor old lady who sits with idle hands and thinks and cries. I hope that somewhere a musical instrument such as she craves may be found which can be sent to her. I will put the daughter's address on file. Always I try to bear in mind how real are the mental sufferings of the old and that they have few earthly interests to divert their mind from the thought of their own disappointments and unhappiness.

Carrot Jam.

E.,' and I am glad to send it to you now: [illegible] the carrots, cut them up, and then [illegible] them down in the kettle to the point where you can crush them with the potato masher; then measure the quantity; to each cup of carrot add one cup of sugar, the juice of three lemons, and the [illegible] of two. [illegible]

I put this letter here in the hope [illegible] it may meet the eyes of those [illegible] kind enough to write to this [illegible] and may be wondering why they [illegible] not heard from her yet.

FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

BY ADELAIDE BYRD

A SEASONABLE CENTERPIECE

DESIGNED BY DOROTHY EDWARDS

THERE is something fascinating about working a design which fits in with the spirit of the season. For this reason every one of you fair embroiderers will want to make for your dining-room table a centerpiece such as the one shown on the page. The dogwood is a flower which appears with the first offering of Nature's bouquet in the springtime.

The centerpiece measures 26 inches in diameter. It was inconvenient to show more than one-quarter of the design, but by swinging this section around you will have no difficulty transferring the complete design to your linen. Do not fail to select good linen for the work. It wears so much longer than an inferior quality that it is worth the extra money expended at first.

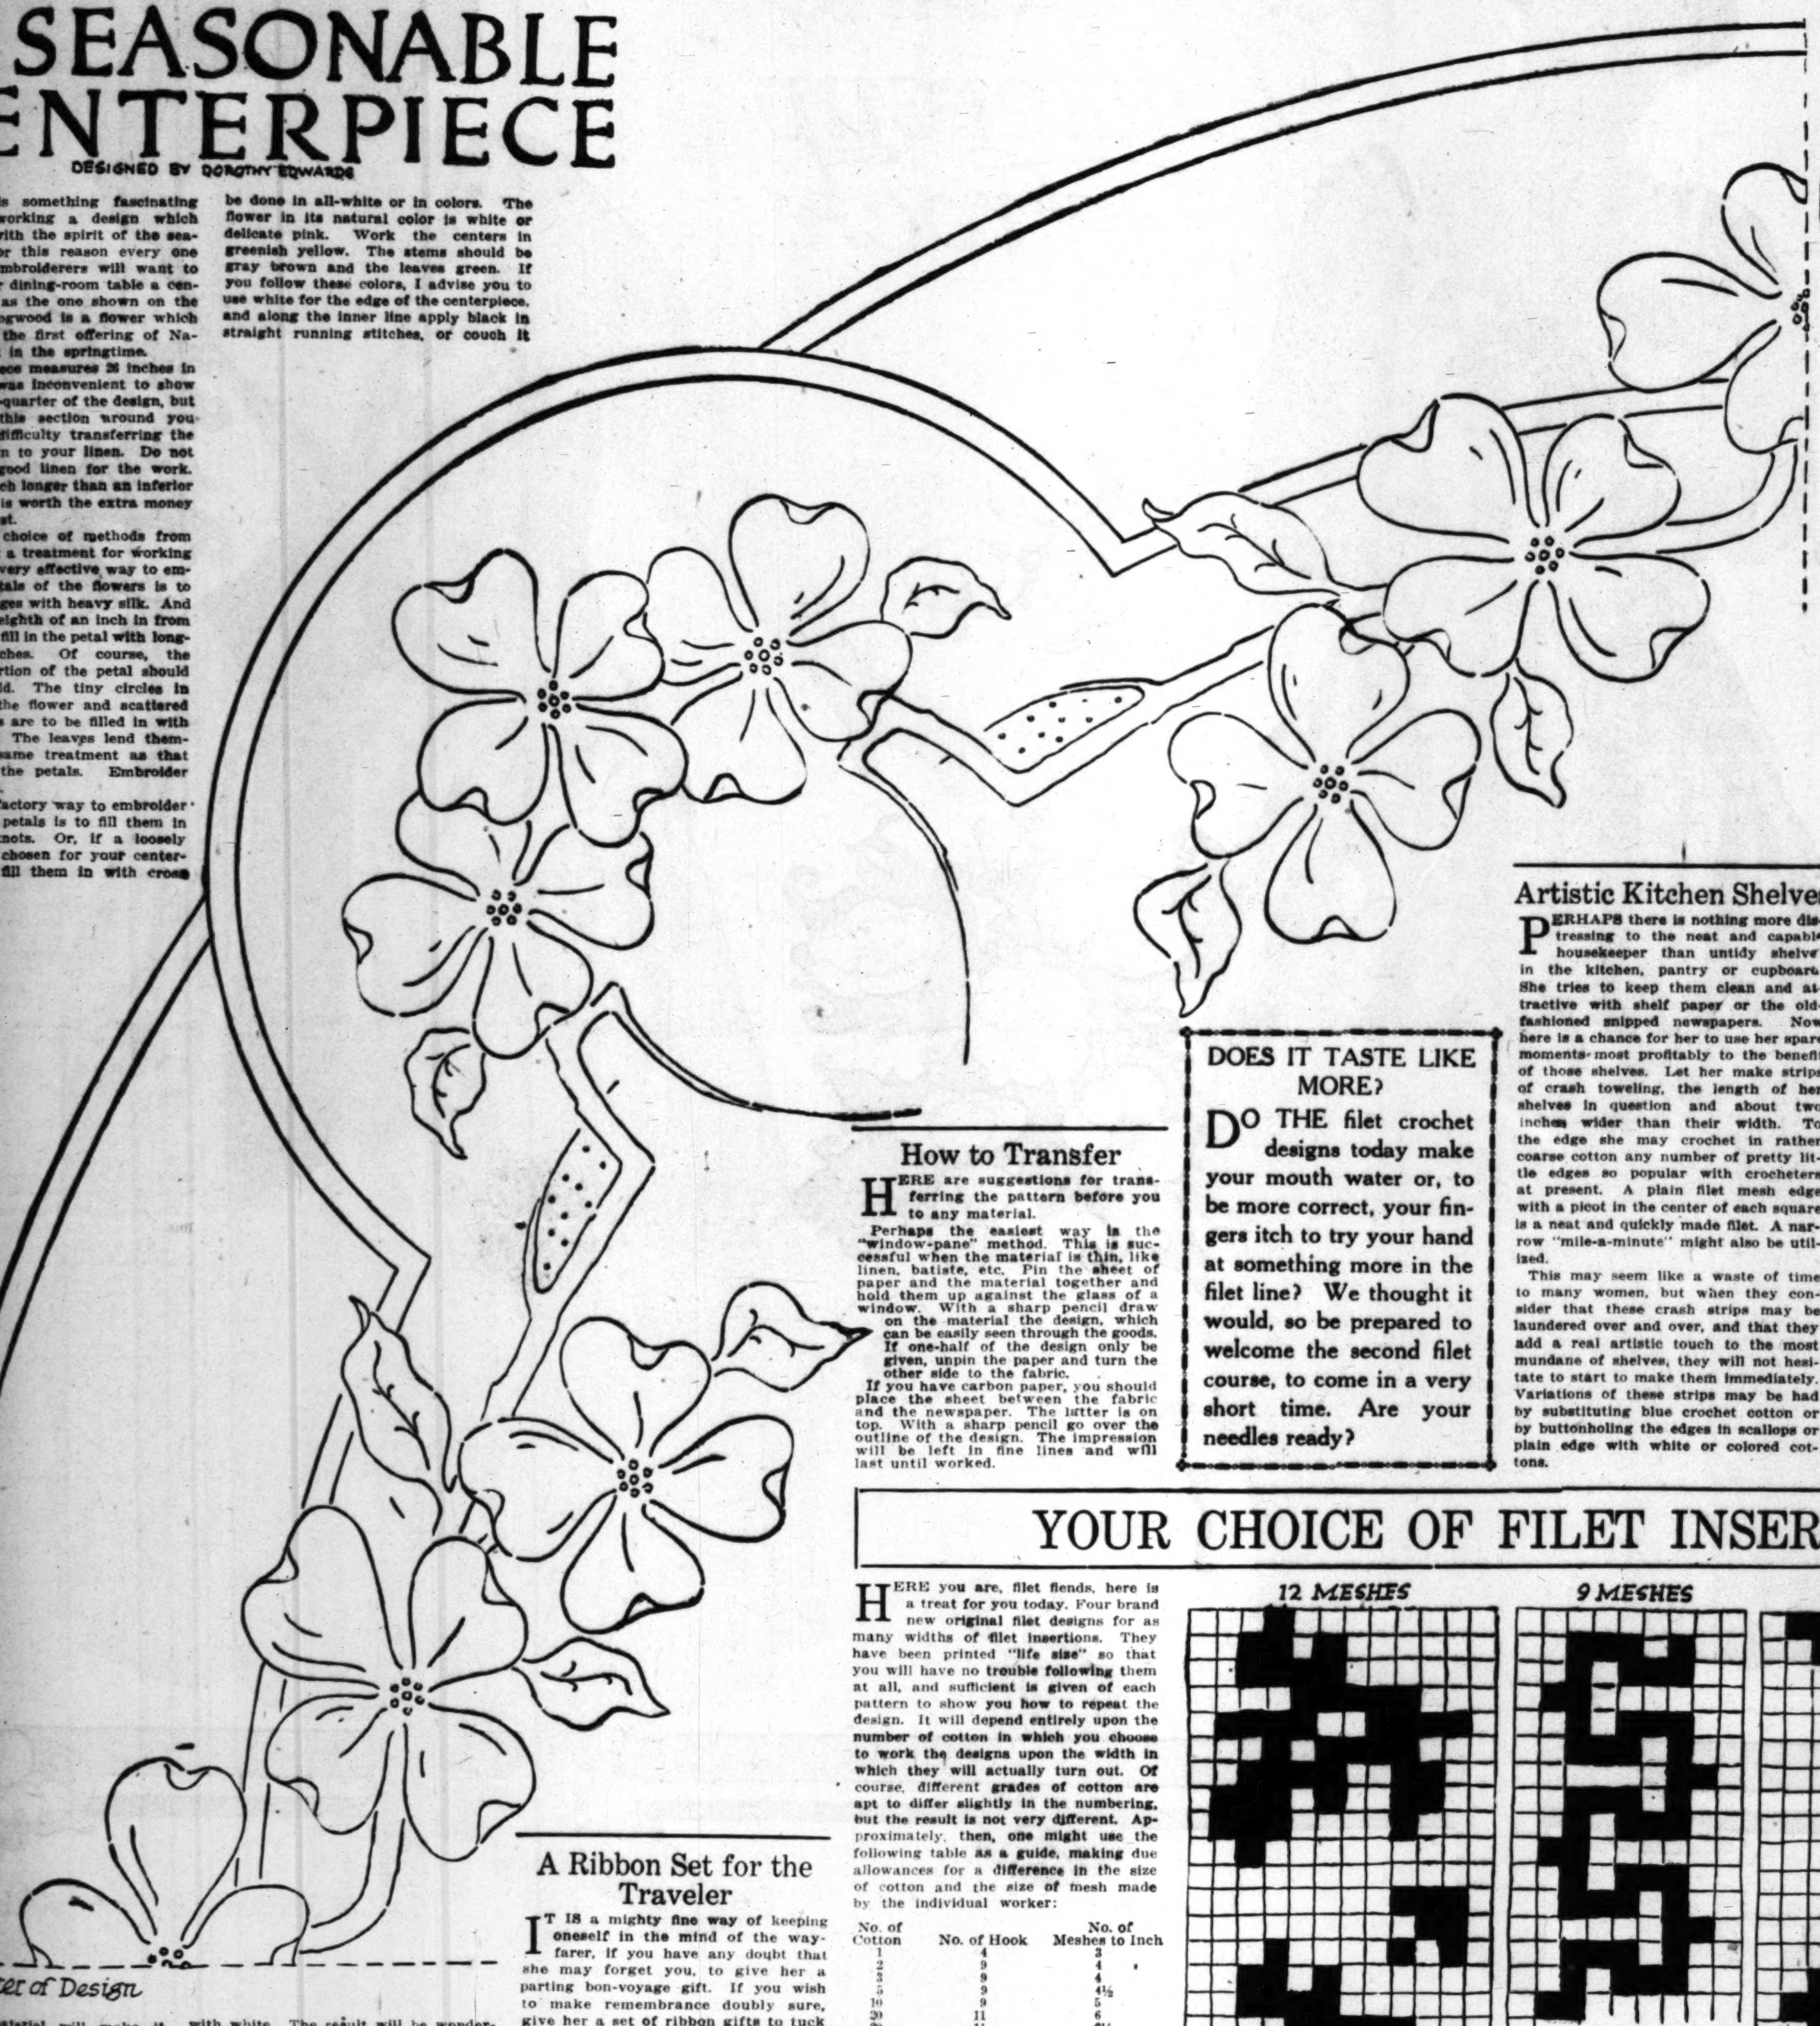
You have a choice of methods from which to select a treatment for working the design. A very effective way to embroider the petals of the flowers is to outline their edges with heavy silk. And then about an eighth of an inch in from the edge partly fill in the petal with long-and-short stitches. Of course, the turned-over portion of the petal should be worked solid. The tiny circles in the center of the flower and scattered along the stems are to be filled in with French knots. The leaves lend themselves to the same treatment as that suggested for the petals. Embroider the stems solid.

Another satisfactory way to embroider the leaves and petals is to fill them in with French knots. Or, if a loosely woven linen is chosen for your centerpiece you can fill them in with cross stitches. The material will make it easy for you to count the squares as you work.

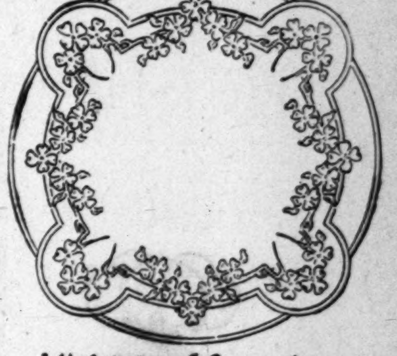
You will notice that the edge of the centerpiece is unscalloped. This means that the double lines should be filled in with buttonhole stitches, darning stitches, or each line can be followed with heavy floss couched to the material. After turning under the edge of the material add cluny lace. Or, if you wish a change from the cluny lace you can bind the edge with silk braid. This method is in high favor at the present time. The braid can be white or colored.

By the way, the embroidery, too, can be done in all-white or in colors. The flower in its natural color is white or delicate pink. Work the centers in greenish yellow. The stems should be gray brown and the leaves green. If you follow these colors, I advise you to use white for the edge of the centerpiece, and along the inner line apply black in straight running stitches, or couch it with white. The result will be wonderfully artistic.

Should you not feel inclined to put so much work on the centerpiece the whole design can be treated in the simplest stitches which require very little time. By these I mean the outline stitches to delineate the leaves, flowers and stems, French knots for the little circle and a lattice effect for the space between the double-lined edge. Use heavy highly mercerized cotton for the purpose. The finished work will be more effective if the turned-over portions of the leaves and petals are worked solid. It will take very few minutes to do this.



One Quarter of Design



Miniature of Centerpiece

Odds and Ends of Silk

LOOK through your bag or box containing odds and ends of embroidery silks and let them prove useful in ornamenting guest towels and other things. It is well to have a few little towels on hand, not only for home use, but to be showered on girls whose engagements have been announced. The most attractive towels can be made by embroidering across their ends little flowers. These can be filled in with French knots made from the various colored silks. The result is really very satisfactory.

Another gift—one appropriate for a baby—can be made of turkish toweling and have on it a stork, a child or initials embroidered in the left-over silks.

Since hand embroidery is so prevalent on hats, one can use remnants of silks or mercerized cottons to delineate a design in many colors. The more cheerful they are in hue the better the effect. The silks can be used also to hold in place odd pieces of ribbon placed at intervals around the brim or on the crown of your spring bonnet.

Two Small Frocks

FOR mothers who delight in adding a bit of handwork to the wee baby frocks there are several new ideas displayed in the shops. One uses filet crochet to good advantage. The yoke of this fine cotton corduroy frock is crocheted in the filet mesh after a pattern made for just this purpose, although straight banding might be joined for a square yoke. A wide panel is made by side pleats back and front, and this is embroidered with sprays of white embroidery. A sash is confined at the sides by means of filet crocheted straps about an inch in width.

The second frock is a "pinafore" frock of blue linen. It is made apron effect, with a guimpe of white dimity smocked at the wrists and around the neck. The blue linen is embroidered about two inches in from the rounded neck to simulate a separate yoke fagoted on with white cotton. This is done by a punched-work stitch through the linen, and over the resulting holes a lattice stitch is taken with white cotton. The same idea is used to delineate the slant pockets. White cross-stitch makes this frock quaint above everything else.

Artistic Kitchen Shelves

PERHAPS there is nothing more distressing to the neat and capable housekeeper than untidy shelves in the kitchen, pantry or cupboard. She tries to keep them clean and attractive with shelf paper or the old-fashioned snipped newspapers. Now here is a chance for her to use her spare moments most profitably to the benefit of those shelves. Let her make strips of crash toweling, the length of her shelves in question and about two inches wider than their width. To the edge she may crochet in rather coarse cotton any number of pretty little edges so popular with crocheters at present. A plain filet mesh edge with a picot in the center of each square is a neat and quickly made filet. A narrow "mile-a-minute" might also be utilized.

This may seem like a waste of time to many women, but when they consider that these crash strips may be laundered over and over, and that they add a real artistic touch to the most mundane of shelves, they will not hesitate to start to make them immediately. Variations of these strips may be had by substituting blue crochet cotton or by buttonholing the edges in scallops or plain edge with white or colored cottons.

DOES IT TASTE LIKE MORE?

DO THE filet crochet designs today make your mouth water or, to be more correct, your fingers itch to try your hand at something more in the filet line? We thought it would, so be prepared to welcome the second filet course, to come in a very short time. Are your needles ready?

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between the fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked.

A Ribbon Set for the Traveler

IT IS a mighty fine way of keeping oneself in the mind of the wayfarer, if you have any doubt that she may forget you, to give her a parting bon-voyage gift. If you wish to make remembrance doubly sure, give her a set of ribbon gifts to tuck in her traveling bag. Here are two which might very well be made together from the same bolt of ribbon.

Select a ribbon with a good body to it and a dark, well-covering pattern. A heavy grosgrain with dark floral patterns is a good selection. It should be about seven inches wide, and you will need about sixty-eight inches of ribbon, or what would be a yard and seven-eighths. In an expensive ribbon this extra eighth saved is not to be disregarded.

First, cut a piece of the ribbon off, fifteen inches in length. Turn up one selvage for two inches and featherstitch the ribbon into four large pockets about three and a half inches wide. There will be a fifth tiny pocket left when the raw edges are turned into a tiny hem and whipped together for the pocket length. Now, into each of these pockets should be slipped a reel of wash lingerie ribbons in white, blue, pink and dresden. They are wound over either ivory reels or those cut from stiff white cardboard. Into the small fifth pocket is slipped an ivory bodkin tied to a narrow ribbon matching in color the wide ribbon of the case. Scissors should be added, also tied to a ribbon and slipped with the bodkin into the fifth pocket. The whole case folds up and ties together with ribbons, making a most compact little receptacle for the things which every woman needs at some stage in a long journey.

The rest of the ribbon, measuring about fifty-three inches, is turned into a traveler's stole. The ends are turned up for about five inches and feather-stitched in place. Pleats are laid at the neck to insure a smooth fit under coat or over a dress, and into the pockets may be slipped handkerchief, small change, glasses, etc.

A morning will make both these gifts for the friend who starts tomorrow on a long and tiresome trip.

Applique for Your Spread

RAG rugs, four-posters, chintz and open fireplaces demand a covering for the bed to match the colonial atmosphere of the modern bedroom. What more natural than that designers should resort to applique in imitation of the quilts worked by colonial grandmothers? So the newest spread is a very dainty affair of striped madras, cut in bed width and length. Its attraction lies in the huge wreath of appliqued bits of colored chambray. There are large wild roses of pink chambray, leaves of green and a bowknot of blue all appliqued with a heavy mercerized cotton. The cotton also delineates stems in the leaves, stamens in the flowers and suggests sprays of berries to give the design character.

One need not stick to pink to make the spread a thing of loveliness for any bed. If your room is done in yellow, art will be generous enough to allow yellow chambray for the flowers, and lavender also. The design of each flower or leaf should be drawn first on the chambray, which is then basted into the general design on the spread. The applique process then takes place and the raw chambray is cut away from the design. The rest of the embroidery fills in the stems, etc.

A separate piece of madras to throw over the bolster may be treated in the same way; or if pillows are used, a throw for the pillows may be attached to the top of the spread, turned down flat on the bed, the pillows propped up straight on top of this and the throw then brought up and laid over the pillows. A bureau scarf may have a repetition of the wreath if it takes well on the bed coverings.

Separate shams may be treated with the same medallion of applique and the quaint design may be repeated on various portions of the bedroom fixings, even on curtains, cushions or a valance for the bed, should it be a four-poster.

YOUR CHOICE OF FILET INSERTIONS

HERE you are, filet fiends, here is a treat for you today. Four brand new original filet designs for as many widths of filet insertions. They have been printed "life size" so that you will have no trouble following them at all, and sufficient is given of each pattern to show you how to repeat the design. It will depend entirely upon the number of cotton in which you choose to work the designs upon the width in which they will actually turn out. Of course, different grades of cotton are apt to differ slightly in the numbering, but the result is not very different. Approximately, then, one might use the following table as a guide, making due allowances for a difference in the size of cotton and the size of mesh made by the individual worker:

No. of Cotton	No. of Hook	No. of Meshes to Inch
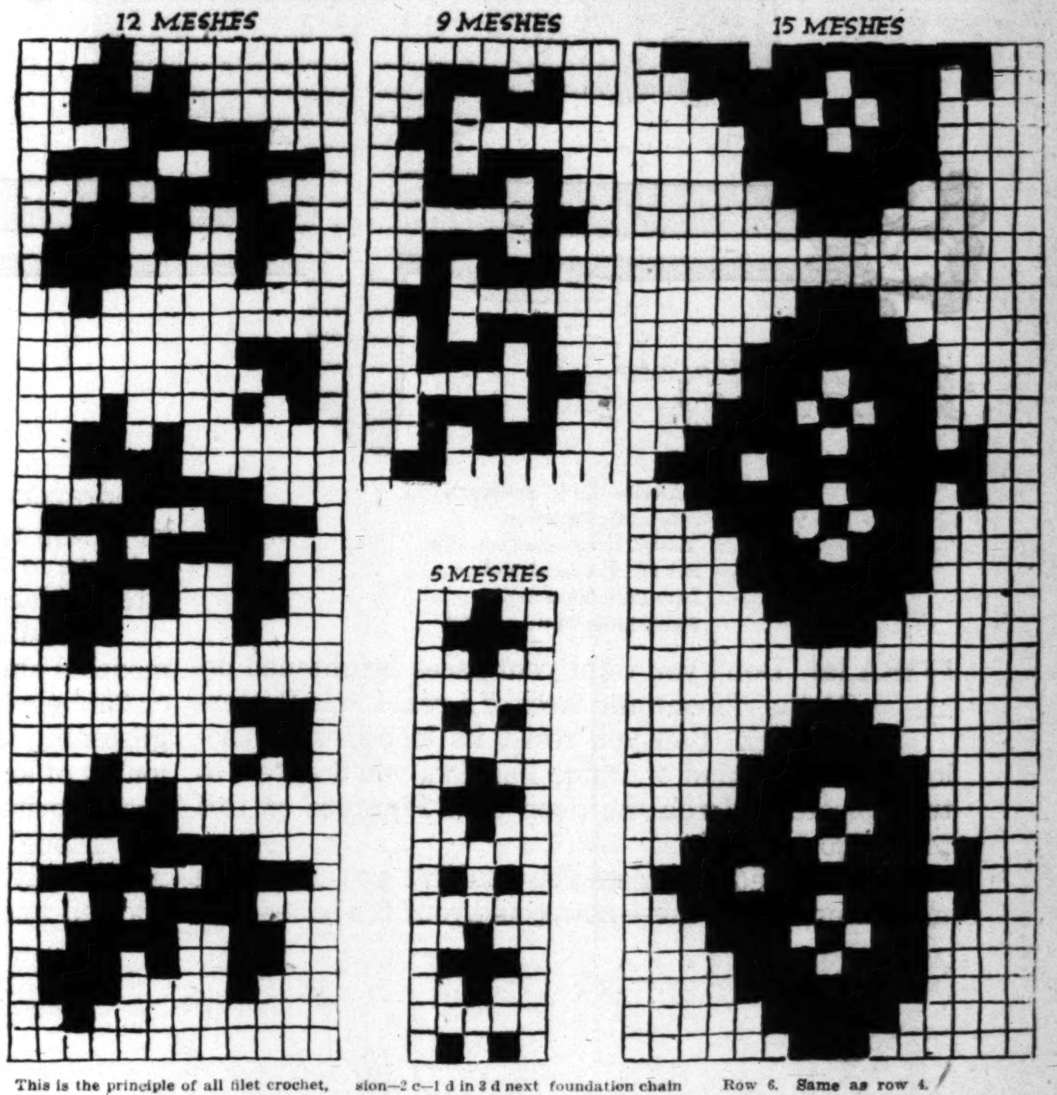
5	9	4½
10	9	5
20	11	6
30	11	6½
40	11	7
50	12	7½
60	12	8
70	14	8½
80	14	8½
100	14	9
150	14	10

By following this chart you can gauge partly how wide these insertions will look in the number of cotton which you wish to use. As they stand now, it will take number 20 cotton to work them out in these widths.

For the beginner at filet crochet it may be necessary to give a few hints how to go about making this very attractive lace. The basis of every pattern is a chain of stitches. A chain is the simplest crochet stitch and is made by first making a slipknot on the crochet needle, pulling a loop through that, and a loop through the next stitch, etc., etc. All insertions which are to be worked in a straight strip are worked across the width. You will need as many chain stitches for a foundation as you have meshes or squares in the insertion times three, plus six extra ones for the turn at the end. Thus, for the five-mesh insertion you will need twenty-one chain stitches. When these have been crocheted you make a double crochet in the ninth chain from the hook. A double crochet is made by first throwing the thread over the needle, then inserting the needle in the chosen stitch (in this case the ninth from the end of the chain) and pulling a loop through the stitch on to the needle. This leaves three stitches on the needle. You then proceed to pull a loop through two, leaving two more on the needle; a loop is then pulled through the remaining two, leaving but one stitch on the needle. Two chains are then made, and a double crochet is then made again into the third next stitch of the foundation chain. You have then formed two meshes.



This is the principle of all filet crochet, a series of open meshes made as just described, and closed meshes made by substituting double crochets for the two chains between the regular double crochets of the open meshes.

It might be well to give you the detailed description of the narrowest insertion, starting with the crosses. C equals chain; d, double crochet.

Crochet 21 chains.

Row 1. 1 d in 9th c from hook—2 c—skip 2 foundation chains, 4 d in succession—2 c—1 d in 3 d next foundation chain—2 c—1 d in last stitch of foundation chain. Turn crochet and make 5 chains.

Row 2. Starting on top of last d make 10 d in succession—2 c—1 d in next third stitch of last row. Turn crochet and make 5 chains.

Row 3. 1 d—2 c—4 d—2 c—1 d—2 c—1 d, Turn and chain 5.

Row 4. 1 d—2 c—1 d—2 c—1 d—2 c—1 d—3 c. Turn and chain 5.

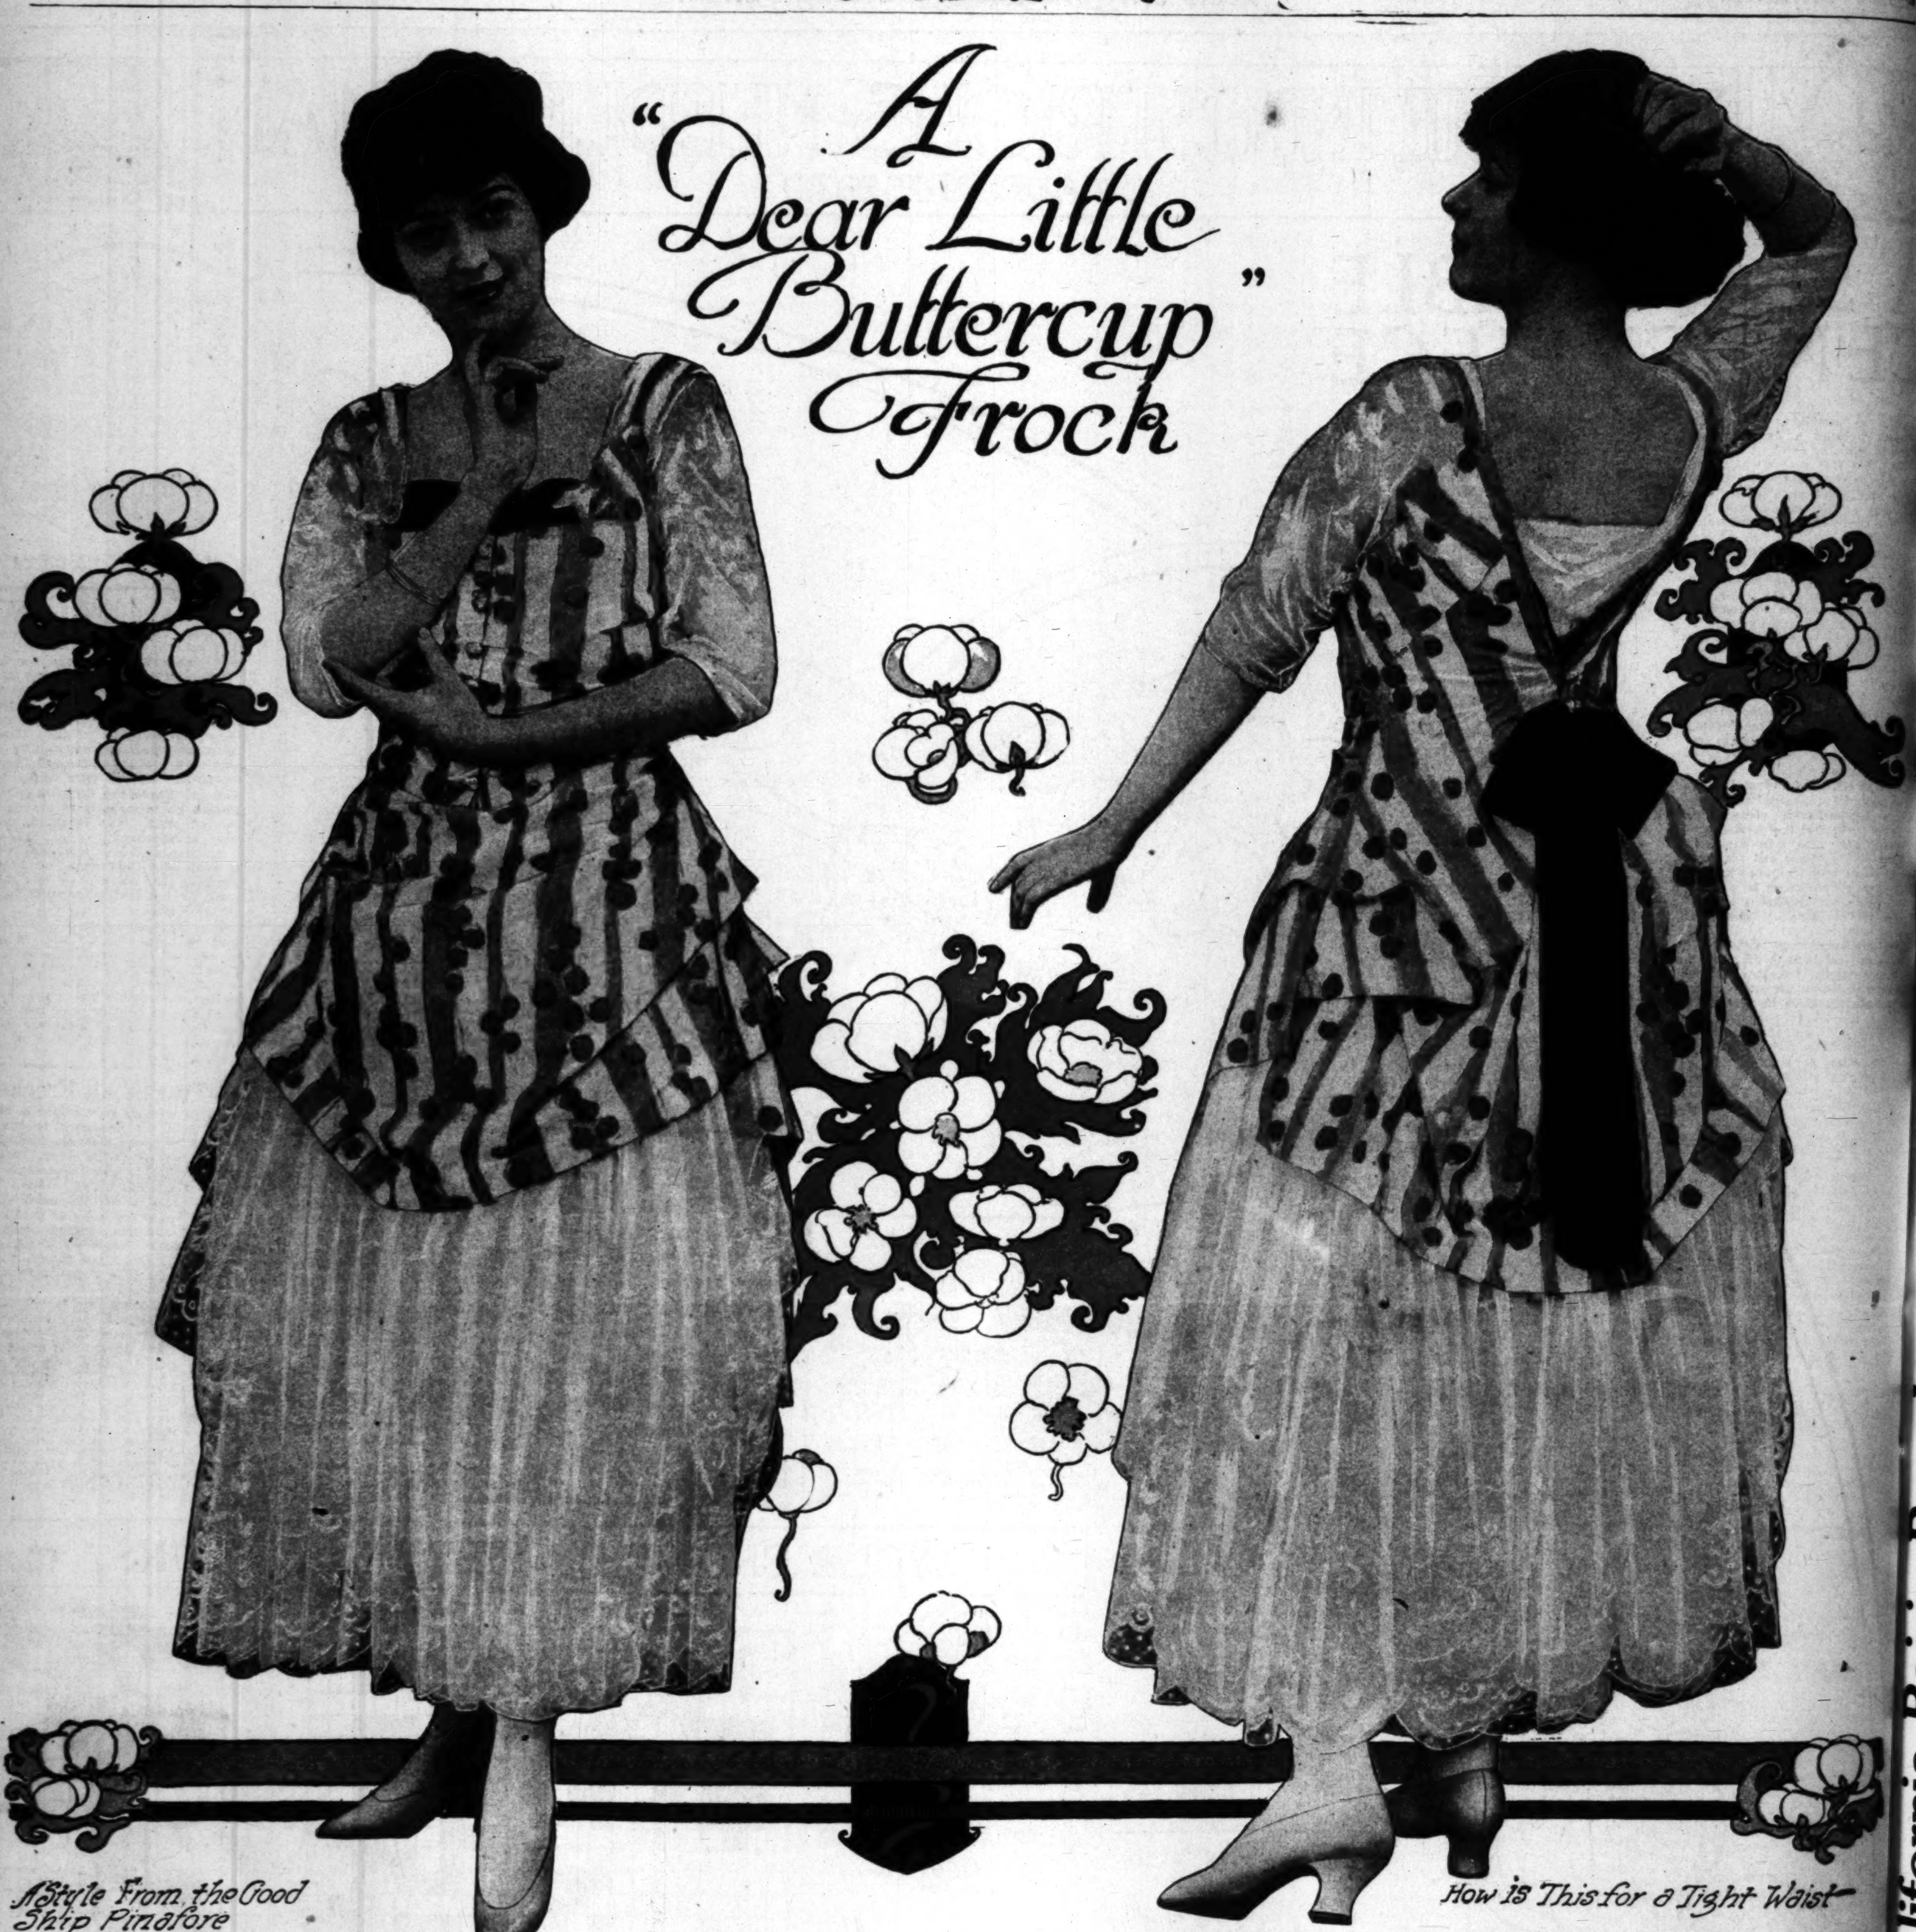
Row 5. 4 d—2 c—4 d—2 c—1 d. Turn and chain 5.

Row 6. Same as row 4.

Repeat until desired length of insertion is reached.

These insertions will be found very handy for towels, table and bed linen, even underwear and baby garments if worked in fine enough cotton. The patterns are not hard to follow, yet are very attractive. The narrowest is just a simple cross-and-dot design, the next is a modified wall-of-troy, the next is a ragged leaf design, and the fourth is a tree.

A "Dear Little Buttercup" Frock



A Style From the Good Ship Pinafore

How is This for a Tight Waist

'I'm called Little Buttercup,
Dear Little Buttercup,
Though I can never tell why;
But still I'm called Buttercup,
Dear Little Buttercup,
Sweet Little Buttercup, I."

TRA la! Don't you want your faces brightened up with the ribbons and laces of a real Little Buttercup frock? Can you resist its looped-up furbelows? Mighty kind of Dame Fashion, you'll agree, to turn pirate and rob the good ship Pinafore of this pretty gown!

For nipped-in waists you couldn't get one much more nipped than this—now, could you? It's boned, too. The drapery is interesting. It imitates the fishwoman's looped-up skirt over her petticoat, which you would not care to mention in the same breath with this filmy affair of lace and net.

The silk used for the frock is a quaint pattern, modeled almost exactly on the gayly flowered calicoes or flannels of the old peddler's dresses. It makes in its glistening weave a very stylish material for the fashioning of an evening frock, as both stripes and flowers are favorite patternings for new silks.

Though the petticoat of fine lace flouncing might not exactly care to be compared to the petticoat which showed under the fishwoman's looped-up skirts, it is very full and switches around just as distractingly when the fair wearer wishes to "show off" as did its humbler prototype. A straight underskirt of net holds a straight flounce of the lace, while the second upper flounce is attached in a manner to follow the looped-up panniers of the silk overskirt.

The cherry-colored ribbon is a very modern touch, as are also the ball buttons set with rhinestones which ostensibly fasten the frock primly up the front of the draped bodice and also for a very short distance in the back under the deeply pointed V. This frock really fastens with snaps under the left side, in case you have any doubts as to its wearableness.

Opportunity and the Immigrant

By Agnes Repplier

THERE appeared in the Survey at Christmas time a graceful little picture of an immigrant mother (or, was it styled an Immigrant Madonna?) holding in her arms her infant son, and bending over him in the close embrace of the Madonna della Sedia. Underneath were some verses of the untrammelled order, now so popular, and which we can always distinguish from prose by observing that every line begins with a capital letter. They asked, in the mother's name, what America would do with the boy who was her Christmas gift to the nation.

> "Will you use him hurriedly for your quick ends?
> And will you then discard him because he is worn-out,—and still a foreigner?
> Or will you teach him, watch him, and help him to be one of you,
> To work with you for those great ends you seek?
> He is my son, America,
> And all my treasure.
> I bring him here to you,—
> And you, what will you do with him?"

There is something poignant in such an appeal, representing as it does the unspoken, unformulated question in many a mother's mind,—her hopes, her misgivings, her abysmal ignorance. And the answer must be returned, not in terms of sentiment, which are misleading; but in plain simple truths, undisputed, indisputable. America (by which is meant the United States) gives to every foreign-born child what she gives to every native-born child, his chance in life—and nothing more. This is her only pledge, her sole responsibility. The concern of a state for its children is a collective, not an individual concern. Nor can any state take upon its shoulders the obligations which belong properly to the family. The shifting of liability from the individual to the community is not what democracy implies.

WHEN the immigrant madonna's little boy is big enough to leave her encircling arms, America opens to him her schools, and, what is more, compels him to go to them. She pays a great deal for his education, believing it to be a profitable investment. In some states she opens to him her universities, and charges herself with his college course, fondly hoping that this additional expenditure will yield her some return. When he is little, she gives him playgrounds, and time to play in them. When he is big, she gives him workshops, and room to work in them. There are the decencies of life for him if he be industrious. There are the ambitions of life for him if he be talented. Throughout the length and breadth of the land no public office is closed to him, save only the presidency; and when we calculate that the chance of the little native-born American for the presidency is about one in twenty millions, we cannot feel that the little foreign-born American is heavily handicapped by being denied this supreme and dazzling goal.

The corner-stone of our political creed is equality of opportunity. Upon this prop we build the fabric of democracy, upon this theory of justice we rest our national welfare. Fate and fortune are capricious, and none may reckon on their gifts. Nature equips one child lavishly for life's battle, and disables his brother. She cherishes her fools as fondly as her sages, she develops her cowards as painstakingly as she does her heroes. She has no sense of civic obligation, of civic responsibility. Even in the initial step of birth distribution, nature runs amuck through our best traditions, our most reasonable rulings. And to balance the favoritism of fortune, the despotism of nature, the state has nothing to give but justice, and a chance in life. She cannot assure the immigrant either sufficiency or security, without denying him her best gift, freedom. A kind-hearted slave-owner can see to it that his slaves have what they need, and will always have what they need. The Republic can only equip her sons, native and foreign-born, for the struggle; and hold before their eyes, as promise or as threat, the impartial processes of the law.

THERE is an undertone of reproach running through most of the commentaries on immigration. It is assumed that the country does not do her best by her adopted children. Kind-hearted sentimentalists deplore our lack of understanding, our lack of sympathy, our painful lack of enthusiasm. They point out to us the eagerness of little Jewish boys and girls to attend school, the cleverness with which little Syrian boys and girls weave mats and baskets, the quickness with which little Polish boys and girls acquire the English language, the delight of little Lithuanian boys and girls in singing classes, the facility with which little Italian boys and girls learn to recite and to act. But they never vouchsafe a word of praise to the community which pays for these pleasant things, or for the Republic which enjoins the payment. And when an unsentimental American, like Katharine Fullerton Gerould, ventures to say that a New England public school more than half filled with Lithuanian children, who speak imperfect English, and approach even the most elementary subjects very slowly, is not a place where a well-bred American child can be properly educated, she shocks the sensibilities of her readers. From every side come indignant protests against such undemocratic principles, such callous indifference to the welfare of the nation's "wards."

The keenest anxieties of the Immigrant Madonna may be easily set at rest. America will teach her son, putting him impartially by the side of native-born children. So far from using him hurriedly for her quick ends, she will stand between him and his mother, should that affectionate relative try—as is too often the case—to send him prematurely to work. Neither will she discard him as a worn-out foreigner. In the first place, she does not expect him to be a foreigner, but a voting citizen, part of the machinery of the state.

In the second place, America has no way of discarding any resident, nor does she endeavor to discard one. She furnishes shelter and maintenance of some sort for all who are broken and helpless. But she hopes, and she has a right to hope, that the boy whom she educates, the man whom she naturalizes, will provide for his own future, and be no further burden on her hands.

WHAT will the Immigrant Madonna's little son give to America in return for education and citizenship, for his chance in life, and the protection of her laws? Will he serve her loyally in peace and in war? Will he do his share of work, and permit his brother to work unharmed by his side? Will he reverence her flag, obey her authority, and cherish her honor? Will he be an asset —however humble—to the commonwealth, or a lifelong liability? America makes no distinction between the child born in the Levant and the child born in Missouri; but she expects from the Levantine and the Missourian the same untarnished allegiance. Why ask her sentimentally if she will permit her immigrants to "work with her for those great things she seeks?" Such work is not a privilege, nor always a pleasure; it is the obligation of citizenship, the plain duty of the citizen.

Fruits and Their Uses—Cake Making

TIMES change and unconsciously we change with them. A few years ago most housewives frowned on the frequent use of cake as an article of diet on the score of its richness. Nowadays, cake has its recognized place on the bill of fare for old and young, and by cake is meant not only the well known layer cake with its delicious creamy filling, but the rich fruit cake with luscious plums peeping out from every corner, and the humble "cooky" in all its varieties.

And this change marks largely the attitude of the housewife of today. She may never have seen a School of Domestic Science—she may not have much interest in the tables of calories, proteins, and carbohydrates that are everywhere provided for our instruction, but she has learned to think over—to study—the fact that fruits (dried fruits), have more to them as food than she has generally supposed. She has found by reading a recipe over carefully and weighing in her mind the food values of the different ingredients, that cake is something more than a sweet to be nibbled on at the end of a heavy meal, or a dainty to accompany the between meals cup of tea.

Four, shortening, fruit, eggs—these are the "principals," each with its own special recommendation. Why not combine them into one splendid dish which, by reason of its deliciousness (the result of well balanced proportions and careful baking) is much more palatable than the same ingredients prepared and served separately? The everyday layer cake, with its simple recipe and easy method of baking, may have its food value increased in a hundred different ways by varying the filling—grated apple with whipped white of egg, chopped raisins, dates or nuts with a binding of cream, custard, etc., etc., etc.

In baking cakes, there are certain things to be remembered. Four are essential to success. (1) Only the best ingredients are to be used. (2) Care in measuring and mixing. (3) Pans must be properly prepared. (4) Baking heat must be regulated and carefully watched. With these things in mind cake-baking, the branch of cooking most frequently attempted by the amateur and so frequently resulting in failure, will be successful and the value of cake established in the mind of the housewife.

Bubbles of Whole Wheat
Airy—Flaky
8 Times Normal Size

On the table—as in pictures—these are

Tantalizing Tit-Bits

This is to mothers whose children don't get Puffed Wheat.

Their number is growing smaller. But, month after month here we address those who don't know.

We urge them to consider these facts.

Puffed Wheat is big wheat grains, shaped just as they grew. So it has the whole-wheat nutrition.

The grains are puffed into bubbles, up to ten times normal size. All the walls are stretched to tissue thinness. So they melt away like snow-flakes.

An hour of toasting gives a fascinating taste. Puffing makes them airy, porous, crisp. Each grain becomes a bonbon, a delightful food confection.

So Puffed Wheat is a dainty.

But, best of all, a steam explosion shatters every food cell, for easy, complete digestion. Every element in the wheat grain feeds.

That is the sole object of Prof. Anderson's process—to make all the nutrition available.

Should not these facts make Puffed Wheat a universal form of wheat food? Is there anything you know that compares with it?

Corn Puffs—Bubbles of Corn Hearts—15c

So with Puffed Rice. That is rice grains puffed. Corn Puffs is corn hearts exploded.

Each consists of toasted bubbles. Each is fitted for food as that grain never was before.

Serve with sugar and cream in the mornings—in bowls of milk at night. Between meals, when children are hungry, salt the grains for eating dry. Use them in candy making, or wherever you use nut meats.

These three grains—the only grains we puff—should be served in this perfect way.

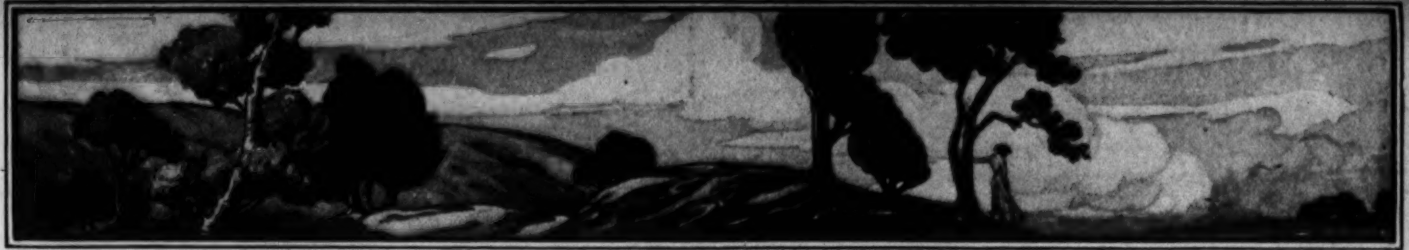
JUST POTATOES

By Walter Archer Frost



Striking a Windfall in the Klondyke

WHEN old Dan Holt died in Bascomb, Washington Territory, leaving his elder son, Seth, the homestead, the store, and the few thousands in bank, cutting Jerry off with the potato field, people wondered what Mary Collins would think of it. It was obvious that the rich and stingy son was to keep the poor and generous one out of trouble; and incidentally, by marriage, to add her property to his own.

Probably Jerry, by a sort of sixth sense, divined Seth's hand in it, without, however, allowing it to interfere with his sportsmanship. When the will had been read, his congratulations had been among the first and were of the most spontaneous. Then, obedient to impulse, he sought out Mary Collins, took her in his big arms, kissed her and declared, "It does me good just to look at you."

And she? It was as if Jerry were looking into a mirror.

Reaching home, the lad was greeted somewhat peremptorily: "Of course you can live along at the house here, but you'll have to find another place if you marry. I'll see if there's anything you can do in the store. Only a fool would figure that he could do anything with just potatoes."

"You wait and see," was the light-hearted rejoinder. Were not potatoes, as he had heard, selling for a quarter apiece somewhere north of Skagway? Acting upon the information, at the end of a fortnight he had bought an old schooner with what money he had, loaded his potatoes in, and had sailed for the Klondyke.

He had a good cargo of potatoes, but he had chosen a poor time to attempt the North. Of a naturally generous disposition, he likewise had been too generous with the weather: while Seth sat snug and warm in Bascomb, Jerry was learning how early Winter comes to the Yukon. But he sold his schooner at Skagway for $150 more than he paid for her; and when the railroad dropped him and his potatoes at White Horse, he'd have been all right if it hadn't been for the snow.

"Can't do it," men told him, when he said he was going to take his potatoes in by dog team, "Even an old sour dough couldn't!" And though Jerry would not believe this at first, he soon had to, and he sold seventy bushels of his potatoes at White Horse, clearing $1800 on the deal. With a fortune in mind, however, he bitterly regretted the day he had read in the Bascomb newspaper of potatoes selling at a quarter apiece in places he couldn't get to.

If he hadn't promised her so much he'd have sold out the rest of his lot and gone home; but Jerry had a good memory. There was nothing to do but hang on in White Horse until Spring. His potatoes were frozen solid and would keep all right. The moment he could, he'd take them in where the big prices were.

BUT it was seven months to Spring, and living was high at White Horse. He held out as long as he could, then, to keep from breaking into his slender capital, he sold half his remaining stock, regardless of the inroad it made on the much coveted fortune.

As he turned to walk back to his room after making the sale, a queer-looking little man who had watched the transaction, stopped him, saying, "Don't sell no more o' them potatoes here! I know men up river who wants raw potatoes th' way a dyin' man wants th' mercy o' Jesus Christ. Ain't nothing in this world they want like they do raw potato."

"Why?" Jerry asked, meeting the little man's eyes that pleaded like a dog's. "Why do they want raw potato?"

"You'll see," said the little man. "Just buy a dog-team an' a sled, an' we'll git started."

But as the outfit faced off out of White Horse the onlookers said, "Cut yer load to a third, an' yer dogs can haul it, but they can't drag it a day, as it is!" And the men were right. In spite of little Sanders' entreaties, Jerry rolled off bag after bag to spare the dogs until only ten bushels of potatoes remained at the end of the first thirty hours.

These potatoes fascinated Sanders. He guarded them as if they'd been nuggets; he walked at the tail of the sled while Jerry did his best driving the dogs; and every time they camped Sanders hauled the bags of potatoes into the tent and slept on them.

Frequently Sanders would wake Jerry in the middle of the night with screams of terror; and Jerry would spring from his blankets to find Sanders hugging all the bags he could and crying he'd dreamed one of them had been stolen.

"What if one had been?" Jerry always laughed. But the nightmare always left Sanders quaking. Another queer thing about the little man: before leaving White Horse, he had persuaded Jerry to give every bag an extra covering of heavy canvas; and now, when they met men descending the trail, Sanders would turn a deaf ear to their stories of rich "finds," and almost drag Jerry away from them, then hurry the team on again up river.

Always up river! "Don't mind 'em," Sanders kept saying. "If they've made their strike, it's all right, only we don't want nothin' of 'em! An' don't say a word about what we got in these here bags. You'll understand, an' be glad, later!" Then he would urge Jerry and the team on up river toward the still unnamed place where people were so desperate to get raw potatoes.

It was a mania now with the little man. There was something uncanny about it. Jerry had got over trying to laugh Sanders out of it: the little man was too desperately in earnest. Apparently he had gone through some experience so harrowing that it had weakened his brain; and the company of ten bushels of raw potatoes had completed the disorder.

Jerry, young, strong, and big-hearted, pitied him. So, to cheer him up, the lad told him about Mary Collins and how Heaven was going to be located at Bascomb, Washington Territory, the moment she became Mrs. Jerry Holt.

"Here," Jerry said, one day when Sanders seemed crazier than usual, "I've got something I want to show you." He stopped the dogs, and walked 'round the tail of the sled to the little man, then fished in an inner pocket and brought out a piece of pasteboard. It was only a little photograph, taken by a photographer who was not an artist; but nothing could disguise the beauty of her face or the gladness in her eyes.

"That's Her," said Jerry proudly.

"Yes," replied Sanders. "Help me straighten this here bag o' potatoes."

Jerry looked at Sanders and felt sorrier for him than ever.

"Take another look at her," Jerry said kindly. "Isn't she the most beautiful thing you ever saw in your life?"

"So, she ain't," Sanders said violently.

"What?" Jerry cried in amazement. "What's beautifuler?"

"A raw potato," said Sanders. "Gimme one?"

"Oh sure," Jerry said to humor him. He opened the handiest bag "There you are. Help yourself, Sanders!"

"Thanks," said the little man. He looked at his potato as a boy would look at a red apple; but he tied the bag tighter than ever before he took a bite of his potato.

And somehow that gift seemed to depress Sanders. When they camped that night, the little man pulled moodily on his pipe and said not a word through the meal. But, after he'd settled himself in his blankets he'd laid as usual on the bags of potatoes, he wriggled out again and came over to Jerry.

"I got somethin' on my mind," he began hesitatingly.

Jerry rubbed the sleep out of his eyes and looked up at the little man. "What's wrong? We're going to strike it rich in the place you're taking me to, aren't we?"

"Yes; but I got somethin' to tell you," Sanders insisted guiltily. "I been takin' a potato out of them bags whenever I wanted one——"

"Have you?" Jerry laughed. "That's all right. Hope you liked them."

"Liked 'em?" demanded the little man. "I guess so! But that ain't it: I look better'n when you found me in White Horse, don't I?"

COMFORTABLY sleepy and perfectly sure Mary would wait for him and his fortune, Jerry grinned, then studied the little man gravely. "Yes, you certainly do look better." He meant it; for when he had first met Sanders, the little man had groaned when he moved. But now— Jerry nodded. It was ten o'clock at night but almost as light as noon. "Yes, you're a different looking man, Sanders. The open air and the exercise have done it."

"No," Sanders said, "raw potato done it!"

"All right," Jerry smiled, "but how and why?"

Sanders lost some of his clear color. "Don't ask me," he half-begged, half-warned, "fer I might tell you." A look of horror had crept into his eyes and he snatched a piece of raw potato from a fold of one of his blankets and began eating it voraciously.

"Still dippy," Jerry said to himself. Aloud he said, "Anyway, old man, you like raw potato a lot better than I do!"

"You ain't been through what I have or seen what I have," was all Sanders would vouchsafe as he rolled himself up in his blankets. But he went to sleep holding a bit of raw potato in his hand.

Though he slept dreamlessly on this particular night, Sanders awoke in black melancholy. "No," he said enigmatically, "fer all it looks so fair, an' we're gettin' so close now, we ain't goin' fer to get it over. It ain't in reason to hope fer so much good luck, an' I ought notta!"

"What's on your mind now?" Jerry asked, not laughing, for he respected the sadness in Sanders' eyes. "What's asking too much good luck?"

"Gettin' 'em in without losin' 'em."

"If you mean the potatoes," Jerry said impatiently, "I wouldn't mind if we did lose some. You can see what it's like ahead." He looked up the snow-banked trail. "Hauling ten bushels of lead's been bad enough, but from now on——" He jerked his chin from right to left. "They're keeping us back. Next camp we hit, I'm going to sell 'em to the first man who'll give me ten dollars for the lot."

"Ten dollars?" Sanders glared at him. "You don't know——!"

"I know I came here to sell potatoes and buy a claim with the money," Jerry exploded. Then he laughed, "I've sold enough potatoes to buy a good claim now, and I'm sick of living with potatoes. Look here, Sanders, how much money have you got on you?"

Sanders fumbled in his pockets and brought out five dollars in gold and a half in silver.

Jerry nodded, "By George, the potatoes are yours for that five dollar gold piece, seeing how fond you are of raw potatoes!"

Sanders' eyes glowed greedily, and his hand came out with the gold piece. Then he shot his money back into his pocket. "No," he said fiercely, "you bin white to me an' I'm on th' square." He went back to the tail of the sled, "Let's get goin' again," was all he would say about it.

"All right," Jerry rejoined "only I warn you I'm going to buy a claim, the first likely place we hit. What's the next town?"

"McKinnon."

WINTON SIX

The Second Longing Look

STREETS are filled with cars of monotonous similarity. Many an owner identifies his own car by checking up the license number. ¶ Traffic is a double stream of ordinary blacks and greens. ¶ At rare intervals, in cheerful contrast, the dull monotony is relieved by a distinctly individual car. ¶ Its owner has chosen a "different" design: its harmonious colors reflect excellent personal taste. Passersby take note. ¶ They turn for a second longing look. ¶ For they are human beings and they love the beautiful. ¶ They recognize at sight that this is not merely anybody's car; it is personal property; it belongs to a real person.

Winton Six cars are built for men and women whose taste demands the genuinely good things of life. ¶ We take the keenest interest in making your private car exactly as you want it. ¶ Let us talk it over with you.

The Crescent-Shaped Roll

A Fabulous Fact

By W. J. Lampton

THE well dressed man at the restaurant table was contemplating a Vienna roll which he held in his fingers.

"Queer shape for bread to be baked in, I should say," he remarked. "Looks to me like it must be a lot of trouble to do it up so, when there are so many plain forms that would answer as well, if not better."

"Possibly," replied his fellow-man who had seen some other portions of the world, "but there is history in that shape and sentiment."

"No? Is that so? I never heard of it."

"I suppose not, or you never would have started this thing. Now listen while I tell you the news you haven't heard yet. War news, too, right out of the zone of trouble. Away back yonder in 1683, when Poland was a real nation and John Sobieski was king of it from 1674 to 1696, his friend and neighbor, Austria, was overrun by a Moslem horde which swept on to the westward until Vienna, the capital, Christian capital, let me say, was surrounded and about to fall into the hands of the unregenerate conqueror. There were 300,000 Moslems howling for Vienna, the Emperor Leopold had run away and the Pope and all Europe, except France, called on Sobieski to come to the rescue and save Christianity from the Turks. It was a case of the Crescent against the Cross, with long odds on the Crescent.

"Sobieski would not come unless he could have a sufficient army, and, with the Poles as usual scrapping among themselves, it was hard to get the fighters out. However, he managed to gather a few recruits from every country in Europe, except France, and when he came in sight of the beleaguered capital he had 70,000 men of more kinds than constitute the Allies now fighting to the westward of Vienna. Before him, around the city he was to rescue, was spread the Moslem host of 300,000 in all their splendor of oriental equipment. Mustapha, the Moslem general, took it as a joke at first, but after several hours of hard fighting in which the Turks got the worst of it from the start, woke up and began to take notice. But it was too late, and by night the hosts of Mohammed were wiped off the earth, Vienna was saved and with it Austria and Christianity. The battle took palce on Sunday, September 12 and Vienna, scared half to death, had not learned what the result was until Kulczycki, a Pole, carried the news to Lorraine whom Leopold had left shut up in the city to take whatever might come to him. Lorraine wept for joy when he was told what the Poles had done to the Turks and said that the Austrians could not have held out three days longer. For this brave deed, Kulczycki was granted a permit to open the first coffee house ever known in Vienna, and when he made his first rolls he put them in the form of a crescent as a souvenir of the occasion, so to say.

"I don't know how it is now, but when I was in Vienna twenty years ago, a lineal descendant of this same Pole was still conducting the Kulczycki Cafe in the Graben. Now, whenever you see a Vienna roll you will know why it is crescent-shaped."

"Well, who would have thought it?" said the well dressed man contemplating the Vienna roll in his fingers, and then biting off one horn of the crescent.

No Great Hurry

BERT LESLIE, the comedian, tells of a darkey who was convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged. Shortly before the date set for the execution, the sheriff visited the condemned, and said:

" 'Now, Eph, before you go I want to make the end as pleasant as possible for you. What would you like to eat the night before the hanging?' "

" 'Watermelon, sheriff, watermelon,' responded Eph.

" 'But,' said the sheriff,' you are to be hanged in December, and watermelon won't be ripe until July.' "

" 'I kin wait, sheriff, I kin wait,' replied Eph.

Gained 32 Pounds And Splendid Figure

Every woman can have an attractive figure, full round bust and shapely limbs. Dr. Whitney's secret has done it for thousands of others and will do it for you.

Mrs. B. W. Abbott, formerly of Boston, now of 472 Eighth avenue, New York City, writes us: "I was very thin when I learned of your treatment four years ago. By following your course I gained 32 pounds and still keep the weight. I am the picture of health with rosy cheeks, just as when I was a girl."

The beauty of this treatment is that you can have a free liberal trial sent in a plain wrapper and test it yourself in the privacy of your own home. The trial treatment alone in many cases has added five pounds. You will realize that a new day has dawned for thin people and that no one need go through life humiliated by a thin, unattractive figure or colorless complexion.

"I was one of the most disheartened women that ever lived before taking Dr. Whitney's Nerve & Flesh Builder, being 5 feet, 6 inches tall and weighing only 108 pounds. Now I weigh nearly 160 pounds," writes Mrs. Newton, of Kansas. Mrs. Nicely, of West Virginia, says: "I gained 45 pounds, bust enlarged 6 inches. It did more than you said it would."

We will gladly send you the trial and book of indorsements from intelligent people everywhere. The trial will prove that you may have as attractive a figure as any one, filling out the hollow places, gain plump, perfect arms, neck and limbs and by special Treatment No. 8 increase the bust measurement from 4 to 8 inches.

If you will drop a line right away to C. L. Jones Co., 28B Friend Bldg., Elmira, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to help pay packing and postage, by return mail you will receive a full five days' treatment giving the proof that real color and better health and figure can be yours.

Please say whether you want No. 1 for increasing flesh all over the body for both men and women or No. 8 to develop the bust alone as only one can be sent.

General embarked his cavalry on a small army transport that lay under the guns of Fort Hamilton, slipped to sea at night and sailed for Galveston.

Vassar reached New York disguised as a Long Island truck farmer. He drove a wagon loaded with vegetables, circled Stuyvesant Square next morning and called his produce for sale.

He looked for an agonized moment at his battered house, snapped the iron weight strop on his horse's bridle and rushed up the stairs.

The wreck within was complete and appalling. Cautiously he found his way upstairs, his hand on his pistol. The door of the girls' room was closed. He wondered why—a dim hope filled his heart that Marya might have escaped into the city and reached the house with the homing instinct of the carrier pigeon.

To his joy he saw her sleeping on the floor, curled up on a mattress that had been too cumbersome for the looters to carry. They had ripped it open with bayonets. The child had pulled it together and built a nest of the scattered hair.

He removed his wig and slouch hat, bent low and whispered: "Marya—dear!"

The tired, wondering eyes slowly opened and the little arms slipped about his neck and clung to him desperately.

"Oh, Uncy, I thought they all were dead! I got here last night and slept. I'm so hungry! But I'm happy now that you are here. I thought an angel wakened me. You won't leave me again——!"

"I'll not go, dear, until you are safe," he promised with a kiss. "Hide here until I return. I'll be back in an hour——"

Reassuring her he hurried across the Square to the Holland house. He was sure that Waldron would give his protection. He could kill him for it and yet he thanked God she was safe. The scoundrel loved her. He knew it by an unerring intuition. He would use his wealth and dazzling power again to win her. He knew that, too, by the same sixth sense.

He couldn't succeed. If ever a woman loved, Virginia Holland loved him. With her kind it was once for life.

AND yet he trembled at the thought of what such a brute might do when every appeal had failed. Would he dare to use his boundless power to force her to his will? Such things had been done by tyrants. A new day was dawning in a world that once was the home of freedom—the day of the jailor, tyrant, sycophant, and soldier who asks no questions.

It strangled him to think that he must leave her here. He wouldn't! He would make her come with Marya and her mother into the West and take her place in the field by his side.

The thought thrilled him with new life.

In ten minutes he was holding her in his arms—war and death. poverty and ruin forgotten in love's mad rapture.

"You must come with me, my own!" he breathed. "I will find a tent for you on the great free plains—you, your mother, and little Marya. You can follow when I send you the word——"

She shook her head sadly.

"No, my own, I can not surrender to our enemies like that—my place is here."

"Your life is not safe in Waldron's hands."

"I'm in God's hands. I have work to do. You shall do yours on the plains training our brave boys for the day that shall surely come. I must do mine here——"

"I can't leave you!" he protested bitterly.

"You must. My mother can't live. I know this. The shock of a journey would kill her. Marya shall be my sister. When I kiss her it will be for you—I'll find her——"

"She is at home now," he interrupted.

"Send her to me—she's mine now——"

For half an hour he pleaded in vain. There was but one answer.

"My work is here. I've thought it out to the end. I shall not fail. I'll tell you when I'm ready, and you will come then——"

There was an inspiration—a lofty spirit of exaltation—in her speech, that hushed protest.

He pressed her lips.

"I will not see you again," he said at last. "My coming is dangerous for us both. My work is done today. Marya will join you when I have gone. I shall warn her to wait two hours. We may be watched by other eyes than Waldron's guard on your block——"

"I am grateful for his help. I shall be sorry for him when the day of my dream comes. But it must come. I have betrayed my country by folly beyond God's forgiveness. I shall do my part now to retrieve that error——"

Vassar moved uneasily.

"You shall know and approve—and I shall not fail!"

She paused and held his gaze with a strange glowing light in her eyes—the light of religious enthusiasm. It filled him with fear and thrilled him with hope. Her faith was contagious.

"You can not work here," she went on, "a price is on your head. You do not need to come until I summon you——"

He left her at the door, the same dreamy brilliance in her sensitive face. She stood as if in a trance. He wondered what it meant—what her mysterious work was going to be?

CHAPTER XXVIII.

THREE days later the army of invasion entered the fallen metropolis, its scarlet gold-embossed standards flying, its bands playing. Waldron marched to meet them at the head of twenty-five thousand picked men of his garrison. His division more than made good the losses of battle.

When the grand march began at the entrance of the Queensboro Bridge—one hundred and sixty-five thousand men were in line. The immensity of the spectacle stunned the imagination of the curious thousands that pressed close to the curbs and watched them pass. When the German army had entered Antwerp in the world war, the streets had been absolutely deserted save for stray dogs and cats that howled from wrecked buildings. New York was consumed by a quenchless eagerness to look upon its conquerors.

All day from seven o'clock in the morning until dark the torrent of green-grey poured through Fifty-ninth Street and down Fifth Avenue. When the Avenue was filled by the solid ranks from Central Park to the Washington Arch, the Imperial host at a given signal raised the shout of triumph.

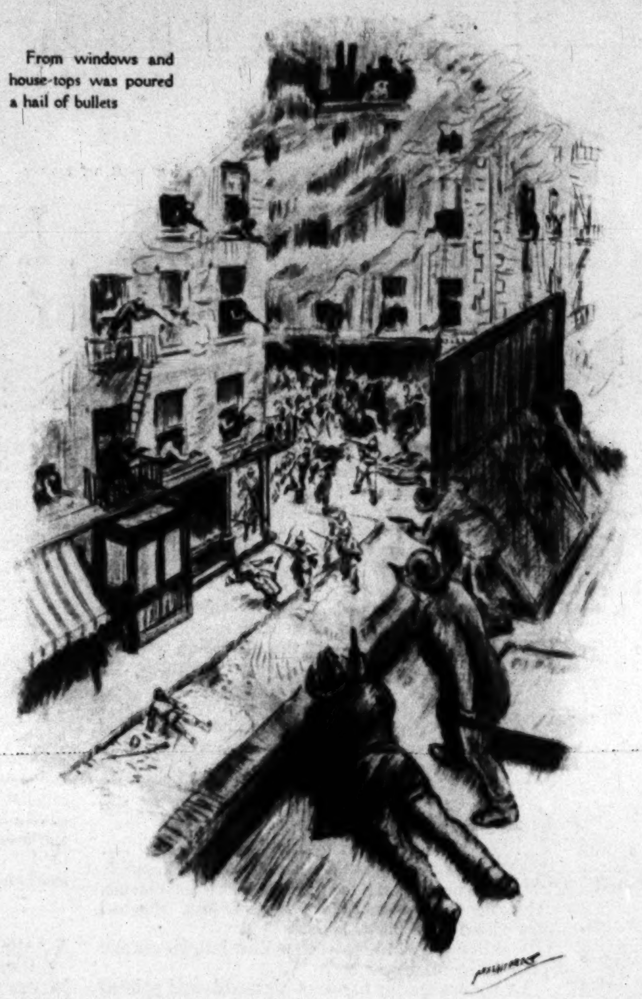
"For God and Emperor!"

Until this moment they had moved in a silence that was uncanny. Their long pent feelings gave the united yell of a hundred and sixty-five thousand an unearthly power. They shouted in chorus first from every regiment in one great burst of defiant pride. And then they shouted by regiments, beginning with the first. The shout leaped from regiment to regiment until it swept the entire line far out on the plains of Long Island. Each marching host tried to lift the note higher until the frenzied chorus came with the shock of salvos of artillery.

And then they sang the songs of their grand army on the march. For an hour their voices rang the death knell of Freedom while conquered thousands stood in awed silence.

Waldron, on his white horse and in gorgeous uniform, moved at the head of the column. Beside him rode in service suit the Commander-in-Chief on a black Arabian stallion with arched neck and sleek, shining sides.

The ceremonies at the City Hall were brief. The grand procession never paused.



From windows and house-tops was poured a hail of bullets

Timed to a dot, the lines had divided as they passed the cross streets leading to the great tunnels. At Forty-second Street a division swung into the Grand Central Station to entrain for service in the interior. The cars were waiting with steam up and every man at his place under the command of army officers.

At Thirty-fourth Street another division swung into the Pennsylvania Station. At Twenty-third Street another swept toward the Lackawanna and the Erie. At Fourteenth another swung toward the Chelsea Piers where transports were waiting to bear them to Baltimore, Norfolk, Charleston, New Orleans, Jacksonville and Galveston.

These transports had been seized in the harbor. The great armada was already loading the second division of a hundred and sixty thousand more men at the wharves in Europe. The Imperial Army of occupation would consist of a million veterans. They would be landed now without pause until the work was done. A fleet of a hundred submarines lay in wait for our Pacific fleet in the Straits of Magellan. Its end was sure.

The conquest was complete, overwhelming, stunning. The half-baked, desperate rebellions that broke out in various small towns where patriotism was a living thing were stamped out with a cruelty so appalling they were not repeated. At the first ripple of trouble the town was laid in ashes, its population of males massacred, its women outraged and driven into the fields to crawl to the nearest village and tell the story. One short-lived victory marked the end.

The Virginians raised an army of volunteer cavalry, led by a descendant of Jeb. Stuart, raiding and capturing Washington. The Germans were taken completely by surprise in the small hours of the morning. The fight was at close quarters and the enemy was annihilated.

A battle cruiser promptly swept up the Potomac from Chesapeake Bay, opened with her huge guns and reduced the capitol to a pile of broken stone. Incendiary shells completed the work, and two days later the most beautiful city in America lay beneath the southern skies, a smouldering ash-heap. The proud shaft of shining marble to the memory of George Washington was reduced to a heap of pulverized stone. A crater sixteen feet in depth gaped where its foundations had rested.

An indemnity was levied on New York that robbed the city of every dollar in every vault and sent its leading citizens into exile. Waldron's list of proscription for banishment included the dominating men of finance, invention and industry.

He had marked every man with a genius for political leadership for a term of ten years' imprisonment. Exile was too dangerous an experiment for these troublemakers. They were safer in jail. Ten years in darkness and misery would bring them to reason.

THE world war had cost the Imperial Federation a staggering total, running far into the billions. Waldron had promised his Royal Master to replace every dollar of this loss within five years by a system of confiscation and taxes. His first acts of plunder sent treasure ships to Europe bearing fifteen billions. The revenue from all the confiscated railroads, mines and great industries taken over by the new Government would reduce taxation in Europe to a trifle.

When the conquest was complete the net result was that Imperial Europe had fenced in a continent. Inside the enclosure were a hundred million of the most intelligent and capable slaves the world had seen since the legions of Rome conquered Greece and enslaved her artists and philosophers.

There was no pause in the ruthless work until the last spark of resistance had been stamped out.

By one of the strange ironies of fate the fiercest of the futile rebellions broke out on the East Side of New York where the attempt was made to completely disarm our half-baked foreign population. The men who sulked in the tenement districts below the Bowery had been accustomed to fight constituted authority in the old world from habit. The first squad of soldiers sent into this quarter had never returned. Not one of their bodies was found.

When a regiment, with a hundred machine guns, rushed into the side streets below Fourteenth they were found to be barricaded with piles of trucks and lumber. From windows and house-tops was poured a hail of bullets.

A battery of artillery cleared the barricades, and the slaughter began. After four hours of butchery, in the streets, the Commander discovered that the old Tenth Regiment Armory was crowded. More than a thousand women and children accustomed to attend Vassar's school of patriotism had sought refuge there. The children had found the flags and their mothers, in foolish superstition, had pinned them on their breasts for protection—the flag they had been taught to love!

The Imperial Guard turned their artillery on the Armory and tore the flimsy front wall into fragments. When the screaming children and frantic women rushed through the breach, a withering fire from the pompoms piled their writhing bodies on the blood-soaked pavements.

Benda had been killed in the second entrenchments on Long Island. Angela faced the storm of lead at the door holding her boy behind her to shield him from the bullets.

A shell exploded and a fragment buried itself in the child's breast. The mother felt the stinging shock and heard the thud

Remember that Biddy is pretty sure to need dusting with some good insect-powder—just before setting; twice during the twenty-one days, three days after the hatch is out, and each week so long as she broods the chicks. The nest box she sets in should have been cleaned, and a handful of camphor balls scattered under the hay of the nest.

Thirty hours must be allowed for the digestion and assimilation of the yolk, which is absorbed into the abdomen immediately before the chick breaks through the shell.

Now about the all-important question of feeding. For the first two or three days get ten pounds of rape and millet seed, pinhead oatmeal and cracked corn, charcoal, and fine sharp grit. Mix all together. If you cannot get pinhead oatmeal, buy hulled oats and break them up fine. The grain must also be cracked quite fine; in fact, it is safer to put the mixture through a sieve which will sift nothing larger than millet. Then there is no danger of the chicks being choked. Feed the mixture by scattering among the sweepings, to encourage the chicks to scratch and take exercise.

Portable Brooder with Lamp in Homemade Brooder Coop

Morning and evening, make a mash by chopping a hard-boiled egg, shell and all, and green onion tops or sprouts. Mix with stale bread crumbs, and feed on a flat pie plate or strip of wood. After the chicks are two weeks old the oats and corn need not be quite so fine—more the size of hemp seed, which can be added to the mixture, as also can cracked wheat or barley. A good mash can be made of ground corn and oats, with onions and scalded liver added three times a week—about a small cupful to a quart of mash.

What I mean by scalded liver is liver dropped into a kettle of boiling water just long enough to boil up once. Raw liver is too strong for little chicks. For a change I mix the grain with scalded milk two or three times a week. Never make more at a time than will be fed within the next few hours, as it sours.

Pot cheese is a favorite dish with all poultry, and very wholesome. If there is any tendency to bowel trouble, give the chicks plenty of rice water.

Keep brooders and brood coops clean and dry. The grass around the coops should be kept cut close, so that the chicks can run about easily. See that every coop is closed at night, and do not let the chicks out while the grass is dewy.

At the Ball Park

By WALTER G. DOTY

The snow is deep on second base.
  The bleachers now are quiet.
How strange that this deserted place
  Once held such seething riot.
Lo, was it here that you and I
  Last summer sat and shouted
Demands that someone nail that fly
  Or that the pill be clouted?

How marvelous, how passing queer
  That such tumultuous passion
Could rage about one tiny sphere
  Till staid men howled Sioux fashion!
That old turmoil seems foolish now,
  But well we know next season
We'll come and make the same old row
  With just the same old reason!

After a reform has been adopted, it develops within a year or two that there is something wrong with it.

Not one man in a thousand can become intimate with another without becoming impudent or servile. The master quickly developes.—Ed. Howe of Atchison.

Ask Uncle Sam About It

By Judson D. Stuart

IT doesn't make much difference what sort of advice and practical help you need, the government at Washington, represented by more than ninety special departments, is ready, able and anxious to give it to you without delay. Whether the jelly refuses to jell or the cement cellar bottom is crumbling in bits, it is all the same to Uncle Sam. He will tell your wife just what to do to make perfect jelly and he will send you a formula for mixing cement that will last until doomsday and at a cost to you of one cent and no more, the price of a post card.

There seems to be no end to the many things that government department heads can do for anyone, no end to the experiments that have been made or to the expense that the government goes to in finding out just what is best for all sorts and conditions of people from the new born babe to the old grandfather, from the man with a two-by-four garden plot to the man with a thousand acre ranch.

Suppose you want to irrigate a portion of your farm, but you have no idea how to do it, write on a post card the following:

Secretary of Agriculture,
Washington, D. C.
Dear Sir:
Kindly send me information concerning the irrigating of a small farm.

By return mail will come a booklet, full of practical advice by experts who know just as much about irrigating lands as anyone else in the world. The booklet will also be full of pictures and diagrams, so that most anyone can follow it with assurance of success. If you desire to look over a variety of government publications, all designed for the help of citizens, the government will send you the address of the place nearest your home where you may call in person and see them, go through the catalogs and, in most places, find just what you want there without sending on to Washington. The quickest way, however, unless this place is near your home, is to write directly to Washington for whatever help you want from Uncle Sam.

The object of all this is solely for the public benefit. Whether you need help concerning your kitchen, your larder, your orchard or cornfield, your lumber lot, a silo or ice house, plumbing or water-power, or almost anything else imaginable, the government is on the job. There are women who can tell you how to bake perfect bread, there are men who can tell you where you can find a market for harmonicas or peanut taffy, steam engines or pocket knives. The big or little manufacturer can, from the Department of Commerce, get reliable guidance just as easily as the new housewife can learn, from the Department of Domestic Science, all about canning tomatoes or preserving rhubarb.

Perhaps your oldest boy has "pig-styes" or the baby has colic. Write to Miss Julia C. Lathrop, Department of Child Welfare. She knows all about children, how to prepare for the expected baby, how to dress and feed that baby, all about his education from A B C's to preparatory schools, and all about hygiene for children. Her department will send you absolutely reliable data about food values, the principles of nutrition, how much baby ought to weigh at three months, at three years, how tall he should be at seven, all about the ills children are heir to, from the snuffles to diptheria or scarlet fever.

If the bread isn't as good as that which mother used to make, write to Miss Helen Atawater of the Department of Agriculture, who knows as much about making perfect bread as any fancy chef in the country. Associated with her in this department of domestic economy is Miss Caroline Hunt. They know the calories, or body fuel, in every food. They can tell just how to use meat most economically, how to carve, how to make preserves, to can foods and to do everything that is to be done or can be done with profit about the home.

Also there are corn clubs, pig clubs, potato clubs, canning clubs, home garden clubs (for girls and boys) and a great many other branches which are of more value to young people than can be well understood except by those who have watched this work. Boys have been taught, under the instruction of the experimental stations of the Department of Agriculture, to make five bushels of corn grow where their fathers could make only two grow, to raise a 300-pound porker at no more cost than their father had in raising a skinny seventy pounder. It is all done through expert government instruction.

C. F. Langworthy, Ph. D., is head of a division of the Department of Agriculture which instructs everyone, who seeks the knowledge, how to overcome garden pests, the Hessian fly, the seventeen-year locusts. In his department also you can learn how to beautify the home grounds, to make a perfect lawn, to make garden benches, summer houses, bird houses, how to make cement walks, cement silos, how to cure cow itch and all diseases of live stock.

If you have a farm in New Hampshire and your brother has a farm in Arizona, you know quite well that you cannot grow the things your brother grows, and vice versa. The question, What can I grow to the best profit? will be answered.

The government is irrigating miles upon miles of once arid lands for agriculturists and if you are living in the city and are tired of it and want a farm, the government will advise you where to go and how to start. If you are an amateur at farming the government provides instructions for beginners. Or perhaps it is the other way around—you are tired of your farm and want to start a little manufacturing business. The government will advise you, tell you many things that are in demand that can be manufactured easily, explain the initial cost, give you a list of markets and otherwise pave the way for you.

Even if you lack sufficient money to buy a farm the government will not falter. There are many localities throughout the west and good localities in Alaska where you can have a quarter or half section of first-class land just for the asking. Go and set up your claim on this government land, make the few improvements demanded in order to hold it, and the farm is yours.

Nor is this government service confined to agriculturists. Merchants, manufacturers, children, housewives, lonely wives on lonely farms, and all sorts and conditions of citizens old and young are given almost any help they may ask for. If you are a writer or an inventor you can get help. There are booklets issued by the Patent Office on inventions that are needed, and if you want literary advice write to Miss Lucy Stuart Fitzhugh in whose department is gathered almost every fact that any writer could ask for.

Uncle Sam will show the women of your town just how to organize and conduct a woman's club, a community club or a celebration. If you need farm help or other help, the government will put you in touch with it, sometimes through your postmaster, or if you are going to have a fair or mass meeting or anything of that sort and want a capable man to speak on almost any subject, the government will send you a special speaker. The government will also send you a special organizer.

You can have a map of any town, county, state, district, river or lake in the country. You can have a map showing the best localities for corn, cotton, silver, copper, wheat, apples, oranges, etc. You can learn about frauds, too, and be put on your guard against bunco mail schemes.

Cooking, health, fruit growing, stock breeding, child care and culture, general agriculture, building, trade, homesteads, education, invention, music, literature, labor, poultry or squab keeping, the best breeds of dogs, how to save old trees, how to dig a well, stop a leaky pipe, grow calabashes or anything else growable, what to do for ivy poisoning, game laws, poisonous wild weeds, woodcraft, fire fighting, big game—anything and everything that a man or woman or child could need in the way of sound advice and practical help, is yours, sir or madam, merely for the writing of a post card to the Secretary or Chief Clerk of any Department of the Government at Washington.

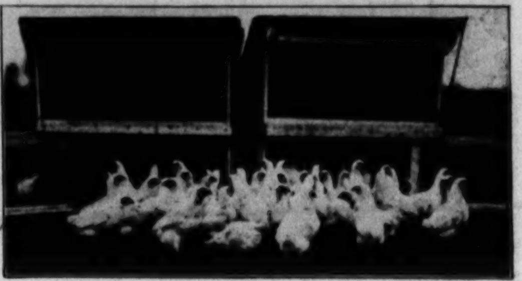
Starting a $5 Poultry Plant

By Kate V. Saint Maur



Movable Coops that Insure Fresh Air

FIVE dollars will start anybody in the poultry business and produce profitable results if judiciously invested in either of the following ways:

The man or woman who is starting from the very beginning had better invest in twenty to twenty-five day-old chicks at a cost of $3.75, leaving $1.25 for material to make a homemade fireless brooder. If twenty out of twenty-five chicks survive babyhood, there will probably be twelve cockerels and eight pullets. Sell the cockerels in the summer as broilers; they will bring $1.50 a pair. Use the money received for them to purchase a good rooster of whatever breed the chickens belong to. Mate him to the eight pullets the following spring, and you should be able to raise at least two hundred chickens, besides having had eggs from your pullets during the winter. They should have begun to lay in October or November and their eggs can be sold or used on the family table until March or early April, after which time, when they are mated to the rooster, the eggs must be used for incubation only.

The following November you should have from 100 to 150 pullets and be getting fifteen or twenty dozen eggs a week, which, at an average of forty cents a dozen, will bring in from $6 to $8 a week, and your little poultry plant will be firmly established on a paying basis with the promise of yielding $50 to $60 a month by the third season.

One who already has a pen of hens and wishes to branch out seriously into the poultry business, had better invest the $5 in a setting of really good eggs, giving eight eggs to one hen and five to the other. By this means one will be able to raise thoroughbred birds, and to repeat the double profit derived from selling eggs in the winter, when they bring the highest price for table use, and in the spring for setting.

Should a couple of cockerels be hatched from the setting, sell them, when from six to nine months old, as breeders. They will bring from $2 to $5 each. Success depends of course, on the care the stock receives. If day-old chicks are bought, keep them comfortably warm; it is almost the main consideration. Twenty-five babies can be managed in a homemade fireless brooder.

The first requisite in assembling one is a box two feet square and seven inches deep, with a lid at least five inches deep, or, as an alternative two strong boxes of the same size, six or seven inches deep. Take off the lids, and use one of the bottoms as a lid. Put two hinges at the back, and a hook and eye at the front. Cut a hole three inches square in the centre of the front, for the chicks to run in and out of. At both ends of the lid or top box, make half-inch holes three inches apart, and an inch from the top. This completes the outside of the brooder. Put cleats in each corner of the top and bottom boxes, two inches from the top. Then make a frame to fit inside the box and rest upon the cleats, covering it with burlap and lining it with a four-inch strip of felt, flannel, blanket, or any soft woolen material.

Make cuts one inch apart the entire length, leaving about half an inch as a heading. Then stitch the fringed material to the burlap, commencing in the centre of the frame, and going round and round; the rows to be about an inch apart. At first, put the frame on to the cleats in the lower part of the brooder, with the fringed material hanging down, to make a comfortable covering for the chicks. When they are about two weeks old, the frame must be put onto the cleats in the top part of the box, which will lift the ends of the material about three inches from the floor of the brooder.

At first, when the screen is in the lower half of the brooder, fold and carefully fit a piece of cotton batting over it, filling in the entire space to the edge of the box. In the top half, put a layer of excelsior about an inch and a half deep, then fill in with cotton batting to the edge. The burlap on the frame being porous, and the cotton batting the same, will insure a perfect system of ventilation. Of course when the frame is moved to the top part of the brooder, some of the cotton batting will have to be removed. By this time, however, the chicks will have grown considerably and will furnish a great deal more animal heat than they did at first.

After the babies are about four weeks old, it is well to take out the frame with the fringed woolen material attached and use another frame covered with burlap to keep the cotton batting in place.

Before using the brooder, give it a coat of whitewash and cover the floor with finely-cut hay to operate as a warm carpet for the chicks. Such brooders should be well housed in a light, dry place, so that the chicks can run about and exercise.

the sled, crowded it down, and lashed everything. "But I thought just mebby——"

Jerry started the dogs savagely. They leaped against their traces, the nine pulling as one. "Anyway," the young man said bitterly, "we've got the dogs and can sell them for something if we ever get where there's a claim selling for that little. Where'll we make for now, Sanders? I don't care—I——"

"We'll keep on where I bin headin' fer," the little man said quietly. "Take th' first branch trail to th' left."

"Where'll that get us?" Jerry demanded almost jeeringly.

"I said to th' place we bin headin' fer," said the little man patiently. "We're going to—Teegan. It's sixty miles from here now. That's all, Jerry."

"Following the river?"

"On th' edge of her, all th' way. Th river's th' only road they is to Teegan, an' we both gotta pray th' trail don't drop out from under them potatoes."

IT was fight for every foot of the way now, for the snow was fresh; moreover there was old, unbroken snow underneath the topping. From the look of things, no one had gone recently to Teegan, and the obliterated trail, visible only a few yards ahead in the almost horizontal drive of the blizzard, switched back sharply to the left, then as abruptly to the right, then over as suddenly to the left again—a tortuous zigzag up the one hundred and forty foot bank.

At last they were up and over. Sanders halted the team for a breathing space. Jerry stroked the lowered head of his favorite, the big, black leader, then attacked the trail down to the river edge along which the vague trail led. The snow was far too deep here for Sanders' light weight.

"Keep to th' left as fer as you can; th' left bank o' th' river's what you gotta hang close to, so's we kin git to it if anythin' happens," Sanders warned. "They's swift water under this snow we're on, an' no knowin' how much ice supportin' it. Go careful!"

"All safe," Jerry reassured, peering ahead through the drive of the snow.

But, for all his confident words, Jerry's heart was as lead: intuition told him to force Sanders to turn back to McKinnon. This was not to resume a search for the stolen money, but to save what little property he had left to him—sell the dogs and the outfit for whatever they would bring, together with the potatoes, get any work he could, and earn enough to pay his passage down—and home when the first steamer dared the ice in the Spring. Not the return he had planned! If he hadn't been robbed——! But he had been. Now all he could do was to get back to Bascomb and beg a place from Seth in the store. Mary! He set his lips. He'd been three months in the North now and hadn't had a word from her. No letter could reach him. She must have written. Of course she believed he was making their fortune. Five months at the shortest before he could return to her a failure! It was the only way! He couldn't endure that! He'd stay on until he'd made good! What chance had he left of ever making good?

And, from out the snarled motley his brain had rucked into, came back and back the persistent question: What was drawing Sanders back to Teegan? What was the answer?

Not the right one, but a sinking under his feet, a desperate cry from the little man, then deepening water. In his revery, Jerry had forgotten Sanders' warning to hug the left bank of the river. He had led the dogs out too far.

Too late by a second, he realized, and swerved quickly to the left, hauling the leaping team with the strength of a giant. But the water was at his knees. No crack, this; the sled and the first pair of dogs were—where were they? For the trail had dropped from under them!

Then the remaining seven dogs that Jerry could see of the nine, felt the slush-covered ice on the left bank and their paws tore it. A mad haul on the traces, every muscle in his arms, back and legs seemed to be tearing; the team braced, fought the distance and water and back-slanting ice, hurled themselves with Jerry—then somehow the sled was up and over, the water which dripped from dogs, men and sled turning to ice in a twinkling.

"But we got out," Jerry yelled thankfully.

Victor J. Evans & Co., 719 Ninth, Washington, D.C.

"Yes," Sanders wailed, "but we lost half them potatoes!"

"Forget them," Jerry roared, shaking and chilled now that he was inactive. "What are we going to do now? Everything's soaked. We'll freeze to death before we can get a fire started!"

"We'll keep on," said the little man, with strange passion. "Th' team's light, with five o' them bags gone. An' right 'round th' next bend's—Teegan."

Somehow Jerry started the dogs, and the two men ran beside them. The going was good now. All were warm and breathless when they rounded the bend in the river. But Jerry saw only a huddle of shacks, from which came a handful of tottering men with terrible faces.

"What's wrong with them?" Jerry gasped to Sanders, who was calling each man by name and asking in the same breath for men unseen. "What's wrong with them, Sanders?" Jerry asked again and again. "Look at their hands! By——, they've turned blue! What is it?"

"Scurvy," said little Sanders. "Scurvy's got Teegan. I had it myself until I met you an' et some o' them raw potatoes."

"Wh——at?"

"Raw potato cures scurvy," said the little man. "That's why I brung you an' them potatoes here. An' here's yer two thousand dollars I tuck from yer pocket that night at McKinnon. Sell th' potatoes here an' put yer two thousand with it. They's real claims to be bought here at Teegan."

But Jerry didn't hear, hadn't heard a word except that raw potato would save the agonized wretches about him. Jerry wasn't a business man like his brother Seth: Jerry was impulsive, incapable, generous. He had his knife out in a moment and was slashing bag after bag of his potatoes open on the snow. The magnitude of the thing he was privileged to do brought a lump into his throat. He cried awkwardly. "I've got raw potatoes here, boys. They're frozen, but when they're thawed——"

A big scarecrow tottered up and threw down a bag of gold dust, then gathered up a double handful of potatoes. The look in the man's eyes made Jerry's eyes blurr. "To hell with your dust," he cried throwing the bag of dust after the man who had given it in payment for five raw potatoes.

But other men were crowding around, and all were the same. Jerry found it too much for him, and backed off. "I don't want any pay," he said huskily. "For God's sake don't eat too much, though, not all at once! And—take some to the men who can't—come out and get them!"

Then Jerry Holt, ashamed of the tears that were freezing fast to his lashes, turned away and started fumbling up the tent.

But they wouldn't stand for that. They gave him a shack with a good fire going inside. It was warm and comfortably furnished. There was an abundance of food—canned food. There was plenty of good water. There was enough of everything in the world in Teegan but the one thing scurvy had made them need—raw potatoes.

"We'll fix this Teegan up right, Jerry," Sanders kept saying and laughing, while the tears ran down his own cheeks. "These fellers look bad now, but raw potato, then hot water baths 'll bring 'em all out of it. An' every one o' us'll be glad we seen Teegan, fer there's gold here, gold fer us all, as much as we'll ever want, in this here Teegan, Jerry!"

There was. And for the man who wouldn't take pay for what cured scurvy in Teegan, there was much gold, so much that——! Well, Jerry Holt caught the first steamer down in the Spring, and married Mary Collins on the day he arrived at Bascomb, and he bought the best building site in the town.

And to his brother, Seth, his best man at the wedding, Jerry gave a gold watch with a funny looking fob on it—a nugget formed for all the world like a little potato.

"Why?" asked Seth.

"Oh, just for instance, I guess," Jerry laughed. "Ask my partner, when he comes down next year. His name's Sanders, and he's a mighty nice little man. He's up there now taking care of our business in Teegan."

"Queer name," Seth said.

"And a hard place to get to," Jerry observed reminiscently, as he fondled the head of a big, black dog who had worked with him up the Yukon to Teegan.

IF you would have the wood which possesses all the virtues of other woods, and has none of their shortcomings, for the outside of your home, insist on

WHITE PINE

Three centuries of building experience in America have proved that White Pine withstands the attack of time and weather more successfully than any other wood.

It does not shrink, swell, crack, twist, warp or rot—and once in place it "stays put," after years of exposure, even in the closest fitting mitres and in delicate mouldings and carvings. It takes paint and stains perfectly.

If your lumber dealer is unable to supply White Pine, we should appreciate the opportunity of being helpful to you in securing it.

"White Pine in Home-Building" is beautifully illustrated with old Colonial and Modern homes, full of valuable information and suggestions on home-building, and gives a short, concise statement of the merits of White Pine. Send for it now. There is no charge for it to prospective home-builders.
